When Will The Meadowlands Get Slots? We Have Questions. Jeff Gural Has Answers

In yesterday's HRU our Dean Towers concluded that harness racing's best chance for future success lies in the Meadowlands getting slots. Will it happen? And when? We touched base with Meadowlands owner Jeff Gural to get the latest on the Big M's efforts to get slots.

HRU: Do you believe you are any closer to getting slots today as opposed to when you took over the track?

JG: The only thing that has happened that is good is that we guessed right that Atlantic City would continue to decline and that it would not be possible for the state, no matter what they did, to revitalize Atlantic City. Truthfully, I don't think anybody expected Revel to be such a complete flop, but that hasn't hurt, either.

HRU: Have you had any discussions lately with Governor Christie or any other politicians about the Meadowlands getting slots?

JG: I really haven't talked to anyone in a while. I think I made it clear that we would pay the Pennsylvania tax rate which would give the state $350 million. On the other hand Christie had said he wanted to give Atlantic City five years so I don't want to make a big issue out of it. He's also said this is the third year. My guess is that he is going to get reelected, and I would hope he comes to the grand opening of the new building, which will be beautiful, and sees that I kept my commitment so far as what I promised to do. My guess is we'll have the Super Bowl and shortly thereafter, hopefully, he can get the Xanadu project of the ground. If all those things fall into place hopefully they'll take another look at this. But I can't say we are any closer. Then again, I think we'd be a lot worse off if Atlantic City was coming back.

HRU: What has to happen for the tide to change and for New Jersey politicians to green light a casino at the Meadowlands?

JG: What has to happen is they have to come to grips with the fact it would be nice to have $350 million. I don't believe that they care about horse racing. It's similar to Ontario, where they don't care about horse racing, even if they say they care. If the horsemen continue to treat this money as a sense of entitlement without making any effort to revitalize the sport we're doomed anyway. It's not going to matter whether I get slots at the Meadowlands or not. It will be good for Jeff Gural and my investors, but it's not going to save harness racing. As others have pointed out the breeders are getting killed. Sooner or later that's going to show up. In a way maybe that's a good thing because we have too much racing.

HRU: If and when you get slots how will the money be divided up? With the thoroughbreds, the standardbreds and the casinos it appears there are a lot of players that will be involved.

JG: One possibility would be to give some of the money to Atlantic City to subsidize air transportation to Atlantic City. That's one area where there could be some growth if they could attract people from the Southern states in the Bible Belt where there'll never be casinos. That could be an area of growth for them. As far as the thoroughbreds go we have an agreement with them where any money we get would be shared with the thoroughbreds.

HRU: If casino gaming is ever expanded in New Jersey outside of Atlantic City there's always the possibility that slots could wind up most anywhere. Do you worry that in addition to a casino at the Meadowlands there might, say, also be one on the Jersey side of the Lincoln Tunnel?

JG: The Meadowlands would be the best location for a casino in the country. I think it would be a lot harder to get the law changed to allow changes to allow a lot of casinos in New Jersey. It's hard enough as it is to get laws changed to get one. So I would think they would object to a proliferation of casinos. The Meadowlands is such a centrally located facility in Northern New Jersey it could handle the Northern New Jersey business itself.

HRU: How successful might a casino at the Meadowlands be and what would a casino mean for purses?

JG: If you look at Aqueduct, I think a casino at the Meadowlands would do as well as the one at Aqueduct. They're doing between $700 and $800 million in business. I know the horsemen don't agree with me but I think it would be difficult to get more than 5 percent for purses. If we were to get 5 percent that would give us between $35 and $40 million, which we would split with the thoroughbreds. If I had another $20 million to use for purses that would make it a lot easier, it would make a big difference. One thing we have seen which is somewhat surprising is that the public really doesn't care that much about quality of the racing or the drivers. If you look at the product we put out most of the races are evenly matched and handle stayed high even though for the last few weeks Tetrack and Gingras left and Sears left before that. I don't think that has affected us. We have C-1 and C-2 races on a weekend and our competitors have better racing and bigger purses yet the public has chosen to bet on our product. We're doing $3 million and everyone else is doing between $300,000 and $700,000. It's fairly obvious the public prefers our product.

HRU: If you got slots and all that extra money would you expand the racing schedule or would you keep pretty much the same schedule only with better purses?

JG: That would be my choice, to not expand the schedule. I don't think the horsemen would be thrilled with that. But I think the industry would be better served if that's what we did. If the best horses raced at the Meadowlands I think it would be good for the industry. I am pretty optimistic. I think the quality of the racing will be really good.

HRU: So we won't see a return of the days when the track was open nine months a year, racing five night a week?

JG: I think that would be a big mistake. I am not saying we wouldn't race three days a week, add Thursdays or Sundays, But there aren't going to be enough horses anyway. So it doesn't matter what I think. If what I am reading is accurate in Canada they bred 5,000 mares two years ago and this year will they will breed 1,000. That's a difference of 4,000 mares. Some will be bred here in the US but not 4,000. Everybody writes about the coming horses shortage and nobody does much about it so far as reducing race dates other than Canada and New Jersey, where we don't have any choice. I don't know why having 16 races in front of 20 people is a good thing. That's beyond me.

TVG Named Title Sponsor of Meadowlands FFA Series

TVG, America's horseracing network, and New Jersey's Meadowlands Racetrack announced today that TVG will serve as title sponsor of the inaugural $4 million TVG Free For All Series.

Open to pacers and trotters ages three and up, the season-long competition gets underway May 11 and concludes Nov. 30 with a pair of $500,000 Free For All finals.

Competitors in those finals will be determined by a system under which horses will be awarded points for results in nine pacing and trotting races. In addition, the finals may also include the winners of such prestigious events as the 3-year-old Breeders' Crown Trot and Pace finals, the Hambletonian or the Meadowlands Pace.

"As the exclusive TV network of Meadowlands racing, we are excited to become title sponsor of this innovative event," said Don Scott, TVG's Vice President of Marketing. "From making facility improvements to creating new racing programs like the TVG Free For All Series, Jeff Gural and his team have embarked on an ambitious campaign to further elevate the Meadowlands as the leader within the American harness racing industry. We applaud these efforts and look forward to partnering with them."

"We have enjoyed a good working relationship with TVG since taking over the Meadowlands and believe this new series for older trotters and pacers should make the upcoming championship meet the most exciting racing we have seen in years at the Meadowlands," said Jeff Gural, Meadowlands Chairman. "The prospect of the best 3-year-olds challenging older horses is unprecedented and should be embraced by many in the sport. Championship night, Nov. 30, should be one for the history books."

TVG account holders can wager on all Meadowlands races by visiting www.TVG.com.

TVG, a subsidiary of Betfair Group plc, the premier e-gaming betting community, is among the most widely distributed horseracing networks in the world. TVG is one of the largest legal online gaming companies in the US, accepting more than $650 million in wagers in 2011. The company has demonstrated its commitment to the racing industry, its owners, tracks and fans through sponsorship of several preeminent races including the TVG Pacific Classic and the TVG Jockey Club Gold Cup.

Located less than 10 miles from midtown Manhattan, Meadowlands Racetrack has undergone a complete makeover under the leadership of longtime racing enthusiast Jeff Gural and his management team. Home of the country's finest harness racing, Meadowlands Racetrack is undergoing a major facelift, including the construction of a new grandstand, the renovation of existing facilities and the addition of state-of-the art technology, dining and entertainment options.

The Meadowlands is in the midst of an 81-day racing season. The first part of that season, "The Winter Meet," will conclude Saturday (April 20). The Meadowlands will then skip a weekend and return with the beginning of "The Championship Meet" on Friday (May 3).

The 2013 racing calendar features 40 stakes with purses totaling $12.5 million. Highlighting the year will be the 88th running of the $1.2 million Hambletonian (August 3), the 37th edition of the $800,000 Meadowlands Pace (July 13) and the inaugural staging of the $1 million TVG Free For All Championship finals (Nov. 30).

Report: Pennsylvania Harness Commissioner Resigns

According to a report in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Pennsylvania harness racing commissioner Richard J. Welsh has stepped down, saying that he is no longer able to fulfill the role because his employer forbids it. According to the report Welsh's resignation reduces the number of commission members from three to two and comes as Endeika Entertainment, a Philadelphia-based investment group and one of the successors to Centaur, tries to secure enough financing to build the Lawrence County racetrack, called Valley View Downs.

Race 7, The Gina Giant Final Pace

BUSHWOOD Z TAM goes second start for Allard and is a must use despite not delivering last week on a 4/5 promise. Was caught late by a second over horse; will be in the mix of it. GO GO RAIDER set fast fractions last Saturday and held well. It was his first start in a few weeks and should be tighter now. BENNS SUPERMAN was flying late last out after being shuffled out; tricky read on the move to the outside. DM BIG DOG DADDY was Miller's somewhat surprising pick; PREMIER is an obvious short priced contender from the rail.

Race 8, B-2/B-1 Handicap Pace

ALEX BULVILLE endured an impossible trip last out and held well considering. Picks up Callahan and has been pretty sharp of late. DIGITAL Z TAM has now put up back to back 1:51 miles and will offer an enticing price to include. BOLERO ANDREW was Miller's pick of a few; put up a strong showing two back here. I'm shocked how well both CABBASSADOR and CANE RIDGE both raced last week considering their slugfest a couple weeks prior; credit is due. D GS WOODSTOCK benefitted two back and then made an ill fated trip to Saratoga last out. At least you know he'll be leaving.

Race 9, C-1 Pace

RECENT NEWS was empty a couple weeks ago which was puzzling considering how great he was the week prior. Maybe Rohr fixed whatever was wrong; at least will offer a much bigger price this time around. MORTAL ZIN was one I liked last out as a longshot and wasn't bad; has to deal with another outside post however. HANGON COWBOY picks up Campbell for Burke; I wouldn't be surprised. BULLET SPEED bottomed out a field he couldn't lose against, steps up now.

Race 10, C-2 Pace

DIAMONDONTHEBEACH gets a rather generous C-2 classification after that 1:54 mile at Freehold; has some very good looking rivals on recent view. HACIENDA closed in :27 last week on the drop and was much better than the week prior. Makes fourth start since the claim and lands an ideal midpack post; Ginsburg gets the return call. STORMIN RUSTLER was used early last out and still had some late pace to offer; an obvious short priced contender from the rail. BRANDON's COLT chased Bullet Speed last out; any number of his races prior to that would give him a decent change against these.

Yonkers Race 6: Handsoffmycookie (Tim Tetrick) was in the mood to set some fractions tonight and took a smooth lead going into the turn followed by Feeling You (Tyler Buter) and the post time favorite Krispy Apple (Matt Kakaley) with the Ron Burke duo at the back of the field. Shortly after the 1/2 (:56.3) the longshot Doc's Hope (Cat Manzi) went wide from the 6 hole but before she could gain much ground, Western Silk (George Brennan) also moved out from the 4 hole and moved up to 2nd by the time they reached the 3/4 pole (1:25.0), Krispy Apple was caught in and moved back to 5th. In the stretch, Feeling You looked for some room on the inside but got impatient and instead took the outside, and the win for team Buter (1:52.3)

Yonkers Race 9: In the final division of tonight's series Darena Hanover (Yannick Gingras) emerged from the first turn as the short lived leader, Keepers Destiny immediately relieved her on the outside at the start of the backstretch. Not to be outdone, Darena Hanover tries out that same move and takes the lead back just after the 1/4 pole (:27.3) with N Y Yankees watching from 3rd. Ramona Disomma (Daniel Dube) started an early move from 5th in the 2nd quarter and picked up Moonlit Dragon (Eric Goodell) as a trailer. At the 3/4 pole (1:25.1) Ramona Disomma was in 2nd place and still gaining ground going into the final turn but in the stretch, Darena Hanover hits a wall as Ramona Disomma & Keepers Destiny take home Win and Place (1:53.3)
