Federal Bill Intended to "End Doping in Horseracing and Kick Cheaters Out of the Sport"

By Lucas Marquardt

Harness racing may soon lose the right to police itself. U.S. Sen. Tom Udall (D-N.M.) and U.S. Reps. Ed Whitfield (R-Ken.) and Joe Pitts (R-Penn.) have revealed draft legislation they intend to introduce which, according to a press release released by the trio, would "end doping in horseracing and kick cheaters out of the sport."

New Mexico Senator Tom Udall wants to clean up horse racing

The Horseracing Integrity and Safety Act would give control over drug testing and penalties in all equine pari-mutuel sports to the U.S. Anti-Doping Agency (USADA). USADA is the agency credited with catching Lance Armstrong in his web of lies and proving that he was a major cheat. USADA is also the official anti-doping agency for the U.S. Olympics and has worked closely with the major sports leagues.

"The chronic abuse of race horses with painkillers and other drugs is dangerous and just plain wrong," Udall said in a statement. "Racing groups have promised drug reform for decades, but this bill would bring in real standards and enforcement from an organization with a proven record for cleaning up sports."

"We look forward to helping the industry clean itself up," Travis Tygart, USADA's chief executive told the New York Times. "We fully support, and have shown, that the independent model is the only truly effective way to regulate a sport."

Under the new legislation, USADA would develop rules for permitted and prohibited substances and create anti-doping education, research, testing and adjudication programs for horseracing. Passage of the bill would eventually mean the end of legalized race-day medications like Lasix and end the patchwork of state-by-state rules where what is legal in one jurisdiction is illegal in another. In addition, USADA is vowing that it would end the slap-on-the-wrist culture concerning penalties that permeates thoroughbred and harness racing in the U.S. According to the press release, the bill would "require stiff penalties for cheating, including 'one and done' and 'three strikes, you're out' lifetime bans for the worst cases."

Meadowlands owner Jeff Gural, the leading voice in harness racing when it comes to the sport's drug issues, said he is in favor of the USADA plan.

"I think it is worth a try because the system we have doesn't work," Gural said. "We need one or two super labs that can stay ahead of the chemists. I am hopeful that (investigator) Brice (Cote) will succeed in proving that we in fact have a problem despite all the drug testing already being done."

When asked for a comment on the proposed legislation USTA President Phil Langley was not ready to make a statement. "As I understand it, a bill may be introduced next week. Once this happens, we will be able to comment," Langley said.

The racing industry will be required to fund USADA and how that money is raised figures to be the subject of fierce debate. If it is paid for out of betting handle that might be a big blow for a sport that is already demanding that its customers tolerate some of the highest takeout rates in the world when it comes to gambling. According to some reports, about $35 million is already spent nationally on drug testing and other horse racing integrity issues.

Led by Udall and Whitfield, the federal government has repeatedly threatened to exercise control over racing, particularly when it comes to drugs and cheating. But so far none of the threats have been carried out. The question with this latest move is whether or not it is another round of saber rattling or whether or not the lawmakers that are proposing the legislation can carry it past the finish line. One industry source who keeps close tabs on USADA and the federal government estimated it was 50-50 that the proposal would become law.

Udall was behind similar legislation two years ago that never went anywhere. The main difference this time is that he and his allies are looking to bring in USADA, a non-government agency, rather than turning matters over to the Federal Trade Commission.

Erv Miller Gets Suspended for Rogaine Positive..and He Can Explain

By Bill Finley

Top Trainer Erv Miller has been handed a 14-day suspension after his horse Pine Credit tested positive for the drug Minoxidil following a Sept. 20 race last fall at the Red Mile. Minoxidil is also known as Rogaine, the treatment for hair loss.

Miller said in no way was he or anyone in his stable using the drug in an attempt to improve Pine Credit's performance. Rather, he believes the horse tested positive because he came into contact with driver LeWayne Miller, who Erv Miller, said was using Rogaine at the time. The two Millers are not related.

Pine Credit won the race in question, a $10,000 leg of the Kindergarten Series.

"The only place we could come up with any Rogaine is with LeWayne, the driver, Erv Miller said. "He used Rogaine at the time. It was a matter of the drug in Rogaine is Minoxidil and it is a Class B drug and they were testing for it at the time. This is a 2-year-old trotter and the only thing we were worried about was his staying trotting. We weren't giving him anything, not for bleeding or for anything else."

Though Miller is well-versed in the trainer responsibility rule he said this penalty was tough to swallow.

"This one bothers me a lot," he said. "It's sad that in our business we can't determine what helps a horse and what doesn't. Tests today are so precise that they find anything and everything and there has to be some consideration for environmental contamination or when these things happen by accident. There's no way LeWayne or anyone else meant for it to get into the horse's system."

Erv Miller said he was not sure how the Rogaine might have gone from the driver to the horse but believes it could

OSRC Approves Relocation Applications

The Ohio State Racing Commission adopted resolutions that conditionally permit the relocation of Beulah Park to Austintown and Raceway Park to Dayton during a meeting in Columbus on May 1.

PENN NATIONAL GAMING, INC.

Hollywood at Mahoning Valley Race Course, in Austintown, and Hollywood at Dayton Raceway will still need to submit plans to the racing commission and Ohio Lottery Commission before either racino opens. Joint approval of both commissions is required by the Ohio Revised Code before VLT play can begin.

Each resolution contained conditions: Hollywood at Mahoning Valley must submit certain documents by June 15, 2013, have a minimum capacity of 1,001 seats with a view of live racing, and pay a $75 million relocation fee.

The conditions for Hollywood at Dayton are similar although the minimum seating capacity, at 1,037 seats, is slightly higher.

Steve Snyder, representing Penn National Gaming, the parent company of the racetracks, said the company will resume taking bids and actual construction at each site as a result of the commission action. Each racetrack is expected to open in 2014.

Break The Bank K “Back in Business”

Despite having a setback several weeks ago, first-year stallion Break The Bank K is “back in business” and will soon return to the breeding shed to resume his duties, it was announced Monday by Midland Acres. He stands at Midland Acres in Bloomingburg, Ohio.

Break The Bank K has returned to stud duty enthusiasm for breeding and volume were fine, the sperm count wasn’t enough to consider optimal breeding of a mare over the past three weeks.

“We did testing to determine the cause of the problem, and came to find out that it was nothing more than what is termed an ‘insult,’ which is basically either trauma or another unknown cause that resulted in his sperm count dropping,” Mossbarger said.

“Whatever the cause, he’s now recovered from it, and we’re glad to report that his sperm count has increased to satisfactory levels where we are able to breed mares. We

“Although he started the breeding season getting mares in foal as one would expect, we had a problem that developed in early April with Break The Bank K’s fertility. His sperm count had dropped dramatically low,” said Dr. John Mossbarger. He said that although the stallion’s anticipate a full recovery for maximum reproduction efficiency in approximately two weeks,” he added.

Mossbarger said that he had alerted those who were scheduled to breed to the horse about the issue, and now wants to let everyone know that Midland is accepting mares back to the stallion for the remainder of the breeding season.

Break The Bank K 2,1:55.3f; 3,1:51.3-1:52.2f, campaigned by Bob Key, earned over $1.1-million in his racing career and captured the 2010 Breeders Crown 3-Year-Old Colt Trot in world record time.

Ohio Sire Stakes Season Kicks Off at Lebanon

By Joe Scarpa

In what should be a big year for the new-and-improved Ohio Sire Stakes program the series begins tonight at Lebanon Raceway, where 3-year-old filly trotters and pacers will battle in five different races, each one worth $30,000. With slots now part of the Ohio racing landscape the sire stakes program in the Buckeye state may someday soon rival those in New York and Pennsylvania.

The sire stakes season will conclude Sept. 7 with Ohio Super Night at Scioto Downs.

Tonight’s sire stakes action at Lebanon will kick off with two fillies that look tough on paper.

In the first race on the card Contessa Leigh (Full Count) will make her 2013 pari-mutuel debut for trainer-driver and co-owner Marty Wollam. Even-money in the morning line she won on the 2012 Super Night and finished off her year with three straight wins.

Two races later on the card Cating Around (Feelin Friskie) is another heavy favorite in the line at 1-1. Trained by Brian Brown and driven by Chris Page she’s already 2 for 2 this year with wins in the Hackett Memorial series. She will have to contend with Pink Camo (Pine Valley) who ships in from the Meadows from the powerful Ron Burke barn. There are only five in the race.

Trainer Jim Daley may have the horse to beat in the seventh in Igottafeelinfran (Feelin Friskie), who finished second behind Cating Around in the Hackett Final. She lands in the weaker of the two divisions for trotters.

Trainer Mike Sowers has the morning line favorite in the final sire stakes race on the card in Diplomats Mistress (Master Lavec), a nine-time winner last year.

Meadowlands Championship Meet Begins

Tonight

By Mike Farrell for the Meadowlands Racetrack

The kickoff of the Championship Meet, the Kentucky Derby simulcast and a chance to win a piece of a champion pacer add up to an unbeatable weekend at

The Meadowlands Racetrack.

It starts Friday, long before first post at 7:15 p.m. with advance Derby wagering throughout the afternoon.

The night kicks off with a driver autograph session from 6:15 – 6:45 p.m. while the “Winners at the Wedge” hosted by Gary DiLeo gets underway at 6:30 p.m. with a DJ and an opportunity to meet and greet a driver.

It doesn't stop there.

There will be a 60-second wagering spree in which four lucky fans place as many $2 exacta bets as they can in a minute. World Free Poker will be underway on the Clubhouse level.

On the track, the first of 28 programs in the Championship Meet sees the return of Somwherovrainbow, the Dan Patch Award winner last season as the leading 2-year-old filly pacer, in the $38,415 John Simpson Memorial.

Saturday is Derby Day and there is no better spot than the Big M to watch and wager on the Run for the Roses.

All paid admissions starting at 9:30 a.m. receive a free “I survived Derby Day” t-shirt and an entry in the Captaintreacheros Drawing.

Entries for the Captaintreacheros Grand Prize Drawing close at 8 p.m. The drawing, held after the 10th race, works in reverse order. Names 1 through 17 receive a $100 betting voucher. The 18th name gets a $150 voucher while the 19th selection wins a $250 voucher.

The 20th and final name hits the jackpot: a 1 percent share of the future earnings of Captaintreacheros, the sensation of last season at 2 when he won of 8-of- 10 starts, including the Big M's Woodrow Wilson Pace. His career bankroll already stands at $918,253.

He was honored as harness racing's Pacer of the Year and will soon be launching his sophomore season.

The winner will share in all future purse money and is not responsible for any expenses.

The Saturday night racing program features a standout field of 4-year-old trotters in the $100,000 Meadowlands Maturity.

The Championship Meet runs through Aug. 3 as the Meadowlands features many of the richest and most prestigious stakes in the sport. The Big M serves up the action on Friday and Saturday nights starting with the exception of an afternoon card on Hambletonian Day, the final program of the meet.

Tioga Downs Set for 2013 Racing Season

Tioga Downs is set to embark on its eighth season of live racing from Nichols, NY on Saturday, May 4th (Kentucky Derby Day) with a post time of 5:00pm. A ten race card will highlight the day and kick off the 61 day race season that continues through Saturday, September 14.

The 2013 schedule is covered with marquee stake events throughout the summer totaling nearly $2 million dollars and will feature some of our sports most accomplished stars. One of the most exciting dates on the calendar comes in on June 9th as Tioga will host the best older female and male pacers in the $200,000e Artiscap Pace and $200,000e Roll with Joe (Formerly known as the Bettor's Delight).

“The Roll with Joe and Artiscap always attract some of the sports best to Tioga Downs and we look forward to hosting these events every year and putting on a good show for our fans” said VP of Racing and Simulcast, Jason Settlemoir.

Fans may also register each racing night for the 3rd annual Million Dollar Ball Drop, another season-long promotion that could award one lucky winner with $1 million on Monday, September 2

Other special promotions for the 2013 racing season also include race date t-shirt and magnet giveaway (May 4), wall calendar giveaway (May 12), hat giveaway (May 27), Yannick Gingras colors replica t-shirt giveaway (June 9), Pilsner glass giveaway (June 16), harness racing coloring book (June 30), beanie horse toy giveaway (July 28), fleece pullover giveaway (August 11), and a Corey Callahan bobblehead giveaway (September 2).

On Monday, September 2nd Tioga Downs will host the $400,000e Cane Pace for the best 3-year old male pacers in North America, along with its counterpart, the $110,000e Shady Daisy for 3-year old pacing fillies. Also sharing the spotlight on the card will be the return of the $50,000 Drivers' Championship which makes its way back home to Tioga Downs. A leg of the event will be held at Vernon Downs on Sunday, August 25th, but the final round will be contested at Tioga Downs. Post time for the special matinee program is set for 1:30pm.

Race 7, Fillies & Mares C-1

SIR JILLIAN Z TAM is winless on the year but she did put in a couple good tries over this track a couple months ago. A couple of her recent rivals such as Southwind Jazmin and Ramonna Disomma wouldn't have much trouble with these. LOVE CANAL debuts for Croghan and similar to Fashion Athena in race 9, is a tough call for a 3-year-old filly in her first start of the year facing older. Possesses a big late kick. BIJOU THEATER cut a fast mile last seen here two races ago but loses Callahan to DAY BLUE CHIP. Will offer a price with Gregory.

Race 8, B-1/B-2 Handicap Trot

ELLEN'S ISLE gets a noticeable barn change to trotting specialist Czernyson and draws the most favorable of the B-1's. That was a pretty salty field at Pocono last out and two back raced against the FFA trotter Sevruga. Potentially erratic but talented. FROM ABOVE faces much tougher tonight but has rapidly found his best gear. Should be respected. MELADY'S MONET is another in career form but has to contend with the outside in a field loaded with talent. ALL ABOUT JUSTICE has shocked here previously in similar spots.

Race 9, C-1 Trot

SPECTATOR K romped last out with a 1:54:2 career mile - in the off going no less - and I don't think it was a fluke as he's shown some potential previously. Steps up, but shouldn't be easily dismissed as the one to run down. FASHION ATHENA makes her seasonal debut and this is an interesting spot for a 3-year-old filly. She's a tough call in this spot; likely to be well back early. HELIOS has been a money burner since his return although that was a pretty sharp rival he was second to last out. Obvious short priced contender. PEGASUS BLUE CHIP debuts for Burke; enough said.

Race 10, C-2 Trot

PAPER BACKED LINDY zipped around the track in his recent qualifier here and really might not need to do much more than trot to beat these. Tetrick will give him every chance if good enough. PEGASUS POINT doesn't show many inspiring lines on view and exits a disappointing try but does show a number of superior looking rivals. Longshot possibility. MARCUS BI won over this track in 1:54 last year and now drops for the fourth consecutive race. Miller stays loyal to the Holloway trainee so we get Yannick here instead; just as well. TIGERS TOO GOOD can beat me from post 10 in a bulky field as the M/L favorite; has already had a number of chances to improve out of this level.
