Solid second session keeps Lexington sale on pace with prior years

The session-topper was a Bulldog Hanover colt out of Coronet that sold for $500,000.

story by Dave Briggs quotes by Dave Briggs and James Platz

David Reid said he was “extremely thrilled” with the results from the second session of the Lexington Selected Yearling Sale, held Tuesday afternoon (Oct. 6) at the Fasig-Tipton sales pavilion.

The session grossed $22,570,000 for 256 sold to produce an average of $84,258 that was down 2.4 per cent from the 2025 average of $86,333 when 34 fewer horses were sold.

“We sold 34 more head this year than last year, the session went smooth – topped by a pacer, a Bulldog Hanover for $500,000, and a trotter for $450,000,” said Reid, who manages the sale with Bruce Brinkerhoff. “The median stayed absolutely the same, $70,000, which is great adding 34 horses.

Dave Landry

“It was well-attended once again, which I’m happy to see that, but there was a lot more internet bidding today. That’s good to see. Some people come into town and then they leave town and others come back in, so it’s a great blend.”

Through two days, the sale has grossed $43,757,000, up 7 per cent over $40,967,000 at this point last year. Though, 25 more horses have been sold this year through two days compared to last. The two-day average of $119,229 is on par with last year

YEARLING SALE
OCTOBER 13 - 14, 2026

Seelster Farms

Dave Landry

Hip #198, a Bulldog Hanover colt out of Coronet, was sold for $500,000 out of the Hunterton consignment.

($119,787). This year's median of $90,000 is up from $86,000 last year. The record gross through two days is $45,464,000 set in 2023.

"The breeders just keep presenting a great product," Reid said. "The catalog is very deep and you go out there and you work the ground and you're going to find some spots... Going into tomorrow, with the sale schedule being a little bit compact with 32 more today and 35 tomorrow, I think we're right on target to have a good day tomorrow and a good lead-in right to Thursday night."

Topping the Tuesday session was Hip #198 Hey Bulldog, a Bulldog Hanover colt out of Coronet sold by Hunterton Farm and purchased for $500,000 by Andrew Harris, agent for Punisher 11 Stable.

"Great family," Harris said of Hey Bulldog. "I had two siblings that were Tall Dark Strangers, another one was a Pebble Beach. So, [Hey Bulldog] was a pick-up on the sire. He was a great individual. The mare has been producing. There was just a lot to like. He was probably one of the best colts I've seen here."

Harris said he had a "slight feeling" Hey Bulldog was going to cost at least half-a-million dollars.

"I was talking to Dr. [Bridgette Jablonsky] earlier and I knew that her and Brad Grant were kind of swinging for him, so I knew we were going to battle and I knew it was not going to be a little battle. When you're bidding against the guy that had the stallion, that's always a little dangerous."

Hunterton's Steve Stewart said Hey Bulldog, "was just born that way. He was just so handsome. Andrew saw him at the farm and fell in love with him. He's got it all. Everyone likes to say, 'Checked all the boxes.' I don't say that, but I say he had every attribute that he hoped he had... You just watched him walk out there, he's just got a presence about him."

"There's nobody higher on Bulldog, from the time that I saw them until now. And now we're finally starting to see... what that filly [Jersey Bulldog] did in the She's A Great Lady was unbelievable to me. No filly does that, where she just kept coming and kept coming and then won."

Through two days, Harris has spent $1.985 million, total, to acquire six yearlings. He is third by total money spent behind Marcus Melander ($2.63 million to buy 12 yearlings) and Ake Svanstedt ($2.27 million for nine yearlings).

Harris also purchased:

- Hip #33 Sign The Max (f, Huntsville—Big McDeal) for $300,000 from Cameo Hills Farm. "She's just a stunning individual," Harris said. "She's very long barrelled, great, thick body on her. Typical Huntsville, but there's a lot to like there. A lot of her family members haven't vetted out as good, but this one vetted out perfect, so I knew I was going to fire on this one."

- Hip #65 May May (c, Confederate—McSeaside) for $210,000 from Alliance Bloodstock. "Just a great-looking individual," Harris said. "He actually looks more like a Downbytheseaside. I've got Brandon Blvd and Seaside Ubeaut. So, when I saw him, I was like, 'Ah, I've just got to have that one.'"

- Hip #87 Confederacy (c, Confederate—Saldana Hanover) for $200,000 from Kentuckiana. "Just a gorgeous filly – good family and a very, very good video," Harris said.

• Hip #111 Ubeautiful (f, Captaintreacherous—Warrawee Ubeaut) for $350,000 from Crawford Farms. “That’s Seaside Ubeaut’s sister, so we’ve got the sister,” Harris said. “That was one part feelings and part that she was a very nice mover. Out of every one I saw, I thought she had the best video in the whole sale.”

• Hip #113 Odds On Warrior (c, Sweet Lou—Odds On Whitney) for $425,000 from Concord Stud. “Number 113 is an immaculate colt,” Harris said. “He was a special-looking colt with a great family. He was one of my top picks, so I was happy that we got that one.”

Harris said he is very happy with his group.

“We got shut out on every trotter,” he said. “We didn’t get any of the trotters we wanted. The European market was just so strong that I felt like even if we went, we’d still have to go much higher. It wouldn’t have stopped. It was going so high that it just made sense for us to stop.”

The second-highest priced yearling sold on Tuesday was Hip #222 Trotabilitarmitage, a Chapter Seven colt out of White Cheetah purchased by Ken Jacobs for $450,000 out of the Armitage Farm consignment.

“That was a very athletic-looking colt,” said Armitage farm manager Dale Holly. “He was very balanced and had a lot of appeal to him, from the profile wise. He just looked like an athlete to me and to, obviously, a couple of other people as well.

“We’re very excited about the whole consignment that we’re experiencing this year so far. We’re very new and it takes a while to establish yourself and get a reputation and to get these buyers to believe in the product that we’re putting out. So far, we’re very lucky that we’ve had some success with our crop from last year, but we’ve got to keep building on that. You’re only as good as your last job that you’ve done. We’re continually trying to improve what we put out there.”

Through two days, the sale topper is still Hip #79 Kountry Prince (c, Walner—Plunge Blue Chip) sold for $825,000 to Ake Svanstedt out of the Kountry Lane consignment.

Kjell Andersen, the purchaser of the second-highest-priced horse sold, Hip #71 Maestro Volo (c, Chapter Seven—Mommamia Volo), spoke to the media on Tuesday. He also purchased Hip

#96 Special Account (c, Walner—Special Hill) for $650,000 from Kentuckiana using Peter Cimino as agent.

“Both of those are spectacular individuals,” Andersen said. “They look the part. They have the pedigree. We walked around and looked at basically all the horses that were here and those two just stood out, both from an individual point and with the pedigree.”

“We look both from the pedigree and from the sires, the individuals... I feel that there’s a lot of things... before I was always looking for the perfect horse and the perfect horse never really is there, but I feel that now we’re looking more into heavier pedigrees, but, at the same time, we can excuse some flaws that the horses have. I feel that those two horses here, they just looked the part.”

“I have a couple of partners on both of those horses. I’m also in the thoroughbred business and I brought Kenneth McPeck – he won the Derby and the Derby filly in 2024. I have three horses in training with him and he joined me on [Hip] #71 here, which was quite cool.”

Hunterton led all consignors on Day 2 with gross sales of $4,720,000 for 43 sold. Through two days, the farm leads all consignors with $9,694,000 for 66 sold.

Preferred Equine was second on Tuesday with sales of $3,620,000 for 43 sold. They are third through two days with sales of $4,132,000 for 49 sold. Kentuckiana is second overall with $6,445,000 for 48 sold and were second during Tuesday’s session with $2,530,000 for 32 sold.

Steve Jones of Cameo Hills said he’s happy with the sale, so far. The farm has sales of $2.7 million for 21 sold.

“We’re thrilled,” Jones said. “We’ve had a terrific sale. We brought out nice pedigrees and nice horses and they’ve sold great.”

“I thought Day 2 was very good also. The reason, and it’s always that way, are the people that got shut out last night – and there were a lot of them – they get shut out and it pushes them further back in the book, so you’ve got more people bidding on the horses that were selling today. They were hoping to get something last night for $200,000 and it brings $300,000, so the next thing you know then their bullets are pushed back a day. That’s always a good thing.”

Walner leads all sires in sales with $10,960,000 for 67 sold, to average $163,582. Chapter Seven was next with $8,072,000 for 37 sold (average of $218,162), followed by Tactical Landing ($4,204,000, 39, $107,795) and first-crop sire Confederate ($3,975,000, 40, $99,375).

Today’s (Oct. 7) third session begins at 11 a.m.

Reid said he’s hoping the third session is stable year-over-year.

“I anticipate that happening,” he said.

“I saw some new faces today, which is good, and you’ll see that trend... as we continue to flow into the week. I still think there’s a lot of good horses out there and I still think there’s a lot of active buyers and you’ll see the internet presence tomorrow as well. There’s a lot of ‘phone a friends’ – going back to the technology and the online bidding. People used to frown upon it years ago, because you wanted them in live action, but with technology the way it is, maybe they came in and they want to get back... they came to race Friday, Saturday, and stayed through Monday, then they’ve got to book out and go back to Massachusetts for racing or up for the Super Finals.

“I think just for the diversity of the buyers and the technology that we have, we can present live, online scenarios and it’s a feather in the cap to everybody here at Fasig-Tipton, at Lexington Selected and it’s a joint effort.”

Tremendous!

by Gordon Waterstone

BACKSTRETCH WITH GORDON

with GORDON WATERSTONE

As I was ready to leave Fasig-Tipton around Hip #70 of Monday night's opening session of the 2026 Lexington Selected Yearling Sale, I stopped first to see how my sponsors, Steve and Cindy Stewart's Hunterton Farm/Hunterton Sales Agency, were faring. They both flashed smiles and said they were happy.

When I saw Steve and Cindy yesterday morning at Day 2 of the sale, I asked again how Monday night went for them. They both answered at the same time: "Tremendous!"

The top consignor by gross sales, Hunterton sold 23 yearlings Monday night for $4.974 million. Four of the top eight sold came from Hunterton's consignment. Leading their list at $700,000 was Hip #4, a Chapter Seven colt named Lake Placid. Jeff Snyder and Lennart Agren's S R F Stable were the purchasers. Snyder and S R F also paired up to purchase the Hunterton-consigned Hip #76 Indestructible for $600,000.

The sale-topper at $825,000 came from Duane Miller's Kountry Lane consignment in Hip #79 Kountry Prince. The son of Walner was purchased by Ake Svanstedt.

Kentuckiana Farms sold a pair at the top of the chart on Monday, including Maestro Volo, a son of Chapter Seven who went for $800,000, and Special Account, a son of Walner who brought $650,000. Both trotters were purchased by Peter Cimino, acting as agent.

In all, the 111 yearlings sold Monday night averaged a record price of $199,883.

Before Monday's sale I went to dinner as part of a group of eight to Frank And Dino's. Thanks to Jim Winske for picking up the tab, and it was great that I had a chance to catch up with Mike Keeling and Paula Wellwood as they were part of the group.

Fasig-Tipton was packed with people on Monday night, probably the biggest crowd I've seen there for the opening session. I was making my first loop around the pavilion when I saw my former co-worker Lynne Myers and her husband Mike, who were standing with HRU advertising director Wilma Van Vaerenbergh. The back of the ring was so crowded that I had to cut through the concession/bar area, and it was there I ran into former Rosecroft Raceway publicity director Gregg Boehmer. Gregg told me that after he left Rosecroft years ago he began a career in teaching, and he recently retired. He also told me that he has a pair of 2-year-olds that he is training himself to keep himself busy.

I stopped and talked to Peter and Melanie Wrenn, who I've known for more than 40 years since our Michigan days. I reminded Melanie that all those years ago she used to sit some nights in my office at Hazel Park waiting for Peter to get done racing, and now she can call herself the trainer of Odds On Mr Mambo, the winner of this year's $1 million Pepsi North America Cup.

Others I had a chance to talk to Monday night were Matt Franklin, Austin Luttrell, Charlie Norris, Chris Fout, and Jeff Snyder. Actually, I was on my way to congratulate Jeff on his new purchases and the great year he has been having, especially as co-owner of Apex and Super Chapter. As I was approaching Jeff, somebody tapped my on the shoulder from behind and said, "I really enjoy reading your column."

I turned to say thanks and found that person to be Meadowlands owner Jeff Gural. So, after a couple minutes talking to Jeff G. I had a chance to speak with Jeff S.

Shortly after I got home Monday night, I received some text messages from John Rallis, who we all know as a great interviewer and the associate editor of Standardbred Canada's Trot magazine. John's first text was asking how things were going in Lexington, while his second asked if I had seen his boss, Trot managing director Dan Fisher. Ironically, I had indeed seen Dan, as I sat at a patio table with him, Moira Fanning and Andrew Cohen for a while. My conversation with Dan included reminiscing about my trip last January to the Prix d'Amérique in Paris, where our group was joined by his son, Justin. I had taken several photos of the group while in France, so I quickly scrolled through my phone to show one of Justin to Dan. I did, but it was an oops moment as the photo I had found was not of Justin, but rather it was of Ryan Macedonio, who was also part of our group.

Before I go any further, I need to really apologize to all those in Lexington who either already attended the sale or plan to (sessions continue today at 11 a.m. and Thursday at 7 p.m.) as I was unaware of all the construction on Newtown Pike. It's an absolute obstacle course as both lanes going and coming from Fasig-Tipton from the New Circle Road exits are being torn up. The lanes zig zag and weave back and forth and get narrow in some spots. So of course, traffic backs up considerably. I wish now I had done a trial run out to the sale, but alas, I didn't know what was happening.

I made my way back through that cluster zone on Tuesday morning so I could attend the luncheon in the Kentucky Room introducing this year's Breeders Crown Charity Challenge, which is being sponsored by Greg Luther's Prolific Equine. Following the luncheon an auction was held for breedings to eight of the sport's top stallions, which brought in $146,000.

I sat for a bit at the luncheon with ex-Boss Kathy and Moira Fanning, and later was joined by Michael Eisenberg. I did take a moment and go over to talk to Greg Luther, and as I was walking away Brad Grant came up to me and said he enjoys reading Backstretch With Gordon and that he was glad I returned for season 24 this year. It is very gratifying when people pay compliments for the columns as I always hope they will be well received.

Woodbine Mohawk Park's Mark McKelvie came over to the table while I was joined for a moment by John Campbell and Moira Fanning. I asked Mark how the announcer search is going in the aftermath of the announcement that Chad Rozema would be leaving the booth. Mark said there has been a lot of interest in the job but that management is taking their time in selecting Chad's replacement to try and ensure the right choice is made.

Mike Micallef, another former Michigander who I've known forever, came by and we shook hands and said hello. I walked over to see Meadow Twaddle, who told me after some extra effort she was finally able to log onto the internet on her iPad so she could do some work.

A bit later I heard barking dogs, and looked over and saw Gunjan Patel's dog Zeus and John and Paula Campbell's dog Missy about ready to get it on. I'm not sure who I'd bet on in that dogfight, but Gunjan and Paula were able to quickly separate their canines.

Shortly before I wanted to leave, I walked over to the outside patio where the Primetime Racing crew was hard at work for their live audience from the sale. Curtis MacDonald and his wife, Jaimi, of course were there, along with Heather Vitale and Michael Carter.

Curtis asked me if I was interested in being interviewed, and I politely declined. But I incurred the wrath of Heather, so I agreed. In fact, it was Heather who did the interviewing and I think I did pretty good with her. It was so long ago that people may have forgotten, but I did do winner's circle interviews in my PR days at Hazel Park as well as handicapping the races on the simulcast show. Doing the segment with Heather, who is a world-class pro, was a breeze.

Before I close this out, let's remember that today is the four-year anniversary of the death of everyone's friend Dave Brower. It's hard to believe that it's already been four years, and his presence has been missed not only in Lexington, but across the racing world. Dave was here in Lexington for the Grand Circuit meet, and I remember not being able to go to dinner with him because I had tickets to see Keith Urban at Rupp Arena, and then getting that call early the next morning from Gabe Prewitt asking if I had seen Dave.

Dave would be mad at me if I didn't close this out with the price of gas. It's $4.14 a gallon for regular, and I saw a $6.19 price for diesel. I'll be back with you tomorrow.

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Kirk Harnett draws strength and inspiration from his horses

by Chris Lomon

Kirk Harnett does not shy away from sharing the personal struggles he has endured – or how horses continue to help him heal.

For the past four years, Harnett has been a caretaker in the barn of Ontario-based trainer Kyle Bossence, working in tandem with another groom to tend to the 14 horses currently calling the stable home.

Every pacer and trotter under his care – Harnett and his fellow groom rotate tending to each horse on any given day – plays an important role in his life.

“I am grateful for every moment I get to be around the horses, and I never take that for granted,” Harnett said. They give me strength and they give me inspiration.”

It has always been that way for as long as Harnett can remember. Growing up in southwestern Ontario, his first connection with standardbreds came through his family.

“My mom worked for Tom and Elizabeth Rankin in St. Catharines,” he said. “I was in Grade 8 when we moved to the Rankins’ farmhouse. We took care of the broodmares and the track they had on the property. My dad and I would do the track in the winter. I would help when I wasn’t in school, and I enjoyed being outdoors. My mom was the groom for their racehorses at that time.”

There were two major reasons behind Harnett’s belief that he might one day follow in the footsteps of his parents.

“When I was in Grade 9, I just didn’t like it,” Harnett said. “I always knew that hands-on skills would be better for me. I told my mom and dad that it would either be working with horses or working with cars.”

Equine horsepower eventually won out.

After dropping out of high school, Harnett embarked on his racing career.

It would be a nomadic and tumultuous early racing life for the young caretaker.

Courtesy Kirk Harnett

“It takes a special person to be in racing. You can’t see it as a career; it has to be a lifestyle, a passion and a love. If you don’t have that, it’s tough.”

– Kirk Harnett

“My mom and dad separated,” Harnett said. “My mom and [trainer] Patrick Delvecchio were then together for a little while and we took care of his horses together. I worked for another trainer for about seven months after that, and then I moved on to Bill Budd. I had a juvenile record at that time, but Bill and his wife Linda brought me into their house and I stayed with them for about a year and a half.”

Harnett eventually moved on to other stables, a list that includes Tony O’Sullivan, where he took care of Fantaddy, a 19-time winner. He then moved on to Darlene Hayes, where he met her daughter, Tamara, someone who would come to play an important role in his life.

“I am grateful for every moment I get to be around the horses, and I never take that for granted. They give me strength and they give me inspiration.”

— Kirk Harnett

After his time with Hayes, he worked for Hall of Fame trainer Ben Wallace.

It was during those days that Harnett began to give more thought to earning his driver's and trainer's licenses.

But it was not meant to be.

“A horse named Special Blend jumped on my back and I dislocated both my shoulders,” he said. “I had an issue with my left shoulder to begin with, so that put an end to my dream of driving.”

Harnett's travels after his time in the Wallace barn included stops in Michigan and Western Canada, the latter as a caretaker for trainer Jamie Gray.

Four years ago, Harnett found his way to trainer Kyle Bossence and his wife, Tamara.

It would be a life-changing experience for the horseman, who was in need of stability.

“I have to say it has been great working for Kyle and reconnecting with Tamara after meeting her when I was at her mom's barn,” Harnett said. “They are like family to me. I don't think, with what I had put them through with my own struggles, that they would support me, but that is what they have done for me, and I am so lucky and thankful for that. The way I was, most employers would have gotten rid of me, but Kyle and Tamara have probably been my biggest supporters. I can go to them, and they never judge me or make me feel ashamed.

“It means a lot. It means everything to me.”

Although it is the polar opposite of what he wants to see in his horses, Harnett has embraced a slower pace and steady approach to his life, inside and outside of the barn.

It is a simple formula, one that has yielded contentment and hope for Harnett.

“The horses have helped me so much,” he said. “You build a special bond with them, and it makes you smile every day.”

One day at a time is Harnett's mantra.

Each moment spent in the barn is a treasured one.

“Myself and the other groom, we gravitate towards certain horses, but every horse is afforded the same level of attention and care,” he said. “Just being there makes me feel at peace.”

Harnett's greatest joy comes when young horses take their first training mile.

Whenever they do, he has a front-row seat to watch them line up behind the starter car.

“That's my favorite part, getting to see what you worked hard for, to see these 2-year-olds get to that point,” Harnett said. “I love watching that. I also love watching when I see our horses win. When I see them getting close to the wire and they have a chance to win, I let it out. I start hollering.”

And then comes a quieter, but equally emotional, moment.

“I always give them pats and tell them that I am proud of them and they should be proud, too,” he said. “It's a feeling that you can't explain.”

Finding time for himself is the biggest challenge for Harnett.

“It takes a special person to be in racing,” he said. “You can't see it as a career; it has to be a lifestyle, a passion and a love. If you don't have that, it's tough.”

Harnett, thankfully, has it.

“There have been a lot of tough times in my life, and I work hard every day to keep pushing myself forward,” he said. “I have the horses and they make such a difference for me.”

THE DOWN UNDER DIARY

with ADAM HAMILTON

It's just a matter of time before Cam Hart gives the U.S. a go

by Adam Hamilton

North America will have to wait a bit longer to see Australian driving sensation Cam Hart try to follow in the footsteps of other Down Under superstars like Dexter Dunn and Todd and Andy McCarthy.

Hart revealed he was "so close" to moving to the U.S. a couple of years back but then along came champion stayer Swayzee.

And now with Swayzee in the twilight of his career, Hart has teamed with wonder mare Captains Mistress.

"It's hard to go anywhere when you've got those two to drive in the big races," he said.

"I was very close to going to the U.S. 18 months to two years ago, I gave it very serious thought. But Swayzee started doing his thing and I had too much to focus on and be excited about here.

"I haven't really had to think too seriously about it again because Captains Mistress has come along, too."

But Hart stressed it is just a matter of time before he tries his luck in the U.S.

"Oh, I'll definitely give it a go one day," he said. "I'll regret it too much if I don't."

"It's the competitor in me. I've got to give it a go on the biggest stage and see where I weigh up against the world's best. But I'm still young, I'm just 27, and if it doesn't happen until I'm in my early 30s or even a bit later, then I'm not fussed."

Hart's CV is damn impressive.

In his decade of driving, Hart's won over 1,600 races and those drives have banked almost $25 million.

It's the quality of wins, largely built around his phenomenal association with powerhouse trainer Jason Grimson, which is most impressive.

Hart's feature race resume would be the envy of most top drivers double his age.

He's won two Inter Dominion pacing finals (I Cast No Shadow in 2022 and Captains Mistress this year), two New Zealand Cups (Swayzee in 2023 and '24), two Hunter Cups (Swayzee in

“It’s hard to go anywhere when you’ve got those two [Swayzee and Captains Mistress] to drive in the big races. I was very close to going to the U.S. 18 months to two years ago, I gave it very serious thought. But Swayzee started doing his thing and I had too much to focus on and be excited about here. I haven’t really had to think too seriously about it again because Captains Mistress has come along, too.”

2025 and '26), a Victoria Cup (Swayzee in 2024), two Blacks A Fakes (Majestic Cruiser 2022 and Swayzee 2023), a Nullarbor (Betterzippit in 2023), and last year’s Eureka with Bay Of Biscay.

That’s a remarkable body of work in less than five years since the first of those mega wins.

And there is no sign of it stopping.

As great as Swayzee has been for Hart, Captains Mistress looks next level for sheer talent, brilliance, and excitement.

Yes, she had luck go her way to beat the great Leap To Fame in that epic Brisbane Inter Dominion final on July 18, but the simple fact she was just a 4-year-old mare and able to do it was mind-blowing.

“It is real pinch yourself stuff to go from Swayzee and then to have this mare come along,” Hart said. “She’s a freak.

“As long as I drive Down Under, Swayzee will hold a very special place. What he’s done for myself and Jason is incredible.

“I won’t drive another horse with a CV like his, at least not Down Under.

“A few years back it felt like he was my once-in-a-lifetime horse, then along comes this mare.

“Apart from their talent, you couldn’t get too more different horses, either.

“With Swayzee, you have to turn the races into a real slog. It feels like such hard work, but that’s what he thrives on and how he beats other great horses, like Leap To Fame.

“But it’s totally different with Captains Mistress. She feels like an A380 [plane] with her speed and power. You feel like you could put any horse, including Leap To Fame, away when you ask her to go.”

For all of the massive wins and moments Hart has shared with Swayzee, he rates Captains Mistress’ win over Leap To Fame as his greatest moment yet.

“It’s hard to compare them or split them,” he said. “But the build-up to that final in Brisbane a few months back was just so enormous.

“That made it super special and probably my biggest win of all.

“But then I think back to Hunter Cups when Swayzee and Leap To Fame went head-to-head from so far out and how special it was to be part of that, let alone win them both. They were great moments.”

Captains Mistress returned from a break with her first run since that Inter Dominion win and cruised to victory at Menangle last Saturday night.

She has raced 14 times from Grimson – all this year – for 13 wins, including five at Group 1 level.

The daughter of Captaintreacherous will chase more Group 1 glory in the Victoria Cup at Melton on Saturday (Oct. 17).

Swayzee, despite being a rising 9-year-old, isn’t finished yet and Hart still holds hope of sharing another mega win with him in the New Zealand Cup in November.

The old man will have to earn his way back across the ditch for the right to chase history at Addington on Nov. 10.

Swayzee would be trying to become just the fourth horse to win three New Zealand Cups.

The signs were encouraging when he returned from almost six months out with a close-up fourth in last Saturday night’s Geelong Cup when driven by Grimson himself because Hart was in Sydney with Captains Mistress.

“He’s going to have to keep improving over the next few weeks and show he’s up to having another go at it, but the early signs are good,” Hart said.

“If he goes, I’ll be driving him. He’s just made for a two-mile (3,200 meter) standing start staying race like that and like loving nothing more to have one more go at winning it again with him.”

SIRE STAKES REPORT

Sting Me breaks multiple records in Massachusetts Breeder Stakes at Plainridge Park

by Tim Bojarski for the Standardbred Owners of Massachusetts

The $3.2 million (est.) Massachusetts Breeder Stakes began week two at Plainridge Park on Monday (Oct. 5) and featured the 2-year-old standardbred stars bred in Massachusetts. Eight divisions, two for each gender and gait, went postward for a total of $338,800 in purses.

During the stakes there were four new lifetime marks taken, three horses remained undefeated in the series and several records were set.

In the first $42,000 division for male pacers Sting Me (Perfect Sting—Gallie On Thebeach) got a perfect trip to victory.

Sting Me (driven by Mitchell Cushing) flew to the front off the gate and reached the quarter in :28.3. But then Bastonata Bluechip (Matt Kakaley) left the pocket in lieu of the lead as the group passed the stands. Bastonata Bluechip got to the half in :56.2 and three-quarters in 1:25 with Sting Me on his back, just waiting to make his move. That move came as they turned for home when Sting Me tipped to the center of the track and ran down Bastonata Bluechip by 2¾ lengths and won in 1:52.4, home in :27.3.

The clocking was a new lifetime mark for Sting Me.

Sting Me ($6) is owned by Nancy Longobardi and Domenic Longobardi and trained by George Ducharme. Sting Me was bred by Blue Chip Bloodstock.

The second division of male pacers vied for $42,000 and You Gotta Gogogo (Shadow Play—Primrose) was declared the winner after a disqualification.

You Gotta Gogogo (Mitchell Cushing) took an early lead while seating Atreides (Brett Beckwith) at the quarter in :26.4. But Takes Courage (Matt Kakaley) made a quick trip from third to first before the :54.4. half. The field then bunched up behind Takes Courage in the :30.1 third quarter, with all in contention within three lengths of the leader. But when they turned for home, Takes Courage scooted away to a 2½ length win in 1:54.1.

However, after a judges inquiry, Takes Courage was disqualified for interference at the half. That moved You Gotta Gogogo up to first place.

You Gotta Gogogo ($8.20) is owned by Ya Gotta Love It Stable and trained by Chuck Connor, Jr. Blue Chip Bloodstock bred the winner.

The first division of male trotters was a non-betting event that went for $41,600 and Once Upon Lindy (International Moni—Origin Story) made it two in a row in this series.

Pendulum (Matty Athearn) swung to the lead at the quarter in :30 flat, but Once Upon Lindy (Yannick Gingras) tipped early and flew to the front passing the stands. Once on top, Once Upon Lindy reached the half in :59.1 and three-quarters in 1:27.4 before rounding the last turn and romping to the line on top by 13 in 1:57.

Once Upon Lindy is owned and bred by K R Breeding and trained by Domenico Cecere.

The second group lined up for $42,000 and was won by Sparkling Lindy (International Moni—Lindy Spritz) who also did his work on the front-end.

Sparkling Lindy (Matt Kakaley) reached the front at the :29.1 quarter and then motored to the half in :58.3. Moving up the backstretch, Maxman (Yannick Gingras) pulled from third and pushed the issue to three-quarters, while Two Fifty (Brett Beckwith) drafted in the pocket, third. Positions remained unchanged around the last turn until Sparkling Lindy reached the stretch, where Two Fifty tipped out and was trotting hard. Two Fifty made up some ground, but Sparkling Lindy held his ground and won by 1¼ lengths and won in 1:56.

The clocking was a new lifetime mark for Sparkling Lindy.

Sparkling Lindy ($4) is owned and trained by Mahlon Martin. Lindy Farms of Connecticut bred the winner.

The first of two filly trotting legs was next and went for $42,400 where Luxe Lindy (Walner—Decadence) got her first lifetime win.

National Mall (Matt Kakaley) and Beyond The Rules (Michael Oosting) traded leads through the :28.1 quarter while Luxe Lindy (Tyler Miller) sat in third, watching the action. Beyond The Rules then led the field to the half and onto the backstretch where Luxe Lindy pulled first and made her way to the lead on the outside at three-quarters in 1:26.1, in a two-horse breakaway. As Beyond The Rules fought hard to regain her advantage, she made a break in the last turn, leaving Luxe Lindy in front by a large advantage. Luxe Lindy turned for home and ran away by seven lengths in 1:56.2, setting her lifetime mark.

Luxe Lindy ($2.80) is owned by Andy Miller Stable, Jean Goehlen, Little E, and Coyote Wynd Farms and trained by Julie Miller. K R Breeding and Preferred Equine bred Luxe Lindy.

The second $42,400 split was won by Nanny's Ce Ce (Muscle Hill—Bomb Hugger) who is now two-for-two in the stake.

Nanny's Ce Ce (Jeff Gregory) got away third as Halo Lindy (Tyler Miller) and Ma's Always Right (Yannick Gingras) took turns on the point at the quarter in :29.1 and the half in :58.2. With Ma's Always Right in front, the race moved to five-eighths and Nanny's Ce Ce tipped from third and trotted to the lead passing three-quarters, before crossing over into the turn. With the competition in her mirror, Nanny's Ce Ce swelled up and bolted home on top by 5¼ lengths in 1:56.3, taking a new lifetime mark.

The heavily backed Nanny's Ce Ce ($2.10) is owned and bred by Jesmeral Stable and trained by her driver, Jeff Gregory.

Finally, two divisions of pacing fillies each went for $43,200 and in the first group, Chase News Network (Bettor's Wish—Hidden Land) turned in a hard fought gate-to-wire effort for the win.

Four horses left three-deep off the gate with Chase News Network (Brett Beckwith) the one who finally took control. Chase News Network then set splits of :27.1, :55.4, and 1:25.1, as Maggie Lynn (Yannick Gingras) had made her way to second in the breeze and was pushing the issue. The top three horses remained tight around the last turn, but Chase News Network still had the edge. When they turned for home, Chase News Network held off Maggie Lynn and Always B Winning (Mitchell Cushing), who was pinned-in on the pylons, to win by a half-length in 1:55.3.

Chase News Network ($4.60) is owned and bred by Jesmeral Stable and trained by Matty Medeiros.

Then in the second group, Lindy Believer (Captaintreacherous—Believe It's Lindy) scored her second straight MASS win.

There was a lot of early action with multiple lead changes starting with Sweetness Lindy (Mitchell Cushing) who led to the quarter, before Griselda (Nick Graffam) rushed to the top, only to relent to Lindy Believer (Yannick Gingras), who struck the front at the half in :55.2. From there, Lindy Believer paced smartly on the point to three-quarters in 1:24.3, before entering the last turn. After leaving that bend, Lindy Believer straightened for home and paced clear by 3¼ lengths and won in 1:53.1.

Lindy Believer ($2.40) is owned by Engblom Farm, R A W Equine, Evans Nation, and Hickory Hollow Stable and trained by Petter Engblom. Lindy Farms of Connecticut bred Lindy Believer.
