Lexington sale softened slightly on Day 3

Through three days the sale has grossed nearly $56 million and produced an average sale price of nearly $90,000. The four-day auction concludes tonight.

story by Dave Briggs quotes by James Platz and Debbie Little

While numbers softened a bit during the third session of the Lexington Selected Yearling Sale held Wednesday afternoon (Oct. 7) at the Fasig-Tipton sales pavilion, co-sale manager David Reid said he thinks "the marketplace is holding up fine. We're going to finish with a bang [Thursday] night and at the end of [Thursday] night's session, I think we're going to be very happy with the average, the gross, the median, and the overall results."

On Wednesday, 254 yearlings went through the ring. The gross of $11,930,000 was up 3.3 per cent over 2025 ($11,552,00), but this year 25 more horses were sold. The average of $46,969 was down 7 per cent from the average of $50,445 in 2025 and down 4 per cent from the average of $48,881 for the third session in 2024. Wednesday's median of $35,000 was down 12.5 per cent from the median of $40,000 in 2025 and down 5.4 per cent from the 2023 median of $37,000.

Lexington Selected Yearling Sale co-manager David Reid.

Twenty-seven yearlings sold for $100,000 or more on Wednesday, down one from last year's third session and up three from 24 in 2024. Through three days, 195 yearlings have sold for six figures, up from 180 in 2025 and 178 in 2024.

"The marketplace is continuing to follow the same trend as we saw the first two days," said Reid, who manages the sale with Bruce Brinkerhoff. "Obviously, we always see a little bit of a step down today and it was a little bit choppier, per se, with a bit more fluctuation in the marketplace, but we still sold a lot of horses for over six figures."

Through three sessions, this year's sale has grossed $55,687,000 for 621 horses sold to produce an average of $89,673. The median is $60,000. The gross is up 6 per cent over last year's three-day total of $52,519,000 with 50 more horses sold this year. This year's cumulative average is $89,673, which is down 2.5 per cent from $91,977 at this point in 2025 and down 8.5 per cent from the average through two days in 2024. This year's three-day media of $60,000 is the same as it was at this point last year and down 3.2 per cent from the 2024 median of $62,000.

"The crowd was great," Reid said. "The pace was great and it was beautiful weather. It falls right in line with last year, a very consistent marketplace and, as we say, consistency is the key some days."

"I think the online bidding was good. As we move on into the later sessions, we always get increased traffic on the internet. I thought the traffic in person was very good, so nothing to complain about from that end."

Through three days,
Alliance Bloodstock sits sixth in gross sales with $3,338,000 for 42 sold.

“We really thank the Melander team for believing in our horses. They buy a lot from us and they’ve had quite a bit of success here in the last few years.”

Through three days, Alliance Bloodstock sits sixth in gross sales with $3,338,000 for 42 sold. Hunterton leads the group with $10,847,000 in sales for 93 sold, followed by Kentuckiana ($8,191,000 for 81) and Preferred Equine ($5,442,000 for 89). Alliance was the third leading consignor on

“We started the online bidding during COVID and it just serves as another tool to help service our customers. People doing that are using it for a convenience factor. Not everyone can get away for that period of time. Not everyone has their resources to get away and it’s just another tool that we’re offering for our customers that allows them to participate in the sale directly versus trying to phone a friend or something else. I use it as a positive. It just helps expand our footprint and we’re happy to offer that service to our customers.”

As for whether internet auctions would replace live sales, Reid said, “The live sale venue is not going to go away anytime soon, especially in the yearling market. People love to touch and feel and I don’t see that changing in the near future.”

Topping Wednesday’s session was Hip #429 Creole Queen, a Tactical Landing filly out of Bayou purchased for $275,000 by the sale’s leading buyer Marcus Melander ($3,035,000 spent, total on 14 yearlings) out of the Alliance Bloodstock consignment. The filly was bred and raised by Diamond Creek Farm.

“This mare, Bayou, it’s the Pizza Dolce family – one of the longstanding trotting families,” said Diamond Creek vice-president Shaun Laungani. “This mare just continues to give us just outstanding-looking horse after outstanding-looking horse.”

“The full brother to this horse, Delta, he was bought for $150,000 last year by Melander and he’s been with Melander this past year and he showed real prowess... He got turned out for the season, but they must like him because they really appreciated this filly, as did most people.”

Wednesday with sales of $1,191,000 for 19 sold.

“We couldn’t be happier with how things are going,” Laungani said. “We went into this wanting to show everyone that we can be the best in hospitality – everybody’s had a good time at our consignment with food and drink and a nice, relaxing tent for people to stay in. It's been great for us to get exposure to everybody. We're just trying to do the best job possible. Our clients have been pleased with our work.

"As a consignor and a breeder, you get your feelings hurt when horses that you liked on the farm... [have their] flaws pointed out that you had overlooked, but that's all part of the reality of the market."

Putting on his Diamond Creek hat, Laungani said, "Obviously, Tactical Approach is a huge disappointment. The market has not received him well. All I can say to that, you know, it reminds me a little bit of last year when the market didn't receive Pebble Beach super well, but they went on to race quite well at 2. So, it does appear that Tactical Approach is going to be one of these stallions that didn't have a ton of sales success in his first crop and will have to prove it on the racetrack. That's the one good part about the stallion game, even if it doesn't come easily in the sales ring the first year, you still have an opportunity to win everybody over the other way. I don't see any reason why... they are smart individuals – we had several of them. They videoed well. They are natural trotters. Obviously, they are not the sales product that everybody was looking for this year, but I don't discount their chances on the racetrack. You just hope that several of them end up in good hands and they are managed properly and we get to see what he has.

"On the total flip side of the coin, Confederate and Cannibal, the start to their careers couldn't be going better. I mean, Cannibal has really been... not a surprise, but just a pleasant reality. We thought putting him in New York would work out well, but I don't know how many people told me – same with Confederate – they came to the sale, not necessarily looking for a Confederate or Cannibal, but after they saw the individuals they started to come around and ended up bidding on them or buying them. The Confederates seem to be universally accepted, which is so nice.

"Then, on the Cannibal side, the strength of the New York program. It's amazing to me, if you've got a stallion throwing nice individuals and the mares were bred well, then the program can help them that much. I think his average coming into today was over $60,000 and that's a $10,000 stud fee. That's just miraculous. Best I can tell today, it's going super well. We sold our Cannibals today in the 60s for both of them. They've been easy to sell, the money's been great. I'd imagine there are tons of very happy Cannibal and Confederate breeders out there and a lot of disappointed Tactical Approach breeders, unfortunately."

Through three days, Confederate is the leading pacing stallion with total progeny sales of $4.3 million for 51 sold for an average of $84,314. Cannibal is sixth among pacers with $776,000 in total sales for 15 yearlings to produce an average of $51,733. Tactical Approach is seventh among trotters with sales of $888,000 for 29 yearlings (average of $30,621). Leading the trotters is Walner (74, $11,176,000, $151,027), Chapter Seven (56, $9,740,000, $173,929), and Tactical Landing (51, $5,100,000, $100,000).

The second-highest yearling sold on Wednesday was Hip #480 Abebe, a Gimpanzee colt out of Dibaba S that sold for $250,000 to Annette Lorentzon out of the Cane Run Farm consignment.

Hip #412 You Lucky Devil, a King Of The North colt out of Celebrity Angel, sold for $220,000 to a numbered company in Montreal out of the Kentuckiana consignment.

Jumping back to consignors, Concord Stud Farm is fourth through three days with $4,418,000 for 39 sold. The farm is also fourth in average with $113,282, behind Kountry Lane Standardbred (average of $242,857 for seven sold), Blue Chip Farms ($161,000 for nine), and Hunterton ($116,634 for 93).

Concord Stud's Julie Meirs said, "I think it's been really good. I'm very pleased with the sale.

"There's a couple that sort of fell through the cracks, but in general it's been accurate.

"We're up this year. I'm pretty sure... I didn't run the stats, but somebody else did, so you can double check that if you want. I think within the first two days, we outsold our entire consignment from last year."

As for buyers, Melander spent $405,000, total, on two yearlings on Wednesday to exceed $3 million in purchases and jump over Ake Svanstedt at the top of the list. Svanstedt has now spent $2,365,000, total, on 10 yearlings.

Trainer Ron Burke sits sixth in spending with $1,170,000 given to take home 11 yearlings.

"I was able to get a bunch of Sweet Lous, which I was thrilled [about]," Burke said. "For the top ones, you had to pay extra, but for the middle ones, maybe you even got to pay a little less. So, it's like the market, the very, very best, you're going to pay over, but there were bargains out there to be had.

"We bought a [Downbytheseaside] colt, Hip #3 [Pappatrail], $140,000], a full sibling to Warrawee Ubeaut and we thought that was a good buy. We were both really happy with that. That was cool.

"On ones we bid on, we probably get 60 to 70 per cent, so that means we lose 30-40 per cent. It's usually the trotters. We have a hard time competing with the Europeans, but we'll stick to it.

"There is a lot of good horses. I thought the quality was definitely up this year, maybe it's because they went with a smaller number [of yearlings], but the quality is very high."

Today's (Oct. 8) fourth and final session, which begins at 7 p.m., is the annual regional showcase featuring, predominantly yearlings from the Midwest.

"It's a staple here that we close on the end with a regional night," said Reid. "We have a lot of nice horses and a lot of great sires represented — young, old, proven. I anticipate us having a good sale [Thursday] night. The weather looks great and there's no reason the marketplace won't continue the way it's been all week. I'm excited for [Thursday] night."

As for there being only four sessions this year compared to five in recent years, Reid joked, "You guys only have to listen to me four days this year, not five, so that's a 20 per cent increase in productivity."

BACKSTRETCH WITH GORDON

with GORDON WATERSTONE

Carry on!

by Gordon Waterstone

As I was driving to The Red Mile Wednesday morning the hit Kenny Chesney song "Carry On" came on the radio. And I thought that this is close to how I feel as we have reached the back half of the six-day Grand Circuit meet at The Red Mile. We are all carrying on the grand tradition of not only the racing but also the Lexington Selected Yearling Sale.

As you read yesterday, I attended the afternoon session of the yearling sale, but stayed only for a couple of hours as I not only had to write my column, but I also had early dinner plans on the Merrick Inn patio with Joe Holloway. I live in the Merrick community so I could actually walk to the five-star restaurant if I so desired.

As Boss Dave wrote in yesterday's HRU, it was a solid second session. Through the first two days, the sale has grossed $43.757 million, a seven per cent increase over 2025. I'm sure sales managers David Reid and Bruce Brinkerhoff are happy. Despite all my rounds of the pavilion, I've only had a chance to see both of them from afar as they are very busy.

Day 2 was also a good day for my sponsors, Steve and Cindy Stewart's Hunterton Sales Agency as they can boast they sold four of the top seven horses of the afternoon. Hunterton sold 43 horses on the day for a total of $4.72 million. And Hunterton still sits atop the list as the leading consignor for the first two sessions with 66 horses sold for $9.694 million.

Also having a good day on Tuesday were Jeff Gural, Lorne Polger, and Andrew Cohen, who back in the day was a correspondent for The Horseman And Fair World.

If you have been perusing the results sheets from the sale you may have noticed a new name popping up in the buyer category: Total Transparency Stable. Ron Burke was the signee, but since I know how busy he is, I hunted down Mark Weaver to find out about this new stable.

Mark told me that he has been putting together a stellar group of owners to comprise Total Transparency, and the hopes are to purchase eight to 10 2-year-olds this year. They bought some at the Goshen Sale and in Ohio, and another pair here in Lexington. Mark said that all the horses will be sent to Charlie Norris to winter train at Spring Garden Ranch in Florida. Mark said all the horses will be sold next June on onGait.com, and that anyone with interest can come to Spring Garden Ranch to get behind the horse themselves. I guess it's like a 2-year-old-in-training sale, so if you're interested be sure to get hold of Mark.

So, let's get back to a glorious Wednesday morning at The Red Mile. The temperature dropped into the low 40s overnight and was 52 when I arrived at the track, but with plenty of sunshine it felt warmer and I did not require a jacket.

I stopped first into the judges' office where I found Casey Larson sitting at his desk waiting for the race office to call that Saturday's closing-day race card was ready to be drawn. I walked over to the Hunterton Farm/Hunterton Sales Agency-sponsored breakfast table, where I saw young Logan Shehan overseeing things himself. I asked where was his partner Lolah (I learned her name earlier) and he told me he gave her the morning off. So, Logan had sole control of the bulging tip jar, where again I was very generous and gave him a dollar for my donut.

I walked up to The Deck under the Tree of Knowledge where I found Chris Tully, Billy "The Toolman" Bigler, my agent Nick Salvi, Bill Elliott, and Joe Koury. Joe and I will always be connected as it was he who I ran up on the stage at Rosen Shingle Creek in February 2019 to interrupt his acceptance speech on behalf of Bergstein-Proximity winner Foiled Again since we had the actual winner there to bring in and "accept" his own award. Bringing in Foiled Again into the banquet room was a moment I shall never forget.

I left the group for a few minutes to take a walk around the backstretch. There was a lot of activity on the track as horses were looking to race Saturday were on the track. Otherwise, it was a pretty quiet journey.

When I got back to The Deck, Chris, Billy, and Nick were still there. Trackman Dan came up and expressed his disappointment that the breakfast tables were empty and there was no coffee available. Chris pointed out that the table opened at 7 a.m. and it was now close to 10:30. Billy then said he thought Dan delayed his appearance in hopes of finding only coffee and no Logan/Lolah working so he could save the tip money.

Dan left as he had work to do on the racetrack, and I caught a glimpse of a horse heading into the final turn going fast. I remarked to Billy and Nick that the horse looked really great, and as he went past, they both agreed. Dr. Andy Roberts was in the sulky and I later caught up to the veterinarian to ask about his charge.

Andy told me that the colt was a homebred son of Bettor's Delight named Doc's Giovanni. The pacer has made just five qualifying starts this year but the lines show him on the definite improve. Andy told me that while Doc's Giovanni may be unraced this year, he expects to be at the O'Brien Awards in 2028 accepting accolades as the 3-Year-Old Colt Pacer of the Year for 2027 in Canada.

As I do every year at this time, I think about how many people I have come to know over my 48-year career in racing. I also think about how many people I still do not know. Because of that, I am so glad that some have come up to me to introduce themselves. I am most appreciative of everyone who stops to take the time.

That brings me back to last Saturday for a minute. I stopped to talk to Bill Elliott at a table in the clubhouse where he introduced me to Jason Nielsen of Nielsen Equine Services and his wife. When Bill introduced me, Jason replied that he knew my name as he reads Backstretch and that he enjoyed the columns. I told Jason I would surely mention him, and I apologize it took so long.

Tonight, is the closing session of the Lexington Selected Yearling Sale at Fasig-Tipton, with things getting underway at 7 p.m. But first, don't forget the racing action that has a 1 p.m. post time. Racing will continue on Friday and Saturday at 1 p.m. as we finish up the two-week GC meet.

Speaking of Saturday's card, it will be finishing up as people make their way to Commonwealth Stadium to watch UK play LSU at 7 p.m. So, there will certainly be extra traffic out on Broadway as the harness faithful make their way out.

Although the expected highs over these last few days are in the low 80s, the mornings are still brisk. If you need some warmer weather garb, or anything else, be sure to stop and see Jeremy in the Gift Shop as he has some really nice items available. And if you're maybe planning on hanging around a couple days after in Lexington, you might want to pick up some rain gear as the remnants of what will be Hurricane Isaias are expected to reach Kentucky on Sunday.

And gas prices remain relatively unchanged, except for maybe a drop of a few cents. Most stations I see are $4.14 for regular and $6.49 for diesel.

Freaky Lover's Super Final bid 'something special' for Dobrowolski

by James Platz

Freaky Lover will line up behind the starting gate Friday night (Oct. 9) at Harrah's Hoosier Park Racing & Casino with a chance to vie for the lion's share of the $250,000 Indiana Sires Stakes Super Final for freshman pacing colts. The gelded son of Freaky Feet Pete—SS Lover will not be one of the favored entries in the night's seventh race, and that's okay with Ed Dobrowolski, his co-breeder and co-owner. He's just excited to have a chance to compete on Indiana Champions Night.

The homebred is trained by co-breeder Zach Miller, who with his wife, Dessa, share ownership of Freaky Lover with Dobrowolski. Anthony Miller will steer the four-time winner Friday night from post position 2.

"I know he's not one of the top ones, but he's still in, he gets in the mix," Dobrowolski said. "And it was Zach and Dessa and Tony who felt like he could be competitive in that level, and sure enough, he got it done for us. He snuck in there."

For the most part, Freaky Lover spent much of the summer competing in Indiana Sires Stakes eligible events, avoiding the top-level competition. There, the 2-year-old scored two wins and picked up a pair of third-place efforts under the guidance of Anthony Miller. But the partnership has taken some shots in sires stakes, the first coming Aug. 21. There, Freaky Lover raced sixth, timed in 1:53.

"Our goal initially was to see how he was and to get some points so he would make the consolation, right?" Dobrowolski said. "But now he's got enough points where he's in the final. So, we were like, well, maybe he's going to make a good run at it. There's several of them that are really tough in there."

Credited with a single point for the August start, paired with a fourth-place effort in mid-September that yielded nine points, Freaky Lover entered the final preliminary leg October 1 tied for 15th in divisional points. He punched his ticket to the final

Dean Gillette

"You could spend 20, 40 grand at the yearling sale, but I think for us it's something special [to breed one]. Seeing that baby, raising it, and then seeing it go to the track, putting all that work and effort into it, seeing how it pays off, it's really been beneficial. And I'm very grateful to be a part of the team."

with a narrow 1:53.3 triumph in a $65,500 split over favored Capt Peach. The victory launched him securely into seventh in the division, and instead of competing in a $50,000 consolation, the freshman will battle for much more on Friday. Freaky Lover now has to square off with the best in the category. The list is Freaky Lover.

“Our goal initially was to see how [Freaky Lover] was and to get some points so he would make the [INSS] consolation, right? But now he’s got enough points where he’s in the final. So, we were like, well, maybe he’s going to make a good run at it. There’s several of them that are really tough in there.”

— Ed Dobrowolski

headlined by the Erv Miller-trained Mr Bear, a winner in eight of nine seasonal starts and the prohibitive favorite, sporting a mark of 1:50.3. He has drawn post 6 in the field of 10.

“Reality starts to set in,” the owner and breeder said. “Are we good enough to beat Erv’s horse? I don’t know. Because he’s popping, what, 1:50s or something as a 2-year-old, and our little guy’s coming along there. I mean, anything can happen, right?”

What makes this experience so special is that they have made the field with a foal from Shadyshark Hanover mare SS Lover. The mare kicked off the partnership between Dobrowolski and Miller, and when she sustained multiple tendon tears that ended her racing career, SS Lover transitioned to broodmare duties. Thus far, she is a 100 per cent producer, with five winners. A trio of the mare’s winners are sired by Tellitlikeitis.

“We’ve had a lot of success with Tellitlikeitis,” Dobrowolski said.

SS Lover would have been bred back to the sire during the 2023 breeding season, but his book was already full when the mare was ready. Instead, she was matched with Breeders Crown champion Freaky Feet Pete. The foal, Freaky Lover, showed personality early at the farm.

“Dessa was telling me he was kind of feisty as a baby,” he said, noting the pacer was gelded as a result. “And now he’s just a big sweetie. I mean, you go up to him, he’s not mean or anything. He likes to get his scratches and his lovins. He is such a good boy.”

SS Lover’s latest foal will face his toughest test Friday, and the opportunity reminded Dobrowolski of an early conversation with his partner.

“Zach told me when I was first starting out with him, he said, ‘You know, Ed, you need a sire stakes horse,’” Dobrowolski said. “And I thought, ‘Well, how am I going to do that?’”

But here he is, with a Super Final entrant, not accomplished through buying and campaigning a horse, but instead, breeding one capable of earning his way in through his efforts on the track.

“You could spend 20, 40 grand at the yearling sale, but I think for us it’s something special,” he said. “Seeing that baby, raising it, and then seeing it go to the track, putting all that work and effort into it, seeing how it pays off, it’s really been beneficial. And I’m very grateful to be a part of the team.”

EUROPEAN REPORT

with THOMAS HEDLUND

Trotting feast in Turin

by Thomas Hedlund

Turin in northern Italy will be at the center of the European harness racing world on Sunday (Oct. 11).

The card features the $440,000 Grand Prix de l'U.E.T., the $550,000 UET Elite Circuit final, the $900,000 Derby del Trotto, and the $300,000 Oaks del Trotto. In other words, all eyes will be on Italy.

The 4-year-olds had to qualify for the Grand Prix de l'U.E.T. through eliminations, with two contested in Paris, two in Stockholm, and one in Turin.

The five elimination winners — Milady Josselyn (Ready Cash), Guglielmo Jet (Maharajah), Maestro Vrie (Village Mystic), Mellby Narrow (Maharajah), and Fragolino Rosso (Booster Winner) — drew the five inside posts behind the gate.

The likely favorite will be Paul Hagoort's German Derby winner Fragolino Rosso, who was particularly impressive winning his Vincennes elimination.

Europe's best older horses have been accumulating points in the UET Elite Circuit since last November. French star Go On Boy (Password) finished atop the standings ahead of Don Fanucci Zet (Hard Livin) and Epic Kronos (Muscle Hill). Epic Kronos will skip Sunday's final in Turin.

SWEDISH CLASSICS TAKE CENTER STAGE AT SOLVALLA

The European stakes weekend begins one day earlier in Stockholm. On Saturday (Oct. 10), Solvalla will host Sweden's two biggest races for Swedish-bred 3-year-olds: the $600,000 Swedish Trotting Kriterium and $450,000 Swedish Trotting Oaks.

Both races look unusually wide open, with no obvious favorite. One colt to watch in the Kriterium is Daniel Redén's Kodiak Zet (Father Patrick), who has shown some similarities to Redén's recently retired superstar Francesco Zet, winner of the same race in 2021.

Redén will be even more heavily represented in the Oaks after qualifying four fillies for the final. Leading that group is unbeaten Nightbird (Calgary Games), who will attempt to make it eight victories from eight career starts.
