Mike Saftic: From Sudbury Downs to the Canadian Hall of Fame

by Melissa Keith

THE VIEW FROM WOODBINE MOHAWK PARK

with MELISSA KEITH

Mike Saftic was inducted to the Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame this year, a few weeks after his most recent drive. On July 26, he finished second with P C Peterbilt, the longest shot in the Legends Day Trot at Clinton Raceway.

Saftic is currently in Arizona, under no obligation to drive horses.

"That's exactly what it is," he said with a laugh. "We spent a month last year, November, and then this year, it's two months. We're going back for Christmas."

Enjoying time with friends and playing golf in a warmer climate than his native Sudbury, ON is "just part of retiring."

It's quite a change for the man whose blue-and-red driving colors were a familiar sight year-round at Greenwood, Woodbine, and Mohawk from 1985 through 2016, his final season with over 1,000 drives.

> "I always say, I've got the record for going the longest without winning a race. If Sudbury Downs had never opened, I don't know how I would've ever gotten introduced to this sport."
> — Mike Saftic

"Last year is the first year I never drove a horse, but the year before, I might've drove a dozen," he told HRU. "It's been a few years since I've been weaning down to retire. Legends Day was my only drive this year."

Saftic began his harness racing career in 1981.

"I always say, I've got the record for going the longest without winning a race," he said. "If Sudbury Downs had never opened, I don't know how I would've ever gotten introduced to this sport. My dad had a friend that owned a horse that raced in Sudbury… We'd go watch the horse race, and go back to the barn after."

A self-described "city boy" with "no access to horses" before Sudbury Downs, Saftic still found himself mesmerized.

"I think the horse itself is kind of what drew me in there, you know, the love of the animal," he said.

He noted that losing regional "B" tracks threatens the sport's viability.

"A hundred per cent, when they close them, I feel like, 'Geez, there's another opportunity gone for some young [person] like I was,'" he said. "You're not liking the horse; you're not cleaning the stall or cleaning harness."

Those foundational experiences shaped Saftic's unexpected career.

"I started right from the bottom, like a lot of guys do," he said. "When you get to jog one, that was a big thing, and then you got to train one, so it was just all a build-up."

After graduating from high school, Saftic took a year off to get his driver's license.

"I worked the summer and got my qualifying drive, and I started off terrible," he said with a grin. "So, I went to college for a business administration course. I was still driving while I was going to college."

Saftic's first drive was memorable for all the wrong reasons.

"It was an Australian horse and it used to go around the track twice and then go to the gate," he said. "So, I went around twice, and someone came off [the track with another horse] for an equipment change, and he ran off the track. I couldn't get him back on. He ran up and down, broke the bike in half, and they scratched him. That's how my career started… You can look at it both ways: Quit, or it's only going to get better, right?"

When Cambrian College instructors attended Sudbury Downs for a Christmas gathering, Saftic was driving.

"I got on a bit of a roll, when I started winning some races, finally… I won three races that night, and on Monday morning, the teacher says, 'Maybe you should stick to racing horses, son,'" Saftic said. "When I was in college, all I thought about was the horses, and then I got back into the horses."

The Ontario Jockey Club (OJC) circuit was the next step for Saftic.

"I said to my wife-to-be, when we were engaged, 'I'm going to Greenwood and give this thing a crack. If I don't make it, I'll come back to Sudbury and get a real job,'" he said. "So, I got working for Garth Gordon. Garth had Soft Light, and he let me drive.

"He was a good horse. "He was a true free-for-aller, so I went all around North America driving Soft Light. I won my first race at The Meadowlands driving Soft Light."

SOUTHWIND CHROME

BUILT-IN DEMAND

"Southwind Chrome was a dominant trotting sire in Illinois with a limited number of foals. Colt or filly, it doesn't matter. They show early speed, excellent gait, and are there strong at the end of the season. He will flourish as a sire in Indiana. I'm so confident I purchased the first share available!" – ROGER WELCH, leading IN trainer and trainer for Bo and Pat DeLong

"I'm very excited about Southwind Chrome coming to Indiana. I have been wanting to buy yearlings by him for a while now, but we never race in Illinois. I believe he is going to fit well here in Indiana." – JEFF CULLIPHER,
Southwind Chrome's previous trainer and trainer for Pollack Racing

"Southwind Chrome has produced the kind of 2 yr olds I like to train. They have good attitudes, early speed and don't need the perfect trip to win! He definitely will be a big addition to the Indiana program." – ERV MILLER, a top trainer nationwide and one of the biggest yearling buyers in Indiana

"I've been saying for the last two years this horse needs to come to Indiana. I think he has produced a staggering amount of quality young trotters from limited crops and maternal lines. I really think he's going to be a force from the first crop here. Already intending on booking a few of our mares to him."
– JAY HOCHSTETLER,
a leading trainer at Hoosier Park and along with owner Connie Hochstetler is Top 5 buyer at the MSHS

"I had the opportunity to train Pony Chrome, a daughter of Southwind Chrome, and she was as honest as they come. She gave 100% every time she stepped on the track, always tried hard, and genuinely loved her job. Those are the kinds of qualities every trainer looks for in a racehorse. I'm excited to have Southwind Chrome standing here in Indiana. We'll definitely be breeding to him, and I'll be taking a close look at his yearlings!" – LEWAYNE MILLER,
a top trainer and driver at Hoosier Park

> — Mike Saftic

Their partnership outlasted Greenwood, which closed in 1993.

"That was the best track," Saftic said. "That's where I kind of got rolling. The circuit was Greenwood-Mohawk then, and then they closed Greenwood and they moved us to Woodbine. So, I was there from the first day at Woodbine until the last day at Woodbine [from 1994 until 2018]. That's where I had my biggest run."

Saftic teamed up with Ellamony in 1993.

"I won her maiden race at Mohawk, and then she went on to this big career," he said. "She had some kind of record at The Meadowlands; she won something like 15 in a row at The Meadowlands [interspersed with stakes and distaff open starts at other tracks].

"She was truly the best mare out there for three or four years. We usually raced against the girls, but we did race in the Canadian Pacing Derby. It was the first Canadian mile that went under 1:50 [in the 1995 edition at Woodbine].

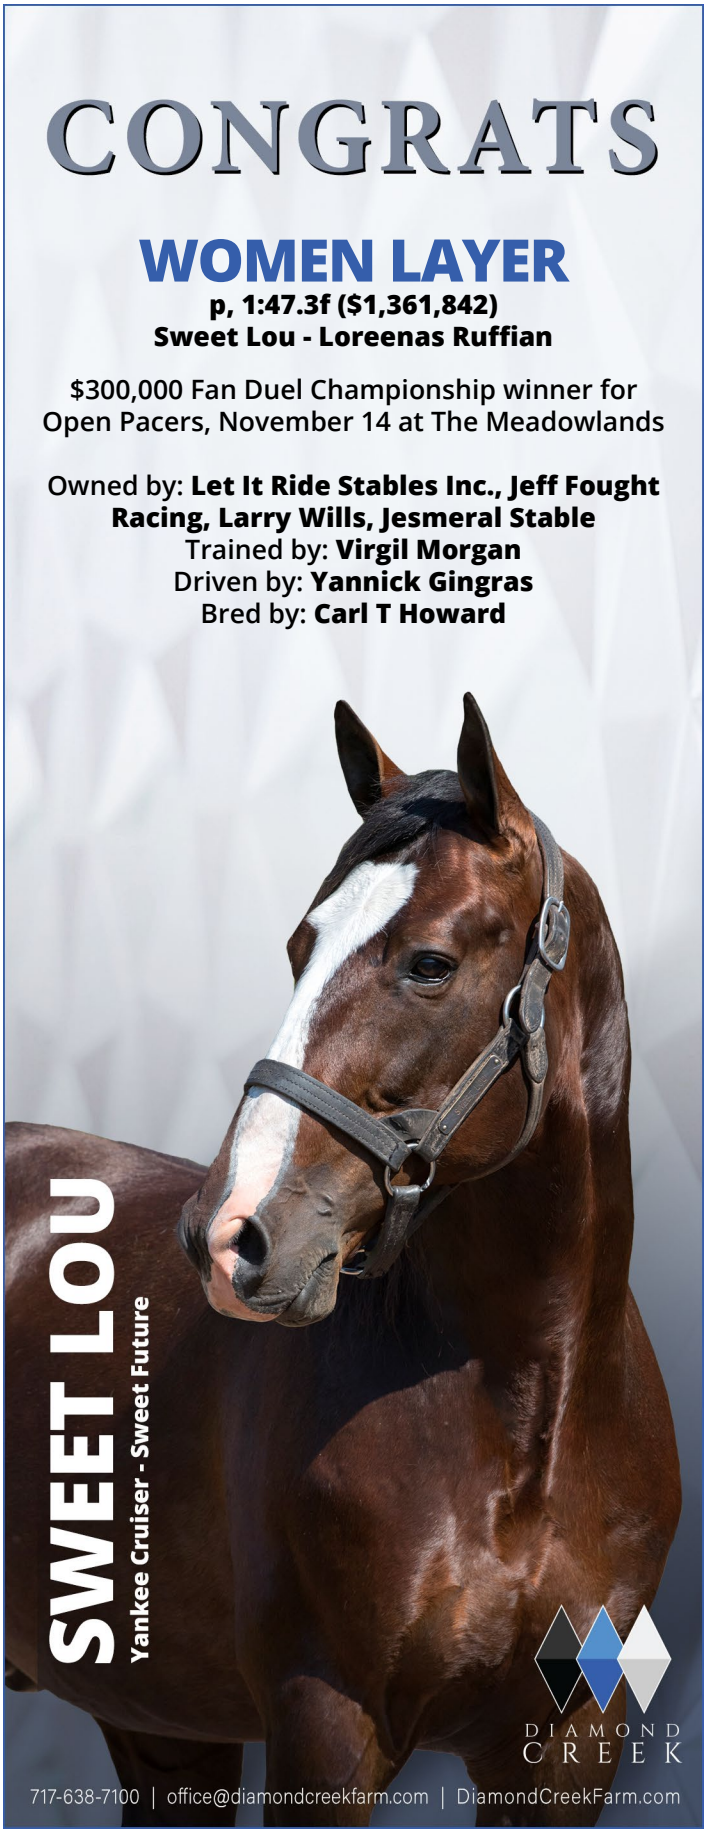

In 1995 at Northfield Park, Ellamony provided Saftic with his only Breeders Crown victory.

"Someone asked me how good she was, and I remember saying to them, 'I raced against Shady Daisy, who was great… and she would be 4-1,'" he said. "That's how good she was. She was the best."

There was extra pressure because the homebred 1994 Canadian Horse of the Year and 1995 Dan Patch and O'Brien Older Pacing Mare of the Year was owned by Charles Juravinski, the Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame builder who founded Flamboro Downs.

"I drove a little bit for him before Ellamony, so I was kind of his driver until Ellamony passed," Saftic said. "She ended up getting an infection in an ankle, and they couldn't save her."

The great mare was euthanized in 1996.

Saftic's star continued to rise, thanks to talent and a roster like 2002 O'Brien 2-year-old pacing colt of the year Sir Luck.

To list top performers driven by Saftic would take an entire column.

"I was fortunate," he told HRU. "I drove four trotters that made a million dollars [CDN]. Corn Cob Conch was one of them. He was maybe the best trotter I ever drove. That was a big number back then. Now you see it more often, but if a horse can win a million bucks over their career, that was big, and you drove them for years to get there."

More recently, Saftic played a minor role in the development of 2025 O'Brien 3-Year-Old Pacing Colt of the Year Crack Shot.

"I drove for Gregg McNair for years, and he brought a bunch over to Grand River to baby race," Saftic said. "I was at the end of my career, but Dougie [McNair] couldn't make it, so they asked me to come and qualify a few. He was one of them. It was Crack Shot's first qualifier. He was a high-priced [$205,000] yearling, and they were worried about him. He had been making breaks and he had a tight little hobble on him."

Saftic has gradually scaled back since 2016. His last million-dollar season was 2017. He noted that the slot era helped him get to $100 million, racing primarily in his home province. Now, his focus is on passing down his love of the sport.

D O P Racing of Campbellville, ON owns horses with Saftic.

"That's actually my son, Cody," Mike said. "When he was a kid, he never liked coming to the barn with dad, but then he got a little older, in his 20s, and we bought a few horses together. I still own one horse [DA Jiminy Cricket] with my son."

Mike attributes Cody's about-face to a conversation with a Nova Scotian horsewoman.

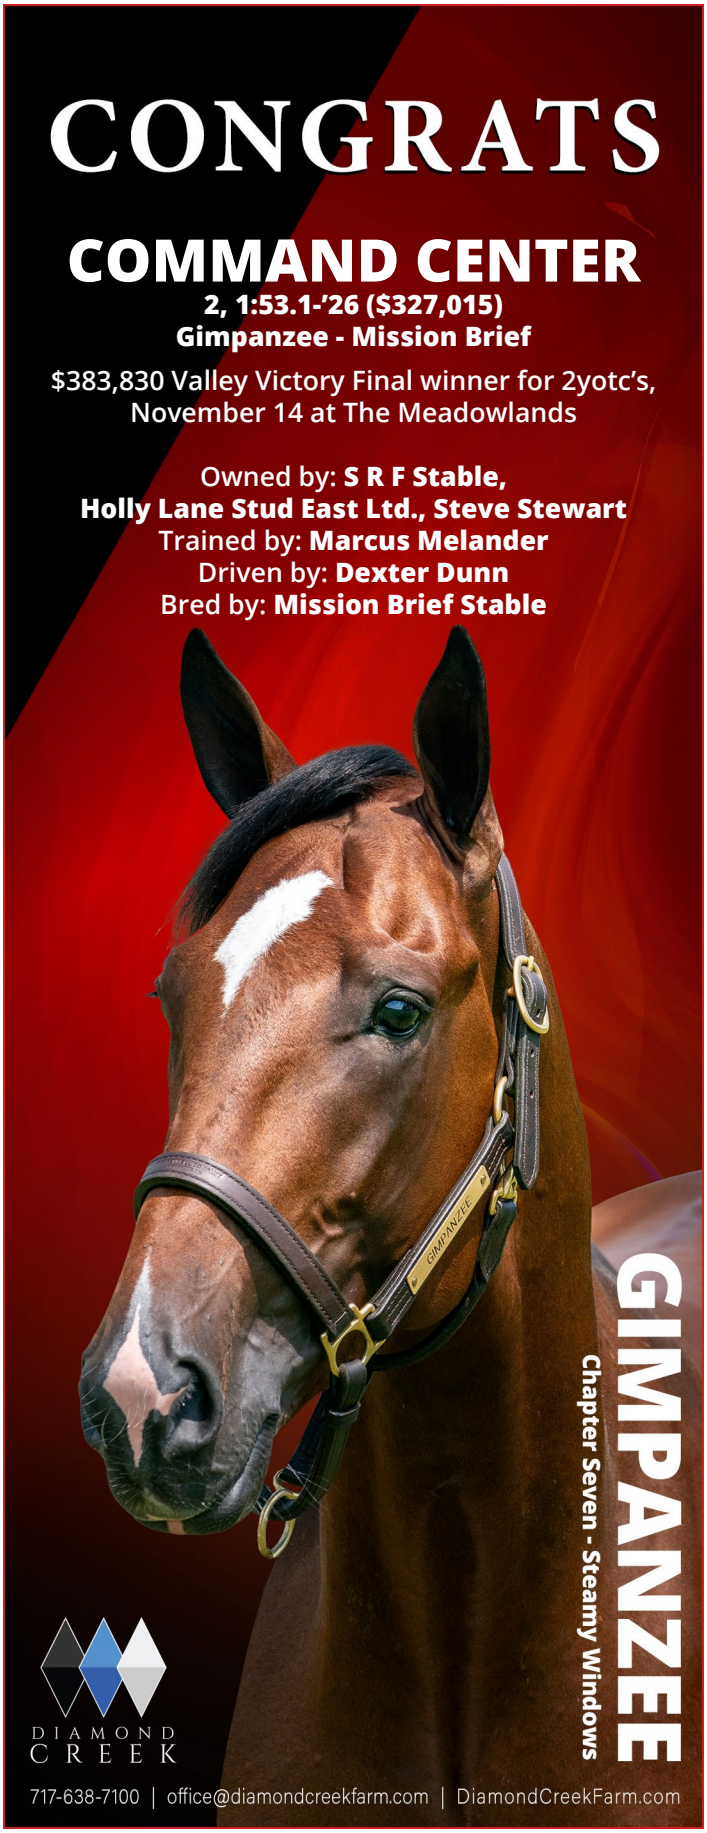

"He never got interested in horse racing until he met Christina [née Gillis]," Mike said. "He was talking to her online, I guess, and he wanted to go out on a date with her, so he goes, 'My dad won the Gold Cup & Saucer.' She goes, 'No way! If your dad won the Gold Cup & Saucer, I'll go out with you.'

"So anyway, they ended up going out and now she's my daughter in law."

A month ago, Mike bought filly Power Dance with partners McKinlay and Fielding of Gravenhurst, ON.

Whether Power Dance blossoms into a champion is almost beside the point for Saftic.

"I'd like to own a horse for the rest of my life," he said with a smile.

EUROPEAN REPORT

Chamberi dominates Breeders Crown as four champions are crowned in Sweden

by Thomas Hedlund

The final major stakes races of the season for Sweden's 3- and 4-year-olds were contested at Eskilstuna on Saturday (Nov. 14), with four $240,000 Breeders Crown finals highlighting the program.

Chamberi, Sven Kuce, Miss Brighton, and Steady Spender emerged victorious, while Frank Gio continued his impressive European campaign with an easy victory in the $125,000 Prix Marcel Laurent at Vincennes on Thursday (Nov. 12).

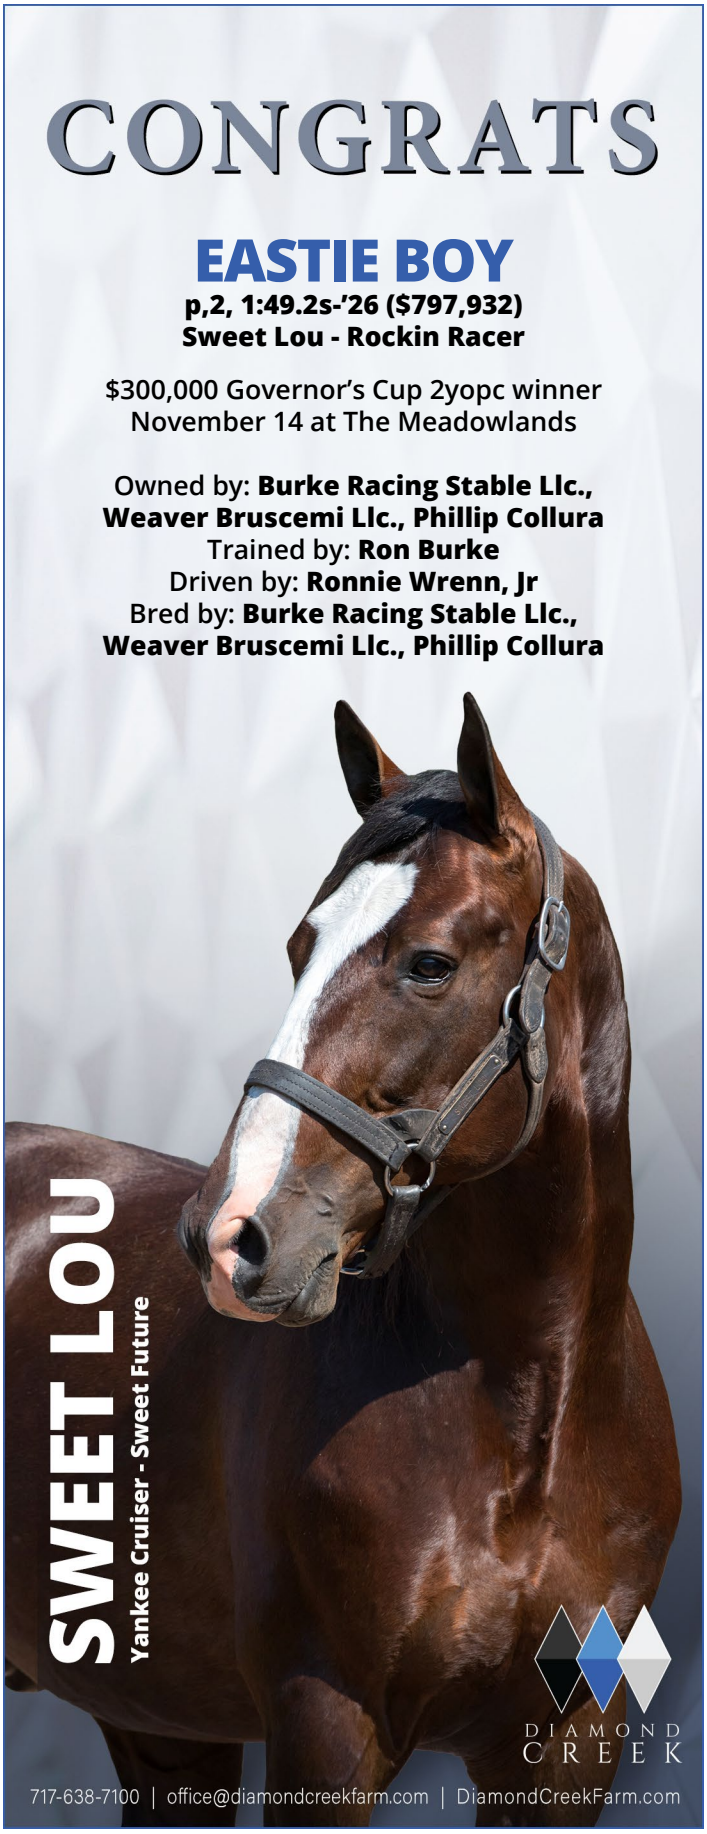

CHAMBERI IN A CLASS OF HER OWN

She had never competed on the biggest stage before, but in the final major stakes race of her 4-year-old season, Chamberi was simply in a class of her own. Timo Nurmos' highly regarded filly Chamberi (Readly Express—Railin) recorded her ninth victory in 10 career starts with a dominant performance in the $240,000 Breeders Crown final for 4-year-old trotting fillies and mares.

"She is one of the best mares I have ever trained," Nurmos said.

Despite being the least experienced horse in the field, Chamberi showed no signs of inexperience. The early stages were contested at a brisk pace, with Time To Run (Who's Who) taking the initial lead before yielding to Nyharajah (Maharajah) after 450 meters. Nyharajah, in turn, handed over the lead to Jiovanha Falkone (Don Fanucci Zet). Meanwhile, Magnus A. Djuse had moved Chamberi into the first-over position, and after 800 meters, the heavy favorite had taken command. From there, the outcome was never in doubt. Chamberi drew away from her rivals in the stretch, winning by several lengths with plenty left in reserve. Djuse never even needed to pull the earplugs.

"I had two quick starters to my inside, and the plan was to try to get past them early if my horse felt good," Djuse said. "She did, and I thought we had a chance to reach the lead.

Frank Gio (Matthieu Abrivard) winning the $125,000 Prix Marcel Laurent on Thursday at Vincennes.

The pace was fast from 600 to 300 meters to go, and she was actually slowing down at the finish. She is a really beautiful and talented horse."

Love To The Limit (Bold Eagle) enjoyed a perfect second-over trip and finished strongly to take second, while Jiovanha Falkone held on for third after following the winner along the inside. Chamberi stopped the clock in a mile rate of 1:55.4 over 2,140 meters.

SVEN KUCE PROVES TOO STRONG FOR HIS RIVALS

Few horses could have been more deserving of a Breeders Crown title than Sven Kuce. Thomas Madsen's 4-year-old Sven Kuce (Readly Express) simply overpowered his contemporaries in the $240,000 final for 4-year-old colts and geldings. Driver Gustav Johansson, wearing the owners' pink and dark green colors, made his move from the back of the field with 1,450 meters remaining. Approaching the final lap, Sven Kuce had advanced to the first-over position alongside race favorite Zarex.

Down the backstretch, Sven Kuce began applying serious pressure to the leader, and by the final turn it was clear that Zarex would not be winning the Breeders Crown. However, the race was far from over.

Carl Johan Jepson had given Mattias Djuse-trained Cold Blaze (Sebastian K) an excellent trip behind the leader, and when an opening appeared in the final turn, Cold Blaze looked capable of challenging Sven Kuce. But Sven Kuce had another gear.

He responded strongly and pulled clear to capture the biggest victory of his driver's career, stopping the clock in a mile rate of 1:54.4 over 2,140 meters.

"It is incredible to win a race like this," Johansson said. "Our chance to win was to race first-over. Post positions never really matter to him. He is more dependent on the pace, and when they slowed things down up front, we were able to move up outside the leader.

"In the final turn, I was just thinking about keeping him trotting, because I knew that if he stayed flat, we would win."

MISS BRIGHTON GETS HER REVENGE IN DRAMATIC FINISH

After breaking stride in the Swedish Oaks, Miss Brighton gained redemption in Saturday's $240,000 Breeders Crown final for 3-year-old trotting fillies.

Daniel Redén's Miss Brighton (Calgary Games—Miss Kadabra) prevailed by the narrowest of margins after a thrilling stretch battle, giving her trainer yet another Breeders Crown title.

"I had a good feeling about her," winning driver Örjan Kihlström said.

Local trainer Markus B. Svedberg appeared to have the race under control after sending I See Tail Lights (Maharajah) directly to the lead and successfully holding off Swedish Oaks winner Zeebreeze (Gimpanzee) in the opening stages.

The Anvil and Lace team would like to thank everyone who inspected, bid on and purchased yearlings from our 2026 consignments at the Lexington Selected, Ohio Selected Jug, Midwest Standardbred and Harrisburg yearling sales.

Zeebreeze subsequently made a break on the first backstretch, leaving I See Tail Lights in command with Wendy (Readly Express) racing first-over and Grace In Heaven (Chapter Seven) following the leader.

Kihlström, meanwhile, had positioned Miss Brighton second-over before launching a three-wide move with 800 meters remaining.

Behind her followed former 2-year-old star Cruiser (Calgary Games) and Swedish Oaks runner-up Global Halo (Ready Cash). For much of the final turn, Miss Brighton appeared to be struggling to make up ground. But Kihlström still had one weapon left. When he pulled the earplugs, Miss Brighton responded immediately, finding another gear and getting her nose in front just before the finish line.

"I felt confident she would race well," Kihlström said. "She is a very nice filly, and she raced well in her elimination. But a lot of things have to go right.

"We had a good trip until the final lap, but I knew there was a risk we would have to do some work, and that is what happened. When I pulled the earplugs, she responded really well."

I See Tail Lights finished second, with Cruiser and Global Halo closing strongly to finish third and fourth, respectively.

Miss Brighton recorded a mile rate of 1:56.1 over 2,140 meters.

The victory was the 13th Breeders Crown title for Redén, extending his record as the most successful trainer in the history of the Swedish series.

> *"I had two quick starters to my inside, and the plan was to try to get past them early if my horse [Chamberi] felt good. She did, and I thought we had a chance to reach the lead. STEADY SPENDER TAKES COMMAND AND NEVER LOOKS BACK

The instructions were clear: Get to the lead and stay there. Norwegian driver Ole Johan Östre followed that plan to perfection behind Eric Martinsson-trained Steady Spender (Readly Express) in the $240,000 Breeders Crown final for 3-year-old colts and geldings.

The E3 champion was sent aggressively from the gate, and his task was made considerably easier when both Kodiak Zet and No Hitter, who had drawn to his inside, broke stride immediately. Steady Spender quickly took control, and Östre was able to maintain an even pace while race favorite Nanda Devi Cut (Maharajah) settled comfortably second-over behind stablemate Com Best. When Nanda Devi Cut was asked to accelerate approaching the final turn, Com Best began showing signs of fatigue.

At the same time, Steady Spender opened a couple of lengths on the field, while City Slicker (King City) found racing room and moved into the outer flow to challenge Nanda Devi Cut. But nobody could get close to the leader. Steady Spender cruised home in a mile rate of 1:55.4 over 2,140 meters, recording his second Group 1 victory of the season.

"Now I am actually warm," Martinsson said after the race. "I have been freezing all day, but this warmed me up.

"I have been saying all week that we were going to race him on the lead to try to win. Maybe not too many people believed me. He has had an incredible year."

Östre, who received the driving assignment somewhat unexpectedly, was equally delighted.

"It came as a surprise that I would get to drive Steady Spender," he said. "He felt really good all the way, and obviously it helped when Kodiak Zet made a break right at the start."

City Slicker finished second, with Nanda Devi Cut third.

FRANK GIO CONTINUES WINNING WAYS AT VINCENNES

Frank Gio continued his outstanding European campaign with an effortless victory in the $125,000 Prix Marcel Laurent at Vincennes on Thursday (Nov. 12). The Sébastien Guarato-trained Frank Gio (Face Time Bourbon—Zarina Gio), fresh off his victory in the UET Elite Circuit final in Turin, enjoyed an ideal trip under Matthieu Abrivard.

Swedish trainer/driver Daniel Wäjersten sent Bullet The Bluesky to the lead after 400 meters, while Abrivard settled Frank Gio second-over. The race unfolded perfectly for the Italian-bred star.

Approaching the stretch, Abrivard moved Frank Gio into the clear, and the outcome was decided almost immediately. Frank Gio accelerated past his rivals with ease, winning in a mile rate of 1:53.3 over 2,100 meters.

"He maintained his speed all the way to the finish and confirmed that he is still in the same form he showed in Turin," Guarato said afterward.

Lombok Jiel (Enino du Pommereux), who had followed Frank Gio throughout the race, finished second but never threatened the winner. Madrid Haufor (Real de Lou) took third, while Lisa Josselyn (Ready Cash) found racing room late after following the leader and finished fourth.

Leap To Fame (Grant Dixon) winning the $800,000 New Zealand Cup on Tuesday.

THE DOWN UNDER DIARY

with ADAM HAMILTON

Leap To Fame, Captains Mistress, Gus, shine on New Zealand Cup Week

by Adam Hamilton

It was a juggernaut of a week where the stars shone, but in different ways and at different times.

That's the best way to sum-up another epic New Zealand Cup Week at Addington in Christchurch.

The two big race days could not have been more different, in just about every way.

Tuesday's (Nov. 10) Cup saw eight hours of sustained rain limit the crowd to just 12,000, well below the 20,000 expected.

But it didn't dampen the two megastars of the day, the great pacer Leap To Fame and superstar trotter Gus.

The two Aussies, from the one-time harness racing backwater of Queensland, stole the show.

But this day belonged to Leap To Fame.

In the words of race caller Matt Cross, it was the win that gave Leap To Fame the "full set."

The rising 8-year-old became the first pacer in Down Under history to win the four most iconic races in this part of the world by landing his first $800,000 New Zealand Cup win. It stands alongside his wins in the Inter Dominion (twice), Miracle Mile (twice), and Hunter Cup.

Leap To Fame went one better than 12 months earlier when he was not quite at his top and finished second to fellow Aussie raider Kingman.

This time trainer/driver Grant Dixon declared the champ "as good as we've ever had him" and he raced like it.

Despite sitting outside the leader Swayzee — his long-time rival and older half-brother — Leap To Fame had him beaten on the home bend.

Then he still had to fend-off New Zealand's best pacer, Marketplace, who followed Leap To Fame everywhere, but had to be content with a gallant second.

"This is as good as it gets," owner Kevin Seymour said. "I'm not saying it's any bigger than some of his other great wins, but the stage and significance is so special.

"This is a race everyone wants to win and it's part of New Zealand culture.

> "[Leap To Fame winning the New Zealand Cup] is as good as it gets. I'm not saying it's any bigger than some of his other great wins, but the stage and significance is so special. This is a race everyone wants to win and it's part of New Zealand culture. It's a race all Aussies look at in awe and now we've won it. It felt like the missing piece, the one really big race he deserved to win to have truly done everything in his career."

> — Kevin Seymour

"It's a race all Aussies look at in awe and now we've won it.

"It felt like the missing piece, the one really big race he deserved to win to have truly done everything in his career."

Dixon said it was as special as any win in his career.

"You grow up watching this race, in awe of the great champions who have won it," he said. "It's such a grueling race and so hard to win and now we've done it.

"It's immensely satisfying. And to have [my wife] Trista and the kids here to be part of it all, that's extra special.

"This horse has been life changing to us and now he's added another chapter to that."

Leap To Fame's win was his 17th at Group 1 level.

That gives him the outright Australasian record after sharing it for several months on 16 with former greats Lazarus and Westburn Grant.

It took his prize money close to $7 million, almost $2.5 million more than the closest to him in Down Under history.

While many expected Leap To Fame's team to say mission accomplished, they opted to back him in Friday's (Nov. 13) $150,000 New Zealand pacing free-for-all.

That meant a clash with Down Under's other pin-up pacer, 4-year-old mare Captains Mistress.

The score line was 1-1 between the pair after Captains Mistress upstaged a luckless Leap To Fame in the Brisbane Inter Dominion final on July 18.

Captain Mistress (Cam Hart) winning the New Zealand pacing free-for-all on Friday.

The barrier draws landed strongly in Captains Mistress' favor when she drew the front row, assuring her of working to the lead, and Leap To Fame was the lone back row runner.

In contrast to the rain on Tuesday, Friday was held in glorious sun, albeit quite windy.

Although Captain Mistress was a hot favorite, nothing could prepare fans for what unfolded.

The match-race became a romp for the mare.

Once driver Cam Hart found the lead, he put the foot down and Leap To Fame was under pressure and gasping 1,000 meters from home in the 1,980-meter race.

Then Captains Mistress broke the champ down the back straight with a blistering :26 flat quarter from the 800-400 meters.

Although Leap To Fame kept trying, Captains Mistress kept going and won by a staggering 6¾ lengths.

Her 1:52.4 mile rate on a very windy day took a full two-seconds off the New Zealand record.

"That was as good a feeling as I've had in the sulky," Hart said. "It was an unbelievable win. When I stoked her up going down the back, she was floating on air and absolutely flew the last 600 meters.

"She's got gears and everyone forgets she's a mare against the boys, and only a 4-year-old mare, too.

"I hope they keep racing her for another two years because I don't know if I'll ever drive another one as freakish as her.

"I know Leap To Fame is one of the greatest we've seen, but I think we'll be saying the same about this mare if she keeps going for another year or two."

Leap To Fame now heads straight back home to Queensland to chase his 18th Group 1 win in the $250,000 Blacks A Fake at Albion Park on Dec. 5.

From there, it's a freshen-up and then down to Victoria for one or two races, with the $250,000 Group 1 Hunter Cup on Feb. 13, the main target.

Then comes the $1 million Miracle Mile on March 13 at Menangle, a race he is trying to win for a third time, and trip to the other side of Australia for the $1.25 Group 1 Nullarbor at Perth's Gloucester Park on April 23.

His farewell will come back at home when he chases a third Inter Dominion crown at Albion Park in July.

Trainer Jason Grimson will decide in the next few days whether Captains Mistress goes home or has one more New Zealand run in Friday (Nov. 20) night's Group 1 Christian Cullen at Addington.

"The big $1 million bonus in Victoria is what we're after," he said. "I'm mindful she's only a 4-year-old mare so there's no guarantee she'll run again next week.

Captains Mistress' win in last month's Group 1 Victoria Cup at Melton kick-started a quest to snare Victoria $1 million Summer Carnival bonus.

She needs to win another three of the remaining five qualifying races, plus the Group 1 Hunter Cup, to pocket the bonus.

Captains Mistress will chase the leg second, the $75,000 Bendigo Cup on Jan. 9.

Her other logical targets are the $100,000 Ballarat Cup (Jan. 23) and the $150,000 Cranbourne Cup (Jan. 30).

> "[Captains Mistress has] got gears and everyone forgets she's a mare against the boys, and only a 4-year-old mare, too. I hope they keep racing her for another two years because I don't know if I'll ever drive another one as freakish as her. I know Leap To Fame is one of the greatest we've seen, but I think we'll be saying the same about this mare if she keeps going for another year or two."
> — Cam Hart

With Leap To Fame and Kingman very unlikely to tackle any of those races, Captains Mistress should dominate on what she showed on Friday.

Then we could see a rematch with Leap To Fame when she's racing for the $1 million bonus in the Hunter Cup.

In trotting ranks, Gus stole the show on Tuesday when he successfully defended his $400,000 Group 1 Dominion Trot crown in stunning style.

Chantal Turpin's superstar overcame an early scare when he galloped and lost 30 meters before recovering to circle the field midrace, take the lead, and win well.

"It's hard to know which win was better, I guess the first one because we surprised most people," driver Pete McMullen said.

"But I felt more pressure this time, I guess because he was such a hot favorite and expected to win."

It was a fantastic training performance to take Gus into the grueling 3,200-meter standing start race with just one lead-up race at Albion Park.

But Gus was unable to replicate what he did last year when also backed up to win Friday's Group 1 New Zealand trotting free-for-all.

He didn't look the same horse when a tiring ninth to emerging local Habiti Pat, trained by Greg and Ben Hope and driven by Blair Orange.

It was a rare moment of joy in the biggest races for the locals.

The locals did have something else to cheer about in the Australasian Young Drivers' Championship with Kiwi Wilson House just fending-off the Aussie raiders.

At the end of the 10-race series on Tuesday, held across four venues, House (79 points) won by just one point from NSW whizz kid Jett Turnbull (78).

Just six points separated the top four drivers in the 10-driver series with Queensland's Layne Dwyer (75 points) third and Victoria's Jordan Leedham (73) in fourth place.

House, the son of prominent New Zealand trainer Michael House, started driving in 2021 and boasts 265 career wins, including a career-best 94 last year.

HOLLYWOOD'S HITS
with BOB HEYDEN

Wiggle It Jiggleit, Tetrick, Matrons, and more

by Bob Heyden

As I was preparing some year-end numbers and highlights the news came in that Wiggle It Jiggleit had died at 14.

He was born the same year (2012) the all-time pacing money record was established by Foiled Again passing Gallo Blue Chip. The same record Wiggle It Jiggleit would have had a shot at had he stayed healthy past 4.

As it was, he is the only horse to appear in the top 25 single-season earnings seasons twice: No. 7 in 2015, his HOY season, with a healthy $2,181,995 followed up at age 4 with No. 18 all time $1,710,062. That two-year consecutive season total of $3.9 remains unmatched among pacers in the sport's history.

Wiggle It Jiggleit is the last horse, either gait, to follow a $2 million season with a $1 million year.

The overachieving son of Mr Wiggles had some epic battles with 2016 HOY Always B Miki which resulted in their being 1-2 in the year end HOY balloting. That finish? It marked the only time in the 79-year vote for the sport's best where it wound up with the 1-2 finishers coming from the very same division.

Thanks for the great memories Wiggle It Jiggleit, You will go down in history as one of the top handful of toughest horses ever.

TIM TETRICK'S CLOSING IN ON NO. 2

He turns 45 on Nov. 22, and still owns the three biggest single-earning seasons of all time: $19,734,781 (2008), $18,531,756 (2012), and $18,450,047 (2007).

He's currently $1.2 million behind John Campbell ($299.8 million) for the No. 2 spot all time.

With the season winding down it is not out of the question that he could reach that total right around Feb. 11, 2027, the date Dave Miller surpassed Campbell last year to move into No. 1.

Tetrick is also 27 wins behind Dave Miller on the victory list; the two latest members in the very exclusive 15,000 wins club.

Dexter Dunn entered Final Four weekend at $16.1 million just $1.3 million from edging into the fourth best spot ever, currently held by Yannick Gingras. Gingras is $400G from becoming the fourth driver to eclipse the career $275 million barrier and the second youngest at just 47. Good news for all three aforementioned drivers, Ron Pierce posted his individual best ever $$ season in 2006 of $14,433,337 at age 50.

HISTORY MAKING MATRONS AND MORE

Loua Dipa and Odds On Mr Mamba both won their Matrons on Nov. 12. The fastest 2-year-olds, male and female, ever.

Odds On Mr Mamba was also the North America Cup, while Al Papi was second in the Matron and fourth in the NA Cup, and Melillo also got money in both.

Speaking of history put the name Brandon Blvd on the list. His $1,523,695 (332G up on any pacer 326g any trotter entering Final Four weekend) and very likely HOY season in 2026, was just the fifth in 35 years to lead the entire sport in earnings both gaits without winning a Triple Crown race the same year.

It has been 12 years since Father Patrick last did it in 2014 ($1,693,081). The odd part of that was that Father Patrick's stablemates swept the Crowns: Nuncio (Yonkers Trot and Kentucky Futurity) and Trixton (Hambletonian).

BOBBING AND WEAVING

• Could 2027 be the year we add a name to the top three single-season earnings trotters? Now there are three bites of the million-dollar apple with a new Meadowlands Trot added to the schedule to accompany the Hambletonian and Canadian Trotting Classic. The top three seasons currently came consecutively in 2007 with Donato Hanover ($2,336,190) followed by Deweycheatumnhowe ($2,219,987), and Muscle Hill at an industry best ($2,456,041).

• George Brennan this past month edged into the No. 5 spot all time going past Ron Pierce: $215.9 million to Pierce's $215.3.

• Likely Rising Star winner 2026 Justin Irvine was 41 victories up on Jason Bartlett in the dash category. Donnie's son will put an end to the decade long dominance by Aaron Merriman. Actually, HHYF graduate Justin could twice be at the podium since USWHA honors the dash winner also.

• Eternal Camnation appears safe at $3.7 million plus, No. 1 all-time among pacing ladies. Twin B Joe Fresh will end up closer after the TVG but not quite there. It should be mentioned that Eternal Camnation came from the last crop of Cam Fella and raced from 1999-2004.

SUPERSTAR FEMALES OF HARNESS RACING

with VICTORIA M. HOWARD

New Vocations continues to shine in aftercare with Winnie Morgan Nemeth

by Victoria Howard

When you think of someone who dedicated their life to help standardbreds, the name New Vocations comes to my mind.

This incredible organization has rehomed retired racehorses, placing more than 9,000 in adoptive homes or a second career.

Winnie Morgan Nemeth, the daughter of Dot Morgan, the founder of this exceptional organization, was born into the business with a pedigree that's as good as it gets.

Nemeth's father, Charley Morgan, is a fifth-generation harness horse trainer and driver. Charley's grandfather, Ed Morgan, Sr. also trained and drove standardbreds in Troy, OH, along with Eddie, Jr. (Michigan) and Tom (Ohio).

And there's Tony Morgan (Nemeth's cousin) who just happens to be the second winningest harness racing driver of all time.

What an outstanding pedigree.

Luckily, the ancestry continues beyond that point.

Matriarch, Dot, launched New Vocations in 1992 and with the help of her two daughters, the organization has thrived beyond their expectation.

New Vocations is a celebrated equine rescue program based in Ohio that specializes in the rehabilitation and rehoming of retired racehorses.

It's a 501 ©3 charity that has grown to become the largest program of its kind in the United States.

New Vocations has helped 600 horses every year in finding a new home and career.

With nine facilities in Kentucky, Louisiana, New York, Ohio, Florida, and Pennsylvania, New Vocations has helped rehome over 9,000 racehorses when their racing careers ended.

Over the past 20 years, many superstar racehorses were rehomed because of this association, like Wind Of The North, Wakizashi Hanover, Grain Of Truth, Take It Back Terry, DW's NY Yank, Special Report, and Sectionline Bigry (all who made over $1 million), among many others.

So how did this incredible organization start and expand from a single horse farm in Ohio to the oldest and largest racehorse adoption program in the country?

> — Winnie Morgan Nemeth

"My father Charley trained and raced standardbreds in Florida, Kentucky, New York, and Indiana, before settling his family on a farm in Miami County, OH," Nemeth said. "My sister Anna and I grew up on the farm and were in the barn from day one. When I was a teenager, I began paddocking for dad at the fairs and helped him when he raced at Scioto Downs and Lebanon.

"My parents had a successful stable and dad loved developing young horses. Every year we had several broodmares and babies born on our farm. The horses were my family's only source of income, so racing was not only our passion, but also our livelihood."

When did this idea for New Vocations materialize and come to fruition?

"My mother, Dot, created New Vocations in 1992 from our farm in Laura, OH. She was alarmed after seeing so many retired equine athletes (both standardbreds and thoroughbreds) being sent to slaughter.

"Being a wife of a horse trainer, she knew the care the horses were getting and realized the retirees could be taught to do something else besides racing, for a horse is so intelligent and astute. Mom was also a 4-H advisor, so she knew both aspects of the racing and riding world. My sister and I both showed horses in 4-H and then moved on to saddlebred and morgan shows.

"My mother realized that something had to be done for the horses who could no longer race. These animals were being discarded, and the word 'aftercare' was not even a word at that time."

How did you come to be part of the process?

"After I graduated from Ohio State University, I accepted a position as an equine sales specialist with Purina Mills, serving the metro Detroit area. Clara, our youngest daughter was six months old, and I was on the road four-to-five days a week.

"One day mom asked me if I would be interested in boarding and training standardbreds from our Michigan farm. That was when I began working at New Vocations, and soon we became 'the third farm in the country' for helping retired horses. At that time Michigan harness racing was still going strong. I began acquiring horses from every major track in Michigan, as well as from Ohio, Illinois, and Indiana. In 2010 my family put our Salime, MI farm on the market and made the decision to move back to Ohio."

What happened next?

"My husband, Scott, worked for GM at the Renaissance Center in Detroit and the automobile agencies were struggling. Horse racing was over in Michigan and the need to take standardbreds was slimming down. Scott and I built a house in Delaware, OH, and he accepted a job with Nationwide in Columbus.

I started working out of the then New Vocations office in Marysville, OH, which was our main thoroughbred farm at the time.

"In 2012, mom was placing over 150 standardbreds every year from her farm in Laura. My sister and I wanted New Vocations to grow and be able to take in more horses, but to do that we needed more facilities that could rehab, retrain, and rehome the racehorses.

"We opened a second farm in Ohio and continued to take standardbreds in Michigan until 2014.

"Luckily — no, we were blessed — that it worked and to date New Vocations has re-homed thousands of racehorses when their racing career ends and nobody wants them. Our main farm is in Lexington, KY.

"My sister Anna Ford is the executive director and manages the thoroughbred side. I am the program director, as well as managing the standardbred side. Currently, we have 200 horses in the program that are rehabbing, training or adopting out.

"New Vocations has served over 10,000 retired racehorses since 1992. We will care for and place over 100 standardbreds and over 350 thoroughbreds this year."

> "New Vocations has served over 10,000 retired racehorses since 1992. We will care for and place over 100 standardbreds and over 350 thoroughbreds this year."

Please tell our readers what they need to do if they find themselves in the heartbreaking situation of having to find their horse a new home because they can no longer race.

"When an owner or trainer retires a standardbred, the person will reach out to us. We are taking horses right off the racetrack. First, the person will fill out the horse application. After discovering the reason why the horse is retiring, the history of their racing career, any injuries, breeding, and earnings, I'll let the person know which New Vocations farm they can ship the horse to.

"Once the horse arrives, they can rehab and start the transition of being a 'regular' horse and be trained to ride. This year we have received over 700 applications of people wanting to adopt.

"There are certain requirements as our focus is on the safety, health and life of the horse. New Vocations is proud to be accredited by the Standardbred Transition Alliance. We are very grateful to the many owners, trainers, and breeders who worked with us over the past 34 years, and to those who help support and give us the opportunity to transition and follow the lives of these special animals."

If you would like more information on New Vocations or need to place a retired horse or one that can no longer race, you can call Nemeth at 734-320-7918 or email: winnie@horseadoption.com.

MANE ATTRACTION

with JOHN BERRY

Time matters only on the racetrack as the BDHC speaks

by John Berry

I must be getting old.

Seems like yesterday when Su Mac Lad, driven by John Peat, won the open trot at Sportsman's Park (SPk) in 2:02 and a piece, and that goes back to 1959.

That's 67 years ago and it's still as fresh in my mind as yesterday, maybe even fresher as age catches up with all of us.

Albatross went 2:04 at SPk in 1970 when a guy named Luke said, "That's one of the fastest miles for a 2-year-old you'll ever see."

Su Mac Lad and Albatross would be hard pressed to compete in today's world of time.

We all marvel at time today on the racetrack but our BDHC (Broken Down Horseplayers Club) folk, are growing to despise time — especially after, say, 10 or 10:30 at night.

I've heard from a whole slew of them this week as I attempt to prepare a plan — which many say is impossible — to lead our grand sport into the future before it fades away to obscurity, partly because of a precious commodity called time.

Almost all BDHC participants think that harness racing programs are "too damn long!"

"Look what they have done in baseball by shortening the games with a pitch clock," one said. "A ball game used to take well over three hours and innovations have and sports betting have cut that to two hours and a half or so.

"Why, sports betting has allowed a person to bet on everything from a parlay on who is going to hit a homer today to whether the next pitch is going to be a ball or a strike.

"I know it's not all a bed of roses with bad stuff — and I know they got to a pitcher to throw a ball in the dirt the other day and that's under investigation — but all pro sports are shortening their time, all except harness racing."

> "If a trainer has two or three or four [entered] in a race, they should be run as an entry and not as single betting interests. As a bettor, I never really know who the rabbit is going to be or the horse that's going to be sacrificed to set up another one. If that reduces the field to seven or less single entries, then don't put it on the betting card."
> — BDHC bettor

Another punter complained, "I love the great racing at Cumberland [Run] and I love that it's in the afternoon, but it takes 3½ hours to get 11 races in and there's hardly any value.

"Like one day [Tuesday] they had almost a million dollars in purses on the program and the total of money bet in the win pools I don't think was $20,000 [it was slightly over that].

"How ya going to get players to play there?"

Dover Downs had 15 races and it took five hours and a minute (5:01) to get it in the books — at least they started at 4:30 in the afternoon and finished at a decent time — 9:38 or so.

Dayton started around 4 p.m. and was done a few minutes before 9.

Probably the leader in hardcore harness handle was Northfield Park on a midweek program.

Yes, they had 16 races that took almost six hours to complete, but the Cleveland contingent might be considered the most loyal as their handle was over $1,000,000.

Plainridge is another with decent purses and a midweek open of $25,000 but handle struggles to reach $100,000 on a card with $183,000 in purses.

Only one race had a win pool over $3,500 and most were under $2,000 prompting one bettor to spout off, "Watch this,

> "I love the great racing at Cumberland [Run] and I love that it's in the afternoon but it takes 3½ hours to get 11 races in and there's hardly any value. Like one day [Tuesday] they had almost a million dollars in purses on the program and the total of money bet in the win pools I don't think was $20,000 [it was slightly over that]. How ya going to get players to play there?"
> — Another punter

I'm betting $20 on a horse I like and I bet the next flash takes him down from 3-1 to 1-1."

Next flash, 7-5.

"That's what is wrong with harness racing," he said. "How ya going to keep fans — it is supposed to be a spectator sport — when players get the shaft?

"Horsemen are protected [and they should be] but nothing is done to protect us."

Another punter chimed in, "That's why I love Monticello... They get it going around noon and are done by 3 and the handle is pretty decent."

Of course, there are a few bright spots like The Meadowlands on weekends and Hoosier Park but, for the most part, the fan is forgotten as the sport has gotten in the comfortable habit of letting State legislators and those with casinos support harness racing at the expense of the fan with this being a spectator sport.

Other sports have shortened their game times.

NFL games times have shortened to a bit over three hours, pro hockey clocks in around 2 hours and 25 minutes, basketball on the pro level is around 2 hours and 15 minutes, Soccer, becoming more popular every day, is usually done in two hours.

Another idea from a BDHC bettor is, "If a trainer has two or three or four [entered] in a race, they should be run as an entry and not as single betting interests.

"As a bettor, I never really know who the rabbit is going to be or the horse that's going to be sacrificed to set up another one.

"If that reduces the field to seven or less single entries, then don't put it on the betting card."

Yet another offered, "You [HRU] have suggested that saddle pads should be extended to the horse's rump to prevent whipping welts.

"Absolutely brilliant idea and don't know why something that is this simple to fix hasn't been done already."

We have also suggested a program to curtain the kill pens for our horses with a certain percentage of the purse money put aside to protect our horses that are no longer able to race.

Well, I did receive a suggestion to take 1 per cent of every purse and put it in a fund to place retired horses.

Harness racing could build a fund of close to $5,000,000 per year with funds earmarked for organizations dedicated to the welfare of those horses to prevent them going to through the kill pen.

Another suggestion benefitting the bettor is about that lottery-type Great-8 with the $500,000 seed with the object being to select seven winners and the trifecta in the finale.

"I liked that idea of that seeded race for a half-million. A different track could host it every week and it would be available throughout the U.S.A. [and Canada, too] with places like The Meadowlands, Hoosier Park, Northfield [yes, even a half-mile track — betting there is very strong], Woodbine Mohawk Park, The Meadows, Scioto Downs, and The Red Mile during Grand Circuit Week and wherever our greatest stakes events are hosted."

Finally, our idea about re-draws surfaced again this week, trying to remind the industry of the indiscretion when a re-draw allows a horse to hop from post 1 to post 9 on the re-draw.

Our suggestion was, instead of re-drawing the entire race, just one pill would be drawn with every horse higher than the re-draw pill moving one spot. Period.

We're also reminded that we need our own, exclusive harness racing television network, 24-hours-a-day coverage throughout the world.

But that's enough for now.

May The Horse Be With You!

ALL OVER ONTARIO

with MATTHEW LOMON

Brad Moore's multi-generational harness tradition is about passing on the passion

by Matthew Lomon

As Brad Moore sees it, harness racing isn't his family's business, it's simply what they do.

"My dad [Bert Moore] was into it and so was his dad," Brad said. "They were into buying and selling racehorses. My dad's uncle did all the driving for that group. We just grew up doing it."

Brad, alongside his brother Andy Moore, a longtime Ontario driver, spent his early years in the barn, acquiring knowledge through hard, often unglamorous work.

Lessons from seasoned family members, including his renowned horse-trader father, were part of the daily routine.

"My dad is a good horseman," Brad said. "He bought a lot of horses that people had no luck with and taught us how to rig them up. He gave lots of great advice, particularly about making the most of what you have and understanding that your time is valuable and not to waste it."

Brad relished any opportunity to watch his dad practice what he preached on the racetrack.

"I remember going to Dresden [Raceway] to go see my dad race," Brad said. "We'd get done with our sports, and Mom would run us out there. Dresden used to race at night too, so we used to go out and cheer for him. When you're a kid, especially, it was pretty neat watching your dad out there racing."

Though, being a kid, his priorities were occasionally elsewhere.

"Dad won a race at Windsor [Raceway] that I was there for, but I missed the picture because I was playing video games in the track kitchen," Brad said, adding with a laugh, "He loves that story, sort of."

He made his entry into standardbred racing official in 1997, acquiring both his trainer's and driver's licenses while in Prince Edward Island looking after horses for one of his father's business partners.

"When I decided that's what I wanted to do, [getting both licenses] was the quickest route," he explained. "You had to have your trainer's for six months before you could get your driver's out there. So, I got my trainer's, and then I got my driver's and off I went."

Back in Ontario in the spring of '97, Brad competed almost exclusively, as both a driver and trainer, at his home track, Hiawatha Horse Park.

After years of celebrating his family's success at the Sarnia, ON oval, it was Brad's turn to be feted on June 12.

Sent off at 18-1, the rookie reinsman scored his first career victory, a half-length decision courtesy of family-owned trotter, Ken Col Lauxmont.

"Everybody remembers their first one; mom's got the picture somewhere," Brad said. "He was a nice horse, really well-mannered. The kids used to sit on my knee when I would jog him. He was basically a family pet."

Ken Col Lauxmont, a bay son of A Go Go Lauxmont—Nile Princess, was an instrumental figure early in both Moore brothers' careers.

"He's one of the horses my brother started on," Brad said. "He didn't race him, but he used him to get his qualifying drives."

Andy, who is closing in on 550 career driving wins, acquired his license to drive in 1998, one year after Brad.

It wasn't until 2008, however, that the brothers shared their first professional win.

With Brad handling training duties and Andy in the race bike, Chelemark Harley powered to a 2¼-length triumph on Oct. 10 at Flamboro Downs.

> "Dad won a race at Windsor [Raceway] that I was there for, but I missed the picture because I was playing video games in the track kitchen. He loves that story, sort of."
> — Brad Moore

"I root for him, and I'm pretty sure he roots for me," Brad said with a laugh. "But no, anytime you can win one together it's exciting. That was a special one, for sure."

The bond between brothers remains as strong as ever in 2026.

"If I'm not going to be able to drive my horse, then I sure hope Andy would pick them," Brad said. "He can get along with any kind of horse, whether it be lazy or crazy. He seems to have a real good sense out there; he's a good horseman."

Despite the countless memories they've made together, one of Brad's most cherished moments involving his brother happened without him taking part.

"Andy won the City of London with Yoda Queen, and I was pretty excited," Brad said of the major 80-1 upset in the 2023 final for fillies and pacing mares.

"He was driving for a friend [trainer Jamie Doig] that lives one block away, and it was like the whole neighborhood won. We were watching at home, and we were hooting and hollering and cheering just the same as they were there. It's nice just to see your family have fun, and some luck."

It's Brad's hope that he'll soon be able to create new memories with his 17-year-old son Ethan, who's taken a shine to the sport his family has made a living in for generations.

"Maybe in a few years he'll be the guy getting his picture taken," Brad said.

For now, though, it's the soon-to-be fifth-generation Moore's turn to heed advice.

"I told him with the way things are now, get a trade and have a horse or two on the side and see how things go," Brad said. "There's a track at dad's, so you'll have the upkeep and everything you need when the time is right."

Beyond the prospect of one day sharing the racetrack, Brad finds a special, almost indescribable satisfaction in watching his father and son bond over their shared surroundings.

"I like watching my dad and Ethan out shooting the breeze or telling lies, whatever people do when they're out jogging beside each other," Brad said.

"It's just nice to see. I don't know how to explain it. It's nice to see my dad and my boy out there."

Between Brad, Andy, Bert, and now Ethan, the Moores have 10 horses racing. For Brad, who has four of his own, the ability to lean on family makes all the difference.

> "I like watching my dad [Bert] and [my son] Ethan out shooting the breeze or telling lies, whatever people do when they're out jogging beside each other. It's just nice to see. I don't know how to explain it. It's nice to see my dad and my boy out there."

"Everybody's got their own pot, but if somebody's gone away or unavailable, then everybody chips in to help out because you can't work every day of the year…," Brad said. "Not everybody gets to work with their family right beside them."

He also credited his wife of 30 years, Vicky, whose unwavering support has helped make his racing journey possible.

"I have to thank her for everything she's done for me and our family," Brad said. "She takes care of our kids on the nights I'm gone racing and I'll always be grateful for everything she does for us."

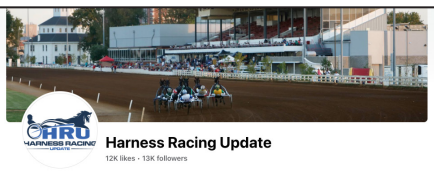

Today, Brad finds himself carrying on the family tradition, passing his passion for harness racing down to another generation.

The scenes that shaped his childhood are playing out again, with Brad now the one drawing cheers from the rail.

"When Sarnia's going, my grandkids go to the races and they're hollering and screaming at me over the fence," Brad said. "It's really incredible to think about."

CHAPTER 14

Breakfast Platter

Peter led Hooley through the morning sunshine at Pioneer Downs to a weathered cinderblock building. He pulled open a glass door. The smell of bacon, coffee, and frying onions lingered over eight tables of various vintages and sizes. Two of the tables had quartets of racetrack workers deep in conversation.

A cherubic young woman stood scrolling on her phone behind a counter with a massive metal cash register that belonged in a museum. Her pink sweatshirt read, "If Horse Racing Were Easy, They'd Call It Golf."

She looked up and smiled.

From the doorway, Peter raised two fingers and said, "Two platters, scrambled, two coffees. Thanks, Laurie."

Then he ushered Hooley to a vacant table butted against a wall where an upside-down horseshoe and a photo of an old racing program were nailed above the creamers and sugar packets.

Hooley said, "I like the vibe. Feels like a black-and-white Bogart movie."

"Once upon a time, this place was named The Last Lap. Now it's just the kitchen, a place where people can socialize."

Hooley said, "The world needs more places like this."

Laurie appeared and set down two white mugs filled with steaming coffee and said softly, "Sorry about your filly in the final."

Peter smiled. "Thanks. You know the game. Every race has a few smiles and a few heartbreaks. Fingers crossed; she'll be back next year."

Laurie and Peter exchanged a high five, and she returned to the kitchen.

Hooley asked, "Now let's get back to the restraining order and this ownership horror show."

Peter tore open a sugar packet and sprinkled the granules into his coffee. "The part that worries me the most happened the day Alex and I bought the filly at the auction."

"Last October?"

"Yeah. I signed for the sale at my chair in the audience, then headed to the cashier to write the check. On the way, we passed through the section of the arena with booths for vendors, trucking companies, horse equipment, horse adoption agencies, whatever. One of the booths was insurance, horse insurance. Alex asked me if we needed insurance."

"Did you?"

"Some people insure horses. I never did. Honestly, I don't know that much about insuring horses. I told Alex the same thing. He got agitated and said, "We just spent $60,000 on that horse, and she could fall stepping onto your trailer. I'm insuring her." Then he stomped off to the insurance booth.

Hooley took a sip of his black coffee. "I'm not sure if your cousin was being smart or shady."

Peter sipped his coffee, set down his mug, and said, "Neither was I. I was still jazzed up about getting the horse, plus, remember, the Topeka ladies were not in the picture. I was a minority owner at that point. If Alex wanted insurance, maybe it was a good idea."

Hooley said, "Your cousin is insurance savvy. He may have been thinking about some scam from day one."

Hooley asked, "Who gets the insurance money?"

"The owners, according to their shares. At least, that's how it's supposed to work."

"Supposed to?"

"With Alex involved, I don't take anything for granted. He insured Assets Accepted to the hilt, more than necessary."

Hooley nodded. "Okay, I see where you are going. Now I understand why the restraining order includes the racetrack. Alex is desperate for money. The fastest way to a payday is if the filly goes to horse heaven. You think he would do that?"

Peter paused. "Who knows. My cousin lacks empathy. Normal for him is a performance. Below the surface, he's as cuddly as a shark."

Laurie returned with two large plates filled with eggs, bacon, shredded potatoes, and toast.

Peter said, "Thanks."

She smiled and returned to the cash register.

"It all comes down to money, money that Alex never has and always needs. He missed the possible deal to sell the filly. The horse didn't make any money in the final. He knows that there is no more income from Assets Accepted until at least April, and he knows there will be expenses."

"What about his earnings, his part of the $54,000 from the purse money you won this year?"

"His 25 per cent isn't that much. All the purse money comes into my account. I deduct each owner's share of the training bills before distributing anything."

Hooley picked up his fork. "Why don't you and the Kansas ladies buy him out, get him out of your lives? He can take his money and head down the highway."

"That was an option. The problem was value. My cousin believed the two ladies from Kansas and I were lowballing the price and taking advantage of him."

Hooley chuckled, "That is more than a touch ironic from a guy who scans obituaries looking for grieving widows."

"It's moronic. He is not a dumb guy. He researched previous sales of similar 2-year-olds at public horse sales and cherry-picked some that sold for huge prices. But he doesn't know the racehorse market; the horses he cherry-picked were like comparing apples and oranges."

"That's a lot of fruit in one sentence."

"Alex went online and found a handful of 2-year-olds that sold for huge money. Naturally, he decided Assets Accepted belonged in the same category."

"But she isn't?"

Peter shook his head. "She's a nice filly. But she's small, she made that mistake in the final, and her pedigree isn't exactly royalty. Every horse has a price. Alex thinks ours should have a comma and several extra zeros."

"Okay, so where do things stand today?"

"Today, I get a lump in my stomach every morning when I look into the stall. My wife had a loud argument with Alex, and she is afraid of him. She pushed for the restraining order. So, my cousin is on the loose and mad as a hornet."

Hooley bit off a piece of bacon. "That's a messy situation. Maybe I should rethink getting into the horse racing business."

Peter leaned back in his chair and smiled. "Well, the two ladies in Topeka are enjoying all this drama. Oh, and that reminds me. Looking ahead, I believe another new owner, a mystery owner, will soon enter the harness horse racing game."

Hooley cocked his head. "Who?"

The horse trainer smiled and shook his head. "A surprise."

Warrawee Michelle, Twin B Joe Fresh reign in FanDuel Championships

by Frank Cotolo / Meadowlands media relations

Warrawee Michelle and Twin B Joe Fresh, both voted the top of their older class in 2025, laid their case to reclaim divisional honors as they took their respective $150,000 Grade 2 FanDuel Championship finals on Saturday night (Nov. 14) at The Meadowlands.

Warrawee Michelle, with Yannick Gingras in the bike for trainer Ave Svanstedt, was all in from start-to-finish to win the FanDuel Championship final for trotting mares in a 1:51.3 effort. The 5-year-old daughter of Walner out of the Yankee Glide mare Sound Check coupled with Gingras for the first time to win her 13th race in 41 starts.

With favorite Tactical Moni breaking stride leaving the gate, longshot Woman Of Passion took advantage and sped to the front with Gingras also cruising forward into a pocket seat. Gingras moved out of the pocket for the lead passing a :28 first quarter and moseyed up the backside with no challengers approaching to a :55.3 half.

Into the stretch off three-quarters in 1:24, Warrawee Michelle showed her class and accelerated with ease for a 1½-length victory over Woman Of Passion. Bourbonista S rallied for third while R Dutchess drifted in her stretch bid for fourth.

Warrawee Michelle potentially finished her racing career with this score, winding up with a lifetime bankroll of $1,964,695 for owner Ake Svanstedt Inc, Santandrea Inc, and Young Guns, the latter of which includes Meadowlands owner Jeff Gural.

In the winner's circle, Gural said, "She was racing terrible earlier in the year. We took her to the vet and then raced her here at The Meadowlands and the rest of the season was smooth sailing."

Gural also said the future of the mare is uncertain.

"She might become a broodmare," he said. "We don't know yet."

Warrawee Michelle paid $4.60 to win.

Twin B Joe Fresh topped the mare pacing division again, winning the FanDuel Championship for her cohort with a 1:49.1 performance.

Always B Naughty left best off the gate with Champagne Room settling into second and favorite Twin B Joe Fresh gliding easily in third for a moderate first quarter of :27. Twin B Joe Fresh paced up the outside lane to take over onto the backstretch and coasted confidently to a :55.1 half.

Talk Curdy To Me left the pylons to push first over into the last turn while driver Dexter Dunn sat strongly with Twin B Joe Fresh as she posted three-quarters in 1:22.3. Talk Curdy To Me stepped up her charge in the stretch, but Dunn flashed a :26.3 last quarter with his charge and dusted that foe to the finish for a two-length victory. Rocket Deo ripped from last to snatch third from second-over Rodeo Drive Deo in fourth.

"It's been the ride of a lifetime with her," Dunn said. "Like she's been her whole career, she's so versatile. So, I waited for the action early to settle and then I put her on the front. Once I told her in the straight, she kicked away. Just a great thrill to win tonight with her. It's so exciting when you can come down the straight and you hear the fans cheer for her. She deserves it. She's number one, without a doubt."

Chris Ryder trains the daughter of top sire Roll With Joe from the Captaintreacherous mare Fresh Breeze for himself and co-owners Dunn, Peter Trebotica, and Barry Spak. The win was her 44th in 64 starts. She became the second all-time money-winner among pacing mares with lifetime earnings of $3,586,670.

"The emotion is hard to describe," Ryder said. "Now I've got to make a bad decision, whether to retire her or not. And that's up in the air. It's such a hard thing. I don't want to race her just to prove some statistic. That's not what's important."

Twin B Joe Fresh paid $2.10 to win.

Super Chapter, Women Layer take FanDuel open titles

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Super Chapter, with driver Dexter Dunn, rebounded from a seventh-place finish in the Breeders Crown open trot last month at Eldorado Scioto Downs to capture the $300,000 Grade 1 FanDuel Championship for open trotters by a head over Crown winner On To Norway in 1:50.2 on Saturday night (Nov. 14) at The Meadowlands. Lexus Kody finished third.

Two races later, Women Layer followed up his victory in the Potomac Pace on Nov. 8 at Rosecroft Raceway with a 1:47.4 win in the $300,000 Grade 1 FanDuel Championship open pace. Ervin Hanover finished second, three lengths behind the winner, and Calicojack Hanover was third.

In the FanDuel open trot, Lexus Kody, the event's defending champ, took the lead from post 7 on the first turn and reached the opening quarter in :28. He continued to show the way to the half in :54.4, but Super Chapter had already started a first-over march from fourth after driver Ronnie Wrenn, Jr. began to advance from sixth with On To Norway as they headed toward the final turn.

Super Chapter was within two lengths of Lexus Kody as they reached three-quarters in 1:22.1 and continued to surge through the stretch to overtake the pacesetter. He then held off On To Norway for his sixth win in his past seven starts and eighth in 11 races overall this year, good for more than $1.3 million in earnings. The FanDuel was his fourth Grade 1 triumph of the season to go with the MGM Yonkers International Trot, Maple Leaf Trot, and John Cashman Memorial.

On To Norway and Super Chapter entered the FanDuel open trot ranked No. 2 and No. 3, respectively, in the sport's Top 10 poll.

"He's such an amazing horse," Dunn said about Super Chapter. "We got away in a spot where the speed was on down the back[stretch] and once Ronnie came, we had to move. He had every right for On To Norway to get past him tonight, but he's just such an amazing horse and he was fighting like a tiger the last 50."

Super Chapter, a 4-year-old son of Chapter Seven—Lifetime Pursuit trained by Marcus Melander, will now head to stallion duty at Hanover Shoe Farms. For his career, he won 22 of 36 races and banked more than $3 million in purses. He is owned by Jeffrey Snyder, Arthur Pronti, and breeder Hanover Shoe Farms.

"He's perfect," Dunn said. "He races on any track, any way, and he's got such a beautiful gait. He's so much fun to drive; I'm really going to miss driving him. Every time I get to sit behind him it's such a pleasure. He's incredible. He's just got everything you want."

Sent off as the 3-5 favorite, Super Chapter paid $3.20 to win.

In the FanDuel open pace, Women Layer and driver Yannick Gingras were a parked-out leader in a :27.1 opening quarter and maintained control from there, but not without facing pressure from first-over Ervin Hanover, driven by Dunn, to a half in :54.3 and three-quarters in 1:21. After rebuffing Ervin Hanover with his :26.2 third panel, Women Layer stormed home in :26.4 for the victory.

Trained by Virgil Morgan, Jr., Women Layer has won 10 of 22 races this year and earned over $540,000. For his career, the 5-year-old gelded son of Sweet Lou—Loreenas Ruffian has won 35 of 61 starts and banked over $1.3 million. He is owned by Let It Ride Stables, Jeff Fought Racing, Larry Wills, and Jesmeral Stable. He was bred by Carl Howard.

"He's a pleasure to drive," said Gingras, who has sat behind Women Layer in his last six races, with four wins and two third-place finishes. "He's so sharp right now. I think it was an incredible performance tonight.

"He was a little bit anxious in the post parade and behind the gate, but once the gate left, he was perfect. If Dex came pretty hard, I probably would have let him go, but it seemed like the right move to leave him out. I believe in my horse. I think he might have won either way, but we had the ball in our court, and we decided to take it from there."

Women Layer, the 1-2 favorite, paid $3 to win.

Following the race, a retirement ceremony was held for Prince Hal Hanover. The 4-year-old son of Captaintreacherous—Percy Bluechip finished sixth in the FanDuel to conclude a career that saw him win 16 of 52 races, including the 2025 Grade 1 Adios among seven graded stakes, and earn $1.8 million. Trained by Dr. Ian Moore, he is owned by the Prince Hal Hanover Stable.

"I think he's getting a little bit tired now and it's time to say goodbye," Moore said. "He's off to Blue Chip Farms in New York tomorrow."

As for Prince Hal Hanover's best qualities as he heads to his new career, Moore said, "His heart and his desire and his speed and his gait – anything a trainer would ever want in a good horse, he possesses them all. I truly believe he's going to make a top stallion, and New York seems it's a great place to be right now."

Nevis Peak pops in Goldsmith Maid; Tempting Flames resurgent in Three Diamonds

by Ray Cotolo / Meadowlands media relations

Freshman fillies Nevis Peak and Tempting Flames found vindication from Breeders Crown defeats in their respective Fall Final Four finals on Saturday night (Nov. 14) at The Meadowlands.

Regally bred Nevis Peak procured a pocket trip and pounced to snag the $386,830 Grade 1 Goldsmith Maid in a 1:53.1 mile.

Leaving from post 7, driver Yannick Gingras sent Nevis Peak towards the top with 115-1 shot Rio De Janeiro launching from the outermost draw towards the lead. Gingras looped around Rio De Janeiro after a :28 first quarter and then yielded command on the backstretch once favorite Kountry Plunge tipped out of third to brush forward. Kountry Plunge planted onto the point passing a :56.3 half and strolled through the last turn to three-quarters in 1:24.4 as Two Day Hangover carried stablemates Birr Castle and Athena's Girl up the rim. Two Day Hangover retreated rounding for home, giving Nevis Peak clearance to swing outside for an attack. Nevis Peak overhauled Kountry Plunge in the lane for a 2¼-length win while Kindergarten champ HL Kapara rallied widest down the track for third and Birr Castle closed for fourth.

"She started out the year so awesome I was actually looking forward to the Hambletonian next year," co-owner Larry Karr said in the winner's circle. "She hit a few speed bumps along the way and bled a little bit, but they took their time with her getting her back. She raced great in the Mohawk Million, was unbelievable in the Breeders Crown and I'm so happy she got a marquee win tonight."

Stable, Crawford Farms Racing, Brad Grant, and Karr. Burke trains the winner of three races from nine starts with $507,124 in the bank. She paid $8.40 to win.

Odds-on favorite Tempting Flames recovered from a harsh shuffle as the tempo collapsed but found clearance to spring back and emerge a 1:53.1 winner in the $300,000 Grade 1 Three Diamonds.

Driver Jason Bartlett hustled Tempting Flames forward to clear control and parked 96-1 challenger Too Pink To Pass heading for a :27.1 first quarter. Second-over Cleveland Darby then looped three wide and crossed over to lead while maintaining speed to a :54.3 half. Cleveland Darby began to waver heading for the last turn, at which point Holy launched from a second-over seat to sweep by tiring rivals. Tempting Flames got bumped as Cleveland Darby backed out of contention, but Bartlett found a seam around as Holy clocked three-quarters in 1:24. Holy labored in the stretch on an open-length lead that diminished once Tempting Flames split rivals and laid aim on the leader late. Tempting Flames zipped by at the inside in the final sixteenth and clinched a 1½-length win over Holy and closing JK Alwaysbpositive, both of whom finished second in a dead heat. Loyal To The End took fourth.

"We got out of the gate really too quick," Bartlett said after the race. "I really wanted to follow Yannick's horse, but obviously something went wrong in the last turn so we got ourselves in a really, really bad spot. It's amazing she got stopped like that and was able to pick it back up and win the race. All credit to her."

Michael Hitchcock trains Tempting Flames for owner William Hartt. Hitchcock, based in Ohio and a native of Maine, notched his first Meadowlands victory with the win by his Catch The Fire—Hotshot Temptress filly. Winning her sixth race from 11 starts, Tempting Flames has now banked $472,012.

"Mike — we grew up together in Maine racing at the fairs, Bangor, Scarborough," Bartlett said. "To share this moment with him, with Billy [Hartt] — I'm sure he's watching and will critique that drive pretty good. I got to thank him and Mike."

Hitchcock added, "To get a win here is pretty cool. Training her down, she's been just perfect. She's been just a dream to have in the barn and she was great through the summer. We bought her last fall and it's been a great ride with her so far. She's very manageable, and to overcome that [trip] is pretty amazing."

Tempting Flames paid $3.40 to win.

Command Center, Eastie Boy take Fall Final Four colt events

by James Witherite / Meadowlands media relations

Command Center sustained a first-over attack and inherited the lead in mid-stretch en route to victory in the Grade 1 $383,830 Valley Victory, for 2-year-old male trotters, while Eastie Boy remained resolute in Hades' crosshairs to capture the Grade 1 $300,000 Governor's Cup, for 2-year-old male pacers, on Saturday (Nov. 14) at The Meadowlands.

In the Valley Victory, Command Center and driver Dexter Dunn got away third from the pole as 3-5 favorite Bentley Blue Chip (driven by Yannick Gingras) controlled early splits of :27.4 and :56 with Gustav Vasa (Brett Beckwith) tracking tightly from the pocket. With three-eighths-of-the-mile remaining, Command Center took aim first-over and applied steady pressure to Bentley Blue Chip through the 1:24.3 three-quarters. In upper stretch, it appeared as though Bentley Blue Chip would rebuff his outside challenger, but Command Center took over the lead at the sixteenth pole when Bentley Blue Chip broke stride, and he evaded runner-up Gustav Vasa by 3¼ lengths for a career-best 1:53.1 win. Seven Pledges (Jason Bartlett) rallied from last to finish fourth, and was elevated to third over the breaking Bentley Blue Chip.

"He's always been a fast horse," said Marcus Melander, who trains three-time winner Command Center as well as Gustav Vasa. "He's a June foal, so we kept him in Kentucky and raced him easy. Then, he got a little sick after the Grand Circuit [at The Red Mile] and missed the Breeders Crown, so we figured we'd go for this race, and it played out good."

A son of Gimpanzee out of the Muscle Hill mare Mission Brief, Command Center was purchased for $500,000 by S R F Stable, Holly Lane Stud East, and Steve Stewart from breeder Mission Brief Stable and has earned $325,096 from seven starts this season. As the 8-5 second choice, he paid $5.20 to win and led a Melander-trained exacta that paid $28.80.

The Governor's Cup saw 3-5 favorite Eastie Boy and driver Ronnie Wrenn, Jr. follow up their 1:50.1 win in the Grade 2 Matron Stakes at Bally's Dover with an identical clocking over The Big M's one-mile oval.

After getting away third behind a :27.2 first-quarter duel between Seine (Joe Bongiorno) and Billy Hill (Todd McCarthy), Wrenn, Jr. brushed Eastie Boy to the fore upon reaching the backstretch, and the pair were met by a stern first-over challenge from Hades (Tim Tetrick) through middle fractions of :55.2 and 1:22.1, while Seine drafted from the pocket. Turning for home, Wrenn, Jr. asked Eastie Boy for all he had, and the Sweet Lou—Rockin Racer colt dug in through a :28 closing sectional to keep Hades a half-length at bay. Seine finished a one-paced third.

"As the year progressed, he got better and better and he peaked at the right time," said Wrenn, Jr. who drove Eastie Boy for trainer Ron Burke. "The last couple months, he's been in top form, and he showed it tonight. He was awesome tonight."

Phil Collura, who shares ownership in the homebred Eastie Boy with Burke Racing Stable and Weaver Bruscemi said, "His last three starts, he got really good. I thought in the Breeders Crown if he got out a little earlier, he would have won, but he was smoking late. He's just been getting better and better all the time.

"It's always fun when they're homebreds — Louprint and now this one. It's been a great run."

Eastie Boy, now a six-time winner who has earned $788,932 from 13 starts, paid $3.20 to win.

Crown champ Diabolic Hill dominates in Matron

by Bally's Dover

Fresh off his lifetime-best 1:50.4 performance in the Breeders Crown 3-year-old colt and gelding trot, Diabolic Hill scored the third graded stakes triumph of his career in the $124,200 Grade 2 Matron Stakes for sophomore male trotters on Thursday (Nov. 12) at Bally's Dover, keeping a challenge from Al 1¾ lengths at bay.

With Todd McCarthy at the lines, Diabolic Hill yielded to Minoan (driven by Andy McCarthy) for a pocket ride through a :27 first quarter. After Al (Dexter Dunn) briefly pushed to the lead, Diabolic Hill emerged from third to take charge with a lap to go, and the Muscle Hill—Crysti Dream colt faced nary a challenge through middle splits of :55.1 and 1:23.2 before edging clear of Al in the final yards of a 1:51.2 mile. Minoan finished third, another 2½ lengths behind.

Trainer Annie Stoebe co-owns Diabolic Hill, who paid $2.10 to win as the 1-20 favorite, with Mario Mazza and AC Crawford Racing Stable. Now a nine-time winner, Diabolic Hill has banked $1,143,267 in his career.

Two other millionaires claimed victory in their respective Matron divisions: Loua Dipa, who led a Ron Burke-trained exacta in the $103,000 Matron for pacing fillies; and Pepsi North America Cup champ Odds On Mr Mamba, who slithered back into the spotlight in the $124,800 Hap Hansen Matron, for male pacers.

Loua Dipa, who earlier this year won the Grade 1 Fan Hanover and Jugette, was one of three fillies to contest a :25.4 first quarter before driver Ronnie Wrenn, Jr. backed her off to stalk from third with a lap to go and Be Perfect BG (Louis-Philippe Roy) surged to the fore at the end of a scorching :53 half mile. Upon reaching the backstretch, Loua Dipa was flushed first-over by stablemate She's A Bulldog (Gingras), and the Sweet Lou—Looksgoodinaromper filly turned on the jets to overpower Be Perfect BG before the 1:20.3 three-quarters.

Turning for home, She's A Bulldog continued off cover to take aim at the lead, but Loua Dipa proved resolute and prevailed by a half-length in 1:49.2. Say Goodnight (Tim Tetrick) followed a live tow into third, over Darlin's Angel (Lauren Tritton) who escaped a failing pocket to save fourth.

Loua Dipa, who competes as a homebred for Burke Racing Stable and Weaver Bruscemi, paid $3.40 to win as the 3-5 favorite. The Matron win was the 17th of her career, and she has now bankrolled $1,404,118.

In the Hansen, Odds On Mr Mamba and Dunn aborted a leave attempt in favor of a pocket journey behind 1-2 favorite Al Papi (Gingras), who cut fractions of :26.3 and :55 before bracing for a first-over push from Gentleman's Club (Andy McCarthy) through a :26.3 third split and around the far turn. With Al Papi working to fend off pressure, Odds On Mr Mamba was poised to strike up the open stretch, and the Odds On Equuleus—Honky Tonk Woman gelding struck the front with 50 yards to go in the 1:49.3 mile before extending his winning margin over Al Papi to three-quarters-of-a-length. Gentleman's Club finished third.

Melanie Wrenn trains 13-time winner Odds On Mr Mamba, who has earned $1,063,636, for Odds On Racing. Sent off as the 4-1 third choice, Odds On Mr Mamba paid $10.80 to win.

Rounding out the quartet of Matron winners was TLH Racing's Custom, who rolled to a 1:51.4 win in the $173,250 sophomore filly trot.

With Jason Bartlett at the controls for trainer Petter Engblom, the Walner—Goldy Mary FR filly took charge from Storybook Love (Todd Ratchford) just past a :27.2 quarter, rated middle splits of :56 and 1:24.2, and widened her advantage steadily through a :27.2 closing quarter to defeat Storybook Love by five lengths. Who Dares Wins (Åke Svanstedt) finished third.

Custom, an eight-time winner, has earned $433,473 in her career. She paid $3 to win as the 1-2 favorite.

AENEAS DOUBLES UP IN DSBF PACING PRELIMS

David Hamm and Frank Chick's Aeneas ($4.60) became the only 2-year-old male pacer to sweep his Delaware Standardbred Breeders' Fund (DSBF) preliminary legs with a career-best 1:54.2 win over He's Soaring in the second of three $20,000 divisions.

Montrell Teague took advantage of a pocket ride with Aeneas behind fellow first-round winner He's Soaring before diving to the open stretch and rallying to post his second career victory by a widening 1¼ lengths. Jamie Sullivan trains the Highalator—Sequoia Seelster gelding, whom Dr. William Solomon bred.

Lifetime bests also fell in the other two DSBF divisions, with the winners also posting major upsets:

• Blue Jay's Watchin ($73.20) emerged from the pocket 100 yards from home and lifted to just edge 1-20 favorite Hawaiian Warfare in 1:53.4. Tony Morgan drove the He's Watching—NF Salsa gelding to his fourth career win for trainer Daniel Gassien, owner Richard Havens, and breeder Steve Wetzel.

• DM's Delight ($21.60) made every pole a winning one and parried a late lunge from the first-over Never Fold by a neck for a 1:57.4 score. Brandon Givens drove the Highalator—Cashmere's Delight gelding to his second career win for trainer Les Givens and owner/breeder Donna Messick.

The top eight point earners from both preliminary rounds will convene for the $110,000 series final next Thursday (Nov. 19). They are: Aeneas, Hawaiian Warfare, He's Soaring, Blue Jay's Watchin, DM's Delight, Bootcamp Baby, See Jack Run, and Earl's Watching.

'MUSKATEER' INVADES, PREVAILS IN BLUE HEN

Calcutta Stable's Muskateer Hanover ($4.60) made his first start in Delaware since March a winning one, rallying up the open stretch to nab 3-5 pacesetter Wehadababyetzaboy for a 1:51.1 score in the $27,500 Blue Hen open handicap pace.

Tetrick protected the pocket with Muskateer Hanover as Wehadababyetzaboy (Givens) pushed forward from post 8 to control splits of :26.3, :54.3 and 1:22 and worked to fend off a first-over challenge from Steven's Saloon (Jason Thompson) through the far turn. Muskateer Hanover tracked through the far turn before diving inside in mid-stretch to reel in Wehadababyetzaboy by a neck. Back Pocket Miki (Michael Cole) lifted off cover to narrowly collar Steven's Saloon for third.

Jason Johnson trains Muskateer Hanover, a 6-year-old Sweet Lou—Marinade Hanover who recorded the 32nd win of his career.

Racing returns to Bally's Dover on Monday (Nov. 16) with a 15-race card due to begin at 4:30 p.m. (EST).

Breeders Crown champion Spencer Hanover to stand in Indiana for 2027

Pond-A-Acres and Hunterton Farm is excited to announce that Spencer Hanover (2, 1:52.3; 3, 1:51.3f-'26; BT 1:51-'26), a millionaire son of Chapter Seven with career earnings of $1,062,544, will stand in Indiana for the 2027 breeding season.

Fresh off an outstanding racing career, Spencer Hanover established himself among the sport's elite performers. As a 2-year-old, he captured both the Breeders Crown elimination and final, posting a mark of 1:52.3 while earning nearly $650,000 during his freshman campaign. He returned at 3 to add the prestigious Oak Grove Trotting Derby to his resume, ultimately becoming one of only a select group of Chapter Seven millionaire sons.

Spencer Hanover boasts an exceptional maternal pedigree, being out of a half-sister to the legendary Manchego (4, 1:49; earnings exceeding $3.1 million), as well as millionaire In Secret (1:52).

"His racing credentials, success at both 2 and 3, the caliber of competition he faced, and his outstanding maternal family make him an ideal fit for the Indiana breeding program," said Tim Schmucker of Pond-A-Acres. "The combination of Chapter Seven and Yankee Glide bloodlines opens the door to many outstanding mares, Including mares by the great Muscle Hill. Combined with his status as a former $450,000 yearling purchase, we believe he possesses all the credentials necessary to become an important stallion for Indiana breeders."

Spencer Hanover will stand for an introductory fee of $4,000. A limited number of shares will be available for $10,000, entitling shareholders to one breeding per year with rollover privileges to secure a live foal from mares under common ownership. If two live foals are secured, the second breeding will be offered at 75 per cent of the standard fee.

"Our goal is to make this exceptional young trotter both enticing and affordable for Indiana breeders and beyond," Tim Schmucker said.

Industry leaders have also expressed confidence in Spencer Hanover's future as a sire.

I have invested in this horse for several reasons;

"He was an outstanding yearling who sold for $450,000 and went on to become an outstanding racehorse, earning nearly $650,000 at 2 winning the Breeders Crown final. He capped his racing career with victory in the inaugural $500,000 Oak Grove trot.

"Standing in Indiana, he will have every opportunity to develop into a leading stallion not only within the state but throughout the country."

— Steve Stewart / Hunterton Farm

"Spencer Hanover provided both myself and my partner, Arthur Pronti, with tremendous excitement throughout his racing career. As a 2-year-old, he won the Big Apple Trot and the Breeders Crown against the very best colts of his generation. We brought him back early at 3 to compete in the Grade 1 Oak Grove Derby, where he once again defeated top-level competition.

"Given his temperament, intelligence, and athletic ability, we believe he has all the qualities necessary to become an outstanding sire."

— Jeff Snyder

Greg Blanchard returns to Woodbine as new track announcer for Woodbine Mohawk Park

Woodbine Entertainment today announced that Greg Blanchard will rejoin the company as the full-time track announcer for standardbred racing at Woodbine Mohawk Park, effective Dec. 15, 2026.

One of the most recognizable and respected voices in harness racing, Blanchard returns to Woodbine to take the headset in the announcer's booth and serve as a host for the nightly simulcast at Woodbine Mohawk Park.

Blanchard worked in Woodbine's broadcast and communications departments from 2000 to 2010. During that time, he hosted Race Night on The Score, Bet Night Live, and national television coverage of many of Woodbine's marquee races. He has also hosted broadcast coverage for multiple editions of the Hambletonian, Breeders Crown, and has co-hosted the O'Brien Awards.

"As I begin this new chapter, I am very excited to rejoin the team at Woodbine Entertainment," said Blanchard. "I look forward to working with the great team at Woodbine and helping to bring some of the best harness racing in the world to a global audience."

Blanchard brings more than three decades of experience in horse racing, including 17 years at Western Fair District. He held roles in race calling, racing management, and marketing, most recently serving as director of equine programming.

"I would like to sincerely thank the leadership at Western Fair Association for the opportunities and support they have provided me," said Blanchard. "I am incredibly proud of what we have accomplished together and the positive impact our team has had on the Ontario standardbred industry. I know they will continue to play an important role in the future growth and success of harness racing in Ontario."

Fans will hear Blanchard call races on several occasions over the next few weeks. His first card as full-time track announcer will be Friday (Dec. 18).

Live racing at Woodbine Mohawk Park continues every Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, with a first post of 6:30 p.m.

For the latest news and information, visit Woodbine.com/Mohawk or follow @WoodbineSB and @WoodbineComms on social media.

Thoughts on Towers' honest assessment of betting

Mr. Towers, kudos to you for the honest assessment of betting on harness horses.

My personal experience included owning and training a very fast and good mare. We sometimes utilized the services of a driver who was rumored to bet on some of the horses he drove. Sure enough, when my mare went off at odds-on favorite, she just about always won. The very next race, she might go off at very long odds, and you couldn't find her with a search warrant from start to finish. She would be held slightly off the gate and would proceed to the rear without delay. I could watch and tell from before the gate even opened that it was over for us.

My conclusion is that harness racehorses race at a "moderate" gait. Unlike thoroughbreds who are more or less "hell for leather" out of the gate, the harness drivers exercise a great deal more control over the placement of their horses. This corrupts the game and, in my opinion, is a primary reason the game is disintegrating in front of our eyes.
