My New Year's Resolutions for 2022

The variant strain of 2020.

by David Mattia

As we approach 2022, or what I now call, "the variant strain of 2020," I have decided to write up a list of New Year's Resolutions; knowing full well that I won't keep any of them.

As a small child, I quickly figured out that the whole resolution thing was a "grown up's lie" anyway. You know, like dead pets who "went to live on a farm" or relatives who "went to heaven."

The only New Year's Resolution I could easily keep is one where I vow to never again eat bleu cheese. I double up and give it up for Lent too. I can't believe anyone eats it.

Anyway, about those resolutions:

It's always best to start at the beginning. I want to get this one out of the way quickly because it's a resolution horse folks subconsciously make every day of their lives.

1. I will stop having nightmares about my horses being hungry, thirsty, abandoned, cold or late for the paddock.

Sadly, this resolution is not doable. It's a lifelong curse that haunts all horse folks and it creeps into your sleep in several merciless shapes, styles and sizes.

Have you dreamt that your horse got loose on the New Jersey Turnpike or hopped off the George Washington Bridge on the way to Yonkers? I have. In fact, I have had that dream at least 100 times.

The list of nightmarish horse calamities is endless.

I have a close friend in racing who tells me that he has fretful dreams about his horses every night of his life. Can you imagine? I'm sure most of you can. I'm up to about three nightmares per month myself.

Promising to not have nightmares about your horses being in peril is not possible. It will never work. Forget it. Take a deep breath, grab a pitchfork, and get on with the life you relinquished when you dropped out of real life and opted instead to mingle with horses.

Take a Christmas trip to Paris and forget that your horses are left home alone like my good friend Macaulay Culkin

2. I will stop bragging about being friends with Macaulay Culkin.

Did you notice how I just referenced Macaulay Culkin in the previous resolution? I must stop doing that. Yes, I know him, and we like each other, but I haven't heard from him since we briefly collaborated on something last year. Still, I never miss an opportunity to refer to "Mack" as my friend.

There is, however, another iconic former child star who is, quite by accident, a very dear friend of mine. I used to brag about that friendship too, but now that we've become actual friends, I don't mention her.

3. I will no longer watch a race simply because I want to root AGAINST someone.

When it comes to the racing game, number three on my list really bugs ME about ME. It makes me feel common. I'm almost ashamed to write it, but it's demented fun at the same time. Hard to believe, I know, but yes, there are some people in racing I simply do not like.

Do you ever do that? Root against people you dislike? I sometimes do, and while it's rare, it's creepy. It makes me think I have demons. I mean, everyone has demons, but mine must be really bored.

Given the nature of my work, I try to watch as many races as possible, but apart from making a special effort to watch the big-name events, or races that involve my close personal friends, I often give a special side-eye viewing at the one or two people I dislike on any given racing card. Mind you, I have nothing against the horses. I just hope they get stuck behind dead cover or that they belonged to someone else.

Kindly note that I don't do this with the played-out idea that some trainers win too much, or they have too many horses. Usually, I like the big shots who often win. My issue is a strictly personal one and I do it simply because I personally dislike a few certain people. After a lifetime in racing, it's amazing that my enemies list is as small as it is.

To the punters out there, the upside is that the horses I root against, regardless of odds, almost always win. Frankly, I deserve to have innocent horses spite me like that. It's called karma, and it's pronounced, ha-ha-ha-ha.

I asked a few industry friends about this bad habit of mine, and they agreed that they too will sometimes watch a race just to see someone lose. I suppose it's normal within the walls of competitive sports, but I wish I didn't do it. Life itself is already a competitive sport, so why mess around with ill will?

Okay, now that I got that horrible admission off my chest, there's a few more.

4. I will stop writing overly long stories.

My greatest skill as a writer is my lack of brevity. In my opinion, I am the world's greatest writer of long stories. The stories themselves are not great by any means, but their length is spectacular. Sometimes, after the story has been published, I will go to the website and read it. Hours later, when I'm done reading, I realize that I could have told the same story in a tweet. Like I wrote in a recent piece, I often go a mile too long because I'm afraid of going an inch too short. I worry that I might leave something out. Basically, my intentions are good. Oh lord, please don't let me be misunderstood.

5. I'm going to stop using harness racing personalities as cover stories to avoid family obligations.

A few months ago, I sent a completely fake text to my best friend in harness racing. I wrote: "Just for the record, in case anyone asks, I am currently with you in Florida because you said you needed a hand shipping a horse up from Pompano. We will not be back until next week. Be vague about it, okay?" He texted back, "Roger that."

Mind you, I haven't been to Pompano since I was 16.

Do you see what I did there? He's a great friend, right?

And then there's Tony Alagna. I mean, I barely know him, but the poor guy has no idea how much I do for him. Tony keeps me away from so many family obligations and he doesn't even know about it.

"Sorry, mom, I can't go to your godson's wedding. I have to help Tony Alagna at the Meadowlands that night."

"Sorry, mom, I can't go to the funeral on Friday. I'm qualifying a few horses for Tony Alagna."

The list of lies is endless, and apart from writing about him a few times, I've never done anything for or with Tony, but he always comes through and makes my life so much easier. And to be honest, my family pretty much deserves my deception because they loathe harness racing, and they detest the fact that I have made a career out of it. Because harness racing is angrily dismissed in my family, I can easily invent professional racing obligations that involve famous people they don't know.

But why did I choose Tony Alagna as my alibi?

I chose Tony because people in my family, despite their disinterest in harness racing, have heard of him. They don't know him, and they wouldn't dare call him, but they know he exists. He's famous.

Before Tony, I used to use Ron Gurfein because he too was a name my mom knew.

Dear Ronnie, I apologize from the bottom of my heart because I truly miss you and all the things, real and imaginary, that we did together, but someone big had to take your place in my world of deceit. I guess I could have used Ron Burke, but Tony was the first name that came to mind while I was lying about something.

Thanks for 2021, Tony, and I look forward to helping you with more fake stuff throughout the New Year.

6. I will stop telling stories about unimportant horses I trained.

My harness racing peeps, namely one well-known trainer, hate when I mention the same ho-hum horses repeatedly and leave out any mention of the topnotch horses I've had.

Truthfully, and in the interest of the oddities in my life, I have a legitimate excuse for doing this, but I must admit that it sounds stupid to keep talking or writing about the untalented horses I've trained rather than the good ones.

For example, I can easily write about Port Ravenite when I should be mentioning an awesome mare named Our Harbortown who was owned by the same person.

I only had Our Harbortown for a short while, still I've come to realize that she was one of the best horses I ever trained, but poor little Port Ravenite, is a much more fascinating story to tell other horsemen.

A son of the great stallion (NOT) Sundance Skipper, he was a loveably scrawny knee-knocker who seemingly had zero speed yet managed to win one race by open lengths when the tire of the race bike next to him exploded like a stick of dynamite and scared the s---t out of him. Do you see how that's a great story? It almost sounds fake.

The only interesting story about Our Harbortown, apart from her beauty and anti-gravity speed, happened one night at the Meadowlands after she'd won her race. As I struggled to uncheck her in the winner's circle, I asked her driver, Mike Lachance, "How was she?" He looked at me like I was an idiot, and replied, "Well... she won."

From Port Ravenite, however, I learned that most horses are probably much faster than they let us know. Yes, there are a lot of interesting stories attached to Port Ravenite, and I like to write about them. They're conversationally funny and perhaps even inspiring. Now that I think of it, I don't think I'll stop talking about him. I might have to shelve this resolution.

Did you know that Port Ravenite, thanks to the Standardbred Retirement Foundation, went on to live a long and happy life? Yeah, he did.

So, do you see why I talk about the sub-mediocrities I've trained?

Well, I guess I'll never have a Captaintreacherous or a Somebeachsomewhere, so I opt to tell stories about the unknown horses who enriched my brain and enlivened my heart. Sure, I could easily talk about Watchit Skipper all day long, but what's so interesting about him? He had no personality whatsoever. He was just a guy who went to work every week and kicked ass like a million other horses. I respected him and liked him and appreciated him, but where's the story? He's just stats on paper.

It's not out of the question that one day I will have a superstar, but I'm a writer. Even if my yet-to-be fantasy horse wins in 1:44, he or she better have an interesting personality. Stats aren't all that fascinating when you're sitting around a campfire telling a story.

Okay, so these are my New Year's Resolutions that I have no intention of keeping.

The way the world is now, the only sensible resolution anyone can make is to just keep on living.

I know what you folks out there are thinking. "Dave just violated his New Year's Resolution about not telling long stories."

But wait, there's more. Nah, I'm just kidding.

I hope that all my harness racing peeps out there had a Happy Holiday season, and their New Year will be the best one ever.

Oh, and get your shingles vaccine. You DO NOT want to hear my story about that.

Happy New Year,

Dave.

The 10 most read HRU stories of 2021

For the sixth straight year, HRU has continued to grow its subscriber base and has shown growth in nearly every facet of its business thanks to our advertisers, readers and contributors.

Happy New Year! All of us at Harness Racing Update (HRU) send our deepest gratitude to our advertisers, readers and contributors for the support in 2021, particularly given the challenges posed by the second year of the pandemic.

This week marks six years since the new management took over HRU in January of 2016. Since that time, we have gained a little over 2,500 HRU subscribers, an increase of 42 per cent. In 2021, specifically, we increased our number of subscribers by 4.6 per cent.

We are extremely proud and thankful to continue to show year-over-year growth.

Even more important, HRU's average click and open rates continue to greatly exceed industry standards.

In 2021, our average open rate exceeded 50 per cent. According to Constant Contact, our open rate is 29 per cent higher than the industry average and our click-to-open rate is 26 per cent higher than the industry average.

HRU continued to post steady growth in other areas, as well. In 2018, we launched our popular broadcast division (available here) with 2-year-olds in Training and sales coverage. In 2021, our YouTube subscribers topped 1,600, up more than 400 from the end of 2020.

Also, the number of people that like our Facebook page (available here) has organically grown (not paid) by over 750 (up more than 7 per cent) just in 2021 alone.

Finally, our number of Twitter followers increased by 555 in 2021.

All that means HRU is showing growth in virtually every category.

Cokstile upsets in third B-race in Paris

by Thomas Hedlund

The $135,000 Prix de Bourgogne over 1.3 miles was held at Vincennes racetrack on Sunday (Jan. 2) afternoon and as in all B-races, three spots in the Prix d'Amérique were at stake.

The bettors put their trust in two horses when the field of 18 trotters gathered behind the car at Vincennes. Elitloppet winner and runner up, Don Fanucci Zet and Vivid Wise As, respectively, were first and second choice and both horses opened well behind the gate. Vivid Wise As came to the lead for driver Eric Raffin since early leader Cokstile (Quite Easy), paired with Gabriele Gelormoni, opted the pocket position behind Alessandro Gocciadoro's Vivid Wise As.

Don Fanucci Zet tried three wide in the last turn as he left position in second over, but the Swedish 5-year-old couldn't fight for a top placing in his first attempt in Paris. Instead it was the three horses trotting in front on the inside that secured their Prix d'Amérique-spots, respectively.

Gerard Forni

Cokstile (Gabriele Gelormini) won the $135,000 Prix de Bourgogne on Sunday (Jan. 2) at Vincennes to qualify for the Prix d'Amérique final.

Cokstile left his position behind Vivid Wise As when the field reached the home stretch and pretty easily, the leader was disarmed by the top Norwegian-bred trotter.

Cokstile, now trained by Erik Bondo in Italy, sprinted to a safe win in a mile rate of 1:54 while runner up Vivid Wise As came home in 1:54.2. (Replay here)

Eleven-year-old Billie de Montfort continues to surprise in big races and Sébastien Guarato's mare claimed the bronze medal after a third inside trip.

One B-race remains. On Jan. 16, the $135,000 Prix de Belgique is scheduled at Vincennes and that will be the last chance for horses to qualify for Prix d'Amérique.

Ladies In Red (David Moran) winning her Vicbred Final on Friday (Dec. 31) at Tabcorp Park.

Ladies In Red wins Vicbred final to cap remarkable first two years

by Adam Hamilton

On a night of stars and remarkable performances, it was fitting champion filly Ladies In Red again stole the show.

On the last night of 2021, Ladies In Red iced the most remarkable first two years of racing and stirred the debate as to whether she's as good a 3-year-old filly as we've ever seen Down Under.

I'll leave that debate to others, but she certainly ticks every box you need to be a champion... and more.

Just as she's done in all the big ones this season, Ladies In Red overcame a bad draw and tough run to win her Vicbred final on Friday (Dec. 31) Tabcorp Park, while also smashing the clock.

This time she made an early move from a back row draw to sit parked and driver David Moran crushed the leader, stablemate and main danger Joanna with a :56.2 split from the 1200-400m. She then held-off another star stablemate, Rogue Wave, to win by 1.5m with a 26.8sec closing split and 1:54.8 mile rate for 2,240m.

Ladies In Red has that strong U.S. connection being by Mach Three out of former U.S. race mare Kabbalah Karen B.

Owner/breeders Bill and Anne Anderson, along with trainers Emma Stewart and Clayton Tonkin, gave her a long spell and sacrificed the first half of this season with a view to dominating the back half.

That she did, winning the big three: Victoria Oaks, Breeders Crown and Vicbred finals. She's won 17 of her 20 starts.

Her driver, David Moran, captured the moment (and season) superbly. "It's a privilege to drive her. I don't think you quite understand it or respect it enough early in horses' careers. It's when they start to get on and do more and more amazing things you realise you've been a part of a very special time in a very special horse's career," he told TrotsVision on the night.

"She never seems to disappoint in the finals. She's just an amazing horse, the things she does and how she does it. She's one of a kind, that's for sure."

Bill Anderson added a lovely insight into how popular the filly is.

"People ask us all the time, can I have a photo taken with her – people really want to be included. We need a profile horse in this industry and I think, hopefully, she's the one to do it," he said. "When you breed them, and she was around the farm for probably 13 or 14 months – personality plus – it's a great reward."

We won't have to wait long to see if Ladies In Red's juvenile dominance can translate into open-class success.

"We're freshening her up now to have a go at either the Ladyship Mile or Chariots Of Fire in Sydney next month," Bill Anderson said.

Success in either race would get her a ticket into the big dance, Australia's premier speed test, the $A1 million Miracle Mile at Menangle on March 5.

The Andersons may have two Miracle Mile runners with their lightly raced but electrifyingly brilliant 4-year-old Honolua Bay also aiming for the sprint.

The son of Somebeachsomewhere made it five wins from as many starts back from a breathing operation (and 14 from 21 lifetime) when he didn't plenty of work and kept finding to win his Vicbred final by 2.5m in a 1:53.7 mile rate for 2,240m.

"We've had the Miracle Mile in mind for a while if he kept stepping-up," Bill Anderson said. "He'll have a freshen-up now and we'll head in that direction."

Somebeachsomewhere also sired another of the star performers of the night in blossoming colt Bondi Lockdown, who overcame early trouble to sit parked and crush his rivals in a blistering 1:53.4 mile rate for 2,240m.

He's trained and driven by Aaron Dunn, who only has 10 in work and qualified five of them for Vicbred finals.

"I've got some nice horses and had a really good one in Dee Dees Dream in the past. He won my first Group 1, but I've thought from day one this guy could be better... and he is," Dunn said.

"He's got his quirks and he's taken some time to work through them. They'll always be there, but he copes better with them now. I thought he'd gone to a new level going into the final and that's how he raced."

Bondi Lockdown is yet another Vicbred star being set for a New South Wales (NSW) raid. His target being next month's Group 1 Chariots Of Fire, Australasia's premiers 4YO feature.

You can also add Vicbred 2YO Fillies' winner Amore Vita, a daughter of Art Major, to the team of NSW raiders.

She's trained by Nathan Purdon, son of New Zealand Hall of Famer Mark Purdon, and he's got his sights set on the NSW Oaks.

It capped a mighty first 12 months for Purdon since he shocked many by leaving NZ to make Victoria (Australia) home.

"It's certainly exceeded expectations, but I did set the bar high. When you leave friends and family and go to another country, you need to be really successful to make it worthwhile," he said.

Purdon's headline act, champion mare Amazing Dream, could also be part of the NSW carnival next month, despite her U.S. owners longing for her to head to North America to continue her racing career.

"She'll race next in the Ballarat Cup (Jan. 22) and then Hunter Cup (Feb. 5). The Ladyship and Miracle Mile are getting closer and she's not locked into a flight (to the U.S.) yet, so I'm keeping everything crossed she stays. She'd be so well suited up there," Purdon said.

Some of the other highlights of Vicbred finals night included:

- Champion driver Kerryn Manning snaring two finals on 2YO trotting Plymouth Chubb (who dug deep to make it 14 wins on end) and visiting NSW mare Fancy in the 4YO trotting mares' final

- Former Swedish stable hand Sofia Arvidsson snaring Group 1 glory with one of the best drives of the night aboard Heza Son Of Agun in the 2YO colts and geldings pacing final. It gave her partner, Matty Craven, a training double after he won the 4YO trotting mares' final with Queen Of Crime

- Dominant training force Emma Stewart and Clayton Tonkin winning three finals with Ladies In Red, Honolulu Bay and Maajida. The latter doing the remarkable and completing a clean sweep of the 2-, 3- and 4-year-old finals courtesy of a stunning Greg Sugars drive.

Brielle Roman – horse rescuer and rehabilitator

by Victoria Howard

They say we all are assigned a guardian angel to watch over and protect us. Well, I believe that animals have one, too.

These angels are the adoption agencies that save retired horses or horses who can no longer race, such as: the Standardbred Horse Adoption, American Adoption Program, Standardbred Retirement Foundation, Purple Haze Standardbred Foundation, Ontario Standardbred Adoption Society, Sunshine Horses, New Vocations, and Trot-Trot Standardbreds, to name a few.

These establishments offer retiring racehorses a new purpose when their racing days come to an end. The people who work there are dedicated to retrain and eventually adopt out these ex-athletes.

The people are committed to rescue, rehabilitate, retrain and re-home these wonderful animals, while enriching the lives of people who take them in.

Unfortunately, due to an injury or a horse unable to compete, many of these animals end up in a kill pen, shortening their life when there is so much more they can do.

Kristi Petersen

Horse rescuer extraordinaire Brielle Roman.

This issue's superstar is a young woman name Brielle Roman, who dedicates her life to rescuing and adopting out our loyal four-legged friends.

Born in New Jersey, Roman did not come from a horsey family, but that didn't cease the desire to be around and work with horses.

"I have loved horses from birth. I'm not sure exactly where that came from, but as a baby my parents could never tell if I was crying or neighing.

"After years begging my parents, I started taking riding lessons with my sisters at a backyard stable. Although my siblings lost interest fairly quickly, I persevered.

"I worked at a young age for the opportunity to ride and learn whatever I could, as my parents' support was minimal.

"I grew up riding hunters/jumpers and many off track thoroughbreds.

"I always had a love for horse racing and sometimes I would go to Freehold Raceway, which wasn't far from my home. But other than that, I had zero experience with standardbred horses.

"That was, until 2016 when I acquired a standardbred foal to keep her from going to the auction. I named her Witch Hazel (Hazel) and she turned into an amazing show horse and partner.

"This would be the start of my love for standardbreds and helping to save as many as I could.

"Initially, I was skeptical, for I was told standardbreds were 'no good jug heads' that could not canter, but Hazel sure proved them all wrong.

"Her incredible intelligence, sturdiness, and attitude, won me over and I became very interested in this 'underdog' breed that many people had talked down on.

"I've always loved the underdogs, so this led me to work at a standardbred rescue where I saddle broke and adopted out hundreds of standardbreds.

"I continued to be amazed at the horse's willingness to learn and please, and amazingly enough to forgive.

"To better understand how to properly retrain these horses I needed to learn more about the breed, so I took a job as a groom and discovered a never-ending love for harness racing as well.

"I worked for trainer Gary Candell at the Takter farm where I groomed horses such as SUNFIRE BLUE CHIP and GREAT VINTAGE. One of the horses I cared for was a trotter named STORMING MIST, who I later tracked down and bought back from the Amish. Today, STORMING MIST is a very successful show horse.

"I also worked for Chris Ryder.

"After working at the track I connected to a lot of people involved with racing and began getting flooded with requests to take horses off the track and adopt them out.

"Initially, I was apprehensive to make the leap taking horses in full time (for financial reasons), but my love and desire to help the horses overcame my fear.

"The word got out and it's been a steady stream ever since. I spent so much time promoting the horses to a second career and keep them from ending up in a kill pen, I figured it was time to step up to the plate and devote every minute to it.

"Some of the horses I have placed are ROCKIN ROCKO, PITTSTOP KIP, COLD CERTIFIED, TAYLORLANE CRUISER, POP ART K, KATHY'S CHAMP, MUSCLES OVER HALL and SCOOTER SHOP."

Roman explained the process in training an ex-racehorse for a second career and how these lucky equines come to her.

"Usually I'm contacted by a trainer or owner asking if I can take on the horse and find it a good home, and rehab if needed. Occasionally, I do get some from the kill pen, like POP ART K who I rescued, for he was LUCKY's brother.

"When I get a horse I first gather as much information on them as I can – especially about prior injuries as these can limit what a horse can safely do.

"I evaluate the horse as far as his temperament and movement (if they are smooth or bouncy). I develop him into a career he enjoys and can succeed at, making him an enjoyable, safe, well-rounded horse until the right situation comes up for him.

"Once the new owner is approved, I schedule a visit for them to come visit and see if the two connect.

"I'm all about educating, promoting and retraining of the standardbred horse and the proper use in a second career.

"I have a Facebook group that has now reached 12,000 members where we share tips and tricks on retraining. We have found tons of horses new homes, helped track down someone's ex-horse and have connected people to their horse in question's conditions ---besides making hundreds of new friends with horse lovers.

"Currently I'm enhancing my veterinary knowledge, working as a vet tech at Colts Neck Equine. I'm also working on getting my trainer's license – all I have left is to finish the testing process. I'm super excited about this.

"Presently, I own three horses; my two show horses, Hazel and Stormy, and Lucky (Luck N Roll K) who currently races and helps support the adoptable horses."

Roman is never too busy to help these horses. In fact, she was the one that contacted the USTA and drafted the initial proposal for the new Standardbred Incentive Program (SIP).

"We all need to work together for the benefit of the common denominator and give back to the wonderful standardbred horse who gives so much to us!"

BREAKING STRIDE

Man vs. Machine: The third beer blues

by Trey Nosrac

The bartender wore a clean white apron wrapped around his waist and sported a shiny man-bun. He looked like a Hollywood hopeful scrolling his phone for a call from his agent. A large woman with an explosion of black hair sat in a lonely booth working a newspaper crossword puzzle. My friend David, the smart one, was perched on the stool to my right. We were the only people in the hotel bar as the clock ticked toward midnight.

As I admired the tinsel around the staircase of colorful liquor bottles, the third beer blues began to sneak into my brain. Looking down into my beer glass, I said, "The world is changing so fast it's hard to process. It's not just the pandemic, movies, magazines, horse racing, bowling leagues, baseball, stuff I enjoy all feels prehistoric. Politics, sports, gambling, medicine, everything is a whirlwind where I feel ten steps behind."

He nodded. "Not to mention artificial intelligence, which is a frightening game-changer. The power of technology is transforming our societies, not just in advertising but our neurochemistry. AI knows what buttons to push and how to push them."

I shook my head. "I read an article about an experiment where artificial intelligence wrote fictional stories where readers could not tell if the author was real or a computer. That's creepy."

He gave another nod and then continued to depress me, "Deep analytics and AI have already infected sports. Major league baseball has slashed the venerable scout with people who analyze data, and soon the data analyzers will delegate the analysis to AI. This data will affect the games themselves. It's only going to get worse. Nobody knows exactly where this is all going."

"Horse racing?" I asked.

"Of course." He paused and asked, "Where does most of the money that supports your sport come from?"

"Gambling?"

"What kind of gambling?"

He was getting fired up and answered his question, "The foundation of your sport is pari-mutuel wagering. The first part, pari, means – to bet. The second word, mutuel, means mutual, experiences done by each of two or more parties toward the other, a partnership or an understanding between people."

He took a sip of his Heinekens and kept rolling, "Who do you think will find the best wager? Who will place a wager at the last nano-second? Who will squeeze humanity out of pari-mutuel? Do you want to know who the who is? I will answer for you. Artificial Intelligence."

I mumbled. "I see your point. When machines take over, the notion of pari-mutuel wagering is stupid."

"The scenario of battling a machine IS stupid. Seriously, would you sit down and play a chess match against an unbeatable machine – for money! The bottom line is that AI can predict the outcome of a horse race with an algorithm much more efficiently than a human."

I sighed. "That takes the fun out of betting and runs contrary to everything we think about in horse race handicapping."

"Trey, this technology sounds like science fiction, but it is real, and it is dangerous. Apple, Amazon, Netflix, Disney, all of them are gathering data. Algorithms make many more decisions every day." He swiped his hand and said, "Take this bar. When algorithms take over, there will be a new name, a new décor, targeted advertising, a new menu, smaller staff or possibly no staff, and other changes."

Purple Haze Standardbred Adoption Program 518-669-2715

I asked, "What would the maniacal machines do to standardbred harness racing?"

"Dump the word standardbred. What the hell does standardbred mean to the normal person? Plus, the word harness has a negative connotation."

"What would AI brand us?"

"I don't know, something like...um...The American Trotting Horse Society. Words that are positive and would increase searches."

"Hey, a guy named Eric Cherry suggested we use the term trotter to give us some distance from all the problems thoroughbreds are having."

"Brilliant idea, a simple step that could have positive ramifications."

"I don't think Eric used artificial intelligence to put it on the table. I also noticed that nobody picked up his idea and turned it into action."

"AI would tweak and tweak. It never stops. After changing the name, it would move to things like the naming of racehorses. They would suggest names that had the possibility of doing work. For example, it may be fun and nostalgic to name your trotter Uncle Vic's Memory. However, Acura TLX, or Avenger Eight, holds value for business purposes."

"What else?"

"AI would restructure races and wagers and schedules."

"Scary stuff, man."

"It truly is. AI is one of the main reasons I bailed from the tech world. The company felt like it was spinning out of control. The world felt like it was spinning away, and I was helpless."

I sighed. "People feel the same in our tiny little corner of the sporting world. Things like the names would meet resistance. It would take a study group and five clans having a pow-wow. We don't have a structure with a hammer to insist on changes. Using Artificial Intelligence for change such as setting takeouts, scheduling, or major redesigns in this sport would be like selling Exitor Rocket rides to the planet Zordon."

"Nice names. Did you make them up?"

"Yeah, all by myself."

"You want to get more depressed."

"Why not? Let's end 2021 with a grand finale."

"The time is already here when AI could spit out data for race schedules and write races. The frightening part is when the humans who pose the questions become incapable of understanding the answers."

"Is that good or bad? Should we kill the machines before they kill us?"

He picked at the label on his beer bottle and spoke slowly, "I'm not sure, but keep your hammer handy."

Tim Tetrick wins 10, tying Philly record on closing day

Tim Tetrick provided the fireworks on the final card of the 2021 racing season at Harrah's Philadelphia, as he guided home 10 winners on the 15-race Dec. 31 program to equal the all-time record at the riverside oval first set by George Napolitano Jr. on November 11, 2009. Tetrick, who drove in 14 races, was victorious in races one, two, three, six, nine, 10, 12, 13, 14 and the climatic 15th.

The last race matched up Tetrick driving 11-1 outsider Searching For You, a frequent winner in Iowa but far back upon coming to this class, and 1-5 favorite Vendor Bill, who had a first and two seconds in his last three starts at this level and was driven by – George Napolitano Jr.

Vendor Bill went first-over, with Searching For You in Tetrick-typical second-over position; when the chalk cleared into the final turn, Searching For You went right up to him, and from mid-stretch it was certain that Tetrick was going to write yet another line in local record books that have his name all over them.

He wound up the meet with 269 victories, his seventh dash driving championship at Harrah's Philadelphia; early in the day he had been presented with a congratulatory sign in the winner's circle. He is solidly second behind ironman Aaron Merriman in the 2021 North American standings.

The 2019 Little Brown Jug winner Southwind Ozzi became the sport's newest millionaire with a powerful 1:50 victory in an $11,200 pace. Laying off a contested :26.3 quarter, the son of Somebeachsomewhere rushed to command before a :54.4 half, held sway to the 1:22.3 three-quarters, then just ran away from his field to boost his earnings to $1,000,649 for trainer Bill Mac Kenzie and owners Vincent Ali Jr. and Alma Lafelice. He was one of Timmy T's Ten on the card.

Ron Burke had four winners over the last two cards to bring his yearly local total to 78, enabling him to defend his title as

Township votes to allow Gaitway Farm to be redeveloped

Steve Strunsky of NJ Advance Media reported on Dec. 30 for www.NJ.com (full story here) that the Manalapan Township Committee in New Jersey voted 4-0 on Dec. 29 to "allow warehouses and sports complexes on a 225-acre swath along Route 33 occupied mainly by the pastures, pens, stables and practice tracks at Gaitway Farm, New Jersey's main training facility for the standardbred horses."

Gaitway, which is home to 550 horses, is owned by brothers Kenneth Jr., Gary and Jeffrey Fischer.

Jennifer Beahm, the township's planning consultant, told Strunsky that the plan does not give Manalapan authorization to condemn the property and turn it over to a developer.

"If the owner of Gaitway Farm does not want to sell, they do not have to do so," Beahm said.

It is unclear what the farm owners want to do with the property, though it has been suggested the brothers are interested in putting warehouses on the site.

Wednesday's meeting was attended by more than 30 people, "virtually all of them were opposed to the redevelopment plan," Strunsky wrote. Most in attendance were from the standardbred industry.

winningest trainer and taking his ninth such championship at the Philadelphia oval.

Siblings Jennifer and Joe Bongiorno won the percentage titles for trainers and drivers, respectively. Jennifer won her second local UTR crown in the most dramatic manner possible: trailing Tony Alagna .466 to .464, Jenn needed her last starter of the meet, Tuesday Morning, to win, second place wouldn't do. And win the trotter did, giving Jenn a final margin of .467 to .466!

Joe, who drove Tuesday Morning, beat out the all-star driving colony with a .421 UDR, and in doing so became only the fifth driver in the 16-year history at Harrah's to win a driving title, joining Cat Manzi, Tim Tetrick, George Napolitano Jr., and Yannick Gingras.

Racing will resume at Harrah's Philadelphia on April 4, 2022.

$27K Pick-5 payout highlights Big M 2021 finale

The final night of racing in 2021 at The Meadowlands featured a big 20-cent Pick-5 carryover – and payout – as well as a big night for driver Scott Zeron, who scored four times on the 14-race Friday night (Dec. 31) program.

The action in the Pick-5 was fast and furious as a $38,923.56 carryover led to $231,849.96 in “new money” being poured into the pot for a total pool of $270,773. The excitement gained big-time momentum after driver Johnathan Ahle guided 57-1 shot Galactic Galleon N to victory lane in the second race GSY Final, and when the will pays were posted before the start of the fifth race, there were three possibilities of single-ticket winners walking away with better than $230,000.

The big payoff wasn't to be, but those who cashed did not complain.

Perfectboy Hanover and Zeron took the fifth race at odds of 4-1 to complete the Pick-5, which returned $27,565.46. Other than the 50-1 shot, the odds of the other four winners were 5-1, 5-1, 5-1 and 4-1. There were no winning favorites.

The 20-cent Pick-6 saw a modest $6,131 carryover grow to a total pool of over $39,000, and one shrewd player had the only winning ticket that returned $34,157. The sequence saw a 50-1 bomb joined by horses who were sent off at 2-1, 1-2, 3-2, 7-2 and 5-1.

With the top six drivers at the Fall Meeting taking the night off, Zeron – currently No. 7 – had his way, as in addition to his win in the fifth race, he was on target with 8-1 chance Monty Mono in the sixth race; 2-1 shot Opus Blue Chip in the seventh; and Skyway Kon Man, who went off at 3-2 in the 11th.

$3 MILLION PER: The Meadowlands had a remarkable 2021 from a handle perspective, finishing the 92 race cards with an average wager per card of just over $3 million.

Wagering on the Dec. 31 card totaled $2,973,353, bringing total betting for the calendar year to $276,031,079, good for an average of $3,000,337 per card.

GETTING IT DUNN: After being the leading driver at both the Winter-Spring-Championship and Fall Meetings, Dexter Dunn finished the year atop the Big M standings with 166 victories. Yannick Gingras was second with 116.

Ron Burke finished second to Jeff Cullipher in the W-S-C Meeting but won 30 times in the Fall to pass Cullipher for the year 78 wins to 71.

A LITTLE MORE: The Pick-5 and Pick-6 weren't the only big payouts on the card, as the 20-cent Survivor Pick-7 returned $7,015, despite it taking only five correct selections to do it... 20-year-old Trae Porter recorded his first-ever Big M win when he scored with 7-2 chance Doctor Butch from just off the pace in race 12... The Meadowlands has no live racing on Saturday, Jan. 1 and will return with live action on Friday, Jan. 7 at 6:20 p.m.

Bourbans Best sings a winning swan song at MGM Northfield Park

Fourteen-year-old Bourbans Best scored in his final race Thursday (Dec. 30) at MGM Northfield Park. As the calendar will be turning to 2022 Bourbans Best will be forced into retirement per the rules of the United States Trotting Association because every race horse turns a year older each Jan. 1.

Bourbans Best (Pro Bono Best–Mattachevitz) from post two (after a scratch to his inside) in the evening's $6,000 claiming event. He led his competition at every call through fractions of :27.4, :57.2, 1:26.2 and 1:55.4, beating his competition by 1 ½-lengths. He was heavily favored in the race and paid $2.20 to win.

The classy veteran leaves racing with 472 career starts resulting in 58 wins, 62 seconds and 62 third-place finishes. Bourbans Best has career earnings of $337,864 with a lifetime mark of 1:52, taken at Northfield at age 12.

The gelding's richest win was for a purse of $14,000 in a Late Closing Series final at Northfield in 2019. Bourbans Best is a well-traveled campaigner as his 472 starts have been spread across 12 different racing surfaces.

Ashley Burke of Mount Vernon, OH owns and trains Bourbans Best. Chris Lems drove the racing stalwart in his career finale.

Meadowlands sets 2022 dates, racing to start Jan. 7

Live harness racing at The Meadowlands for 2022 kicks off on Friday night, Jan. 7, with the first of 90 programs on the calendar.

The mile oval will race for 31 consecutive weeks on a Friday-Saturday basis until Hambletonian Day, Saturday, Aug. 6. Post time for every race card is 6:20 p.m. with the exception of the Hambletonian program, when the first race will head to the gate at noon.

There will also be three Thursday evening cards sprinkled in during the Winter-Spring-Championship Meeting with racing on June 30, July 7 and Aug. 4.

After a three-week hiatus, racing will then return for eight nights in September, with live action on the 2nd, 3rd, 9th, 10th, 16th and 17th. There will also be two Thursday night cards, on the 1st and 8th.

The track will then go dark for six weeks before returning in November, when all four weekends will have live racing.

The final nine days of racing are slated to take place during December, with live action every Friday and Saturday (except for the 23rd and 24th) plus one Thursday program, on the 1st.

In total, there are 42 weeks of racing, 36 of which will have two programs, and six that will have three.

MAKE SURE YOU ARE THERE: The Meadowlands always has three dates worth circling on its calendar, and during 2022, those dates are July 16 (Meadowlands Pace), Aug. 6 (Hambletonian) and Nov. 26 (Fall Final Four/TVG Finals Night).

Miami Valley kicks off its ninth season today

Miami Valley Raceway is set to kick off its ninth season of live racing today (Jan. 3), with a new weekly schedule and a new 4:05 matinee post time each day. Programs will be presented five consecutive days each week from Sunday through Thursday, with no racing on Fridays (other than qualifiers) or Saturdays. Only exceptions will be dark days on Super Bowl Sunday and Easter Sunday, as well as an earlier post time on closing day, Saturday, May 7 (Kentucky Derby Day).

The Monday lid-lifter features a $30,000 open trot in the 11th of 14 races. Purses for the day are $176,000, just a hair below the average daily purse disbursement target for the meet. Day Two on Tuesday (Jan. 4) will feature another 14-race card with total purses of $171,500.

All 10 of the top drivers on the southern Ohio harness racing circuit (Miami Valley, Scioto Downs and Dayton Raceway) have relocated their tack for the coming meet, in addition to four of nearby Hoosier Park's top reinsmen. The driving colony at Miami Valley is one of the strongest and most competitive in the country.

Kudos to The Meadows

I was happy to read that The Meadows will buck the awful and annoying practice of drag. I was also happy to read that they will change the Pick 5 to a 50/50 split. That should benefit all the daily players instead of just the parasitic betting syndicates who swoop in only when there is a guaranteed payoff.

I rarely bet The Meadows in the past, but I will now be adding them to my playlist to show my support for these changes. The free programs on their website are also a great idea. The HD signal should be a nice improvement, but I think harness racing needs to go way further and offer many different replay views of a race including an overhead view.

How to attract young people to harness racing

I read with interest the comments in the Dazzlin' Dozen article (full story here). With the new year comes renewed optimism, and hopefully, a desire to make a difference.

My thoughts here only address the recurring theme of attracting young people to harness racing — something the Harness Horse Youth Foundation (HHYF) has been working at for some 40-plus years.

- HHYF has developed outstanding horsemen and women through our summer hands-on programs;
- HHYF has developed valuable industry resources and educational tools like the Guide To Careers In Horse Racing and HARNESS HEROES trading cards;
- HHYF has awarded close to $1 million in scholarship funds;
- HHYF has and continues to partner with organizations with similar goals;
- HHYF has received awards both inside and outside of harness racing for our efforts.

While all of this and more is what our grassroots efforts have accomplished, the HHYF trustees and staff also realize that our endeavors are, sadly, but a drop in the bucket to what can be done.

Are you having a class or club at your farm this spring? Call us for handouts.

Is your racetrack hosting a family day? Contact HHYF for ideas to make it even more educational.

Are you a teacher or club leader in need of harness racing curriculum? We have newly developed Activity Boxes full of games, puzzles and other materials to help explain the industry.

Do you enjoy seeing a tentative teenager bloom into his/her radiance of self-confidence? Volunteer at one of our summer programs.

Do you like to develop new projects? Join one of HHYF's committees to share your ideas.

No time but like what HHYF does? Write a check.

Yes, racing needs youth involvement but that doesn't just happen. It takes time, patience and collective effort. It takes each of us helping in our own way to ensure harness racing's future.

Call or email the HHYF office to see how you too can be a part of HHYF's labor of love. 317.908.0029 or ellen@hhyf.org.
