Cold weather didn't deter strong bidding at January Mixed Sale

Monday's sale in the paddock at the Meadowlands averaged $29,302, off just 3.3 per cent from last year's strong auction. Broodmare Southwind Tesla topped the sale with a bid of $152,000.

by Dave Briggs

Despite a brutally-cold day and 71 fewer horses sold than in 2018, Monday's Tattersalls January Select Mixed Sale in the paddock at the Meadowlands Racetrack in New Jersey was nearly comparable to last year's strong sale.

Exactly 150 horses / stallion shares were sold, grossing $4,395,300 for an average of $29,302 that was off 3.3 per cent from the 2018 auction that topped the $30,000 average for the first time in many years.

"It was a very good horse sale from start to finish, especially the racing stock," said Northwood Bloodstock's Bob Boni, who led all consignors by average at $32,393. "As we all know, there's a shortage of horses. If you want racehorses, you've got to come and buy them and you've got to pay for them. If there's something there that you like, you're going to pay for it."

Owner Adriano Sorella of Ontario agreed that, "it was a good, strong sale." Sorella purchased the highest-priced racehorse sold and the second-highest priced horse to go through the ring when he paid $140,000 for hip 160 Maroma Beach who is expected to be conditioned by five-time Canadian Trainer of the Year Richard Moreau.

"I said to Richard ahead of time, 'The way they are selling right now, we're probably going to have to go to $120,000, maybe even more,' so when it got to $120,000 I figured I'd have to go to $150,000. I knew what was coming," Sorella said, referring to the 5-year-old gelded son of Somebeachsomewhere—Arts Diva, a winner of more than $150,000 lifetime who sports a mark of 1:50 taken last year at four.

"There's only so many good ones in the sale, right? Racehorses are hard to find right now, so you've got to spend the money. There's bad ones going through the sale, selling for $50,000 or $60,000... I said, 'You've got to spend $70,000 or $80,000 more.' It sounds crazy, but you have to do it if you want racehorses. We buy a lot of babies and those are easy to buy, but every year you've got to support your stable and you're going to need those type of horses."

Five-year-old trotting mare Southwind Tesla (Chapter Seven—Southwind Sauna, $204,957) topped the sale with a bid of $152,000 by agent Mario Zuanetti of Atlantic Trot Inc. of Pompano Beach, FL on behalf of Hickory Lane Farm of Ohio.

"The plan is that she's going to be bred to Tactical Landing," Zuanetti said. "I like her; excellent pedigree. She's toeing out on the right front, but hopefully she will now produce top horses."

That the sale-topper is heading to Ohio is an indication the Midwest is becoming more prominent, said sale manager David Reid.

"The industry has to take notice that the Midwest is a player in the game," Reid said. "I've been saying that for a long time when talking about jurisdictions. In Indiana, going back to Breeders Crown night there two years ago when it was held in Indiana, they had three Indiana-sired horses win the races. That's just a sign of this program getting better."

Atlantic Trot Inc. was the sale's second leading buyer with $209,000, total, spent on three horses. Trainer Rene Allard topped all buyers with $253,000 spent, in all, on five horses. Trainer Richard Banca spent $202,000, total, on three horses to rank third.

Hanover Shoe Farms' Dr. Bridgette Jablonsky, who was recently promoted to executive vice president and syndicate manager, said she tried to make a play for Southwind Tesla, but the bidding got too hot. Still, Jablonsky said she was happy with the three mares purchased for the farm.

The highest-priced racehorse sold was Maroma Beach. He fetched $140,000 from Adriano Sorella.

Hanover purchased:

- Hip 13 My First Lady (Muscle Hill—Prime Mistress), in foal to Donato Hanover, for $26,000. “We have the three-quarter sister, a mare called Queen Of Grace and she’s not only the dam of a Hambletonian Oaks winner, but we sold a beautiful Father Patrick yearling out of her this year for $300,000. So our plan is to foal (My First Lady) out and breed her back to Cantab Hall and get a three-quarter brother or sister in blood to a Hambo Oaks winner,” Jablonsky said.

- Hip 72 Caviart Jenny (Cantab Hall—Perfect Patty) for $60,000. “I thought it was a very good price,” Jablonsky said. “Cantab Hall is off to a fantastic start as a broodmare sire and this is a very solid family.”

- Hip 74 Hall Of A Dream (Cantab Hall—Lunar Dream Om) for $50,000. “She is a little small. I wish she was a little bigger, but she’s only a 2-year-old. Again, she’s a Cantab. She has good conformation. This, at one time, was THE trotting family to buy... I think it’s maybe tailing off a little bit, but a lot of these great families come back. They’ll skip a generation and then, all of a sudden, they’ll take off (again).”

As for overall sale numbers, a year ago at the Tattersalls January Mixed Sale, 221 head / stallion shares grossed $6,694,000 for an average of $30,290. The 2018 gross of was the highest since the 2010 sale.

“I thought (this year’s) sale was actually very good,” Reid said. “We had 30 outs. You never really want to have outs, but percentage-wise it’s right in line with what we usually have.

Ken Weingartner / USTA

Captain Deo sold for $115,000 to William Hartt of Carmel, ME.

“It was the same story, quality horses sold well. People who focus on the marketplace get the biggest benefit, meaning they plan on their calendar to strategically sell here and race their horses accordingly, freshen them up and have them ready to go. There’s no greater spot to sell a racehorse than here.”

In 2017, 233 horses/stallion shares grossed $6,288,400 for an average of $26,989.

In 2016, 258 horses/stallion shares grossed $5,849,400 for an average of $22,672.

In 2015, 269 horses/stallion shares and breedings grossed $5,971,500, for an average of $23,291.

In 2014, the gross of $5,971,500 for 234 horses/stallion shares produced an average of $25,519.

In 2013, 206 horses and stallion shares grossed $4,549,600, an average of $22,085.

The most notable difference this year was the cold.

“I don’t think the heat was working really well in the paddock,” Reid said. “Unfortunately, the paddock was cold.”

So much so that the bid spotters asked for, and received, an exemption on their usual suit-and-tie attire and were wearing winter coats and gloves.

“I have to give credit to the buyers that came and participated and bared the elements because it was not a nice day out there today,” Reid said. “On behalf of everyone here, Tattersalls and Preferred and all the consignors and buyers, I just want to tell them that we really appreciate them braving the elements.”

Reid's Preferred Equine – which led all consignors with gross sales of $3,384,700 – sold 117 horses/shares, including the seven highest priced horses that went through the ring.

Northwood Bloodstock was the second leading consignor with gross sales of $939,400 for 29 sold.

On the stallion share and breeding front, three breedings to Sweet Lou were popular with them going for $23,000, $23,000 and $25,000, respectively.

“When you have a stallion with a book that's full and closed, it creates that excitement and it was good for the connections to have those breedings available. It always adds a little color to the sale and we appreciate that,” Reid said.

Meanwhile, Southwind Frank's connections supported that stallion as well, buying three shares for $18,000, $16,000 and $18,000, respectively.

“We just figure it's a good, long-term investment because we really believe in the horse,” said Mark Weaver. “His first crop just turned yearlings and all the reports have been fabulous... He was maybe one of the best 2-year-olds ever and showed how tough he was at three when he was still right there when he wasn't 100 per cent, so the fact that we can invest back in him, we are more than willing to put our money where our mouth is.”

For those that couldn't bear the cold, the sale received a strong response to its live stream.

“At some points there were over 600 people watching,” Reid said. “I think some of those people watching are probably talking to the people here or watching horses for them. It might be owners or just fans, but we really tried to improve our camera angles this year because being a temporary facility here, there's nothing built in. So, there's an added cost and expense, but we wanted to bring the action home to the buyers and customers at home. I think we've achieved that and we get a lot of positive compliments. It's something we'll build upon, for sure.”

Ron Adams suspended 15 years, fined $60,000

Harnessracing.com reported the following Monday (full story here):

Trainer Ron Adams has been suspended for 15 years and fined $60,000 by the Alcohol and Gaming Commission of Ontario (AGCO) after a pair of positive tests for erythropoietin (EPO) late last year. While the ruling was issued on Jan. 17, an interim suspension was dated back to Dec. 3, 2018, and is scheduled to run to Dec. 2, 2033. AGCO executive director Brent Stone told harnessracing.com via email that Adams has 15 days from the date of the ruling to file an appeal.

Here is the ruling:

FIRST EPO POSITIVE

Whereas on Oct. 26, 2018, trainer Adams raced the horse Firebby A at Mohawk Racetrack. The horse was selected for TCO2 testing and the tag number is #531829916. The TCO2 analysis was completed and found to be within normal limits. The sample was then sent to the Canadian Pari-Mutuel Agency (CPMA) on Oct. 30 where it was analyzed for erythropoietin (EPO).

And whereas on Nov. 15, 2018, the CPMA notified the AGCO of a detection of EPO in sample #531829916. The racing forensics database was queried and the sample was determined to have belonged to Adams.

And whereas on Nov. 21, 2018, the Laboratoire des Courses Hippiques (LCH) received sample ID #531829916. On Nov. 29, the LCH confirmed the presence of recombinant human erythropoietin (rhEPO) by establishing the presence of rhEPO specific peptides VNFYAWK (T6) and VYSNFLR (T17).

SECOND EPO POSITIVE

And whereas on Nov. 20, 2018, investigators Capes, Durand and Leblanc attending the stabling location of Adams alongside Dr. Bruce Duncan to perform an inspection and out of competition testing. Samples from 6 horses were obtained and used needles and syringes were seized and sent for analysis to Maxxam Laboratories.

And whereas on Dec. 4, 2018, Maxxam Laboratories notified the AGCO that EPO was detected in out-of-competition (OCT) sample ID #MX023872. After cross referencing with the OCT Collection Card, it was determined that the detection was on the horse Jin's Shark, trained by Adams but recently claimed. The sample was subsequently shipped to LCH for confirmatory analysis.

And whereas on Dec. 17, 2018, LCH notified the AGCO that sample ID #MX023872 was confirmed positive for rhEPO.

INTERIM SUSPENSION

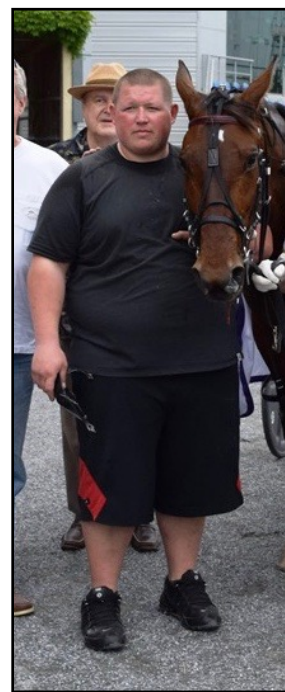

And whereas on Dec. 3, 2018, Admin Ruling Number 51/2018 was issued wherein Adams' AGCO license was suspending pending the outcome of an AGCO investigation pursuant to Rules 1.09 and 6.04 of the Rules of Standardbred Racing.

And whereas all horses owned in whole or in part, and trained by Adams were ineligible to be entered to race.

PENALTY

Take notice that Adams is hereby issued a monetary penalty of $60,000 and fully suspended for 15 years in accordance with Rules 1.09, 6.04, 6.20(a), (b), (c), 6.49 (a)(b), 26.02.02 and 26.02.04 (a)(b) of the Rules of Standardbred Racing and Policy Directive No. 1-2018.

And further take notice that no horses owned or trained by Adams shall be transferred or sold without the approval of the Racing Officials at Mohawk Raceway.

Ron Adams in the winner's circle with Lady Shadow in 2017. Adams is facing a 15-year suspension and $60,000 fine in Ontario.

Revington returns to the Maritimes

Former Pennsylvania Standardbred Bureau Director Brett Revington on his move to lead the Atlantic Provinces Harness Racing Commission.

by Melissa Keith

Weeks before the official announcement, rumors of Brett Revington's return to PEI were already circulating at regional racetracks. "I thought it was hush-hush, but it wasn't," he said with a laugh.

Revington is the new Atlantic Provinces Harness Racing Commission (APHRC) director of racing/chief administrative officer, replacing longstanding APHRC director Dr. Paul Hogan, who retired this year.

Revington left his position as Pennsylvania bureau director for standardbred racing last year, opting to apply for the widely-advertised APHRC position.

"We were looking to get back home (to Canada). I'm from Lucan, Ontario and my wife is from Ilderton (Ontario). We wanted to get back to the Island, be close to family," he told HRU, days after starting his new role on Jan. 14. Brett and wife Karen have two children, 13-year old Brooklyn and 10-year old Zachary, and wanted them to grow up near their grandparents in PEI.

Brett's love of the game is lifelong, fuelled by following favorite horses like Admirals Express, Hardie Hanover, and his parents' OSS/OJC mare Angels Uprising (p,4,1:52.4s; $309,187). "My grandparents owned horses and I made frequent trips to Western Fair Raceway with them, from a very young age. We visited most of the tracks in southwestern Ontario. We made frequent trips to Windsor, Sarnia, Clinton, Greenwood, and Mohawk – a family thing." A few years and jobs after graduating from the University of New Brunswick, Revington landed a position with Woodbine Entertainment Group, hired to do data entry in the Mohawk race office and later adding stakes manager duties. "That's where I learned how to chart. It was a good exposure to a lot of roles within the industry."

After stints at Pompano and as head of the PA Commission, Brett Revington has returned home to Canada and back to the Maritimes to lead the Atlantic Provinces Harness Racing Commission.

His first regulatory position followed: Revington became an associate judge with the Ontario Racing Commission. From there, he spent a "very short stint" as general manager at The Raceway at The Western Fair District. He was recruited by a search firm working for Atlantic Lottery Corporation (ALC) to help revive the PEI racetracks now known under its "Red Shores" banner, a job he began July 26, 2010. Newly-hired racing experience manager Revington collaborated with marketing and promotion manager Lee Drake and senior supervisor of racing Adam Walsh to recast historic tracks at Charlottetown and Summerside as modern wagering venues. Betting gained momentum at Red Shores Charlottetown: Between 2011 and 2016, handle increased from $2.3 million (Cdn) to $3.4 million (Cdn).

"They just needed a fresh pair of eyes," he said. "They had just been taken over by the ALC. It was a new day. Distributing the signal and tweaking the wagering profile – that's one thing we did that helped out. We changed our (simulcast) graphics package to get up to the current era. I don't think there's any one thing that made it work or not."

He resigned from Red Shores in November 2013, surprising many in the industry, and resurfacing as director of racing at Isle Casino Raceway Pompano Park in August 2014.

"The opportunity came up, and I happened to be the candidate," said Revington of his tenure at Pompano. "I take a lot of pride in what we did down there. We brought the 'Winter Capital of Harness Racing' back."

As in PEI, Revington went to work on the wagering menu and promotions, turning around a particular bet by reducing takeout and publicizing the wagering product. "(Pompano announcer) Gabe Prewitt was a big factor, and (distributing) press releases and a race wrap-up as well. I wanted it to be on the USTA and SC, to be able to read about Pompano every day," he said.

The Florida track's "signature wager" was the Pick 4, which was in the doldrums when the new director of racing arrived. "Talking to people, they struggled to get $1,500-$2,000 in the Pick 4 pool. They would often have to hold up the race for 10 or 15 minutes to get the guarantee. (Takeout) was around 22-24 per cent, so we introduced an industry low of 12 per cent (takeout) on that."

Coupled with offering live cards on Sunday nights, when major competing tracks were idle, Revington's Pompano Pick 4 gamble paid off handsomely: "It was like a red flashing light, to get them attracted to our signal again. It worked." (In 2013, all-source wagering on the track brought in less than $25 million; in 2015, bettors sent $44 million-plus through the actual and online Pompano windows).

Because horseplayers prefer large field sizes, Revington turned his attention to the problem of racehorse recruitment in his second year. "You're on an island – you really have to rely on horsemen who have migrated south for the winter," he said. Promoting the 'Winter Capital of Harness Racing' worked so well that some horses had to be stabled at two nearby training centres and others were turned away. "We all worked together: Our purses had gone up that first year, the handle had gone up dramatically, and the sunshine is always a factor."

Despite the sunshine, dark clouds appeared on the horizon.

"So I applied to Pennsylvania," Revington said of his next career change. "The reason I applied is, there's a movement in Florida called 'decoupling'. In my second year, it looked like it was coming in. My boss told me to start looking for a new job."

Decoupling is the separation of racing from other forms of gaming in the same venue, meaning that racinos are no longer obligated to play host to live racing as a condition of eligibility for other gaming licences, e.g. for slots or table games. Revington feared that Pompano would be subject to decoupling within the year (2015), as the Florida House and Senate both proposed decoupling for state greyhound tracks. "I think it was approved and had a lot of momentum to happen (to harness racing) that one year. Thankfully it didn't, and Pompano is still going strong. I was sole provider for the family, so I didn't have much of a choice. I talked to people down there who were hearing the rumors for 10-12 years."

Revington's new position in Pennsylvania came with some advantages over his jobs in less-prosperous racing jurisdictions. "We did a lot of new things there: We got the out-of-competition testing launched. The purses are high. We don't really see horse shortage as much as other places due to the strong purse structure," he said. "I was the regulator for the three harness tracks – The Meadows, Pocono and Chester (Harrah's Philadelphia), and the fairs. They have a very strong fair program there as well. Twenty fairs. They have very solid purses, where you can make a living at it. It's another tier, a grassroots place for people to learn the trade."

When HRU questioned Revington about the controversy this past summer in Pennsylvania (full story here), he simply stated he stood by the statement the Standardbred Bureau of the Pennsylvania State Horse Racing Commission issued July 31, 2018, which declared that "the State Horse Racing Commission stands fully behind Standardbred Bureau Director Brett Revington and fully endorses his actions to address these issues and prevent any future such occurrence.”

The “issues” were ones which happened in Pennsylvania, while Revington was still director of racing at Pompano. September 11, 2016, Moonshiner Hanover finished second in a PA Sire Stakes event at Chester (Harrah’s Philly), and tested positive for prohibited drug oxycodone afterwards. Prior to February 27, 2018, a threshold of 100 pg/ml of corticosteroid medications betamethasone and flumethasone was permitted in Pennsylvania standardbred racehorses; when a new, lower limit of 10 pg/ml was adopted last year, two results within the former 100 pg/ml limit were erroneously ruled to be positive tests.

“Unfortunately, some lab findings were misplaced before I came in,” he said. “We felt, in talking with legal, we couldn’t legally pursue these findings due to the timing. I arrived in late November 2016; these findings were from prior to my arriving. I think honestly they were just missed.”

He said the matters only came to his attention in May 2017.

“I asked all the tracks if they had any outstanding short-term holds. That means the lab possibly found something, but they were doing more tests to confirm the findings.”

“The Pennsylvania State Horse Racing Commission was in a period of transition from the retirement of the previous director to an acting director, then myself. I implemented measures so this sort of issue won’t happen again.”

He applied for the APHRC job when it was advertised last spring, and, like other top candidates, interviewed for the position last fall. The competition closed Sept. 15, 2018; the incoming director was required to start in January 2019. “I had chosen well before any of this (Pennsylvania situation) had come to light, and then I was offered the (APHRC) position,” Revington said.

His return to PEI comes at a moment when re-envisioning Maritime harness racing is needed. “I think we always have to evolve,” he said. “We have to try new initiatives, like new technologies, to look into getting new fans, and just in general.”

Balancing innovation with a natural strength of the region is key: “What I found out in the Maritimes is we don’t lack for a good solid base. We just need to build upon it. I really feel (harness racing) is ingrained in the Maritime culture.”

The man leading the APHRC into the new year said he’s already noticed profound changes to Island life, including increased population and greater commercial/residential development, plus region-wide demographic and economic realities (e.g. aging racing participants and bettors; precarious jobs outpacing steady blue-collar employment). Revington agreed the sport’s one-time local “monopoly on the entertainment and gambling dollar” was impacted by these shifts, but he’s faced the challenge before. He met with former Red Shores colleagues Lee Drake and Adam Walsh recently, to discuss current industry issues. “I was just really fascinated with both state-of-the-art facilities,” said Revington, on the Red Shores-branded tracks he helped launch. “They aren’t afraid to take some risks, try new things. They are still that way.”

The well-travelled Revington seems to be putting down roots. He said he’s already looking into important regional matters, from the loss of race dates in neighbouring New Brunswick, to the prospect of an apprenticeship program. “It’s a win for all of us to be closer to family,” he said. “When I arrived here, Dec. 30, it was breath of fresh air. It’s home. It’s where I’m supposed to be.”
