Cinderella story continues... Desperate Man voted Canada's Horse of the Year

James MacDonald was the unanimous choice to win the Keith Waples Driver of the Year award, Richard Moreau won his ninth straight Trainer of the Year award and Millar Farms was voted the Armstrong Breeder of the Year.

by Standardbred Canada

Pepsi North America Cup champion Desperate Man (full story here) was voted the Somebeachsomewhere Horse of the Year at Sunday's (Feb. 6) virtual O'Brien Awards honoring the best in Canadian harness racing for 2021. Desperate Man was also voted Canada's top sophomore male pacer of the year.

The gelding's storybook sophomore season was a family affair. Owned by trainer Kathy Cecchin, her husband John, daughter Nicole and their son-in-law Paul Davies, the son of Shadow Play—Dreamlands Latte recorded eight top three finishes and earned in excess of $767,000. In six Ontario Sires Stakes races, he had two victories including the season finale OSS Super Final. But the highlight of his year was his popular victory in the $1 million Pepsi North America Cup, winning in a lifetime best 1:49.3 with regular driver Trevor Henry in the bike.

Other big winners on the night included: James MacDonald, who took home the inaugural Keith Waples Driver of the Year Award. Millar Farms took home three O'Brien trophies, including the Armstrong Breeder of the Year. Richard Moreau won a record ninth consecutive trophy in the Trainer of the Year category. Owner Brad Grant scored two O'Brien bronzes and Luc Blais who won his first O'Brien Award of Horsemanship.

This year marked the 33rd edition of the O'Brien Awards, named in honour of the late Joe O'Brien, an outstanding horseman and member of the Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame. The awards gala was held virtually due to the COVID restrictions and lockdown in Ontario.

The 2021 season was a tremendously productive and profitable one for Millar Farms of Stouffville, ON, and they were rewarded with three O'Brien trophies. Millar's homebreds Prohibition Legal and Betterhavemymoney were divisional winners, and to top it off, Millar Farms was the winner of the Armstrong Breeder of the Year Award. Their 26 starters posted 67 victories and eclipsed $2 million in earnings, led by their O'Brien winners along with O'Brien finalist Silver Label, and top performers Powertrain and Aviator.

Moreau of Puslinch, ON topped the charts for all trainers in Canada with 236 wins and more than $3.7 million in earnings. Moreau was the leading money-winning trainer at Woodbine Mohawk Park, Georgian Downs, and Flamboro Downs last year, and conditioned three O'Brien Award winners — Fashion Frenzie, Wheels On Fire and Grandma Heidi.

Grant has owned horses for decades and adds to his O'Brien collection with bronzes for Wheels On Fire and Grandma Heidi.

Congratulations!

Winning the Older Pacing Horse title, Wheels On Fire scored 22 top-three finishes from 26 races and earned more than $282,000 last season. Seven of his 12 victories came in preferred events at Woodbine Mohawk Park and two were posted at The Meadowlands.

Grandma Heidi was the voters' choice for Older Trotting Mare. She was a model of consistency during her five-year-old campaign, recording 19 top-three finishes in 32 starts and amassing $126,625 in earnings. The daughter of Muscle Mass raced primarily in the upper conditioned and preferred ranks at Woodbine Mohawk Park but did venture stateside for five races at The Meadowlands in the springtime

Blais has conditioned multiple O'Brien Award winners over the years and added the O'Brien Award of Horsemanship to his resume for 2021 while he managed successful stables on both sides of the border. The Quebec native, who is the private trainer for Determination, sent 44 winners postward and eclipsed $2 million in earnings for the sixth consecutive year. $1.35 millions of that total was earned in Canada where he races primarily at Woodbine Mohawk Park. In 2021, Forbidden Trade was a multiple stakes winner, posting victories in the Crawford Trot at The Meadowlands, The Earl Rowe at Georgian Downs, The Caesars Trot at Hoosier Park and The TVG Open at The Meadowlands. O'Brien finalist Donna Soprano was a winner in The Elegantimage and Simcoe Stakes at Woodbine Mohawk Park and The Del Miller at The Meadowlands. Enavant was the 2021 Potomac Pace winner at Rosecroft Raceway under Blais' conditioning.

MacDonald of Guelph, ON took home his first O'Brien trophy as the Keith Waples Driver of the Year winner. MacDonald smashed his previous earnings record in 2021, driving horses to more than $7.5 million in earnings. The PEI native topped the Canadian driving charts for wins and earnings during his dream season and was also the winner of the Lampman Cup as the Ontario Sires Stakes' leading driver. GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Ryan DesRoche's five-year plan on schedule

by Chris Lomon

Ryan DesRoche is the man with the plans.

When it comes to mapping out his career in the race bike, the 24-year-old reinsman from Prince Edward Island has found the blueprint for success.

Before he launched his standardbred driving career, DesRoche took a realistic approach to his life on the racetrack, putting in motion a five-year roadmap that would ultimately decide if he would stay in the sport or find another calling.

He sports a big smile when speaking of the outcome.

"I'm happy with how things have progressed, but obviously, I want to keep reaching higher and get better with myself and the results. That's what I always focus on."

Raised in a standardbred family, where he learned the racing ropes from his grandfather and father, DesRoche's first race in the PEI Matinee program came when he was 10. Six years after that milestone, he earned his trainer's license, which was followed by attaining his driver's license two years later.

In his first year of record, in 2016, he posted 12 wins along with $21,701 in purse earnings while competing in his native Prince Edward Island.

Rising star Ryan DesRoche.

The driving force, pun intended, noted DesRoche, was to get better each year, not only in number, but also in skill.

A two-week summer vacation to Ontario nearly four years ago proved to be a one-way ticket, as the young horseman made the decision to ply his trade outside of his home province.

In typical fashion, DesRoche put plenty of thought into the idea, eager to test the Ontario waters, but not willing to look too far down the road.

As it turned out, it proved to be a winning move, one that put more eyes on his abilities, and in turn, drawing more interest from trainers.

His first Ontario win came at Flamboro Downs with Bravado Seelster, a gelded son of Rock N Roll Heaven trained and owned by Christina Soundy.

The Seelster Farms-bred veteran won by 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ lengths in 1:57.3 on Dec. 9, 2018, pulling off a 17-1 upset on a frigid night at the half-mile oval.

"Around the last turn, I had all kinds of horse. I had room at the head of the lane, moved him over and we went on from there. It was a pretty good feeling."

The duo repeated that success one week later. This time, however, it was a much closer finish.

"We won by a head, but it felt like a nose. As long as you hit the wire first, it doesn't matter how much you win by."

The winning efforts also gave DesRoche a boost in confidence.

"At first it was tough, making that move to Ontario. You go from all of your friends and family, people and places that you are familiar with, to meeting new people and chasing new opportunities. But, there are a lot of people here who are from the East Coast, so that made it a lot easier. Once you get to know people, you feel more comfortable and relaxed. I've been lucky with having a lot of supportive people."

In 2019, over 449 driving starts, he posted 27 wins, 33 seconds and 53 thirds, accompanied by earnings of $189,107.

Two years ago, he produced 20 wins in a season, for himself and the industry, that was hampered by the COVID-19. A major highlight from that 2020 came in August drove a pair of Dustin Jones' pupils in Grassroots action at Georgian Downs. He teamed with trotting filly Protostar for a winner's circle trip and was third with Peppas Angel. The victory was DesRoche's first Ontario Sires Stakes crown.

He also won a Prospect Series race at Woodbine Mohawk with Muscles Aplenty, a Joe Shaw trainee.

"You have to be confident, not cocky, when you have success. You appreciate those wins, but if anything, it pushes you to want more of those moments. You need to remind yourself what it took to earn those wins and what it will take to get to the next level."

It was 2021, however, that saw DesRoche stamp himself as one of the country's top young talents.

Along with the career-high 50 wins and $413,131 in purse earnings, there were plenty of lessons learned from each mile traveled.

"I think the biggest thing I had to learn was patience. You have to drive horses to their strengths and do what will bring out the best in them. Some are better on the front, some are better covered up. You have to know the horses and what trip they like. You don't want to put them in bad spots. Once you get to know the horse, you can figure out better trips for them. That said, you also have to know that there is more than just a 'Plan A.' You have to be able to adapt to different situations and change things on the fly. A horse can break stride, or one leaves that you didn't expect too... there are so many unknowns that can happen as soon as you're off the gate."

One thing that is a constant, however, is his support base back in Prince Edward Island.

"I get texts and calls all the time from back home. People are watching the races and that's great. They want to see people do well and you definitely feel that."

It's one big piece of the motivation puzzle for DesRoche, who works for trainer/driver Travis Cullen in the mornings.

And yes, he does have a gameplan for 2022.

"I'd like to do better than I did last year, to be honest. I'd like to double wins and maybe hit $1 million in purses on the year. But I don't really set end goals. I set small ones along the way and if I accomplish them, I set new ones after that."

There isn't much time for off-track pursuits, at least not now, but DesRoche isn't complaining.

"If you're busy, I guess that means you're doing something right."

And, for the pride of Prince Edward Island, it also means he's doing something well.

"I truly love what I do. There can be tough times and tough nights where things don't go as you expected, but there is always something to look forward to. A new day means new opportunities and a chance to see the results you are striving for. When you're at the barn, you are able to really see so much, things that can really help you. I like that atmosphere and I appreciate that chance to learn as much as I can."

An ideal situation for the young man with a winning plan.

There's a first time for everything

by Bob Heyden

Here is a look at some of the most intriguing first times in the sport's history:

1. Jack Moiseyev in 1991 – in a three-week stretch – won both his first Meadowlands Pace and his first Hambletonian with Precious Bunny and Giant Victory, respectively. In fact, Moiseyev had never driven Giant Victory prior to the Hambletonian. To make it even sweeter, they finished 1-2 in the Horse of the Year balloting.

2. Jacqueline Ingrassia guiding 13-1 Goalfish to victory in the 2000 Yonkers Trot. How unusual is this? Well, how many drivers get a standing ovation in the Yonkers paddock upon returning? No other female driver had won the Yonkers Trot before – and none have since. No women have ever driven in the

USTA

Jack Moiseyev winning the 1991 Little Brown Jug with Precious Bunny. The pair also won the Meadowlands Pace earlier in the year, three weeks before Moiseyev won the Hambletonian with Giant Victory. It was the first time Moiseyev drove in both the Pace and Hambletonian.

Hambletonian in its 96 years.

3. Ron Waples and Tim Tetrick. The first to win their first two million-dollar drives. Waples did it with two different horses and Tetrick with the same colt. Waples did so four days apart in 1983, taking the Sweetheart first-time driving Shannon Fancy, then the Meadowlands Pace with his own Ralph Hanover. In 2007, Tetrick won the $1 million Art Rooney with Southwind Lynx, then came back to win the Meadowlands Pace with the same colt.

4. Mickey McNichol had never driven Alf Palema going into the 1992 Hambletonian. Since he was 2-for-17 lifetime going in, nobody really noticed. But he gets the best-ever timing award taking the only heat he needed to – the final – and thus the 1992 Hambletonian trophy. By that point, a decade had passed since McNichol had been photoed out by Speed Bowl with Jazz Cosmos in the 1982 Classic. His reversal of fortune came by the very same photo.

5. Mike Lachance in 2001 did something it's not easy to forget. He won the first ever $1 million Metro Pace ($1,123,340, actually) with Mach Three his first time driving.

6. We are now 30 years from Joe Holloway's first million-dollar win – the 1992 North America Cup. It's safe to say nobody expected it. But Holloway was into firsts that year. He also dead heated in the Yonkers Trot with McCluckey (with Magic Lobell), the first, and only, Yonkers Trot tie. Oh, and Holloway upset the powerhouse Presidential Ball in the Woodrow Wilson with long-shot Americas Pastime. It was Holloway's first time competing in the Wilson.

7. The 1981 Hambletonian marked a couple of firsts – a purse exceeding $800,000 year one at The Meadowlands for Ray Remmen and Shiaway St Pat. It was the first time the Hambletonian was raced in New Jersey.

8. Brett Pelling won the 1991 Cane Pace with a horse he did not have the previous week – Silky Stallone. Dream Away in 1997 winning the Meadowlands Pace was the first year Pelling was in the race.

9. Mark Macdonald winning the first time he competed in the Jug in 2006 with Mr Feelgood.

10. Mickey McNichol had hurt his back. O'Donnell was called, but was too far away. So, Ron Waples wound up with Fake Left first time in 1992 in the Jug. He wound up holding off heavy favorite Western Hanover by a nose. Waples had added incentive – it had been nine years since anyone had won the Triple Crown and it was his own Ralph Hanover in 1983.

11. The 1995 Yonkers Trot was the first time a filly won the race. Some had tried before, but C R Kay Suzie was in town and she dominated in the 41st edition. Continentalvictory duplicated the feat in 1996.

12. First Messenger: Belle Acton in 1956 for Billy Haughton. First World Trotting Derby: Panty Raid for Stanley Dancer in 1981. Both of these firsts for Haughton and Dancer came with fillies.

13. The first time any race will go for $1 million or more 40 straight years will be the 2022 Hambletonian.

14. The first two William Wellwood Memorials went to his daughter in 2005 and 2006 with Was It A Dream and Laddie, respectively.

15. The first time a female driver competed in the Little Brown Jug? June Weller did so during the 50th anniversary year in 1972. Dads Time was 10th and 9th.

16. The first horse to win the Triple Crown and all six finals he was in one magical year? Windsongs Legacy in 2004. He won the Goodtimes, Canadian Trotting Classic and the Stanley Dancer, in addition to the Kentucky Futurity, Hambletonian and Yonkers Trot.

17. Firsts twice? Linda Toscano did so with Molly Can Do It, becoming the first female trainer to win a Breeders Crown in 2002. Then she won the first edition of the Golden Girls the very next year with – you guessed it – Molly Can Do It. Both times Jack Moiseyev drove.

18. The first Tattersalls was held in 1971. It resulted in the first sub-1:55 race mile: Albatross in 1:54.4. The next two editions went in 1:58.2 (Strike Out) and then in 2:00.4 (Keystone Smartie).

The player, the play and the thresholds that bind them – Part 2

by Frank CotoLO

Part 1 is here.

In part one we were with me in the 1980s when I carefully balanced two careers – one as a writer and the other as a serious pari-mutuels bettor at Southern California thoroughbred and harness meets. Armed with a $10,000 bankroll I contributed greatly to the volume of each program's takeout. Along with the handful of full-time horseplayers – who in those days had to go to the track to do their business – we were responsible for the majority of cash going into the tracks' coffers; until one season when along came a player who made the tracks expand their coffers to contain the churn.

That is where we left Part 1, after introducing a bettor I call Delaney (for privacy's sake we call the writer Delaney and all racetracks involved Palmtree Park). He was one of the most successful TV writers of the period and a part-time pari-mutuels investor. He played with a bankroll that put all of the other pro gamblers' bankrolls put together to shame.

Then came an unrelentless losing streak that sensationalized on Delaney's lack of any money-management system. He came undone, betting huge amounts on every race wildly. It was bountiful for Palmtree Park but crushing for the multi-millionaire, who dipped into his personal fortune in an attempt to bet his way back – a sure-fire tactic that paves the way to the Poor House.

There is a classic joke about the tactic that explains its futility: A person arrives to pick up a friend and go to the track. The friend is on a losing streak and says, "I'm not going to the track."

"You're not going to bet?" says his friend.

"Naw. I'll mail them a check."

Delaney lost an estimated $13 million along with a tax bill of $17 million. Palmtree Park stock went up. The last anyone heard about Delaney was that he got $40-a-week pocket money from accountants (finally utilizing the talents of a money manager) that handled his debt.

Stan And Ollie

A decade or so later and 8,017 miles away from the fall of Delaney, a Tasmanian man we call Ollie was crowned "the leader of the world's biggest gambling syndicate" by Australasian newspapers.

Ollie's efforts leading to the title are the stuff on which fables are built. A kid from the poor side of a town Down Under, Ollie's father was a struggling greyhound trainer, a single parent with three children, the youngest, Ollie, an introvert living in his own mind. He studied mathematics at university where he took a shining to blackjack and applied his math studies to wagering on it. He began to win a lot and caught the eye of an innovative blackjack player known as one of the world's biggest gamblers (for the fun of it, let's call him Stan).

Stan and "Ollie" became partners and traveled, wagering with a mathematical edge. In a year they turned a $200 bankroll into $14,000.

They went to Las Vegas. Ollie buried himself in the University of Nevada's wealth of gambling books about betting psychology and systems and money management and playing a bankroll as a business. Ollie used what he learned to write a computer program for betting on thoroughbred races. They returned to Australia and horse racing became the center of their new gambling business.

While Ollie honed the computer system, Stan kept the bankroll strong playing and winning at blackjack. He did so well he was banned from all casinos Down Under, as well as ones in Korea, Sri Lanka, Macau and South Africa. The bankroll stronger, the duo put the blackjack-based winnings to work at horse and dog tracks.

Ollie's computer program, based on his personal mathematical methodology, inspired making large wagers to earn small profits. It did that with a passion that resulted in major earnings and produced profits enough to expand the operation into a global enterprise. Stan and Ollie hired a staff of computer programmers, statisticians to crunch numbers, enhanced mathematical systems and began to swarm the pools of tracks around the world with billions (that is not a typo) worth of bets.

No bettors were more prepared for the digital platform. Armed with math and management and the machines to reach any track where they found a wager, Stan and Ollie's company poured cash into racetrack coffers – and still had money to bet on sports and, where legal, who could be the next Pope.

Ollie spun philosophical as his business grew. He said gambling is just a game that "causes money to change hands" and "winning gamblers end up with money but have achieved nothing else" because win or lose, gambling "doesn't produce anything."

But racetracks take a salary from each bettor, big or small, and keep the pari-mutuels industry filled with delirious hope.

Gingras and Burke take Big M feature again

When it came to the Saturday night (Feb. 5) feature at The Meadowlands, it was the same story as the last time around.

When last contested on Jan. 22 (last week's races were snowed out), the feature went to driver Yannick Gingras and trainer Ron Burke with Covered Bridge in a minor upset at odds of 3-1. To spice things up a bit on the night of the track's "Chili Cook-Off" contest, the dynamic duo – who currently but not surprisingly sit atop the driver and trainer standings – scored at 14-1 with Put To Right in the $27,500 high-end conditioned pace.

"His last few races have been good," said Gingras. "I honestly thought he was in a little tough."

Gingras blasted off at the start from post six in the nine-horse field (there was one scratch) and put Put To Right on the point at the quarter in a brisk :27.2 on a chilly night that saw a real feel temperature of 10 degrees.

"I was thinking I would race from behind but I fired him up a little bit at the gate," said Gingras. "Tonight, he raced really well."

No Lou Zing was up and after the leader shortly thereafter and grabbed the top, making it to the half in :55.4. A weak challenge from 4-5 favorite Vettel N would have no effect on the outcome as No Lou Zing reached three-quarters in 1:23.2 while Put To Right waited for his chance from the pocket.

"I had a lot of pace around the last turn," said Gingras. "I popped the deuce and thought I'd go by him pretty easily."

The 42-year-old Hall of Fame bound pilot had it right as Put To Right vacated the two-hole with just under an eighth-of-a-mile to go before going on to a safe neck win over a fast-closing Patrikthepiranha A. No Lou Zing was third. Vettel N wilted and finished eighth.

A 5-year-old gelded son of Captaintreacherous—On The Catwalk, Put To Right, sent off at odds of 14-1 after a fourth-place finish with lesser foes in his last start, paid $31.40 as the fifth choice bumping up to the non-winners of $20,000 level. He's now won 10-of-64 lifetime outings for owners Thomas R and Scott A Dillon and has earnings of $254,741.

Gingras would go on to tally five times on the program, giving him at least three winners on seven of the eight cards contested in 2022. Burke had three – all driven by Gingras – visit victory lane.

Over the last two Saturday programs, Gingras has 11 victories, with only three going off as the favorite.

A LITTLE MORE: With Put To Right's upset serving as the catalyst, there were no winning tickets sold in the 20-cent Pick-6, creating a carryover of $8,572 when racing resumes. Those with four correct collected $63.50... Scott Zeron also had a nice night, piloting three winners... All-source handle totaled $2,742,049, bringing total betting for the weekend to just over $5.1 million... Racing resumes Friday (Feb. 11) at 6:20 p.m.
