Five years on, Sam McKee's death seems like yesterday

The legendary race caller – and so much more – would have turned 60 this month.

by Bob Heyden

Sam McKee passed away five years ago this month. He was born on March 24, 1962 meaning he would have been 60 shortly.

What a year 1962 was. Many celebrities turn 60 this year, such as Bo Jackson, Tom Cruise, Jon Bon Jovi, Jim Carrey, Jodie Foster, Jerry Rice, Evander Holyfield and Patrick Ewing. It was the year that Johnny Carson debuted, as did Walter Cronkite's nightly news. The Navy Seals were formed, K-Mart opened its first store and Taco Bell debuted.

In harness racing, Bret Hanover was born on May 19, 56 days after Sam McKee. Dave Palone was born 39 days before McKee and he's currently on the doorstep of 20,000 career wins.

But this is about Sam McKee.

For those who didn't have the honor and pleasure of knowing him, he was a harness racing lifer from Michigan who made the move from the locals to the Meadowlands at the end of the 1990s. He had the ability to speak to a national audience at the same time never forgetting his roots. You name it in the business, he did it.

McKee was a problem solver, a coordinator, a trouble-shooter, a pacifier. He showed up, he cared, he fought for you and he despised any kind of self-promotion. He was born with his sleeves already rolled up. He was a listener. He kept moving forward. More than anything, he loved his family.

If there was an MVP award given for the 'Best Behind The Scenes Worker' McKee would have 10 or more of those trophies. He redefined quiet efficiency.

I took the opportunity to talk with a cross section of people associated with the sport to ask them what they thought today, five years later, as we collectively remember Sam McKee.

Dave Palone: "Sam and I were the same age and had a lot of things in common, including our girls' love of barrel racing and spending money on riding horses. That was always the first thing that came up in conversation. Sam was an incredible talent and tribute to the sport. I'm not sure anybody's fully recovered from losing him. One of the nicest human beings I ever met in my life."

Megan Rider (Hoof Beats): "Sam had an innate ability to light up a room. He was affable and had a personality like no other. His voice, persona, and love he had for the sport of harness racing was inimitable. He is so very missed."

Stacy Chiodo: "I can't believe it has been five years already. March 11 was 22 years since my own stroke. The last text I got from Sam came after Mighty Joe Young had his final race

The late and legendary Sam McKee.

November 11, 2015. 'Tell me it isn't true,' he said. He always said 'Joey' was one of his favorites. Sam is truly missed but never forgotten. By not growing up in the industry I was always intimidated by people like Sam and the announcers. Then when he asked me to do "In The Sulky," I was so nervous but Sam made me feel like I belonged."

Bill O'Donnell: "Sam used to come to Maarveland Farm when I was still training a few. A student of the game."

Irv Atherton: "He was a great salesman too. When they held the Hambletonian Charity Golf Tournament Auction, he got you to bid on everything. And a good friend."

Sherif and Dawn Cummulaj, they knew McKee from Michigan roots: "Sam was hands down the most well-liked most popular person in all of harness racing. That is a true testament to the kind of person he was. Fellow Michigander, you were a gift to us all."

Mike Keeling and Paula Wellwood (Marion Marauder was the sport's last Triple Crown winner and Sam called the race, the 2016 Kentucky Futurity): "Sam was a friend over the years and we have particularly great memories. In 2016, when Marion Marauder won the Futurity, he made not only one of the great close calls ever, but he took the time to come see us shortly after the race. He did that often. He passed away not too much longer after that and we feel so lucky to have had him in our lives. It's so nice to be able to reflect on such a wonderful time in our lives with such a wonderful man."

Billy Haughton, Jr.: "Sam McKee was all about kindness and respect. A great family man and a man that loved to ride his horse, to be around horses, to talk horses. And be kind to people. It seems like yesterday. I miss him so much, such a good man."

Patrick Lachance: "I remember years ago going through a hard time with my barn, so I slowed down driving at Lexington. I saw Sam around that time. He pulled me to the side, 'Listen, I watch a lot of races. This is what I do for a living. You're a good driver. Trust me. I know.' So, I didn't give up and then a few years later I won the Bluegrass. Ironically, his daughters presented the trophy in the winner's circle. I felt like Sam was there too. I could picture him telling me 'I TOLD you so!' So, besides being the best at what he did for a living, he was truly a great person. He will never be forgotten."

Dawn/Rod Allen: "His voice is immortal on so many races I've been in and he was especially excited when we won, talking about our family and the horses. He was so full of knowledge and love for harness racing. His enthusiasm is sorely missed."

Bill Augustine: "I remember about 8-9 years ago racing a young colt at the Meadowlands who got pushed around in a race that Sam was calling and was second or third. A couple months later he was in at the Red Mile and Sam mentioned on the in-house show that my colt was 'body slammed' at the Meadowlands a while back. I couldn't believe he remembered that. I told him so later. That's the way he was."

Trond Smedshammer: "My all-time favorite race caller. He loved the sport as much as anybody. Just the greatest in all aspects. Just another testament to the saying The Good Die Young."

Bruce Riegle: "A great man in the horse industry. Loved horses and his family. Never met a person he didn't know – and if he did, he quickly introduced himself. He was a great friend and I think the best announcer I heard in a long time."

Sheri/Kevin McDermott: "Sam was one of the good guys. We understood each other. Respected each other. Our "In The Sully" segments were priceless. A friend that can never be replaced."

JoAnn Looney: "I only admired Sam from afar. I met him briefly. He was the guy who had what they call the 'It' factor. It didn't matter if he was a close friend or it was just a brief encounter, you never forgot him."

Scott DiDomenico: "Charging hard! The best of all time and the man who gave everyone chills with his race calls night in and night out."

Mark Weaver: "Harness racing, our country and the world miss people like Sam McKee. More than ever. He was so kind, caring and committed. Simply the best."

The last decade or so of McKee's life provided many highlight moments for myself, the fans and even McKee himself.

His call of Always B Miki's 1:46 world record in 2016 was a proud moment for him. The 2009 Muscle Hill Hambletonian makes anyone's 'Best of' list. The first trotter ever to best 1:50 at the Meadowlands – J L Cruze (1:49.4 in 2015). Personally, I never would have had the opportunity to chat with both Nick Jonas and race car driver Martin Truex at the 2016 Hambletonian had it not been McKee's diligent work that got them there.

Five years. It seems like five minutes at times. Who among us would be shocked to see McKee showing up at a meeting, Starbucks in hand, grabbing a format and saying, 'Sorry for the delay. What are we up to?' The first half a year or so after his passing almost seemed like some kind of suspended animation.

Even though we know – absolutely know – that there is no Curtain #4, it doesn't stop us from taking the occasional glance over in that direction.

Five years has shown us that we never were or never will be able to replace him.

Five years later, many still think, 'Where's Sam McKee?' when a problem pops up. I know I have.

Let's hope that we can all continue to realize the immense comfort we get in the eternal memory of Sam McKee.

Our collective ship came in on March 24, 1962. And we are all on board in our admiration and reverence for a man who bettered each and every one of us.

BRUSH AND CRUSH

by DEAN TOWERS

A lot of change in racing doesn't happen by committee

"A committee is a group of people who individually can do nothing, but who, as a group, can meet and decide that nothing can be done."

by Dean Towers

When many of us think of harness racing and change, these words from late comic Fred Allen may come to mind. We tend to talk a lot, but it seems nothing much gets done. Harness racing, as we know it, just trudges along.

I got to thinking, though. This sport has answered complaints or moved forward from time to time over the previous decade on several items. But did it happen by committee?

Four or five years ago, on these pages, on Twitter, or at racetracks like the Meadowlands, a hot topic was "kicking." The apologists were in full-force telling anyone who'd listen it was part of the game and change was not needed; those who wanted to eliminate it were adamant it had to go.

One man who did take it seriously was Jeff Gural. Around this time, Jeff announced to the drivers at the Meadowlands that if they dropped their feet they could drop them at another racetrack. Virtually overnight the problem at the Big M was rectified.

What tends to happen in these situations is when one leader does something, others follow.

Canada did. Up at Mohawk there were one or two drivers who kicked almost every race, and did so with impunity. Then one day fines were issued, and lo and behold, the feet stayed in the stirrups.

I watch 50 or more races a week and don't even notice a dropped boot anymore. It's almost been eliminated from the sport. Leadership got the job done.

Today, the word "carryover" rolls across your screen like scratches and changes do. It's a staple of the sport, and helps drive handle and eyeballs to your track, and others.

Not that long ago the word barely existed outside horseplayer circles. There were arguments about it being "a life changing score" versus what it is – a takeout reduction – and lower takeout drives money.

A committee didn't create a carryover, happenstance did. And tracks began to embrace the concept.

Northfield Park implemented a new betting menu with $1 minimums to drive carryovers. The Big M's pick 6 has carryovers almost every second weekend, which does not only increase handle on the wager itself, it encourages customers to look at the overlapping Pick 4 (which has reached huge betting numbers). Just this week, Western Fair's new Pick 5 betting menu had not one but two carryovers in the same evening, and it drove a nightly handle of almost $600,000.

Carryovers are everywhere, and it didn't happen in a board room. Last up, the venerable Gabe Prewitt disproved something committees have been telling us for decades – that you can't have a good handle unless your track has top-of-the-line horses.

Gabe at Pompano Park helped take a betting signal everyone ignored to one that bettors rarely want to miss. The Florida oval, with low-level horses, drivers whose weight figures (ahem) might not be perfectly accurate, a starting car that breaks down half the time, a grainy feed and regular power outages, drives handle worthy of yesteryear.

Gabe helped teach the business a simple lesson: If you have low takeout wagers, sprinkle in some carryovers, put a few decent betting races together with your customer in mind, and have a little bit of fun, you can drive handle and interest.

Gabe at Pompano, like Jeff Gural with rule enforcement or disparate tracks harnessing the power of a carryover aren't a committee; aren't a conference or faceless declaration from an alphabet. These important advances took leadership, elbow grease and a desire to make a difference. And they were all accomplished by individuals.

Dana Parham and Les Stark give professional take on The Big M drag

by Debbie Little

Apparently, the number zero is a drag for some people. Get over it. The drag is merely an illusion.

The main complaint cited by anti-draggers is that post time should be post time when the tote board reads “0” minutes to post, and that a seven- or eight-minute drag is unnecessary.

The Meadowlands conducted a six-week experiment at the beginning of the year by lessening what they referred to as the “drag”. Since their handle numbers declined over that time-frame, the so-called drag returned in mid-February and the handle immediately increased.

Former high roller and current owner Dana Parham is certainly more than qualified to speak on gambling at the Big M, and can see both sides of the drag debate.

“In the purest sense, I wish we didn’t have such a thing,” said Parham. “On the other side, you’re running a business, and for whatever reason your post time now conflicts with Woodbine. Maybe they had an inquiry, maybe you did. So now your post times are on top of each other. Now you’re not going to get the same handle. People are going to miss your race betting Woodbine or they’re going to miss Woodbine betting your race. So, are you just supposed to take this loss in betting handle because we said we were going to race the race at 9 [o’clock]?”

According to Parham, he and his ex-partner ran a highly successful gambling company that wagered at least $350 million on horse racing for 20 years from 1995-2015. Parham left the company in 2016 and can currently only make an occasional bet via the terms of his sale agreement.

Les Stark is currently a major player at The Meadowlands, and like Parham, understands the importance of handle.

“What I do care about is that they get the maximum amount of money into the pools,” said Stark. “So, if that requires them to delay so they lay off of another signal that may be getting attention at that moment and that that’s what they think they need to do to gain more handle, then that’s what I would be in favor of. You want a little time all to yourself so a person has a second to see, oh, The Meadowlands is on. I want to bet that race.”

Parham said harness racing needs its own version of an air traffic controller to tell people when they can land their races, so to speak.

The Meadowlands actually has someone to do that job, post-time coordinator Michael Antoniadis.

Even though he cannot officially tell other tracks what to do, he can ask nicely and do everything possible to coordinate with them so everyone gets a positive outcome.

“At night you have Turfway every 30 minutes, Charlestown every 32 minutes, Penn National every 28 minutes and then the harness tracks that go about every 24 minutes,” said Antoniadis.

Antoniades works with Bill McLinchey, director of standard-bred racing at Woodbine Entertainment, Megan Walker, senior manager, racing operations at Woodbine Mohawk Park, Dave Bianconi, director of racing operations at MGM Northfield Park and Chris Schick, general manager at Cal Expo, to make sure – whenever possible – that there are no mid-air collisions with their race signals.

“Ideally, we try to set it up for the harness bettors of the world, because [The Meadowlands and Mohawk] are the top two products, so we have a race going off every 12 minutes,” said Antoniadis. “The larger that space is, the better the results are going to be for everyone.

“You’re making it possible for people to watch both tracks. If two tracks run at the same time, you’re not going to get anywhere near the maximum revenue because you’re making people choose. We try and do what’s best for ourselves and harness racing.”

As a result of their coordinated effort, according to Antoniadis, all four of the aforementioned track handles were up last Saturday.

MEADOWLANDS AVERAGE HANDLE

Month	2018	2019	2020	2021	2022 experiment
January	$2,578,018	$2,676,387	$2,622,442	$3,398,124	$2,576,911
February	$2,540,682	$2,890,300	$2,745,557	$3,430,982	$2,613,930

It is currently the intention of The Meadowlands to run their races roughly 24 minutes apart. So, what is perceived to be a drag is actually a highly thought out and tested part of their plan.

Forty years ago, when everyone wagering on harness racing was at the track, post parades started at 10 minutes to post and when the clock hit zero, it was go time.

Now, on a typical night when the Big M post time clock clicks to zero, the horses are just stepping onto the track.

Why the big change? Because the majority of wagers are placed off track, the time had to change with the times, so to speak.

But why not just send the horses out with seven minutes to post and let zero signify the start time?

Because FOMO (Fear Of Missing Out) drives handle. When bettors see The Meadowlands at zero, they start paying attention. They know it's not post time because the horses just came out onto the track, but they also know, just as if they were standing on that long line in the grandstand, that post is imminent.

In actuality, the difference in the average time between races now and the ones during the aforementioned short-lived experiment is only about two-to-three minutes. Also, if you leave out 2021's exaggerated figures since Mohawk was closed, the experiment numbers weren't far below previous years.

"Whenever we compare stats, we kind of put them in a vacuum," said Parham. "That's kind of human nature. Two times I took the shorter route and it took me longer, therefore the shorter route always takes longer. You had a small sample size."

"Well, I've got this coin and it always comes up heads. I flipped it once and it came up heads, so it's 100 per cent. Maybe you have to flip it a thousand times or 10,000 times to really see if it is biased to heads or not."

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Matthew Athearn on the lessons learned from his parents

by Chris Lomon

Matthew Athearn has never been one to shy away from a good challenge in the race bike.

It's a skill the son of veteran horseman Mark Athearn, and trainer Gretchen Athearn, acquired early on in his harness racing life, the ability to work with and succeed with difficult horses.

"I started out working with those horses, wondering, 'How am I ever going to do well?'" said the 23-year-old driver/trainer from Maine. "As it turns out, learning to drive that way was a huge help for me. When they would win, it was really gratifying because it took a lot of hours and dedication to help them move forward. But it was really satisfying to see the end results of all that work. I think that's the biggest thing, is how much you can learn from a horse that isn't necessarily easy to drive. I give a lot of credit to my parents. They started me out with horses that were tough to drive. I had to learn to drive them first. When you start out driving the easy ones, it doesn't always help you to learn as quickly."

Those lessons would eventually pay off handsomely for Athearn.

Launching his driving career in 2014, a year in which he won three races from 25 starts, the reinsman honed his craft to the point where he reached an impressive milestone four years ago.

For Athearn, the 2018 season was a pivotal moment in his standardbred life.

"I would say the first year I had 100 wins was the moment things really began to take off for me. I had won two Sires Stakes finals in Maine, and things really started to come together for me. I do set goals myself. Every year, I try to do better than the previous one. For the past few years, I've set a goal of 200 wins on the season and a new high in yearly earnings. I was able to set a new high in earnings in 2021, but I haven't reached 200 wins yet." Not for lack of effort.

Courtesy Matthew Athearn

Athearn rolls into 2022 having posted four consecutive campaigns of 117 wins or higher. Last year, he went over the $1 million plateau in earnings for the second time.

He gives credit to a trio of horses for his memorable 2021 season, including a pair of trainees sent out by his mother.

"We have a couple of my mom's horses who really impressed me last year, Jack Roger and The Wayfaring Man. Both of them were really nice to sit behind and I'm looking forward to driving them again this year."

An 8-year-old son of Rock N Roll Heaven, Jack Roger, owned by Katie Flaherty, provided Athearn with one of his most treasured victories to date.

The win, which came at Plainridge, was the exact opposite of a dream trip for both pacer and driver.

Thankfully, the end result was a picture-perfect finish.

"Jack Roger, he tries really hard. He went some pretty insane miles last year. The second start we had him, he was parked the whole mile, and he came back to win out of the seven-hole. It was unbelievable. He was so good, so calm and so full of heart."

Athearn has similar praise for another pacer, a son of Artistic Fella, who is closing in on 200 career starts and 70 lifetime wins.

"I drove a horse by the name of Artful Way last year at Plainridge. It was unbelievable to drive him and see how classy he is. He's just a really nice horse to sit behind. He was a blast to drive."

That said, Athearn isn't averse to continuing his association with the horses who present more of a challenge when he's holding the reins.

He's hoping his efforts pay off with more opportunities on the racetrack.

"I try to work at getting better drives and more drives. But I think my biggest skill is bringing the best out in horses that are tough to drive. I seem to get along with those kind of horses. I'm not sure exactly why that it is, it's just something that seems to be a fit for me."

Athearn will also continue to look to his parents for guidance.

Watching his mother and father go about their respective daily routines is a regular source of inspiration for the young horseman.

"My mom is an extremely hard worker. She works hard from sun up until sun down. It wasn't so much words of advice from my parents that I recall, but more about how they led by example and how they still do. That continues to be a big thing for me. When you see how much effort they put in and how dedicated they are to the horses, it motivates me every day."

As does Athearn's willingness to work on what he perceives to be the biggest challenge he faces when he lines up behind the starter car.

"You have to keep very level-headed in racing. You can't get too high or too low or it will affect how you race. It's about staying right in the middle. I'm by far – and people around me all know it – the hardest person on myself. That's why I try do my best to keep a level head. But when I do win a couple, it does make me feel really good. I think that's been the biggest challenge for me, being able to understand there are things out of my control. I always seem to blame myself, even if it's not my fault. I'm trying to teach myself to not do that."

When he isn't at the barn or in the sulky, Athearn, an avid fisherman, can often be found on the water.

As far as fishing stories go, the one he shares has nothing to do with the one that got away.

"I really enjoy fishing a lot. This one time, it was myself, my dad and his dad, and my brother. We all went canoeing in a little back lake. I was in the canoe with my grandfather, and we heard a big splash. We turn around and my dad and brother had fallen in the lake when they tried to wash their hands in the water. It was pretty funny. They still complain about having to swim back to shore, soaking wet, but it was funny."

Fishing, like racing, also delivers Athearn with something he thrives on.

"It can be challenging when you are trying to catch fish. You have to remain patient and there are no guarantees that you will end up catching something. And if you do, you have to work hard to reel them in. But that's what is so great about it."

Just as it is to work with a hard-to-handle horse.

If a trainer does happen to have a difficult sort on his hands, Athearn is open for business.

"I would tell them, 'I got it,'" he said with a grin.

Product placement can reduce track takeout to benefit bettors – Part 1

by Frank Cotolo

The uproar about reducing track takeout probably will not be over until the takeout is not taken out entirely.

I know gamblers, specifically pari-mutuel horse racing players. They won't settle for minor reductions in takeout rates, the kind that flirts with strong changes mostly because gamblers know they have skin in the game that is easily abraded by its mathematics. Plus, they know betting is the action that keeps tracks from bulldozers and that gives bettors a sense of entitlement.

Racetracks are facing the takeout problem more than ever, but no one has found the number that works for track and bettor; not at individual venues or as a national standard (international counting Canada and the United States).

That means only one thing. All pari-mutuel businesses need to develop more income streams so the takeout rates can drop in a manner that indicates perhaps one day they will be gone. Certainly, that is most likely the only form of mediation between the parties that may satisfy them.

Wagering has been rising at many racetracks in the second decade of the 2000s and takeout rates have been lessening, but, according to bettors, not anywhere near equally. Racetracks should pay attention to their sole audience and look far beyond using the audience's money not only to keep the door open but to improve serving their live and on-line audiences in ways that make bettors feel the value of their participation.

This short series is the perfect vehicle for Alternative Actions (AA) to present an existing income-stream method that borrows from another entertainment industry – producing motion pictures.

As this column has done before, AA will present possibilities and examples that may or may not be perfect to execute but will serve to plant the concept into the consciousness of racetrack administrations; and the powers-that-be in control of management's obligation to make money should be smart and creative enough to explore their values.

The program is called "Product Placement" and I begin its definition with my personal history of discovering its brilliant operation.

Hollywood, California – On The Set

Until I worked on movie sets at Universal, Warner Brothers, Paramount and Columbia pictures, Hollywood's biggest film factories, I was unaware of the incidental financial elements supporting the production of movies and television shows. I assumed those companies paid for all the expenses when making movies. I believed it, even assuming is a poor foundation for beliefs, even though I was in the majority of the general public.

What I knew about the sources of money invested in film productions was less than the little I knew about any aspect of the film-making process. I was a raving neophyte raised watching movies on the thick black-and-white screen of a Magnavox TV set since I was 4-years-old and becoming an avid movie patron at New York City's local theaters far from the madding Hollywood crowd.

By my late 20s I was still ignorant concerning Hollywood's main export but by then I was working on the inside of the entertainment business, literally living in the town of Hollywood and loving California. It was on-the-job training. I had no mentor; I learned everything from those working with me and around me. Many were members of my generation and were well versed in every aspect of the film industry. I did not reveal my lack of experience but really, in my defense, how was I to know there were more sources piling dollars into developing movies from scratch to theater projectors than there were Carradine kids?

One day I heard an [anonymous] producer say, "Show business is a business of shows. So learn the f business or you are out of f business." No matter the artistic ingredients, he meant, making money was any production's priority. I had more than an inkling that money measured show business success but I was naive about the various channels getting pieces of the action.

I discovered Product Placement from people doing the placing when a movie is being shot. On the set, a crew of people prepare the sets and another few not in the crew tell the crew where to position certain brand-name items. They are the product placers representing the item that has paid for the right to be in the shot.

In a scene taking place in the present, for instance, you watch two actors say their lines in a kitchen. Between them is a shelf. On the shelf, prominently, is a jar of Skippy Creamy Peanut Butter. The food company that makes Skippy Creamy Peanut Butter has paid big dollars, depending how much screen time will display Skippy Creamy Peanut Butter, to be on that shelf.

Add nine other brand-name products to the shelf, say grape jelly, a loaf of bread, a jar of honey and so on, and imagine how the budget for the movie increases.

Bazire and Raffin dominated Paris' meeting

by Thomas Hedlund

The 2021/2022 winter meeting in Paris ended with $265,000 Prix de Selection on Saturday (March 6) afternoon and after four months of intensively racing in France's capital city, it's clear the sport is still dominated by Jean-Michel Bazire and Eric Raffin.

Bazire was outstanding among the trainers that competed in Paris during the meeting and his stable collected 52 wins and earned $2,811,523 this winter.

Eric Raffin topped the drivers with 85 wins.

Ready Cash dominated as sire with 36 wins and $2,466,470 in total earnings.

Last battle for Billie de Montfort... in France

Eleven-year-old super mare Billie de Montfort, trained by Sébastien Guarato, will race on French soil for the last time this Sunday (March 13) in the $225,000 Criterium de Vitesse at Cagnes-sur-Mer. But, according to breeder and owner Philippe Dauphin, it's not certain that Billie de Montfort has made her last start, French media Paris-Turf reported.

"We still don't know if we will continue the adventure with Billie in another country. That decision can be made after the race on Sunday in consultation with Sébastien Guarato and his wife Anne," Dauphin said.

Billie de Montfort's merits are outstanding and the most characteristic trait is her toughness and strong body. Her career has been long and the 11-year-old Jasmin de Flore mare has fought against the best horses in the crop, both in her home country and in most of the other European harness racing countries.

Before Sunday's race in Cagnes-sur-Mer, Billie de Montfort has earned $2,816,489 and her biggest trophy was claimed in the $250,000 Gran Premio delle Nazioni in Milan 2020.

"B-horse" Bahia Quesnot is another great mare born in the same crop as Billie de Montfort and she is also entering the track for the last time in France this Sunday.

Title defender Vivid Wise As will probably be heavy favorite in the mile race on Sunday and facts say that the 8-year-old Italian bred Yankee Glide son is tough to beat at the racetrack on the French Riviera. Five earlier attempts on the red track have resulted in five wins and Vivid Wise As has claimed the title in Criterium de Vitesse two years in a row.

Burke Brigade sweeps to start MGM Ladies Pacing Series at Yonkers

by Yonkers Raceway media

Ron Burke trainees Divine Deo and JM Betonsix were the winners of the pair of $20,000 divisions of the opening round of the MGM Rewards Ladies Pacing Series for 3- and 4-year-old fillies and mares on Wednesday night (March 9) at a soggy Yonkers Raceway.

Starting from post one and driven by George Brennan in the initial grouping, Divine Deo came out of the pocket on the first turn after getting away in second and took command away from State Of Mind (Yannick Gingras) prior to the :28.3 opening quarter. From there, Divine Deo stayed in front through a :58.1 half and a 1:26.2 three-quarters on her way to a two length victory in 1:54.3. Belina (Jordan Stratton) was the runner-up after making a first-over move out of fourth in the last quarter, and State Of Mind was the third-place finisher.

Divine Deo, a 4-year-old Bettor's Delight mare, is trained by Burke for the ownership group of Burke Racing Stable LLC. and Weaver Brussemi LLC. This was her 11th win from 34 career starts, and she has now earned $90,875. She was sent off at 1-5 and paid $2.80 to win. The exacta kicked back $7.40 and the trifecta was worth $12.80.

In the other flight, JM Betonsix (Gingras) left from the outside post seven but had to work to get around Gabby's Girl (Matt Kakaley), finally doing so just after the 28-second opening quarter. JM Betonsix would then be unchallenged through middle-half panels of :57.4 and 1:26, and a :29.1 last quarter got her to the wire a length and a quarter ahead of Gabby's Girl in a 1:55.1 effort. Off The Record (Scott Zeron) sat third on the cones and wound up finishing in that position.

Gingras also co-owns JM Betonsix, a 4-year-old daughter of Betting Line, with Frank Canzone. JM Betonsix now has a record of 7-6-4 from 30 appearances, and she pushed her bankroll to $91,253. JM Betonsix, the 4-5 choice, returned $3.70 to win and was atop a $15.80 exacta and a $46.00 trifecta.

Matt's Muscles, a 5-year-old Deweycheatumnhowe gelding who was making his debut for Burke in the sixth race, was also victorious, giving the stable a hat trick on the program.

Stakes action continues next week at Yonkers with the second rounds of the MGM Rewards Gents Pacing Series (Tuesday) and MGM Rewards Ladies Pacing Series (Wednesday), and those events will be joined on Friday by the opening leg of the Blue Chip Matchmaker Series for older pacing mares, commencing the Grand Circuit schedule for 2022.

Yonkers is currently hosting live racing Monday-Friday, with each card getting underway at 6:55 p.m.

Miller heading to Aiken for matinee day

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

David Miller has visited dozens of racetracks during his career, but on Saturday (March 12) the Hall of Fame driver will see one for the first time when he travels to Aiken, SC, for the McGhees' Mile Matinee Day.

McGhees' Mile is a family owned-and-operated standardbred training center with more than 250 stalls and numerous paddocks located on 77 acres. The facility is home to a one-mile red clay track, a half-mile red clay track, and a seven-eighths-mile sand track.

Eight trainers are stabled at McGhees' Mile this winter.

Janis McGhee, who is putting together the matinee card, anticipates 12 races on Saturday. Hall of Fame announcer Roger Huston, "The Voice," will call the action. Gates open at 9 a.m. and the races begin at noon. Ticket information is available at the McGhees' Mile Facebook page here.

"We usually have a really good crowd," McGhee said. "It's a family atmosphere, pretty relaxed. Everybody has tailgates and wide spreads of food everywhere. You should see the things they have, all kinds of food."

"Everybody has fun. They just love to watch the trotters."

The event usually attracts several thousand people.

"I've never been there, so when I was asked to come down, I thought it would be cool to do something new," Miller said. "I've heard they get a great crowd, and it's a great atmosphere; people really enjoy themselves. I have a feeling it will kind of take me back to my days of racing at the fairs in Ohio. I'm really looking forward to it. There are a few trainers there that I drive for, so it will be nice to see them, too. It should be a fun day."

Miller, who was inducted into the Harness Racing Hall of Fame in 2014, ranks No. 2 among all drivers in harness racing history in purses with $261 million. John Campbell holds the record with nearly $300 million. Miller has ranked among North America's top-five drivers in earnings 22 of the past 23 years. He led the sport in purses in 2003 with $11.4 million.

The Ohio native is No. 6 all time in wins with nearly 13,600.

Last year, Miller was the driver of 3-year-old female pacer Test Of Faith, who was the 2021 Dan Patch Award Horse of the Year. Miller was the regular driver of two previous Horse of the Year honorees, Always B Miki in 2016 and No Pan Intended in 2003.

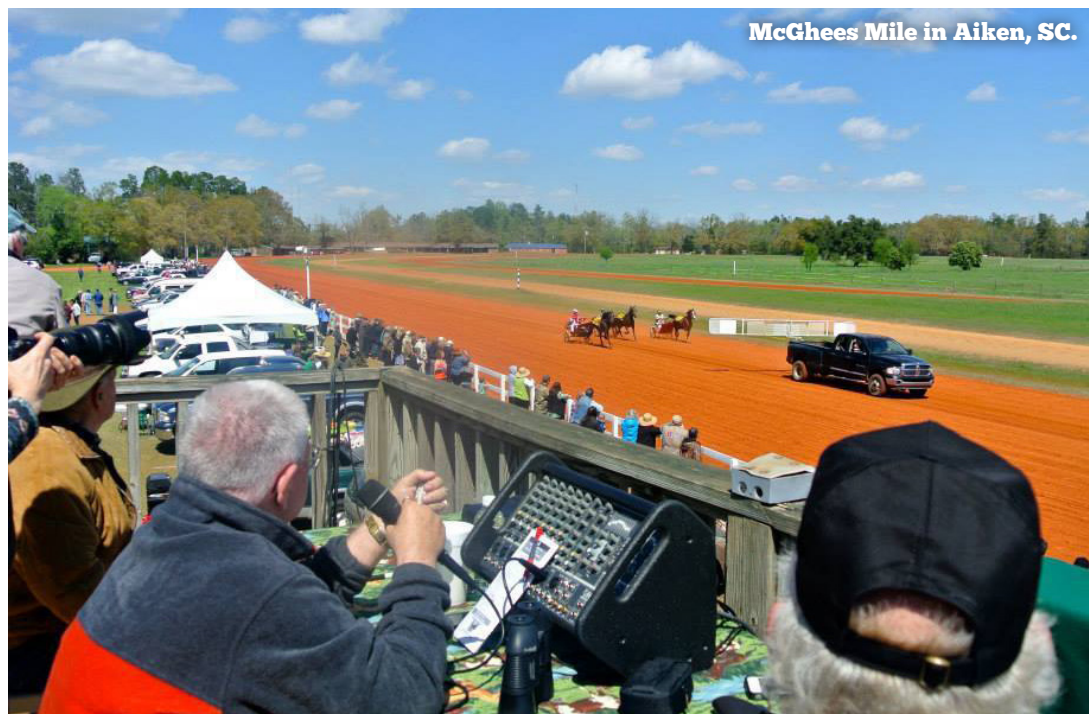

Miller drove at least two of the horses stabled at McGhees' Mile last year: Pauline Hanover, trained by John McKeon, and A Handsome Face, trained by Rosy Weaver.

Pauline Hanover, a 3-year-old female trotter who is a half-sister to multiple-stakes-winner Don't Let'em, was purchased by McKeon for $105,000 at last November's Standardbred Horse Sale Mixed Sale. She is eligible to the Hambletonian Oaks.

Last year while racing for Carter Pinske, Pauline Hanover won two of 12 races and hit the board a total of eight times. Her top win came in a preliminary leg of the Kentucky Sire Stakes Commonwealth Series. She also had two seconds in preliminary legs of the Commonwealth Series and finished third in the final. She finished her season with $52,745.

"She has trained very well and I'm very pleased with her up to now," said McKeon, who is spending his first winter in Aiken. "But I don't know if she is a Hambletonian Oaks horse. She's gotten stronger and better, but she might be a step down from that level. But we're always hopeful."

Patience pays off for Rosy Weaver

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Rosy Weaver is a patient person when it comes to her horses. Given her preference to work exclusively with trotters, it can be a helpful trait.

Weaver, a 35-year-old Ohio native, is coming off her best season as a trainer in 2021, with her stable winning 54 races and $370,588. She ranked second to Chris Beaver in victories among all trainers on the Ohio fairs circuit, posting 31 triumphs in 75 starts, and saw 2-year-old male trotter A Handsome Face capture an Ohio Fairs Championship.

This winter, Weaver is at McGhees' Mile in Aiken, SC, preparing her group of 30-plus horses for the 2022 campaign. Heartland Acres, which teamed with Weaver to buy horses two years ago, owns or co-owns with her the vast majority of the stable's 21 2-year-olds in addition to a handful of 3-year-olds, including A Handsome Face.

The transition from raceway stock to young horses led Weaver to shift her winter training from Ohio to McGhees' Mile, which features two red clay tracks and a sand track. The more pleasant climate, and opportunity to train regularly on a surface unaffected by harsh winter weather, were determining factors.

"It's so much harder on them, I think, while they're trying to develop and mature," Weaver said, referring to the north's winter conditions. "Garry Martin, who has been down here a few years already, came up to me at one of the fairs and said I needed to come down to Aiken. We talked about it, and one thing led to another. I mentioned it to my owner and told him if we were going to consider buying more babies, it would be a great idea.

"I think not only is it better for us, I think the horses are a lot happier. There are not so many gloomy days; cold, muddy days. The track is always good. It's almost always sunny. I really like the weather. I prefer it here over Florida because I don't mind chilly mornings and by afternoon it's perfect."

When she arrived at McGhees' Mile, she moved her horses into a newly renovated barn, painted in her stable's blue-and-white colors, alone on the backside.

"I love it," Weaver said. "It's like my own little town. It's just me, the workers, and the horses. That's my favorite part about being here. There's not a lot going on, and with 37 trotters, that's good. If you're somewhere where it's loud and there's always stuff going on, trotters tend to get keyed up a lot quicker than pacers. It's a perfect scenario. I've got my own paddocks. They don't get bothered by anything. It's very relaxing."

Weaver grew up on a farm and always loved horses. When she got out of school, she got a job as a groom at Ruby Hostetler's Flowing Mineral Farm. She advanced to second trainer, working with Jimmy Smith, before starting her own stable at the end of 2008.

"When I went on my own, I didn't have money to invest in babies, so I did what I could to make ends meet to begin my own journey," Weaver said. "I had trotters and pacers, all aged horses, and tried to advance them through (the conditions) and sell them. I did well enough that I could go to the sales and buy a couple babies.

"I just always loved trotters so much more. They're more of a challenge, in my opinion. I have a ton of patience for horses.

There can't be one bad enough that I won't be OK with trying. It takes a lot more (patience) with trotters. I decided to invest all my time and try to be as good as I could be with trotters. That way I can focus just solely on the one gait and doing the best I can with what I've got."

Her partnership with Heartland Acres is another step in her career development.

"Everything just bloomed from there," said Weaver, who has 419 lifetime wins as a trainer and another 27 as a driver. "Last year was exciting. I thought we had pretty good success for the first year."

And although Weaver is on her own, she is quick to point out she cannot do it alone.

"When I worked for Jimmy Smith, he was an exceptional boss and always did real good involving his whole crew," Weaver said. "When I was a groom there, I saw that, and I felt that, and it meant a lot. That's something I'll always carry with me as a trainer, to make sure to include all my help and everyone that's made it possible for me."

"I wouldn't be where I am if I didn't have an owner that bought good horses, if I didn't have Don Irvine Jr. driving my horses. I'm very lucky to have him as part of my team. I don't want to draw attention just to myself. It's everybody in my stable."

On Saturday (March 12), Weaver will see 18 of her horses in action when McGhees' Mile hosts a dozen matinee races. Among those will be Wishing Itsme, a 3-year-old filly who missed last season because of an injury suffered while in her stall. Weaver considers the trotter one of her top prospects.

"She was at Rood & Riddle (Equine Hospital) for two months and was close to death a few times from bad infections," Weaver said. "The vets at Rood & Riddle did beyond amazing to make it possible for her to be here today. They did all the right things and cared about her a lot to get her over the hump."

"I'm excited. She's training down like a good horse. I'm just riding the ride with her. She's done everything right and is just waiting to do more. She has a heart of gold and a really nice stride. We'll see how the matinee goes for her on Saturday for her first so-called race experience, but I think if she can keep it together, she will be put on the map this year."

Host tracks set for 2022 Canadian Driving Championships

Standardbred Canada is pleased to announce the host tracks and dates for the 2022 Regional Driving Championships and National Driving Championship which will determine Canada's representative to the 2023 World Driving Championship.

The 2022 National Driving Championship will take place at Century Mile in Edmonton, AB on Thursday, Nov. 24.

"As the newest racetrack in Canada, it is not only a privilege but also very exciting to host the National Driving Championship at Century Mile Racetrack and Casino," said Paul Ryneveld, managing director, racing, at Century Mile. "In our first three seasons of racing, drivers and horsepeople alike found the one-mile track to their liking and we believe the wide turns and long home-stretch will make for a fun event from both a spectator and a betting angle. This will also be a fantastic event to showcase Century Mile to racing fans across Canada and North America, and to the drivers competing to represent Canada in the next World Driving Championship."

This marks the first time that the National Driving Championship has been hosted in Alberta. Drivers must earn their way into the National Driving Championship by finishing first or second in their respective Regional Driving Championship.

The Ontario Regional will be hosted at The Raceway at the Western Fair District, Century Downs will play host to the Western Regional, Red Shores Racetrack and Casino at Charlottetown Driving Park will be the site of the Atlantic Regional and the Quebec / Eastern Ontario Regional will be hosted at Hippodrome 3R.

"We are very pleased to present the 2022 Regional and National Driving Championships after having to postpone the 2020 events due to COVID," said Dan Gall, president and CEO of Standardbred Canada. "We are looking forward to working with all of our track partners across the country and are very

Boom Dynamite, Sweetlies N Alibis win final Paver Memorial preliminaries

Boom Dynamite (Tony Hall) established himself as the favorite for the $25,000 championship leg of the Ray Paver Sr. Memorial Series at Miami Valley by trotting to a second straight triumph on Wednesday (March 8). His 1:56.1 effort, a lifetime best, bested Harry Carry (Austin Hanners) and Secret Or Not (Trevor Smith). The 4-year-old son of Broadway Hall will take a three race win streak into the lucrative final next Wednesday (March 16) for owner-trainer Kim Dailey and partners Randy Leopard and Todd Woodruff.

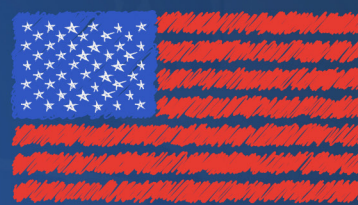

Sweetlies N Alibis (Chris Page) earned her spot behind the championship leg starting gate by winning the other split in 1:57. The 4-year-old daughter of Deep Chip, who got parked during a quick first quarter in the first preliminary leg and failed to get a check, rebounded well to triumph over Wegoforthefront (Dan Noble) and Cheesy Hanover (Tyler Smith). The winner and the runner-up were both in do-or-die situations as they needed a minimum of third place finishes to make the lineup for the championship tilt. Sweetlies N Alibis is trained by Daren Harvey for the Sweiger Stable.

The nine highest money winners in the first two preliminary legs of the Paver Memorial will contest the final. They are: Boom Dynamite, Sweetlies N Alibis, Sly Little Fox, Cheesy Hanover, Harry Carry, Wegoforthefront, Orion's Star, MJ's Libertyvalance and Secret Or Not. Should any of the top nine decline to enter then ER Nelson would be next in line.
