Racing returns to the Hoosier State beginning tonight

Harrah's Hoosier Park in Anderson, IN opens its 160-day 2021 meet tonight. The schedule features plenty of stakes events, including a few new ones.

Indiana

One year ago, Indiana horsemen were unsure when racing would begin in the Hoosier State. The COVID-19 pandemic created an 82-day delay, and when racing began, the schedule was reduced to 111 dates. This season, Harrah's Hoosier Park is offering a full 160-day harness meet, kicking off tonight (March 26) and Saturday, March 27. Rick Moore, Hoosier Park's vice president and general manager of racing, is ready for the sound of thundering hooves to return to the Anderson oval for its 28th season.

"What a difference a year makes. In a way it seems like yesterday, in a way it seems like 10 years ago if you think about all we've gone through in the last year," said Moore. "It looks like on Friday night and Saturday night we're going to have some very competitive racing. We had 168 in the box for Friday and 150 for Saturday. We've still got a lot of horses to get qualified. That bodes well for us."

Hoosier Park will begin the season with two nights of racing, offering a pair of programs featuring 14-race cards, each kicking off at the customary 6:30 p.m. first post. Three days of racing will be offered the next week, and the track will slowly expand to five nights of racing each week by mid-May. This year, Tuesday programs have been dropped in exchange for Sunday racing. Other changes focus on the wagering menu, where a Pick 3, Pick 4 and Pick 5 have been added, with carryovers on the Pick 4, Pick 5 and Superfectas. Add in a guaranteed $10,000 Pick 4 each Thursday and the guaranteed $10,000 Hoosier High Five four nights a week (excludes Saturday) and Moore feels Hoosier Park has much to offer the betting public.

"Everyone wants to make a big score, everyone wants a big payoff. When you guarantee a pool, people want to know there is value in those pools. That's what the bettor wants," Moore said. "They are pretty savvy. They aren't going to wager unless they know there is value, at least an opportunity for value. I think with the guaranteed pools and carryovers, that provides value to the bettor. At the end of the day that's what we're trying to provide, value to the bettor."

The racing landscape is competitive, but Moore feels the Hoosier Park product can shine in the marketplace. The key is to have an attractive product, both in the quality of racing and wagering menu.

"There are a multitude of options out there. You have to have as attractive a product as possible. It goes for the racing out on the track, to the wagering menu that you present to the bettor," he said. "Our signal is going to go out to over 500 outlets. We are on the schedule down in Australia, so I'm very excited about that."

In addition to the ultra-competitive Indiana Sires Stakes program, Hoosier Park will offer an open stakes program featuring nearly $3.4 million in estimated purses, headlined by the $300,000-est. Dan Patch Stakes and $200,000-est.

"Your program has to be balanced. I've always been a believer in that," said Moore. "You really want to have a program that gets national attention. With our open stakes, we've definitely done that. We load our open stakes toward the last third of the year. We've seen the best trainers, drivers and horses here at Harrah's Hoosier Park, and that's a source of pride for all of us in Indiana that are involved in the harness racing industry."

Race secretary Scott Peine has added new stakes on an already impressive calendar with the Phil Langley Memorial Trot for sophomore colts and geldings. The event, advertising a $100,000 estimated purse with a $20,000-est. consolation, will be contested Friday, Sept. 24. Peine has also added the Thanksgiving Classic Series, four divisions for sophomore pacers and trotters, with $60,000-est. purses for each division, to be held on Thanksgiving day. The series extends opportunities for 3 year olds that starts with the Pegasus and Circle City in October and Star Destroyer in November. In the midst of the group of races, sophomores can battle in the Monument Circle, USS Indianapolis Memorial, Carl Erskine and Crossroads of America. The Thanksgiving Classic Series received 274 nominations in the first year, while the Star Destroyer, previously held earlier in the season, saw a 73 percent increase in nominations for 2021.

"It makes a great series to showcase Grand Circuit caliber horses," Peine said. "It provides an opportunity for a good regional horse or a horse that might not be Breeders Crown material."

The Hoosier Cup was once the richest harness race in Indiana, an open stake whose past winners include Dragon Again, Real Desire, World Of Rocknroll, Jr. Mint, Skydancer Hanover, Total Truth and Mr Wiggles. Peine is bringing back the name, but the race is restricted to Indiana-sired 3-year-old colt and gelding pacers. No nomination is required for the event, but the entrance fee is $750. The Hoosier Cup carries an estimated purse of $75,000, with eliminations set for Sunday, June 27 and the final slated for Sunday, July 4. A $17,500-est. consolation is also offered.

"The name has a good history. We wanted to rebrand it and make it a good summer target for Indiana-sired three year olds," said Peine. "The race falls between legs of the sires stakes. We have scheduled a lot of the stakes around the sires stakes program to encourage Indiana-sired horses to participate. Right now, after the Super Finals, these horses have the potential of five more races at Hoosier Park."

The rebranding continues with Madison County, previously offering four divisions. Now for freshman colt and gelding trotters, the race is a single dash for the cash, with the 10 entries possessing the highest lifetime earnings lining up behind the gate. The stake carries an estimated purse of $100,000.

Hoosier Park's changes extend to the announcer's booth. Serving as the voice of the track since 1998, Steve Cross stepped away from the microphone at the conclusion of the 2020 season. Replacing Cross is Michael Chamberlain, a veteran of 24 years, including stops at Sam Houston Race Park, Evangeline Downs, Turf Paradise and Vernon Downs.

Chamberlain set to debut as new voice at Harrah's Hoosier Park

by Brett Sturman

When Harrah's Hoosier Park kicks off its 2021 racing season tonight (March 26), the Anderson, IN track will have a new voice to go with it. Veteran announcer Michael Chamberlain will assume the day-to-day race calling responsibilities following the departure announced earlier this year of Steve Cross, who up to this year had called races at the track since 1998.

Chamberlain comes to Indiana in the midst of a near 25-year career via the route of thoroughbred racetracks Sam Houston, Turf Paradise and most recently Evangeline Downs. Within that includes concurrent race call duties at other smaller circuits, including harness track Vernon Downs. And in addition to Vernon, Chamberlain has harness racing ties in his roots despite the thoroughbred announcing pedigree.

"I did Vernon in the summer of 2014 and it was a lot of fun," said Chamberlain. "I enjoyed it immensely and I've always been a fan of harness racing and that style of racing. Going back to when I was a kid, I grew up in New Jersey and the first racetrack I ever went to was Yonkers. I made several trips to the Meadowlands going back to when I was a kid with my folks, and we went and saw Abercrombie win there in the late '70s. I was actually able to find that race on YouTube which was really great, too."

For the New Jersey native who has called races predominantly at tracks in the southern and western parts of the country, this will be his first full-time foray in the midwest. Chamberlain will draw from his Vernon Downs stint as well as his natural race calling ability as he transitions into the Hoosier announcing role.

"I remember when I started calling Vernon and I could tell you that for those first couple of weeks I was a little uncomfortable, just because it's a different cadence for how you're calling the race. But I think that experience is going to help quite a bit because – granted that's been seven years ago – but having been through that I don't think there's going to be as severe a transition this time around."

As others who have made the change from calling harness to thoroughbred and vice-versa, Chamberlain said, "the thing for me is just making sure that I have a lot of the terminology right. For example, you don't say things like 'first-over' or 'following cover' in the thoroughbreds, so it'll just be a matter of me starting to accumulate that vocabulary that I'm going to have and be able to work it into a race call smoothly. It's not anything I'm particularly nervous about, but I'll certainly be trying to work on that as the year goes on."

The race announcing community is a closely-knit one, even between the two standardbred and thoroughbred breeds, in which announcers continuously mentor and learn from one another. Having close relationships with many other race callers himself, Chamberlain has many well-wishers as he begins at Indiana.

"I heard from Bill Downes, who is the announcer at Indiana Grand, within the last few days," said Chamberlain. "He's called some races here at Hoosier and so he had some tips on certain angles and how the lighting effects the way you view the race through the announcer's booth window, so that was very helpful. And it was great on my Twitter account from so many that I know to be able to receive their well wishes, including John G. Dooley down at the Fair Grounds and Don Stevens at Delta Downs. I've worked with Don who's become a very great friend in these last six years, and just to get the recognition from my peers has been really great."

As Chamberlain gets set to lift the lid on this season of racing action at Hoosier, a preview of what's to come could be seen over the course of nine qualifiers that were conducted this past Wednesday. In the dry run of sorts, Chamberlain's race calls were clear, accurate, along with some timely creativity thrown in there.

In addition to calling the races, Chamberlain will have other responsibilities at the track as well that will encourage fan interaction and bring about further awareness of the product.

"I'll be on with Emily Gaskin and (VP & GM of racing) Rick Moore doing handicapping, and of course making announcements for upcoming events and promotions that we'll be doing. We'll be telling everybody about all the wagering options that we'll have such as a new Pick-5 on the first five races on the program this season. I'll be doing a play of the night for each of the Pick-5's during the broadcast so I'm hoping to hit a couple of them, I don't want to be 0 for the season," Chamberlain joked. "So, if I can pull out a couple of nice payouts for the fans that would be great. And I'll be definitely be busy not just calling the races but representing the racetrack and being on camera as part of the community here."

Eight outstanding caretakers

In recognition of Women's History Month we take a look at some of the best caretakers in the business – all of them women.

by Debbie Little

They've been called hard-working, indispensable and the backbone of our sport.

Dave Landry

Shelly Grieco and Market Share after winning the 2012 Hambletonian.

But maybe caretakers Marita Berglund, Kim Calenda, Helene Engblom, Shelly Grieco, Sanne Hansen, Diane Lewis, Katie Remmerswaal and Anette Zakrisson are best described as the heart of our industry, since you need a heart to be passionate, love, and most importantly, care.

"If you don't love the horses, forget about it, you're never going to want to spend the hours," said Berglund. "You have to love your horse. You can't just do it for a paycheck."

Berglund, 64, grew up in the business in Sweden, and started grooming when she was 15. She currently works for trainer Jim Campbell.

"Probably in one word, she's dedicated," said Campbell. "She loves her horses. She lives, eats, breathes her horses. I've never seen anybody that knows a horse like she does. She can spot something on a horse faster than me, a veterinarian or anybody else."

In these days when grooms are hard to find, Campbell appreciates all the good ones that work for him and agrees that they never get enough credit.

"Because they're the ones that are putting in all the hard work and they definitely deserve a lot more praise and a lot more other things than what they get, too," he said. "She's not afraid to voice her opinion and I like that because I always believe that good opinions are priceless, bad opinions are worthless.”

Calenda, 38, grew up riding hunter and jumpers and discovered standardbreds through a part-time job during college, because the blacksmith that shod her riding horses also worked at Pocono Downs.

“At the time, I really didn’t know anything about harness racing except I knew that they pulled the carts around the track,” said Calenda. “To be honest with you, when I started and they told me that I had to tie a horse’s tongue, I thought all the other people in the barn were playing a practical joke on me. That’s how little I knew about this sport.

“I went back to college my sophomore year and two months into it I dropped out because I fell in love with the breed and the sport and the people at the time. I fell in love with it because I’d never been around standardbreds and I think they’re one special breed.”

Calenda has been grooming in our sport for nearly 20 years now and at one time worked for trainer Ron Burke for about nine. She currently has been working for about a year for Julie Miller.

“First of all, [Kim has] horsemanship,” said Miller. “She knows her horses, she knows to look for signs and she’s a great care giver. She understands shoeing, the equipment, why we do what we do and she keeps track of the horse. She lets me know its general health conditions and she knows if something were to go wrong, like the horse is stressed after a warm up or sick or maybe there’s a difference from the day before. She’s just got her finger on the pulse.

“She’s with the horse way more than me. I take care of 60, she takes care of five, so you’ve got to really rely on them to know their job to inform you to do a better job.”

Engblom, 46, who started working with thoroughbreds in Sweden when she was 14, went to college and was a computer technician for a few years before coming back to the horses.

She’s been a standardbred caretaker now for 15 years, six of which were with trainer Jimmy Takter until his retirement. It was during that time Engblom made a special connection with the multiple Dan Patch Award winner, Shake It Cerry.

“She was just a yearling when I came there, but I fell in love with her right away,” said Engblom. “If I wasn’t in the barn and she was in the paddock, they’d have to leave her in the paddock until I came back to the barn, because they couldn’t catch her.

“One time, the whole barn was trying to catch her because she was going to the vet and the vet called me and said ‘I’m coming back later, when are you back at the barn?’ She was my horse all the way through. Even Jimmy still says that. He calls her my horse.”

Engblom currently works with her husband, Per, who has been trying unsuccessfully to get his wife to rethink her day-to-day routine.

“We run it as a family business and I’ve been trying to keep her away from grooming for a couple of years, but it’s hard because that’s really what she wants to do,” said Per. “She wants to be hands-on with the horses even though I need help running the business with office stuff. If you’re passionate about the horses, that’s really what you want to do.

“Her best qualities are her passion and she loves her horses unconditionally. It doesn’t have to be a good horse for her to put in 110 per cent.”

Grieco, 47, grew up in the business but was planning to be an elementary education teacher, until one semester she couldn’t get the classes she needed, so she took it off to work for a trainer at home in Buffalo and the rest is history.

She’s been a groom now for about 20 years, and currently works in Hall of Famer Linda Toscano’s barn, where she’s cared for many good horses, but 2013 Dan Patch Male Trotter of the Year, Market Share, is definitely her favorite.

“He accomplished a lot on the racetrack, but he was more important to me off the racetrack,” said Grieco. “We just had that connection. He read my moods like no human ever has. He knew if I was in a bad mood, he’d do silly stuff and I’d just snap out of it. He was just a special horse. And it’s hard for people to understand. They’re like, ‘Oh, he’s just a horse.’ No, he’s not. He was my best friend.”

Having worked with Grieco for about 16 years, Toscano knows that she’s devoted to her horses.

“She gives them all a chance,” said Toscano. “From a trainer’s point of view, that’s the highest compliment you can pay a groom. She may love one more than the others, but they all get the same care. I’ve seen her pass up the opportunity to take care of a good horse, to keep one that deserves a shot.”

Hansen, 54, was introduced to harness racing in Denmark at a young age when her father would take her to the track. But it was in high school where she developed her love of the sport.

“Over there in school,” said Hansen, “you get to pick a week in 9th grade and two weeks in 10th grade for whatever occupation that you think you’d like and they send you out and I picked harness racing. So, I went out and I loved it and I’ve been here ever since.”

Throughout her 37-year career, Hansen has worked for Hall of Famers Billy Haughton, Gene Riegel, and, presently, Toscano.

“Sanne’s one of the hardest working people I’ve ever met,” said Toscano. “Where her horses go, she goes. I’ve seen her race a horse in Tioga, hop on another trainer’s horse van to get to Vernon to paddock another one of her horses at night. There’s no end to her work ethic. She’s worked for the best before she came to work for me. I’ve been lucky enough to have her for 15 years. She wouldn’t think of taking a shortcut on any horse.

“We physically cannot take care of these horses ourselves. And when you get lucky enough to get somebody the caliber of Shelly and Sanne, you have to appreciate it, because sometimes it’s a thankless job.”

Lewis, 38, grew up on the backstretch at Rosecroft doing stalls and horse laundry on weekends at 11 years of age and getting her license at 14.

“I’m third generation, so I was born on the track,” said Lewis. “I took my first bath in a muck bucket so to me this is all I know. I live and breathe this. You could not take me out this industry and have me survive because this is what I bleed. This is what I breathe.”

Lewis was inspired by her mother, Terry, who was a single parent raising three kids, racing a 30-horse stable and battling for top trainer honors.

“I was 12 years old and I could read a set of x-rays like a veterinarian,” said Lewis. “My mom was amazed and she would stand in the barn and say ‘Ask my daughter.’”

Lewis has worked the last five years for Hall of Famer Joe Holloway, taking care of Perfect Sting and Zero Tolerance.

“She’s very conscientious and aware of her horses,” said Holloway. “That seems to be the common trait of most of the better grooms. They are conscientious, they care for their horses, they try to think about what they need and what they want and keep them happy.”

Remmerswaal, 30, was practically born in a barn in Ontario and originally planned to become a veterinarian, but became too involved in the sport to go to school for such a long time.

She has been grooming for 13 years and currently works for 2020 USHWA Trainer of the Year Nancy Takter. Her favorite thing about her job is making the horses happy.

“I love caring for the horses,” said Remmerswaal. “It’s not something you can teach. It’s just something you feel. To see them go out and perform well, and play and eat well.”

Remmerswaal appreciates those quiet times with her horses because as April approaches, so do the long days of traveling for stakes races.

“There were nights in Lexington where I’d go to Indiana to race and I would get back and I’d just start my work because we got back at 4 in the morning,” she said.

Zakrisson, 45, was born into this business in Sweden, but finished college before starting her caretaker career.

Her first good one when she came to the U.S. was Rockin Image. Working for Jimmy Takter and now for Nancy, she’s taken care of quite an impressive group of horses, such as American Jewel, Ariana G, Captain Crunch, Idyllic Beach, Sorella, Trixton, The Ice Duchess, The Bank and Uncle Peter.

"I'm pretty spoiled," said Zakrisson. "You kind of learn don't get too attached too early because you don't know how long you're going to keep them."

Even though Nancy encourages her employees to take their week of vacation every year, Zakrisson rarely does. Zakrisson made an exception in 2019, when her father turned 70 and she attended a party in Florida.

The dedication of both Remmerswaal and Zakrisson is not lost on Nancy.

"I think what makes them good grooms is they always fight for their horses," Nancy said. "In big barns like mine, I have 82 horses to think about all day. But I can promise you that every single one of their horses are mentioned to me every single day. They're great, too, because they don't leave any stones unturned."

It's hard work and long hours with very little sleep. Why would they want to do this? Here are their answers:

"Every winter I say this is the last time. I'm not doing it anymore," said Berglund, who hates the cold. "But I'm still here. I don't know anything else. This is my life. I guess I was born to do this."

"I know as a little girl horses were always something I dreamed of and wanted," said Calenda. "You have to love what you're doing to work those types of hours. When you get a bond with a horse, it's something like you've never felt."

"What The Hill, his barn name was Bob. If he was at the bottom of the field and I would just yell his name Bob, he would nicker and gallop all the way up the field and come to me. They know their people's voices."

"I love the horses and I love the racing," said Engblom. "And I love winning. Winning is me being proud of my work. When you go out there and make the horses look as beautiful as possible and they do something good and they win, then you know you did a good job."

"I always blame it on being in my blood, so technically, I blame my father," said Grieco. "My dad raised me in this business and he told me 'You either do it right or you don't do it at all.' I think it's the passion for my horses that keeps me going. Through the long days, the short nights, the passion I have for them keeps me in this."

Dave Landry

Ariana G and caretaker Anette Zakrisson.

"I love the horses and it makes me happy," said Hansen. "That's the way of living that I chose. You get one life and you've got to be happy."

"Why do people become nurses?" said Lewis. "Why do people become doctors? Just for something to do? No. I do this because this is what I love. It's the thrill of watching something from a baby make it to the races or even watching an overnight horse progress week after week. If it was easy everybody would do it. The hardness is what makes it great. It takes a special type of person to do what we do."

"Because I love the sport. I love the animal," said Remmerswaal. "It's something I grew up in and I can't imagine doing anything else."

"For me, it's not my job, it's a lifestyle," said Zakrisson. "When you care, the horses feel that you care. Everybody that loves the business, they do everything they can for the horses. That's just the way it is. That's what's important. It doesn't matter what other people think you should do, what matters is what makes you happy."

Canadian sports betting bill amended to protect horse racing industry

by Jamie Dykstra / Woodbine communications

Thursday (March 25), with a unanimous vote, the Standing Committee on Justice and Human Rights amended Private Member's Bill C-218 to offer protection to the horse racing industry in Canada. Under the new proposed legislation, fixed odds wagering on horse racing would not be permitted.

"This is great news for the horse racing industry and the tens of thousands of jobs it supports across Canada," said Jim Lawson, CEO, Woodbine Entertainment. "On behalf of the industry, thank you to the Standing Committee for listening to our perspective and recognizing the need to protect horse racing from unintended consequences caused by the legalization of sports betting."

PMB C-218 was introduced by MP Kevin Waugh to legalize Single-Event Sports Betting in Canada. The horse racing industry supports the principle of the Bill but led a significant cross-party advocacy effort to ensure Committee members understood the unintended consequences to the industry if protections were not included. As part of those efforts, horse racing hall of fame jockey Sandy Hawley and representatives from the Central Ontario

Standardbred Association, Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association of Ontario, Racetracks of Canada, Quebec Jockey Club and Woodbine Entertainment appeared as witnesses over the past several weeks as the Standing Committee studied the proposed Bill.

The Bill will now proceed to Third Reading in the House and, if passed, head to the Senate for review.

"As the legislation process continues, our industry will remain active to ensure the protections remain in the Bill through the Senate process," Lawson said. "We also recognize that with this potential emergence of sports betting in the near future, our industry will face increased competition in the legal wagering market and must pursue additional sources of revenue to further protect our industry."

As an established leader and trusted Canadian organization in regulated single-event sports betting in Canada, Woodbine Entertainment will continue to advocate for an opportunity to participate in sports betting in a meaningful.

"We look forward to continuing to engage with government and other stakeholders to offer our expertise in regulated sports wagering as Canada prepares for this new and emerging sector," Lawson said. "The opportunity for us to offer our leadership in this sector has the potential for sports betting to be a very positive development for the horse racing industry across the country."

In addition to its efforts in sports betting, Woodbine Entertainment will continue to advocate for the legalization of Historical Horse Racing on behalf of the industry.

Shea Lare has auspicious start to his training career

The son of veteran trainer Kevin Lare has scored three wins and a second in his first four starts.

by Chris Lomon

If the start of his training career is any indication of what the future holds, 19-year-old Shea Lare has plenty to look forward to.

When the first four starts of your training career yields three wins and a second, it would be easy to get swept up in the moment.

But that's not how the teenager from Dover, DE, is reacting to the early success.

"I'm grateful the way things have started out, but I'm definitely not getting carried away with it," he said.

It was perhaps fitting that Lare put in a claim on Stick With Cramer, a 6-year-old son of Art Major, this past Valentine's Day at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono.

For the young conditioner/owner, it was love at first sight, so to speak.

Impressed by the pacer's stat sheet, on-track demeanor and consistent chart lines, Lare was looking forward to Stick With Cramer's first start as his new owner.

That milestone moment would come on Feb. 21 at Pocono Downs in a $7,500 leg of the Game of Claims series for $7,500-tagged horses.

Lare had modest expectations ahead of his first race in the training ranks, simply hoping that his veteran campaigner would pick up a check.

When the field straightened for home in race eight that evening, Stick With Cramer was second, just a head behind the leader. In the race bike, Marcus Miller was urging the bay gelding on as the wire drew ever closer.

If Lare was getting caught up in the thrilling front-end duel unfolding in front of him, he certainly wasn't showing it,

Courtesy Shea Lare

Nineteen-year-old Shea Lare is off to an incredible start to his training career.

at least not outwardly.

"I was keeping my emotions in check," said Lare, son of longtime horseman Kevin Lare. "I'm not very outspoken or loud, so I was able to just stay within the moment."

He was unable, however, to resist the big smile that emerged as Stick With Cramer eked out a head score in a time of 1:55.

Lare couldn't have scripted it any better.

"That would have been the perfect way it played out in my mind. I don't think there could have been a better way. It was amazing. My first start and winning it... all I was hoping for was a check. I can say that when he crossed the wire first, I was pretty excited. The emotions kind of came out then. I really couldn't help it. It felt like a dream for a while. So, winning my first race, it's a story that I can always have to tell."

After a second-place finish in another Game of Claims leg the following week, Stick With Cramer, on March 7, in the $15,000 Game Of Claims Championship for $7,500-tagged horses, was flying late again with Miller in tow.

The déjà vu moment wasn't lost on Lare, who proceeded to watch the number of the only horse he has in his barn flash on the infield screen after the photo finish.

"It was just another great moment. He really gave everything he had and it was a great drive. I was just speechless. Just like that first win, it was really close, but he got the job done. I got a lot of texts and call from people after my first win and just as many this time around. That really meant a lot to me."

On March 21, once again at Pocono, Stick With Cramer romped to a 5 ½-length score in a lifetime best mark of 1:51.3.

Perhaps the most impressive thing to come out of Lare's sizzling start is the manner in which he has carried himself.

Humility is a hallmark of the teenage horseman's personality. So, too, is the ability to see his career from a realistic lens.

"I don't want the good times to end, and obviously, I want to keep winning, but there is that thought that eventually it will come to an end. Sooner or later, your luck runs out. The key is to come to the barn each day to work at being successful and doing everything you can to prepare your horse. I can say that it will only make me work harder. I won't take anything for granted and through good times and bad, I'll have the same approach. I'm committed to getting better every day."

Working for his father, who has accumulated over 1,500 wins throughout his impressive training career, has been the ideal classroom for the younger Lare to learn his standardbred lessons.

He's happy to call himself a student of the game.

"My dad has about 20 horses, so you learn a lot and you learn something new every day. I've learned so much already from my dad, but I think being patient stands out as the biggest thing so far. My dad is a very patient person and things don't really get to him. He doesn't get upset if a horse races poorly. He kind of puts it on himself and looks at what he can do to correct things. He told me that good things will come if you put in the work, stay patient and keep an open mind. He told me time and time again that he learns something new every day. That's what it has been like for me too."

Lare doesn't just have a solid rapport with his father when it comes to the racing life. Stick with Kramer has been an ideal colleague, too.

"He has a great personality, he's great to work with and doesn't do a thing wrong. I really like this horse. I have no complaints at all. He's happy, he has his ears up all the time, he never tries to kick or bite, and he's great to jog. He's easy on himself and he's so professional on the track. I couldn't ask for a better horse. I feel very fortunate."

Courtesy Shea Lare

Lare said he's "grateful the way things have started out, but I'm definitely not getting carried away with it."

The pacer with 90 starts to his name has a few things in common with his trainer/owner.

"We might have the same personality," said Lare, with a laugh. "He's not a horse that gets excited. He just loves what he does. I haven't just spoiled him when he's won. I've spoiled him since the day I got him. He likes his rubs and extra carrots, and I'm happy to give him whatever he wants."

As for what Lare wants down the road, a barn of his own and driver colors could be in his future.

"I would say my goal for this year is to get a stable of five or 10 of my own horses by the end of the year, and still be doing as well as I am now. I'd like to keep building my own stable in 2021 and ultimately, venture out from my father. In a few years, I'd like to begin driving. Hopefully, I could do that for other people and keep a stable of my own. I love training and I know I'll always have a stable of my own, driving or not."

He's not putting any pressure on himself when it comes to his career.

"I guess I'll just see where it all takes me."

So far, he has like to the view.

Cameo Hills welcomes its first Lather Up foal

Cameo Hills Farm in Montgomery, NY, has welcomed its first foal sired by Lather Up. The filly, a daughter out of Hot Tail, arrived in early March. It is the second foal out of Hot Tail, who is a daughter of world champion Glowing Report, who earned over $2 million in her career and was named the 2006 O'Brien Award winner as older pacing mare of the year in Canada. Hot Tail delivered an American Ideal colt in 2020 named Knicks Go.

Pettycoat Business best in M Life Rewards Ladies Pacing Series final

by Yonkers Raceway

Pettycoat Business delivered as the 1-5 favorite in the $57,800 M Life Rewards Pacing Series final for fillies and mares on Tuesday night (March 23) at Yonkers Raceway, scoring in a 1:54.1 mile.

27-1 shot Dragon Roll (Jason Bartlett) had a great start from post seven and led early, but driver George Brennan moved Pettycoat Business from second to first before the :27.3 opening quarter. Pettycoat Business then backed down the tempo to :56.4 at the half, giving her the tactical advantage.

Turnthefrownaround (Joe Bongiorno), who had gone three-for-three in preliminary round action in the series, stepped out first-over from third after the half-mile clocking went on the board, but she was unable to advance to the 1:25 three-quarters and around the final turn, allowing Dragon Roll to slip to the outside and Paige's Girl (Scott Zeron) to come through on the pylons.

Despite the well-rated tempo, it looked like Pettycoat Business might be vulnerable entering the lane as Dragon Roll loomed boldly and Paige's Girl was waiting for a possible seam on the inside. Pettycoat Business responded gamely when called on by Brennan, though, and she stayed in front to the finish line, defeating Paige's Girl by half a length. Dragon Roll wound up third, following by Ready Set Rock (Austin Siegelman) and Turnthefrownaround.

A 4-year-old Art Major mare, Pettycoat Business is trained by Scott Di Domenico for co-owner/breeder Michael Robinson and his ownership partners Robert Mondillo, R.B.H. Ventures Inc., and Gilbilly Stable. Pettycoat Business now has a record of 6-5-4 from 20 tries, and she has earned $174,873. Pettycoat Business, who paid $2.40 to win, led a $6.90 exacta and a $73.00 trifecta.

There was also a $25,000 M Life Rewards Pacing Series consolation on the card, and 3-5 choice P L Nelly (Dan Dube) was victorious by two lengths in a life's-best clocking of 1:56.1. She posted fractions of 28.3, 58.3, and 1:27.1 on her way to downing first-over challenger Pray The Rosary (Brent Holland) and pocket-sitter Special Achiever (Jordan Stratton).

Juan Cano trains P L Nelly, a 4-year-old daughter of Big Jim, for owner Leo Marino. P L Nelly picked up her fourth win in her 29th start, and she has now banked $46,924. P L Nelly paid $3.50 to win and was atop a $14.60 exacta and a $37.20 trifecta.

Dragon Said stays hot with win in the M Life Rewards Gents Pacing Series final Persistent heavy rain and a sloppy track couldn't stop Dragon Said from breathing fire again in the $58,400 M Life Rewards Gents Pacing Series final for colts and geldings on Wednesday (March 24) night at Yonkers Raceway. Driven by Joe Bongiorno, the 4-year-old Well Said gelding prevailed in a life's-best time of 1:52.3, picked up his fourth consecutive victory, and went off at a juicy 10-1 to boot.

Dragon Said and Diamondbeach (Austin Siegelman) had the two outside posts in the race, but they were by far the quickest away from the gate, with Diamondbeach getting command and Dragon Said landing in the pocket in a rapid 26.3 opening quarter. Diamondbeach then put on the brakes in the second quarter, getting to the half in 55.3. Cigar Smoking Tony (Jason Bartlett) took up the chase from first-over coming to that marker, with Lou's Sweetrevenge (George Brennan) squeezing out into the second-over slot ahead of Retour Au Jeu (Jordan Stratton).

Cigar Smoking Tony was able to advance up into second before the 1:23.4 three-quarters, but he began to drop back past that station, and when no one behind him in the cover flow was able to fire, that left Diamondbeach and Dragon Said in a virtual match race coming into the lane. Bongiorno already had Dragon Said off the pylons before they turned for home, and after a brief battle in the stretch, Dragon Said went by the leader. From there, Dragon said widened his advantage, eventually hitting the wire two lengths ahead of Diamondbeach. Salt Life (Scott Zeron) saved ground on the inside and was third, Rolling With Sam (Dan Dube) finished fourth, and Scootnroll (Tyler Buter) collected fifth.

Jenn Bongiorno trains Dragon Said for owner Robert

Devine. Dragon Said now has a record of 7-7-3 from 32 lifetime starts, and he pushed his earnings to $75,432. Dragon Said returned $23.60 to win and headed a $97.00 exacta and a $644.00 trifecta.

There was also an upset winner in the $25,000 M Life Rewards Pacing Series consolation as 19-1 offering Odds On Brexit (Buter) led through fractions of 28.1, 57.3, and 1:25.4 on his way to a 1:54.4 triumph. He beat 4-5 favorite My Pal Joe (Alek Chartrand) by half a length, with Panther Time (Joe Bongiorno) back in third.

Odds On Brexit, a 4-year-old gelding by Rockin Image, is trained by Christopher Freck for owner Odds On Racing. Odds On Brexit picked up his fifth win in his 22nd attempt, and he has now pocketed $58,430. He paid $41.00 to win and was atop a $73.00 exacta and a $242.00 trifecta.

Stakes action resumes at Yonkers Raceway tonight (March 26) with a pair of $35,000 divisions of the third leg of the Blue Chip Matchmaker Series for pacing mares and continues on Monday night (March 29) with a trio of $40,000 splits of the third round of the MGM Borgata Series for free-for-all pacers. Alexa Skye, Blue Ivy, and Seaswift Joy N lead the entrants in the Blue Chip Matchmaker, and Backstreet Shadow, Hesa Kingslayer N, Lyons Steel, Rockapelo, and San Domino A are among the horses scheduled to compete in the MGM Borgata.

As a reminder, Monday night's card also marks the start of a 10 per cent purse increase at Yonkers. Condition sheets with the updated purse amounts are available here.

Action set to continue in Blue Chip Matchmaker & MGM Borgata Pacing Series

Horses will look to build on their point totals when Yonkers Raceway plays host to the third legs of the Blue Chip Matchmaker Series tonight (March 26) and the MGM Borgata Pacing Series on Monday (March 29).

In tonight's Blue Chip Matchmaker action, three of the pacing mares who have collected victories in the event thus far will face off in the second of two $35,000 divisions (race seven). Seaswift Joy N (post two, Andrew McCarthy/Tony Alagna) scored last Friday, Blue Ivy (post five, Tyler Buter/Todd Buter) was a round one winner, and Alexa Skye (post six, Todd McCarthy/Jeff Cullipher) will look to improve to three-for-three.

in this year's series as of yet. Snobytown (post two, George Brennan/Ron Burke) is the morning-line favorite after finishing second a week ago.

Hesa Kingslayer N (post four, Jim Marohn Jr./Mike Deters) will look to keep his unblemished record in the MGM Borgata Pacing Series intact as he leads Monday's first $40,000 split (race four). Hesa Kingslayer N clicked in 1:52.4 in round one and came back to score again in 1:51.4 last week. This Is The Plan (post seven, Yannick Gingras/Ron Burke) looks like his main competition off back-to-back runner-up performances.

Leg two winner Rockapelo (post three, George Brennan/Ron Burke) and round one victor San Domino A (post four, Todd McCarthy/Nancy Takter) meet up in the second MGM Borgata tilt in race five, and two more horses that own wins in the series so far - Lyons Steel (post two, Austin Siegelman/Dennis Watson) and Backstreet Shadow (post three, Tim Tetrick/Ron Burke) - headline the final section in race six.

Preliminary round action in the Blue Chip Matchmaker Series continues through Friday, April 9 and in the MGM Borgata Series until Monday, April 12. The finals of both series are scheduled for Monday, April 19.

Sheswildnfree and Rjs Invictus take Mohawk series finals

by Mark McKelvie / Woodbine communications

Better late than never, Woodbine Mohawk Park played host to the Wine & Roses and Family Day Trotting Series finals on Monday night (March 22).

Originally scheduled for Feb. 15, the winter series were pushed back to March due to the province-wide pandemic lockdown. Both finals featured a pair of preliminary legs ahead of Monday's added money finals.

Sheswildnfree rebounded from a miscue in leg two to score a decisive 4 ¼ length victory in the $34,400 Wine & Roses Trotting Series final (replay here). Sylvain Filion guided the Ben Baillargeon trained 4-year-old to the 1:54.2 score.

Sent off as the 2-5 favourite, Sheswildnfree flashed early speed along with next door rival Impulse Buy, clearing to command just after a :27.3 opening-quarter. The Baillargeon trainee put the race to bed from there, posting middle-half splits of :57.1 and 1:25.4 before scooting away in the lane for her fourth win in five starts this season.

Impulse Buy never relinquished second, while Charlotte Chaplin edged Hp Starlette for third.

A homebred for Tom & Elizabeth Rankin, Sheswildnfree is a daughter of Muscle Mass with now six wins and $77,158 to her name. The clocking of 1:54.2 is a new career-best.

Sheswildnfree returned $2.90 to win.

Rjs Invictus capitalized off a perfect second-over steer from driver Bob McClure to win the $35,800 Family Day Trotting Series final at odds of 8-1 (replay here). The Ray Lowery trainee finished sixth in the first leg and second in last week's second leg.

After an early scramble for the top, Franks Angel led the field through middle-half panels of :57.1 and 1:25.4. Meadowbranch Noble came first-up to attack the leader and was on even-terms at the third-marker, while Rjs Invictus and McClure were latched onto that cover ready to pounce.

Rjs Invictus claimed the lead with an eighth of a mile to go, but had to fight off a hard-closing Toccoa Falls, who was the 2-1 favourite and closing from seventh turning for home. Rjs Invictus held off the rival by a neck to win in a career-best 1:54.1.

Charmbo Prince, who was looking for the series sweep, started from the second-tier and grabbed third after racing sixth throughout. Meadowbranch Nobel settled for fourth.

A 4-year-old gelding, Rjs Invictus was winless in three starts this season prior to Monday evening. The son of Windsong Espoir now has three wins and $50,899 in career earnings for owner/breeder Russell Lowery.

A $2 win ticket on Rjs Invictus returned $19.20.

The Wine & Roses and Family Day were open to 3 and 4-year-old trotters, non-winners of $60,000 lifetime as of October 31, 2020.

Winter series final action continues tonight (March 26) with the $40,600 Snowshoe and $40,400 Blizzard finals scheduled.

Florida

David Miller basking in Sunshine (State)

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

When trainer Ron Burke suggested to David Miller that Miller spend the winter at Florida's Pompano Park driving several horses for him, Miller decided against it, opting to remain in New Jersey and compete at The Meadowlands.

After the first full week of January, Miller reconsidered.

"The first night it got down below 20 (degrees) I called Ronnie up and said, you know what, I'll go to Florida," Miller said with a laugh.

Miller had spent several previous winters in Florida but drove infrequently during his visit. In his previous five winters in the Sunshine State, Miller raced a total of 29 times. This year at Pompano, Miller has made 356 starts, winning 92.

Wally Hennessey leads the driver standings with 161 wins during Pompano's winter meet, which began in November. Since the start of this year, Miller tops the list with his 92.

"I didn't know what to expect when I got here," said Miller, who was third in the winter standings at The Meadowlands when he departed for Florida. "People asked if I was going to drive every day, and I was like, 'Yeah, I guess.' Ronnie has like five horses here and I knew I was going to drive them. I've picked up drives and it's gone really well, way better than I expected. It's been a lot of fun."

In addition to racing, Miller has had the opportunity to spend time with his daughter Devan, who is working for Burke in Florida, as well as his daughter Leigha and 20-month-old grandson, who live in Florida.

Miller's stay in Florida will conclude at the end of March.

"It's been fantastic," he said. "I've really enjoyed it."

Wendy Ross, the U.S. Trotting Association's social media coordinator, recently caught up with Miller in Florida.

Eddie Miller and Kurt Sugg make a really good team

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Eddie Miller was around 17 the first time he went to the track, visiting Ohio's Northfield Park, about an hour from where he grew up in Navarre. Some five years later, he started winning races there.

The 23-year-old Miller has been training a small stable of horses for himself in addition to a stable for driver Kurt Sugg. He got his first win in January 2020 at Northfield, with Sugg driving pacer Vegas Highroller, and has added nearly 100 more victories since then.

"The first time I went to the races, I thought it was the coolest thing ever," Miller said. "I got hooked on it.

"Getting that first win down as trainer, that's probably my biggest thrill so far. But we've had some good horses and I think I had a good year (in 2020) for somebody's first year. Hopefully, it keeps only getting better."

Miller won 73 of 382 races last year and $547,726 in purses. This season, he has 21 victories in 96 starts and $104,992. He also has won three races lifetime as an amateur driver at Northfield and picked up four other triumphs at the fairs.

"He's a very hard worker," said Sugg, who brought Miller on board in 2019. "He works all day long and he loves the horses. He's really driven to succeed in the business. He's not there just putting his time in. He does everything he possibly can to make the horses as good as they can be."

Sugg, who has 4,702 wins as a driver and 1,067 as a trainer, first got to know Miller when he was working for trainer Herman Hagerman. After Miller left to take a job in construction, Sugg talked him into coming to work with him.

"It's been a real good fit," Sugg said. "I'm not getting any younger, I'm 51 years old, and I was trying to get him set up where he's able to take over. He's a good kid and willing to learn. I guess I see me in him, like when I was that age."

Among last year's highlights for the Sugg-Miller duo was two wins in preliminary divisions of the Ohio Sire Stakes with 3-year-old male trotter Yanks Dugout, who also finished third in the Ohio State Fair championship and a division of the Ohio Breeders Championship.

In addition, Mystical Virgin made $71,124 last year and competed multiple times in the fillies-and-mares Open at Northfield, finishing second on six occasions. The pacing mare was the first horse Miller ever claimed, for $10,000 in August 2019.

"She's been wonderful. He's got a good eye for a horse," Sugg said.

"I guess I got lucky," Miller said. "I've claimed some others that have been all right, but she's been really good for us."

Miller, who at the moment has six horses on his own to go with Sugg's 15, is hoping for more good times ahead.

"There are good and bad days like everything else, but I just love it," Miller said. "The horses are amazing animals and it's good working with Kurt. He's taught me a lot, and I'm still learning. We're a really good team. We try to help each other out as best we can. If something needs to be done, we just chip in and do it.

"It's been going good for me. Thanks to Kurt and all, everybody who tries to help."

Jimmy Freight breeding supports CHRF

The Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame, in cooperation with Ontario pacing stallion Jimmy Freight, announced this week a unique opportunity for one special Ontario-based pacing mare.

The owner of one mare will be chosen to breed to Ontario pacing stallion, Jimmy Freight, free of charge in 2021, without being charged a stud fee.

The mare will be chosen by the Hall of Fame, from submitted mares.

The only conditions are as follows:

1. The breeder agrees to pay the mare into the Ontario Mare Residency program.
2. The breeder agrees to allow the Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame to name the horse to help promote the Hall's mandate and vision.
3. The breeder agrees to donate 50 per cent of the proceeds of any breeder rewards from the resulting foal's 2-year-old and 3-year-old years (2024 and 2025) to the Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame.
4. The breeder agrees to pay all other expenses related to the breeding as specified by the breeding farm (Winbak Ontario).

The Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame, as a registered charity, will provide a tax receipt for the donation as per Canadian regulations and laws.

"The Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame is very excited about the opportunity to do this, and we are thankful to Adriano Sorella for this generous donation," said Darryl Kaplan, president of the CHRF. "It's important for the Hall to think to the future. We are part of this industry, and the idea of the Hall benefitting only if the breeder, and owner benefits - is a way of being in this together."

If you have a mare that you would like to be considered for this exciting program, or for more details, contact Linda Rainey before 5 p.m (Eastern) on Monday, March 29 at linda.rainey@horseracinghalloffame.com with the following:

The name of the mare.

Birth year of the mare.

Due date (or if the mare is barren/maiden).

The chosen mare will be selected by Wednesday, March 31.

Meadowlands assembles task force

The Meadowlands Racetrack has created a task force focused on perception of practices while on the racetrack. This committee will be comprised of various industry participants including customers, horseplayers, media, racetrack management, drivers and trainers.

The committee will be asked to observe the horses from the time they enter the track until they exit while paying particular attention to the appearance of the post parades, drivers speaking while scoring, first turn courtesy tucks, half in and half out racing style and coming off the pylons at the top of the stretch essentially creating a passing lane where one does not exist along with any other topics that they feel need to be addressed.

This initiative will begin on the weekend of April 9. The committee will take notes on the races and communicate their thoughts and observations to Meadowlands chief operating officer and general manager Jason M. Settlemoir on Monday mornings.

Each Wednesday, the committee will meet by conference call to hear and discuss the weekend's observations. If necessary, the notes may be forwarded to the track's presiding judge.

The committee will meet through the end of May, with the last conference call slated for Wednesday, June 2 at which time a decision will be made regarding the continuation of the initiative.

Committee chairman Jason M. Settlemoir had this to say, "We are appreciative of these individuals who have committed their time and effort to this taskforce. Jeff (Gural) and I are constantly getting feedback from customers, trainers and drivers by email or by phone calls along with social media. We feel it is important to point things out that everyone sees when we race to all trainers, drivers, and our judges.

"Customers, whether making big or small wagers, want real answers when they bet their hard earned money on our races. They want to know why a driver provides a 'courtesy' tuck, why a driver would sit in the middle of the track waiting for cover to develop, why are horses consistently drifting off the pylons at the top of the stretch and letting others go up the inside when there is no passing lane at any of the Gural properties.

"A couple of my pet peeves are talking on the track, and post parades, so we will address those too. Let's face it, the product we put out is seen by almost everyone on TV not sitting live at the track. Customers see these things when the cameras happen to move past them or position on them. Talking on the track is a perception issue in my opinion and while most of the times our post parades are pretty good as they are led by design by our starter around the track.

"I look forward to hearing what the customers say and the trainers and drivers as well. I believe this is an important step to continue to improve our product."

Back from the brink, Big M booming 10 years later

It was just 10 years ago that The Meadowlands was teetering on the brink of extinction.

The State of New Jersey no longer wanted to be in the harness racing business and the possibility of the track shutting down was genuine.

That's when Jeff Gural and his investors stepped in to save the flagship venue of standardbred racing.

"I thought that if The Meadowlands closed," said Gural, the chairman and chief executive officer of the mile oval. "That would be the end of harness racing. But harness racing is my passion. I own horses and two breeding farms. Literally, it was 48 hours to closing. Gov. Chris Christie, he was going to close it, no question in my mind. Truthfully, I was shocked, I thought he was bluffing. So I took a shot."

The fact is, The Big M was still clinging to its claim as the top track in the game in March of 2011, but things were anything but grand.

Business was poor, maybe not by industry standards at the time, but clearly – as compared to now – betting was anything but bustling.

In 2011, average handle during January was $2,149,062. During February, that number was $2,077,952.

During 2021, those numbers were $3,398,125 and $3,430,923, respectively, to represent an increase of $2.6 million per weekend.

Gural opened New Meadowlands Racetrack in 2013 opposite the long-time facility with a structure that had a fresh new look built to more comfortably accommodate the betting public.

Five years later, in 2018, sports betting came to the mile oval in the form of the FanDuel Sportsbook, and that facility became the most prolific of its kind in the country, including the properties in Las Vegas.

"Sports betting has saved the day," said Gural. "Without it, we might be closed. As far as business goes, nobody ever dreamed we would be as dominant as we are. Choosing to partner up with FanDuel was obviously the right decision. Our sportsbook is the biggest in the world, nobody does as much business as we do and it's very rewarding to see that."

Another factor in The Big M's resurgence came during 2019, when Gov. Phil Murphy and The New Jersey State Legislature provided economic stimulus to New Jersey's racing industry. By raising purses, Meadowlands management was able to offer a highly competitive purse structure as its battle with nearby states who have purse accounts bloated by slot machine revenues continues.

The increased purses have enabled The Big M's race office to offer full fields and 13 races when racing takes place every Friday and Saturday night.

"We got a subsidy from the state, so purses are okay," said Gural. "We take over a million dollars a year from sports betting for purses. We have sponsors. Compared to any other track in the country, when you look at the money we spend on stakes, it's staggering."

Gural still has hopes for casino gaming in the Garden State, which could be a game-changer. "I think the best hope for The Meadowlands is to get a casino. Once downstate New York gets them, hopefully we would then get them, which would create a lot of revenue. I do think, long term, that we will get a casino."

"The year 2020 is over," said Jason Settlemoir, the track's chief operating officer and general manager. "And looking back, it was a testament to how resilient The Meadowlands and the State of New Jersey are."

"One year after COVID-19 shut the country down, and 10 years after The Big M appeared to be finished, the hard work of Jeff Gural, Gov. Murphy and the State Legislators has seen The Meadowlands increase handle 61 percent from 2011 to 2021. The Big M, the flagship track of standardbred racing, continues to be the most popular nighttime signal of any breed in North America. When you think of excellence in Standardbred racing, you think of The Meadowlands Racetrack. Together, Mr. Gural and the state have created an incredibly valuable asset for New Jersey."

"It's great to see how everybody is betting our product," said Gural of The Big M, which has seen wagering of over $3 million on all 12 Saturday night programs during 2021. "What's helped us is our driver colony. Andy McCarthy stayed here for the winter, and he brought his brother Todd over [from Australia]. Scott Zeron stayed here rather than go to Florida. Tim Tetrick is back and David Miller is expected next week. We really have the best drivers in the world driving here – no track comes close – and I think that makes for a great product."

And, hopefully, an even better next 10 years to come.

THIS ANNIVERSARY'S A GEM: On the “modern list”, a 10-year anniversary is referred to as the diamond jewelry anniversary, and thanks to the efforts of Chris Schick, the co-owner of Cal-Expo in California, a gambling revolution kicked off a decade ago, when the United States Trotting Association partnered with member tracks to form the initiative known as Strategic Wagering.

To create more interest in the game, Strategic Wagering has offered free program pages to players, as well as guaranteed pools, which is helping to increase the sport's popularity.

Pools that are part of the initiative at The Meadowlands have exploded. Lowering takeout has also been a key factor as to why these wagers have flourished.

“On behalf of horseplayers everywhere,” said Settlemyer. “A heartfelt thank you to Mr. Schick and Strategic Wagering. Let's have another 10 great years.”

Free program pages for Strategic Wagering are always available at the USTA's website, ustrotting.com.

THE SCHEDULE: Live racing takes place tonight and Saturday night and has a post time of 6:20 p.m. The Big M TV's live simulcast presentation of its “Racing from the Meadowlands” pre-game show kicks off at 5:47 p.m. every live racing night.

TETRICK “IN THE SULKY”: Tim Tetrick will be Dave Little's guest Saturday night during the pre-game show on “In the Sulky”.

Tetrick, who returned to regular driving at The Big M last week, will talk about his career and some of the horses he is looking forward to driving during 2021. “In the Sulky” will begin at 5:50 p.m. and can be seen on The Meadowlands' live simulcast signal.

SO, YOU WANT MORE ACTION? The Meadowlands' top-flight menu of simulcast tracks will be highlighted this Saturday (March 27) by the card that will take place at Florida's Gulfstream Park, which will play host to the Florida Derby, one of the final major preps for the May 1 Kentucky Derby.

Players can expect a huge pool as the track will offer a mandatory payout of its Rainbow 6.

The 14-race card at Gulfstream has a post time of 11:30 a.m. The Florida Derby – which is race 14 on the program – will go at 6:40 p.m.

That evening, Woodbine at Mohawk Park – the preeminent harness track in Canada – will have a mandatory payout of its High-5, which takes place shortly after the conclusion of The Meadowlands' live card.

FREE PPs: “Need a program? The Big M has you covered,” said Settlemyer. “We offer free programs every night.” The free past performances are available to anyone who goes to the track's website, playmeadowlands.com.

GET SOCIAL: You can always check in with the team at The Meadowlands on Twitter.

For early changes, racing information and staff selections, go to @themeadowlands or #playbigm.

A HALF-DOZEN CHANCES: The Big M offers players six chances every night to make a score, betting on the track's popular wagers that offer a low 15 percent takeout. They are:

- Race 1: 20-cent Pick-5
- Race 3: 20-cent Survivor Pick-7
- Race 6: 50-cent Pick-4
- Race 8: 20-cent Pick-6
- Race 10: 50-cent Pick-4
- Race 13: 10-cent Hi-5/Pentafecta

$100,000 GUARANTEED: Every night, The Meadowlands guarantees big green on both editions of its signature wager, as each 50-cent Pick-4 sports a $50,000 guaranteed pool.

CHECK OUT THE PICKS: For those who need to get a leg up on the action, go to playmeadowlands.com to see track oddsmaker and analyst Brower's selections and commentary. Click on the “handicapping” tab and go to “race reviews”.

CPMA recommendations for reducing the risk of a positive test in racehorses

The Canadian Pari-Mutuel Agency (CPMA) provides the following recommendations to assist horsepeople and minimize the risk of a positive test in their racehorse(s):

Human prescription medications and/or non-prescription supplements:

- Do not let racehorses, their feed, supplements or equipment come into contact with human medications or supplements.
- Prohibit people from urinating or spitting in stalls.
- Ensure that people wash their hands immediately after touching or taking medications, and before touching a racehorse or associated equipment.

Bedding:

- Ensure that tulip poplar and related wood is not used when bedding horses on shavings. This may result in a positive test for glaucine. The use of 100% pine shavings is a safer choice.

Compounded medications, supplements and natural products:

- Do not apply the CPMA's Elimination Guidelines to compounded medications because their elimination from the horse may be different from that of an approved veterinary medication.
- Only feed horses supplements prescribed by a veterinarian.

Cobalt salts & vitamin B12:

- Discontinue all supplements within 48 hours of the race. This will reduce, but not eliminate, the risk of a positive test.
- Keep in mind that longer withdrawal times may be required for horses that have received repeated doses of cobalt-containing supplements and vitamin B12 because cobalt levels can build up, resulting in elevated levels for prolonged periods of time.
- Cease any use of multiple supplements containing cobalt or vitamin B12.

Cannabis:

- Do not use supplements or products derived from cannabis (e.g., CBD supplements, hemp oil) on horses.
- Do not use or allow cannabis products around horses.
- Wash hands immediately after touching or taking cannabis products and before touching a racehorse or associated equipment.

Capsaicin:

- Ensure that oral supplements or other oral products containing capsaicin are not administered or fed within 48 hours of a race.
- Do not feed cayenne pepper or other spices to a horse.
- Discontinue applications of topical products (e.g. ointments, liniments) that contain capsaicin within 48 hours of a race.

The CPMA strongly recommends that you consult your veterinarian on any decision to administer supplements or medications to a horse.

HHYF to honor Antonacci Family Foundation

The Harness Horse Youth Foundation Board of Trustees is happy to announce their 2020 Service To Youth Award selection will go to the Antonacci Family Foundation of Lindy Farms located in Somers, CT.

"The long term commitment of Lindy Farms to HHYF and harness racing is nearly unparalleled," said HHYF President Adam Bowden. "From board service to support and generosity for many years, individually and collectively, the family has made the organization so much better. Our trustees were unanimous in this decision."

The HHYF Service To Youth recognition program has been honoring those who support the HHYF mission of introducing and educating young people and their families about harness racing since 1980.

"It is an honor for the Antonacci Family to be selected" said Frank M. Antonacci, a former member of the HHYF board of trustees. "We have been proud supporters for many years and commend the work Harness Horse Youth Foundation does for the sport by encouraging youth participation and development. As a HHYF graduate, Philip Antonacci exemplifies the mission as a future leader in the racing industry."

Presentation will take place this fall at The Red Mile.

Final Game Of Claims Trot prelims point to wide open final at Pocono

The three $15,000 divisions of the third and final preliminary of the Game Of Claims Trotting Series for $15,000 base-priced horses, held Monday afternoon (March 22) at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono, did absolutely nothing to clarify the picture before next Monday's $30,000 series Championship.

Two of the three winners, both missing the first prelim, did not qualify for the final – they will be the two AEs based on the points. The third winner was ninth in the standings going into Monday, but he secured third place in the points – yet he was not claimed (in fact, none of Monday's winners were), while the horses winding up 1-2-4 in the final standings did change hands.

Assuring himself a chance at the big money was the 13-year-old Kool De Caux gelding Ursis Des Caillons, fifth and claimed in the first leg, then with a second and here a 1:55.1 win for driver Mark MacDonald, trainer Carmen Auciello, and the ownership of Fox Racing Inc.

Golden Son is in AE1 position after going the fastest of the three Game Of Claims contests, rallying along the inside for a 1:55 win for driver Jason Bartlett, trainer Kevin Lare, and the Lexington Harness Group LLC. The other winner, Triumphant's Chip, was giving chasing to front-stepping favorite Namje in the stretch when that one went offstride, and he picked up the pieces in 1:55.3 for driver Matt Kakaley, trainer Travis Alexander, and owner Adam Friedland.

The unofficial leading point-winners for the Championship are Credit Fraud, Willie B Worthy, Ursis Des Caillons, Adagio De La Tour, Broadway Bruiser, Tyson, Meetmeinthemiddle, Explosive Magic and Campbellini. Broadway Bruiser (a double prelim winner, as was Credit Fraud) and Explosive Magic both chose to bypass the third prelim rather than risk a claim, and they had enough points for the strategy to work.

Heston Blue Chip benefit breeding auction extended to today

The online auction of a Heston Blue Chip breeding, which will benefit the College Scholarship Fund of the Meadows Standardbred Owners Association (MSOA), has been extended to noon today (March 26). And, as a special incentive for bidders, the minimum bid has been reduced to $2,000.

Winbak Farm donated the breeding to their proven stallion, a son of American Ideal-Shot Togo Bluechip who took a mark of 1:48.3f and banked more than $1.62 million. In 2012, he won the Dan Patch Award as the sport's best 3-year-old male pacer. Heston Blue Chip stands for a fee of $6,000.

Filion wins six at Mohawk Park

Sylvain Filion put on a driving clinic Monday (March 22) at Woodbine Mohawk Park, winning six races on the 11-race card.

Filion's most notable victories during his massive night occurred in the $34,400 Wine & Roses Series Final with Sheswildnfree ($2.90) and the $34,000 Preferred Trot with Zig Zag ($10.40). Both winners were trained by Ben Baillargeon, who sent out a total of three winners on the card.

Filion also teamed with trainer Richard Moreau for two of his six wins, guiding claiming pacer Cool Rock to victory and three-year-old pacer Bettim Again ($2.90), a Pepsi North America Cup eligible making his season debut.

The other two victories on the evening came with 3-year-old trotting filly Hope So ($2.90) for trainer Bob McIntosh and four-year-old pacer Bluemoon Bayama ($2.20) for trainer Jean Tourigny.

A resident of Milton, ON, Filion entered Monday's card loaded with power and took full advantage. His six wins puts him first in the Woodbine driver's standings for 2021 with 32 wins.

Filion was also the last driver to win six races on a card at Mohawk Park, posting the "double hat-trick" on July 17, 2019. Drivers Bob McClure and Doug McNair also had six wins on a card earlier in 2019.

Dailey joins OHHA

The Ohio Harness Horsemen's Association (OHHA) is proud to welcome Ashley Dailey as its public relations, outreach, and marketing assistant. Dailey will assist the OHHA's team of coordinators in the development and execution of the association's public relations, publications, marketing, events, and outreach initiatives.

"I am excited about the opportunity to join the Ohio Harness Horsemen's Association. I look forward to giving back to the industry that has been so important to my family," said Dailey.

A graduate of Wilmington College, Dailey is the daughter of trainer Kim Dailey and Ohio Hall of Fame trainer, the late Bill Dailey.
