Lawson wants horse racing to have equal chance to compete in Ontario's new online gaming business

The CEO of the Woodbine Entertainment Group warns the launch of an online sports betting and casino market in Ontario is a threat to horse racing and its 25,000 jobs in the province.

Woodbine CEO Jim Lawson said there's no question an open Ontario sports betting market will hurt the province's massive horse racing industry.

He's not complaining, not looking for special treatment for horse racing. Instead, he simply wants an equal chance to compete in Ontario's new online gambling sector, which launched Monday (April 4).

The head of the largest horse racing operation in Canada admitted he's frustrated that hasn't happened.

On Monday, the province launched its open online sports betting and casino market. As of Wednesday, there were already 14 operators taking bets in Ontario.

Ontario's horse racing industry supports some 25,000 full-time equivalent jobs and races are conducted at 15 tracks in the province. Yet, horse racing is "stuck in the starting gate" on two fronts, Lawson said:

Horse racing has yet to be integrated as online betting content on the platforms of Ontario operators. Also, Woodbine is, so far, prevented from setting up physical sportsbooks at its teletheatre locations in the province.

"We're not looking for exclusivity, we not looking for protection. We just want to be part of it," Lawson said. "On the integration side, all we're asking is let (operators) host our product."

Lawson said that integration would be seamless even though horse racing's pari-mutuel system is a very different gambling animal.

"The only restriction in the criminal code is betting on horse racing has to be pari-mutuel. Our technology would allow us to integrate our content into their platforms and still keep it pari-mutuel, still keep it within our tote system. It would just be seamless to the customer," Lawson said.

Despite being left at a standstill as online gaming is set to tear up the track, Lawson said he remains hopeful that horse racing will soon be included in the new market.

"I want to be optimistic and say it will happen in the next two to three months, but we've certainly been left behind, unfortunately, and it's not from a lack of hard work," he said.

Lawson said it's not a case of operators not wanting to offer horse racing.

"Companies like FanDuel, William Hill, bet365, PointsBet, they all had their origins in horse racing," he said. "So, they like horse racing, they like offering it to their customers, it's what they do. We have understood almost from the beginning that they were all very interested in horse racing and if they wanted it they would have to buy it from Woodbine. That was the premise, which we've been advancing."

He chose not to elaborate on why horse racing has been left out, so far, but did not blame the operators.

"They were anxious to work with us on an operating agreement and host our content on their platform, which would have been great for racing because it would have been huge exposure for it.

"Of course, I think it hurts us that we're not out of the starting gate with everyone else. Having to add it later on is not ideal for us, but we are where we are."

Lawson said there is clear evidence in other jurisdictions that sports betting steals horse racing punters.

"We've been consistent in expressing this concern that the clear evidence is that sports wagering is going to hurt or cannibalize

“There’s no question the number is in and around 25,000. What people don’t realize, I don’t think, is there are 15 racetracks in Ontario alone. There are more racetracks in Ontario than any single state in the United States or any province in Canada.”

the pari-mutuel wagering dollar,” Lawson said. “That shouldn’t surprise anyone. There’s a big overlap in the demographic.”

The problem is those pari-mutuel dollars support a huge industry in Ontario, one deeply rooted in the rural areas of the province.

“There’s a huge rural component. The numbers have been studied and looked at by the academic community on behalf of the horse industry... There’s no question the number is in and around 25,000. What people don’t realize, I don’t think, is there are 15 racetracks in Ontario alone. There are more racetracks in Ontario than any single state in the United States or any province in Canada.

“(The industry has) a huge economic impact, a huge rural component to it because of the nature of the industry. It’s very labour-intensive and these are on farms.”

Lawson stressed many of those that work in the horse racing industry are skilled workers. Unfortunately, it’s often a very narrow skill set.

“These are very skilled people, but it’s a skill set that they won’t be able to easily find other employment. If you’re trained to be a horse trainer or groom, that’s what you’re trained to do. An exercise rider on the thoroughbred side, that’s what you do.”

Greg Blanchard is the director of sales and retail operations for The Western Fair District in London, ON. The agricultural hub in the centre of the city is also home to a half-mile harness horse racetrack. Blanchard said the track provides a wide range of employment in the rural areas surrounding London.

“At Western Fair, we’re right in the heart of horse country in this part of the province. There are training centres, there are private stables, several high-profile commercial breeding farms in the area. A lot of jobs dependent on the horse racing industry,” he said. “We’re a sizeable industry that contributes a lot to the province and we certainly want to be able to make sure it remains vibrant.

“As a smaller track, we share the concerns of Jim (Lawson) and the folks that have been working hard on this on behalf of the industry. There’s going to be a lot of these major companies market heavily. You’re going to see the (sports betting) business likely explode in Canada. That could, obviously, be a challenge, but it could also be an opportunity. So, we’re hopeful that racing will be able to take part in this arena or this space in a meaningful way.

“If that happens, it could, in fact, be an opportunity, because I’ve long believed sports bettors and horse bettors are of a similar mindset. There are a lot of synergies between the two... I think there could be some exciting possibilities, potentially. If not, it’s a challenge.”

One of the biggest challenges comes in the form of marketing. Horse racing can’t compete with the marketing budgets of the major sportsbook and casino operators.

“We’ve been told about some of their budgets,” Lawson said. “Many of the big ones are targeting $75 million each of marketing spend in this province over the next 12 to 24 months. We won’t be able to keep up and it’s going to hurt us.”

“We’ve got a number of major wagerers. We all know that a big portion of our wagering is made up of our major wagerers and they’re also sports bettors. Now that they are going to be able to (bet sports) legally in Ontario and now that there is going to be an onslaught of information and marketing coming at what has historically been our customers, it’s going to hurt horse racing.”

Lawson said he had hoped that Woodbine might be able to compensate for the aggressive marketing spend of operators by being allowed to set up physical sportsbooks at a number of its prime theatre locations. Instead, that has not, yet, come to fruition.

"Physical is disappointing, again. Not to throw darts, but it's more an OLG (Ontario Lottery and Gaming Corp.) matter in management and control. The AGCO (Alcohol and Gaming Commission of Ontario) is responsible for the online."

Lawson's concern is that physical sportsbooks will only be allowed in casinos and not with Woodbine, which has extremely deep Ontario roots.

"I'm really, really surprised that, seemingly, the preference right now is with foreign casino operators rather than an Ontario-based, non-profit company that's going to support an industry with 25,000 jobs. It makes absolutely no sense to me and I'm hoping we get over that in the next few months.

"We're not looking for anything special on the retail side... We are fine if the casinos have sportsbooks. We're fine if the retail stores have it. We just want to have an open market and let us participate. Right now, we're not able to on either the integration side or the retail sportsbook side."

One of the challenges for horse racing is the pari-mutuel system. A bettor can place a wager on a horse at one price. But, as other bets come in, the odds on that already-placed wager can change. That's a difficult concept to explain to new horse bettors familiar with fixed odds in sports betting.

Lawson said he would like to move horse racing to a fixed-odds system, but wants to be very careful about how it is done.

Horse racing relies on the cut it receives from pari-mutuel racing to fund an extremely expensive form of gambling. Racehorses cost a lot of money to acquire, train, feed and keep. Race purses are derived from the track's take of pari-mutuel wagering. Fixed odds wagering tends to have lower margins. The danger is a lower take for the track leads to lower purses which drives many out of the game of racing horses.

That said, Lawson knows fixed-odds is the future for horse racing and he wants to embrace it.

"We would be supportive of fixed odds because I think it's going to be what the next generation of horse racing fans is interested in," he said.

If that happens, Lawson said it is essential that the tracks be able to participate in fixed-odds wagering.

"If they allow fixed odds you must have the pari-mutuel license holders participate," he said. "You can't just say, 'Okay, sports betting operators, you can now offer fixed odds in horse racing' because that would surpass pari-mutuel and we'd be left out in the cold. It would put us out of business. So, they have to come up with a framework and a financial structure that allows fixed odds, but they can't destroy the horse racing industry."

Striking the right chord

Big M drivers talk winner's circle songs and why they chose them.

by Debbie Little

"Money," "Shotgun," "Workin."

What do these songs have in common? They get played a lot at The Meadowlands.

Since the fall of 2015, drivers have returned to the Big M winner's circle with a comeback song, and over the years, some songs have changed, but the aforementioned three have stayed the same since the day they premiered.

"Money" is a Pink Floyd classic that could be viewed as an interesting choice for Scott Zeron, especially considering old rock is not really his thing.

"When I was thinking about it, at the time when they asked everybody for a song, I thought a little bit about the [betting] demographic," said Zeron. "I love the song and heard it in a lot of movies.

"It was synonymous with gambling, just winning and making money. You've won the race, you're going to the winner's circle, it's all about winning and money."

The song even led to Big M track announcer Sam McKee giving Zeron the nickname "Money."

Zeron thinks one of the coolest things about his song is the unimportance of the vocals.

"It's just money [at the start of the song]," he said. "It's change making noise and you don't need to have any context behind it. Everybody knows that beat with the change and that's really the cool part, not the lyrics."

Tim Tetrick's song "Workin'" by Big Smo doesn't have any sentimental value to him, but he knew after hearing it that the song fitted him.

“I tried to find a song that kind of fits my age and is not too loud,” said Miller. “This winter, a few times I’d be driving and I’d hear a song and I’d be like, ‘That would work,’ but I could never remember the names of the songs. So, I have changed it because I haven’t had that song yet that I felt like it fit me.”

“Whenever they called and asked me for a song, I was like man, I don’t know, and I was just happy to listen to that one because that’s what I do,” said Tetrick. “I wake up in the morning, tie my shoes, put my helmet on and go to work.”

Dexter Dunn became a fixture at The Meadowlands in the fall of 2018, as did George Ezra’s “Shotgun,” which was a chart topper in Dunn’s native New Zealand.

“I get quite a few people that come up and say I listen to “Shotgun” and love it,” said Dunn. “So, people seem to like it and I’m keeping it at the moment.”

Despite the popularity of his chosen song, there are those trying to persuade Dunn to change it.

“I have gotten a bit of pressure from the expat Kiwis that live over here to put Dave Dobbyn’s ‘Slice Of Heaven’ on because he’s a Kiwi great and it’s probably one of the best Kiwi songs ever, but I haven’t done it yet,” said Dunn.

Mark MacDonald has never wavered from the catchy “Remember The Name” by Ed Sheeran, featuring Eminem and 50 Cent. As an acoustic guitar player himself, MacDonald appreciates Sheeran’s talent for playing and song writing. In addition, he loves Eminem and thinks the cool little phrases in the song are relatable.

Even though John Denver’s “Thank God I’m A Country Boy”, was released 15 years before Doug McNair was born in 1989, he’s always liked the song. And since he grew up on a farm, he felt it suited him.

Andy McCarthy’s song choice “Thunderstruck” paid homage to his native Australia, since the band AC/DC formed there in 1973. The song may have even been responsible for McCarthy’s nickname “The Thunder From Down Under.” However, on April 23, 2021, McCarthy switched to his current song “The Business” by Tiesto.

According to Big M director of television Oz Colon, they courtesy the songs with the name of the artist and the song title, which allows the fans to know what they’re hearing. But on Hambletonian Day or Meadowlands Pace Night you probably won’t hear the songs.

“The reason we don’t play songs on those days is usually because we’re streaming live on Facebook and Facebook will take us down because they have copywrite issues,” said Colon. “If they hear a song and we don’t have ownership, they will take us off.”

The Meadowlands’ Jessica Otten is usually in the paddock on race nights, so she’s become the official song wrangler.

Otten said: “If they want, they can change their songs as often as they change their underwear.”

According to Otten, Yannick Gingras thought about changing his current song “Whatever It Takes” by Imagine Dragons, but something changed his mind.

"Somebody came out with a video of Tall Dark Stranger and the song was 'Whatever It Takes' and he said 'No, I'm going to stick with it' because Tall Dark Stranger pretty much did whatever it took to win. He was such a gutsy horse, so he decided to stick with it."

A few months ago, when David Miller wanted to switch his song, he actually asked Otten for ideas.

"So, I was driving to work one day and 'Power' by Kanye came on," said Otten. "And if you listen to the very first part of it, I thought that fit perfectly because he had such a great year. So, we played it and then a couple of weeks later he came to me and said, 'I've got to switch my song.'"

So far, Miller is still in search of that signature tune.

"I tried to find a song that kind of fits my age and is not too loud," said Miller. "This winter, a few times I'd be driving and I'd hear a song and I'd be like, 'That would work,' but I could never remember the names of the songs. So, I have changed it because I haven't had that song yet that I felt like it fit me."

"I've struggled with it because I've had a song that I think sounds good and then when I hear it going back [to the winner's circle] I'm thinking that doesn't sound too good."

Miller says choosing the perfect song is not as easy as it sounds and Otten now knows that firsthand.

When Otten was honored as the 2021 Lew Barasch Breakthrough Award winner, she needed to choose her walk-up song.

"I texted a few friends and my mom literally sent me 20 songs," said Otten. "I was like, whoa!!"

Otten didn't want a song that could possibly make her seem conceited, but no matter what she listened to, she kept coming back to "Champion" by Carrie Underwood.

"It's such a powerful upbeat song and I love Carrie Underwood, so that's why I went with it," said Otten. "It did take me about 2½ weeks [to decide], I won't lie."

Andy Miller has had a few songs over the years, starting with Survivor's "Eye Of The Tiger" and until recently, "Lose Yourself" by Eminem.

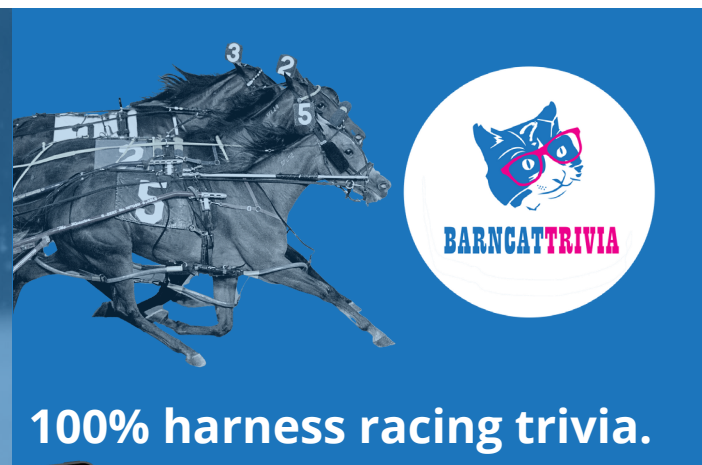

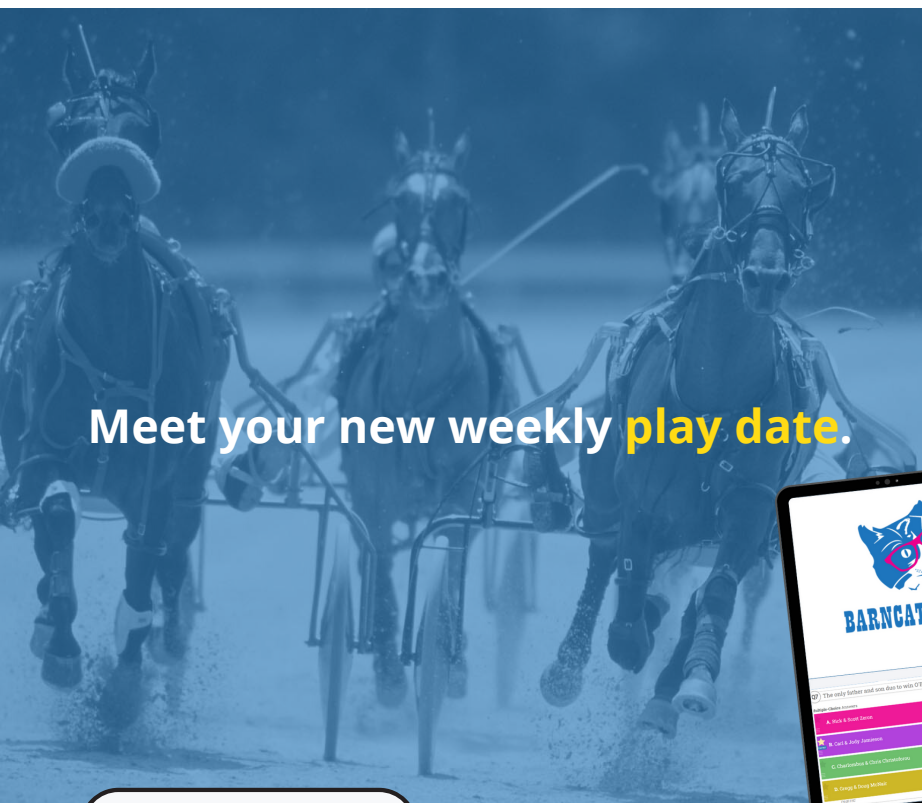

"[Lose Yourself] was my song and I changed it and I don't even know what it is now," said Miller. "I liked it because it was, lose yourself in the music the moment. And it's good to lose yourself in the moment of winning the race."

Miller changed off of the Eminem song because neither his wife nor his daughter were fans of it.

Rumor has it that both Andy and David Miller will debut new songs possibly as soon as this weekend.

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Danish driver Nicklas Korfitsen savoring his perfect record in the U.S.

by Chris Lomon

It appears Nicklas Korfitsen has a knack for making a strong first impression.

The 22-year-old Danish driver had every reason to be nervous as the minutes ticked down ahead of the fourth race at The Meadowlands on the night of March 25.

Thousands of miles from his home, Korfitsen was making his first start on U.S. harness racing soil, sitting behind Epos Ostervang DK in a TrackMaster trotting race.

Add in that driver and trotter had the outside post eight, and it made for some anxious moments seconds before the gate car picked up speed and moved away from the field.

"I was thinking about that I was here in the U.S., and it was a big opportunity," said Korfitsen. "I could feel [nerves] ahead of the race, but when we got out on the track, it began to feel just like another race. I knew I had to focus and I did."

Sent off as the 9-5 choice behind 3-2 favorite P L Oscar, Epos Ostervang DK was led to the front by Korfitsen, and proceeded to craft an opening quarter-mile timed in :28.3. A length and a quarter on top after the half, and 1 ½-lengths in front at the stretch call, the duo had just enough left in the tank to repel a hard-charging P L Oscar, earning a hard-fought head score in 1:57.2.

It was the seventh lifetime triumph for the son of Wishing Stone, trained and Per Engblom, who shares ownership of the 6-year-old with Kasper Forget. The Denmark-based brown gelding, bred by Lasse Pederson, has trotted his last four starts in the U.S., including a pair of efforts at Pocono Downs.

For Korfitsen, it was a dream finish in his first North American driving experience. He punched his ticket to compete in the U.S. after winning the 2020 edition of the Knutsson Rising Star Cup series for young drivers in Sweden.

Epos Ostervang DK returned $5.80 to win.

"It feels so good, and it was a really great time. I'm very happy that I had the chance to drive at The Meadowlands, and to be able to win made it even better, of course. I had a plan to go to the lead, so that I could make it easier for the horse. He's good from the lead. When he's on front, it seems as though he's 10 per cent better. He looked as though maybe he was getting a little tired going into the last turn, but he saw the other horse coming and kept his speed up to the finish. Kasper, he was very happy with the race. When I saw him smiling... it was a really nice feeling seeing that he was so happy."

Seconds after the win, Korfitsen's phone began to light up.

Congratulatory messages, in the dozens, started pouring in.

"A lot of friends called me or texted me, which was very nice. It was on social media too, with pictures and everything. Newspapers in Denmark also covered it. I was happy after the race, but when people start calling or texting me, it makes it even more special. There was a lot of that before the race, but when I won the race, it got bigger. That made me very happy. Everything was a great experience."

Now, back in Denmark, where he continues to rise up the ranks as one of the country's top young horsemen, Korfitsen's connection to U.S. racing might not be a one and done story.

There is a possibility he might cross the Atlantic again, perhaps sooner rather than later.

"I have a really good career here in Denmark, both driving and as a second trainer. So, I have a good job and I get to drive in a lot of races. The plan is staying home here for a time, and maybe in two or three years, maybe I will come back if I get a good opportunity. If I am able to connect with a trainer and drive in some races, maybe I would come back then. Like I said, I had such a good time and I feel very lucky that I was able to come over and drive at The Meadowlands."

For now, Korfitsen is content to keep working on his skills in his homeland, eager to add some more wins and gain more experience in the race bike.

And, as he noted, he'd likely jump at the chance to try and keep his perfect North American record intact.

Until then, he'll have his fond memories of a cherished New Jersey victory.

"When I came back home, people were very happy for me, very excited about the win. I have a lot more that I want to accomplish in the future. When you are able to win a race like that at The Meadowlands, it gives you more confidence and pushes you even harder. When I think about the race, it makes me very happy. It was really very fun."

Dexter Dunn protégé Jack Trainor sitting pretty with Stylish Memphis

Trainer and the mighty mare have a huge shot in next week's $900,000 The Race at Cambridge.

by Adam Hamilton

When Dexter Dunn was really starting to make his mark in New Zealand about 13 years ago, he took a young kid under his wing.

It was a life-changing gesture for the then 14-year-old Jack Trainor, who is now one of the emerging forces of Australia's training and driving ranks.

Trainor, now based out of the huge Menangle training complex in Sydney, is back home in NZ preparing for the most special moment of his career so far. He trains and drives star mare Stylish Memphis, a key player in the inaugural $NZ900,000 The Race at Cambridge on Thursday night (April 14).

Dunn will be listening-in and cheering.

"I'm so proud of him. What he's achieved and so quickly is amazing, but it doesn't really surprise me I always thought he had 'it,'" Dunn said.

"Jack's Dad was a hobby trainer who I drove for one night and that's how I met Jack. You couldn't help but like him a lot. He was always smiling, upbeat and a funny story to tell. He's one of the most positive people I've met.

"It wasn't long before I was taking him to meetings, and I'd got him into Cran Dalgety's (top NZ trainer) stables to stay and help out during his school holidays.

"Don't worry, it was a mutual thing. I'd often take three or four horses to the races but have drives in every race so I needed someone to help wash them and take them for swabbing if needed. He always had a great work ethic and fantastic attitude."

Trainor so impressed Dalgety he snared a full-time job as 16-year-old, which lasted three years until he got an offer he couldn't refuse from another now US-based trainer, Shane Tritton, who was then among the top NSW trainers.

"I loved it at Cran's and was having some success as a junior driver back home, but Mark Jones (NZ trainer) was good mates with Shane (Tritton) and opened that door for me. Shane and Lauren (Tritton) were looking for a junior driver, so I was 19 when I went across and they opened lots of doors for me during the 12 months I had with them," Trainor said.

It is no secret Trainor loves his social life and that, along with a friendship with Todd McCarthy, prompted him to leave Team Tritton.

"I was based in Newcastle (about two hours north of Sydney) and always travelling backwards and forwards so I could get out for a drink on the weekends with Toddy and a few others," Trainor laughed. "A job came-up with Kevin Pizzuto (trainer). I only lasted six months with Kevin, but it got me to Sydney, and I then got a job with Blake Fitzpatrick (trainer) where I had five terrific years."

It was late 2020 when Trainor felt he was at the crossroads.

"I looked at what Dexter and Andy (McCarthy) were doing and thought about packing my bags and trying my luck over in the US, but I didn't think I'd done enough here yet," he said.

"It was time to go it alone. I wanted to focus on driving because that's what I've always loved the most, but I had one horse of my own and thought I'd have to train a few to try and make things worthwhile.

"Jason Grimson (Menangle trainer) let me keep my horse at his place and train from there, but I looked at the success he was having as a trainer, and it inspired me. I knew I had to give it a go as well.

"I've gone from that one horse, Makoa, in work in November 2020 to having a barn and a half at Menangle and 26 in work now."

Trainor credits the Menangle training complex, the only of its size and type in Australia, as a "game changer."

"Not just for me. It's the same for 'Grimmo' (Jason Grimson) and so many others. You just can't afford to buy land or properties up here and this has given us somewhere to train from and with big numbers of horses, too," he said.

Trainor landed his first Group 1 wins as a driver on Stylish Memphis in the Ladyship Mile at Menangle little more than 13 months ago. The night got even better when he landed another Group 1 less than hour later on Anntonia in the NSW Oaks.

While Dunn has been the biggest human influence on his career, mighty mare Stylish Memphis is the equine equivalent.

"She's put me on the map, on the big stage," Trainor said. "I can't thank Mark Jones (trainer) and Wayne (Higgs, owner) enough for trusting her with me when I was really just starting out.

"Now they have gone a step further by letting me take her back for The Race and drive her, too. It would've been so easy for Mark to just say 'send her back to me' for it, but he didn't, and

Trainor has a huge shot in The Race with his mighty mare Stylish Memphis.

I can't say how grateful or excited I am.

"I'm pretty proud that just 18 months into my own training career, that I'm taking a mare like back to my home country for such a historic moment in NZ with this new race.

"With all the COVID-19 restrictions, it'll only be the third time in more than two years I've been back home and what a way to do it."

Trainor is already planning another trip for later in the year.

"I've got to get across and see Dexter and Toddy in the States. I'm thinking something like the Lexington carnival might be the go when things are a bit more relaxed for them," he said.

Would Trainor consider following in their footsteps?

"As I said, I thought about it a couple of years ago, but I'm set-up here now and have done the hard yards so it'll only be for a holiday," he said.

"I keep pinching myself here to be honest. It feels like everything has happened so quickly to have a full barn and Group 1 horses. It feels like I'm two, three or even five years ahead of where I thought I'd be so soon after going out on my own."

Trainor will be pinching himself that little bit harder if Stylish Memphis wins at Cambridge on Thursday night.

EUROPEAN REPORT

with THOMAS HEDLUND

Svanstedt back at Solvalla in May

by Thomas Hedlund

Åke Svanstedt-trained Back Of The Neck (Ready Cash) will cross the ocean and race at Solvalla in late May. The 5-year-old trotter received an invitation to the Elitloppet last week and Svanstedt will try to claim his third victory in the prestigious mile race.

Svanstedt won Elitloppet for the first time in 2004 with Gidde Palema and succeeded with Torvald Palema in 2009.

American trotter Resolve (Muscle Hill) made two attempts (runner up in 2016 and 2017) in the Elitloppet during Svanstedt's American journey and in May the popular trainer and driver will face the great Solvalla audience once again.

With Back Of The Neck traveling from America, an opportunity for another North American trotter to join the journey to Stockholm opens up and there are some probable horses that may be interesting for Solvalla to invite.

The aircraft that will bring Back Of The Neck over the ocean can transport two horses, so there is hope that racing fans at Solvalla can look forward to see more than one contender from the North American armada of older trotters.

Dave Landry

Ake Svanstedt is returning to the Elitloppet.

OUR FUTURE DEPENDS ON IT!

Product placement can reduce track takeout to benefit bettors – Part 2

by Frank CotoLO

Part 1. Read here.

Product Placement is the brainchild of advertising people, the types that were dramatized in the popular series “Mad Men” and the satiric “Crazy People.” It is classified in the category of “subliminal advertising,” which sends commercial messages in other contexts where a product fits normally. It is, at its best, subtle enough for an audience to subconsciously recognize it as a normal object.

Before I began writing part 2 of this topic I was watching a movie and the last thing on my mind was subliminal advertising. The movie, “Bill and Ted Face The Music,” had a scene where the a few characters were on a public street talking about putting together a rock band. Suddenly, as they ran away to do just that, there was a sign in the upper right that projected the logo for “Guitar Center.”

Wham!

Moments later band members were plugging guitars into amplifiers and Keanu Reeves plugged his instrument into an amp while standing far enough to its side so the audience could see the logo on top--“Marshall.”

Wham!

It is true; you do not know an advertisement has hit you when you see a product placed in a scene commonly associated with that product. As well, even if you notice it, the affect is the same psychologically--you remember it in a good light. The advertiser’s work is done.

There are movies where advertisers have fought for product placement spots because the movie was expected to attract a certain audience demographic. Take notice. Mercedes Benz won the bidding to be the story’s vehicle in “Jurassic World.” In the “Man of Steel” 3-D theater version iHop and Sears bought prominent screen space. Dominos lost product placement in the “Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles” franchise to Pizza Hut. The “Transformer” movies have accepted money from many products; watch for Oreo cookies, Bud Light beer and Victoria’s Secret products within frame. There are even movies where the product can be placed in the dialogue of a movie, as Taco Bell did in “Demolition Man.”

Advertising agencies also consider that a movie and/or TV show may find its way into international markets, so they can reach into their deep pockets and place products popular with the people in various countries and cultures. After all, a kitchen in a Italian movie is supplied with many different brands than a kitchen in Spain or India (Bollywood) or Australasia.

We cannot forget TV game shows from Japan to American networks, which are obvious product placement theaters – “The Price is Right” being the prime example.

PAY TO PLACE

Now, Alternative Actions (AA) kick in, addressing the problem: how can the financial-windfall process of Product Placement make money for a racetrack?

What follows are the AA possibilities which, as usual, are not guidelines for success; they are broad ideas that have only to inspire the basic idea so success has a good chance of being the result. Everything is worth trying if it is attempted for a productive goal.

In this case, the goal is to make enough money for the racetrack so that it can reduce its "wagering takeout" for bettors, which will attract more bettors and increase track handle and in the long run keep the bulldozers from a fate that racetracks still experience in 2002 (as reported in the cities where once stood Pompano Park, Hollywood Park, Roosevelt Raceway, Liberty Bell Raceway, Brandywine Raceway and so on and so forth.

Interviews of trainers, drivers and owners can easily be recorded for broadcasts but the shooting must take place on sets associated with the subject and prepared to display commercial items that are product-placed. Here are some examples:

A trainer is interviewed in an empty stall for one of his or her horses; only this is a set. The stall has a shelf or two within the camera frame of the subject. A major commercial product stands on a shelf in frame. Product placement. The trainer interview will be shot at different angles (the interviewer is never on camera) so the background shelves and their commercial placements are visible. Surely, grooms use brand-named products for cleaning and caring for the horse and its environment. Those are the product placement prospects.

An owner is interviewed in his or her personal or business office. This is a set most likely already strewn with many commercial items on a desk or a wall or shelves in frame of the subject interviewer.

Drivers can be interviewed anywhere you can place commercial products. The same goes for track media personalities. Talk to a race caller/announcer in his or her box atop the track; talk to track handicappers or guest handicappers anywhere you can devise placing commercial products--your targets for the best income are commercial products. Once you do an inventory you will be surprised at how many commercial products are used by harness racing industry workers, so develop a list of agencies representing those products.

The interviews are perfect filler for the dreaded drag time between races, played repeatedly over the in-house network and on the simulcast feeds.

Selling the product placement plan will also provide an awakening of ad agencies to the grand theater harness racing has become on the Internet and in most social media platforms. Be aggressive and creative and the ad folks will find plenty of dough in their budgets to place products.

Hard work is paying off for trainer Cory Stratton by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Cory Stratton knows that when it comes to racing, it can be any kind of ride. So even as the 29-year-old is enjoying his first tastes of training success on the Grand Circuit, he is taking it all in stride.

Stratton and his brother, driver Jordan Stratton, have teamed up to win two preliminary rounds of the Blue Chip Matchmaker Series for older female pacers with Easy To Please. The 4-year-old mare sat out last week's third leg of the event but returns as the 8-5 morning-line favorite in the first of three $40,000 fourth-round splits tonight (April 8) at Yonkers Raceway.

Easy To Please, who has provided Cory Stratton with his first two Grand Circuit triumphs thanks to her wins in the series, is tied for fifth in the Matchmaker's point standings. The top-eight horses at the completion of five preliminary legs are eligible to advance to the Blue Chip Matchmaker final on April 25 at Yonkers.

In addition, Stratton-trained Pat Stanley N has posted second-place finishes in each of the first three preliminary rounds of the MGM Borgata Series for older male pacers at Yonkers. The 8-year-old gelding is tied for third in that event's standings and competes in the third of four $50,000 fourth-round divisions on Monday (April 11) at The Hilltop.

"It's incredible," Stratton said. "We've put in a lot of work and I'm just happy everything is paying off. I thank all the owners, and all the trainers and grooms that I've learned from and have helped me out, as well as my wife (Vicki) and my brother. I still can't believe how lucky I've been. I can't even put it into words.

"I don't expect anything. I like to keep my head down and stay humble and just go on the ride. I've been on both sides of it. I've been successful, and I've been not successful. You just have to know that anything can happen."

Easy To Please, a daughter of Roll With Joe-Lorrie Please, has three wins and two seconds in five starts this year. Stratton has trained the mare since last September and shares ownership of her with Our Three Sons Stable, which was among the group that purchased Easy To Please as a yearling.

For her career, Easy To Please has won 10 of 28 races and $206,185. She has hit the board in 11 consecutive starts, winning five and finishing second on five occasions.

"I really like how mature and how smart she is," Stratton said. "She does anything you ask of her. She's just a real pleasure to be around.

"She was really progressing toward the end of last year. We wanted to put her in (the Matchmaker) and see how she stacks up. Many of the top mares in the country are here. We were just hoping for some success, and she's done her job. So far, so good."

A 4-year-old has won the Blue Chip Matchmaker championship three times in the 13-year history of the event. The most recent was Somwhero varrainbow in 2014. The others were Rocklamation (2012) and Ginger And Fred (2010).

Easy To Please had raced five weeks in a row before skipping last week's third round of the series.

"We knew going in that we were going to skip a week," Stratton said. "We decided last week was the better week. That way if she is in the final, it will be her third straight start. Hopefully, she will be as tight and as sharp as she can be.

"But she is still going to have to perform to make the final. She drew (post six) Friday in a six-horse field, but I think she will be fine."

Racine Bell, who has two wins and a second in the series, tops the Matchmaker standings with 200 points. She was not entered this week.

Of the remaining horses in the top eight, Drama Act, Mystical Carrie, and Best Head West compete in tonight's second Matchmaker division while Miss You N and Karma Seelster are in the third. Dragon Roll, who is eighth in the standings with 133 points, was not entered.

As for the Borgata Series, Pat Stanley N is among a group of 23 horses separated by 100 points in the standings. Nandolo N, with two wins and a second, leads with 200 points. Spots three through 22 are separated by 50 points, which is the number of points a horse receives for a victory. Horses also get 25 points for each start in the event.

Pat Stanley N's two most recent losses were by a nose and a head.

"It's tight," Stratton said about the Borgata standings. "It's awesome to just say we're a part of it. He's really surpassing our expectations. Putting him in, we wanted to see how he stacked up. He hasn't raced all the top ones yet, but he's shown he can go with them if he draws well.

"He's been super to drive. He used to get a little hot in a race, but Jordan said he's been perfectly mannered. He can just chirp to him, and he will take off whenever Jordan wants him to. He races his heart out every week."

Racing begins at 6:55 p.m. EDT at Yonkers. For tonight's complete entries click here. For Monday's complete entries, click here.

Smedshammer strikes twice to open John Brennan Trotting Series

by Yonkers Raceway

Trainer/driver Trond Smedshammer began the 2022 edition of the John Brennan Trotting Series on Wednesday night (April 6) at Yonkers Raceway by winning two of the five $25,000 divisions that took place.

In the first split Smedshammer put Seventier on the point from post one, and he led through stations of :28.3, :58.2, and 1:27.4 on his way to a 2 1/4 length decision in 1:56.1. Striking Genson (Austin Siegelman) was the runner-up after a pocket trip, and Creative Venture (Jordan Stratton) turned a second-over trip into a third-place result.

A 4-year-old Chapter Seven gelding, Seventier is owned by Purple Haze Stables LLC. This was his eighth career victory, and he has now earned $105,026. The 1-2 favorite, Seventier paid $3.10 to win and led a $7.80 exacta and a $39.80 trifecta.

Lady Ann NO and Smedshammer had command through well-rated panels of :29, :59, and 1:28.2 in the next grouping, and a :28.4 last quarter carried Lady Ann NO to a 2 1/2 length win in 1:57.1. Credit Con (Tyler Buter) had a two-hole journey and wound up second, and Circle Of Life AS (Marcus Miller) grabbed third.

American Viking Racing Stable owns Lady Ann NO, a 6-year-old Norwegian-bred Credit Winner mare. She has a record of 7-3-4 from 26 lifetime tries, and she has now put away $149,730. Lady Ann NO was the 4-5 choice and returned $3.90 to win. She also keyed a $19.80 exacta and a $107.00 trifecta.

Front-end tactics also worked for Toccoa Falls (Yannick Gingras) in the third flight. After clearing Shadrack Hanover (Jason Bartlett) for control before the :27.4 opening quarter, Toccoa Falls went on to reach the half in :57.3 and the three-quarters in 1:26.3 en route to a 1 1/2 length triumph in 1:56. Bazillionaire (Buter) was the second-place finisher and Heartofgold Devie (Matt Kakaley) checked in third.

Per Engblom trains Toccoa Falls, a 5-year-old gelding by Trixton, for owners Evan Katz and Frank Canzone. Toccoa Falls is now a seven-time winner from 49 trips behind the gate, and he has now banked $128,668. Toccoa Falls, dispatched as the 3-5 favorite, paid $3.20 to win. The exacta was worth $28.80 and the trifecta kicked back $180.50.

Levator (Mark MacDonald), Goo Doo Doll (Scott Zeron), and Hat Trick Marleau (George Brennan) all showed speed in the fourth section, with Goo Doo Doll clearing Levator and then yielding to Hat Trick Marleau before the 27.3 opening quarter. Hat Trick Marleau then set middle-half fractions of :57.1 and 1:25.4, with Lula Muscle Pack (Gingras) making a first-over move out of fourth past the half and then sliding into the pocket approaching three-quarters.

Hat Trick Marleau managed to maintain the top spot around the last turn, and although Lula Muscle Pack came back to the outside and tried to chase down the leader in the stretch, it was to no avail, as Hat Trick Marleau went on to score by a length in 1:55.3. Emotions Riches (Stratton) got third.

Ricky Bucci trains and owns Hat Trick Marleau, a 6-year-old gelded son of Craze. Hat Trick Marleau made his 15th appearance in the winner's circle and returned $3.40 to win as the 3-5 favorite. He was atop a $6.40 exacta and a $26.40 trifecta.

The last division of the night saw P L Oscar (Jim Marohn Jr.) blast through from the pole position and make 1-5 favorite Plumb (Joe Bongiorno) work to clear beyond a :28.2 opening quarter. Plumb then chopped out the half in 58 seconds and the three-quarters in 1:26.2 before separating from the others on the far turn.

After Plumb opened up a gap, it looked like the race might be over, but she began to come back to the closers in the lane. Taking advantage of that was Top Me Off (Stratton), who went first-over from fifth past the half, ducked into fourth in the backstretch, and then began a second first-up move nearing three-quarters. Despite doing that uncovered work on the rim, he had the most trot in the lane and got by Plumb in the dying strides to score by half a length in 1:56.1. Plumb had to settle for second, and P L Oscar was third.

Top Me Off, a 4-year-old son of Bar Hopping, is owned by trainer Arlene Cameron. Top Me Off posted his 22nd career win, and he has now stashed away $160,459. A 19-1 shot, Top Me Off paid $40.20 to win. Winning exacta and trifecta tickets collected $86.50 and $534.00, respectively.

The John Brennan Trotting Series has two more preliminary rounds on April 13 and April 20, with the final and consolation on April 27.

Stakes action continues at Yonkers on Friday (April 8) with three $40,000 divisions of the fourth round of the Blue Chip Matchmaker Series and Monday (April 11) with four $40,000 splits of the fourth leg of the MGM Borgata Pacing Series.

Yonkers Raceway remains on a Monday-Friday live racing schedule with first post at 6:55 p.m.

Georgia Panagi

Leonidas A (Austin Siegelman) won Monday's second Borgata test at Yonkers in 1:51.2.

THREE ROUNDS OF THE MGM BORGATA PACING SERIES NOW COMPLETE

Three longshots — Semi Tough, Poseidon Seelster, and Funatthebeach N — and two favorites — Leonidas A and Nicholas Beach — were victorious in the five $50,000 divisions of the third leg of the MGM Borgata Pacing Series on Monday night (April 4) at Yonkers Raceway.

In the first grouping, I'll Drink To That (Dexter Dunn) blasted from post one and forced Semi Tough (Yannick Gingras), who had also fired out from post five, into the pocket. Once the dust settled, American History (Todd McCarthy), the 1-5 favorite, came out of third, and he would take over control from I'll Drink To That after a :26.2 opening quarter.

American History continued to lead to the :54.4 half and the 1:23 three-quarters, but Semi Tough went on the attack first-over before the latter station and forged his way into second on the final bend. In the lane Semi Tough dispatched a fading American History for good and then went on to prevail by a length in 1:51.2. Town Gossip (Joe Bongiorno) was the runner-up from second-over, and Dean B Hanover went from sixth to third in the final quarter.

Semi Tough is a 6-year-old Somebeachsomewhere gelding trained by Ron Burke for owners Burke Racing Stable LLC., Frank Baldachino, J&T Silva- Purnel & Libby, and Weaver Bruscelli LLC. This was his 19th career victory, and he has now earned $794,325. Sent off at 10-1, Semi Tough paid $22.60 to win and led a $213.50 exacta and a $976.00 trifecta.

Leonidas A (Austin Siegelman) missed out on racing last Monday when he was late for Lasix, but he was on time and on target in tonight's second section, winning in 1:51.2.

None Bettor A (Matt Kakaley) and Covered Bridge (Gingras) tussled for the early lead, with Covered Bridge wrestling away the front beyond a :26.2 opening quarter. Leonidas A was hot on Covered Bridge's heels though, and Gingras and Covered Bridge yielded to sit in the pocket behind the 2-5 choice.

After he got to the engine, Leonidas A reached the half in :55.3 and the three-quarters in 1:23.3, and easily dealt with a first-over try by Sonny Weaver N (Tim Tetrick) in the third quarter and onto the last turn. In the lane Sonny Weaver N faded for good, allowing Covered Bridge to tip out of the pocket to try and mount a challenge to Leonidas A. It was to no avail, though, as Leonidas A had plenty left and prevailed by a length and a half. Covered Bridge had to be satisfied with second, and Im Sir Blake A (Marcus Miller) rallied for third.

The victorious 7-year-old gelding by Mach Three is trained by Sheena Cohen for owner Jesmeral Stable. Leonidas A made his 38th appearance in the winner's circle, and he has now pocketed $574,187. The 2-5 favorite, Leonidas A returned $2.80 to win. The exacta and trifecta were worth $5.70 and $21.20, respectively. Nicholas Beach (Bongiorno), coming off a third and a fifth in two MGM Borgata Pacing Series tests, delivered as the even-money choice in the third split in 1:51.1.

Nicholas Beach left from post six and was able to get by Bee Two Bee (Gingras) prior to the :27.2 opening quarter. Nicholas Beach then maintained the front through a 56 second half and a 1:23.2 three-quarters, with Pat Stanley N (Stratton) commencing a first-over move out of fourth in the third quarter.

On the final bend, Pat Stanley N picked up cover from a pocket-pulling Bee Two Bee, as they both tried to make gains on Nicholas Beach. Feeling the closers coming, Bongiorno called on his charge through the stretch drive, and while Pat Stanley N surged late, it wasn't enough, as Nicholas Beach held firm to tally by a nose. Bee Two Bee ended up third.

A 6-year-old gelding by Somebeachsomewhere, Nicholas Beach is trained by Jenn Bongiorno and also co-owned by her in partnership with John Lengacher and Michael Cote-Gagnon. Nicholas Beach is now a 17-time winner in his career, and he pushed his bankroll to $372,746. He paid $4.10 to win and keyed an $18.40 exacta and a $39.20 trifecta.

Poseidon Seelster and driver George Brennan pulled off a 13-1 surprise in the night's fourth Borgata battle, delivering in 1:51 flat.

Tattoo Artist (Dunn) had command of the race from the pole position, chopping out panels of :26.4, :55.2, and 1:22.4 while opening up a gap on the others going to three-quarters and onto the far turn. Meanwhile, Poseidon Seelster had a second-over trip behind American Dealer N (Scott Zeron), but when American Dealer N stalled out in third, Brennan had to cut Poseidon Seelster three-wide midway through the final bend.

Despite his cover not really carrying him all that close and Tattoo Artist having a big jump on him, Poseidon Seelster was full of pace in the lane and blew by the pace-setter late in the going on his way to a half-length victory. Western Joe (Tim Tetrick) grabbed a third-place result.

Nik Drennan trains Poseidon Seelster, a 5-year-old gelded son of Sunshine Beach, for owners Donald Lindsey, Paul Kleinpaste, William Alempijevic, and Garth Bechtel. Poseidon Seelster has now compiled a record of 12-7-8 from 46 trips behind the gate, and he has now put away $280,920. He returned $29.60 to win, the exacta kicked back $138.50, and the trifecta was good for $683.00.

Funatthebeach N (Stratton), dispatched at 29-1, then beat fellow New Zealanders Nandolo N (Jason Bartlett) and Jack's Legend N (Kakaley) in the final flight of the night.

Jack's Legend N went to the top from post three and had the lead through fractions of :27.3, :56.4, and 1:24.2. Nandolo N, who came into the race two-for-two in the series and got away third from post five, was challenging Jack's Legend N from first-over at three-quarters, with Funatthebeach N latched onto Nandolo N's cover from second-over.

The duel between Nandolo N and Jack's Legend N continued around the last turn and into the lane, and although Nandolo N won the battle over Jack's Legend N after wearing him down in deep stretch, he didn't win the war, as Funatthebeach N surged three-wide and nailed him at the wire to score by a nose in 1:51.4.

Jeff Gillis and Mark Ford are the winning trainer-owner combination behind Funatthebeach N, an 8-year-old Somebeachsomewhere gelding. This was Funatthebeach N's 27th lifetime tally, and he now shows a bankroll of $432,539. He paid $60.50 to win and headed a $184.50 exacta and a $314.00 trifecta. By virtue of his victory, Monday night's 50-cent Pick 5 also returned a robust $9,105.75.

Overall, wagering topped the seven-figure mark for the second straight Monday card, ending up at $1,158,413.16.

Tonight's (April 8) program is headlined by a trio of $40,000 divisions of the fourth leg of the Blue Chip Matchmaker Series.

BORGATA SERIES PROVIDES "WIN AND YOU'RE IN" OPPORTUNITY

The MGM Borgata Pacing Series enters its fourth leg on Monday night (April 11) at Yonkers Raceway with five $50,000 preliminary races. While the connections of the 33 horses signed on will be competing for valuable points to gain access to the April 25 final estimated to go for over $550,000, MGM Yonkers Raceway is also sweetening the pot.

The winner of the Borgata final will get an invitation to the $500,000 Aria Pace on Oct. 15. The Aria is accompanied by the $500,000 Robert Miecuna Invitational Trot and the $1 million MGM Yonkers International Trot on what promises to be a spectacular day of racing.

"With five legs and a final, the Borgata is one of the most difficult stakes to win. We felt the Aria invitation was a nice bonus for the horse that was able to come out on top," said racing secretary Joe Frasure.

Horses aren't the only ones with a potential jackpot awaiting them on April 25. All fans who show up at Yonkers Raceway on Mondays during the final three legs of the Borgata Series – and wager at least $25 on the live card – have a chance to win a Borgata Grand Prize Package. The lucky winner will get a two-night stay at the Borgata Hotel Casino and Spa in Atlantic City, New Jersey along with $500 in free play and a $250 dining credit.

Yonkers management would like to alert fans, owners and the racing community that the Empire Terrace dining room will be open on April 25 for the MGM Borgata and Blue Chip Matchmaker finals. Details for making reservations and a full menu will be available soon.

The late, great Village Jasper.

Village Jasper was perfect in every way

by John Coffey

Back in the 1980's, a few years before Village Jasper was born, a song was written and sung by an American Country music star called Mac Davis.

The song was titled, "Oh Lord, it's hard to be humble when you're perfect in every way."

If the little, black, and beautiful horse called Village Jasper could sing, he would have given his Australian stablemate Art Major a rendition every day.

They both were adored champions at Alabar Bloodstock in Victoria – Village Jasper the senior of Art Major by some five years. Jasper kept himself fit during the stud season by strutting up and down his fence in the paddock adjoining Art Major's, taunting the mighty son of Artsplace.

Art Major loved nothing more than dozing and eating and only would raise his head from the grass as if to say to the cheeky Jasper, "What's bugging you, you little flea?"

Well Village Jasper had the last laugh on his junior partner Art Major, achieving something that the $3 million man couldn't – being the champion sire of Australia on two occasions: 2008/09 and 2009/10.

Now here is another feather in the cap of the beautiful black son of Jate Lobell: He is the last Australian-based stallion to win the Australian Sires Premiership.

The New Zealand-based suprema's Christian Cullen and Bettors Delight have worn the crown for the past 11 years.

Village Jasper passed away at Alabar Bloodstock's lovely farm in Northern Victoria on March 29, not far short of his 28th birthday on May 10.

Village Jasper, who was son of Jate Lobell from the Abercrombie mare Village Jewel, spent all his younger days in Ontario.

He was owned and trained by the late Bill Wellwood – a Canadian and U.S. Hall of Fame trainer with a reputation as a master horseman as well as being a tough son of a gun.

His daughter, Paula, is now an acclaimed trainer in North America, being one of only two females to train a Hambletonian winner.

"Village Jasper was always one of my favourites. He was such a beautiful horse," said Paula last week after hearing the news of Jasper's passing.

"He thrived on racing as his 3-year-old season progressed and kept getting better and better. His win in the Breeders Crown Final at Mohawk was simply awesome and exciting."

That win in 1997 put the crowning glory on the one-season career of Village Jasper. He smashed the Mohawk Track record that night in defeating the favourite Western Dreamer and the North America Cup winner Gothic Dream.

His driver that night and throughout most of that 1997 season was Paul MacDonell, who some 10 years later became the regular pilot of the superstar pacer Somebeachsomewhere.

Village Jasper became a pacing millionaire in just one season of racing – 30 starts for 14 wins and prize money of $1,057,595.

He was only a smallish horse, around 15 hands, so it was surprising he didn't race as a 2-year-old, but Paula has an explanation.

"He was showing some soreness in his knees early in the 2-year-old season, so dad asked me to take him to the vets to x-ray the knees. The prognosis was to rest him so instead of taking him back to our farm, I took him to another farm to keep him out of dad's sight."

Paula, your decision that day may well have earned your dad and your family a million dollars.

Village Jasper commenced a stud career at the famous Armbro Farm on the outskirts of Toronto in 1998. He was, as mentioned earlier, quite a cocky young man. Self-confidence was big in his repertoire.

He was especially keen in the breeding shed in that debut stud season and not long into the season his eagerness in getting to the artificial or phantom mare resulted in a badly ruptured penis. Hence many days were missed in getting his semen around Ontario which resulted in a disappointing number of mares being bred in that important first season.

Breeders seemed to shy away from Village Jasper in season two, so in frustration his owner Bill Wellwood offered him for sale to Alan Galloway and John Bagshaw in Australia.

The rest as they say is history and so in 1999 Village Jasper made his Aussie debut as a stallion at Alabar Bloodstock. Aussie breeders welcomed him with loving arms, and he bred well over 200 mares in that first season Down Under.

From that first crop emerged 15 colts and fillies who won more than $100,000 including colts such as Blatant Lie $410,403, Adams Mate $440,965 and the Trotter Viva La Fever $349,576.

His very first Classic winner from that crop was the WA owned filly Nemeeshar, who won the Bathurst Gold Tiara Final on 29th March 2003 (exactly 19 years to the day prior to his death).

So, Village Jasper was on his way to becoming a most respected stallion in the Southern Hemisphere and then in 2008/09 winning the Australian Sires Premiership – a feat he repeated the following season 2009/10.

For the record, he has sired 771 Australian bred winners who have won $40.71 million between them as of April 4, 2022. In addition, he sired a further 103 winners that were bred in New Zealand. Now the daughters of Village Jasper are making their mark on the harness industry in Australia with 430 winners being produced from them to date with total earnings of $23.12 million.

Village Jasper was a little champion on the racetrack in Canada. He was a champion sire in Australia. He was black and beautiful, he was smart, he was kind, and he had a personality as big as himself.

To take another line from that country song of the 1980s: "To know me is to love me."

Yes, Village Jasper, you were perfect in every way.

Twenty wins Owens Memorial at Miami Valley

Twenty (Chris Page), a promising Well Said filly from the Ron Burke barn, was crowned champion of the Robert J. "Skeeter" Brown Series for relatively green pacing fillies and mares on Tuesday (April 5) at Miami Valley. Making just her 10th lifetime start, the winner topped Rocksette (Josh Sutton) by over three lengths with Rose Run Galaxy (Tony Hall) overcoming an outside post to finish third.

Page chose to settle Twenty in fourth during the initial :28.3 quarter mile, but rushed to the front as the field passed the grandstand the first time on the five-eighths mile oval. After the halfway timer flashed :57.4, Page was able to cruise to the three-quarters in 1:55.3 and through the finish line in 1:53.3. The time represented a new lifetime mark for Twenty, who is likely headed next to the James K. Hackett Memorial late closer at Miami Valley – the annual unofficial start to the Ohio stakes season. Three-year-old Buckeye bred pacing fillies will gather for $20,000 elimination races on Tuesday, April 19 with a $50,000 final scheduled for Tuesday, April 26.

Another pair of drivers, Dan Noble and Brett Miller, reached the 100 wins plateau for the current meeting on Tuesday, joining Trace Ettrick who accomplished the feat in mid-March. A total of five local drivers have already exceeded $1 million in purse winnings during the first 64 days of the 87 day 2022 session.

Diamond Creek open house on June 4

Diamond Creek Farm is excited to hold the 5th Annual Open House at the Pennsylvania Farm on June 4.

The Open House technically started in 2015 with a casual open day for the local community, but this will be the fifth year for it in the current format.

The day is an opportunity for anyone, industry or not, to come out and enjoy a day at the farm. There will be chances to meet mares and foals, hay rides, games, and opportunities to learn more about both harness racing and horses in general. A big addition to the Open House this year, is the inclusion of a "Stallion Showcase", where the stallions will be paraded for the visitors. Everything is very hands on, and the staff is always available to answer any and all questions.

We will have food trucks this year, featuring local trucks Mad Dash Grilled Cheese and Dough Heads, along with the returning fan favorite Bootleg Creamery. There will also be a bar serving wine and beer for those over 21.

Vendors will include the Penn State Extension Equine Team and HHYF, among others. There will be raffle baskets with proceeds going to HHYF.

The Open House will be held on June 4, 2022 from 11-3 p.m. Address is 151 Warrington Street, Wellsville, PA 17365. There is no cost to attend, no pets please.

More information can be on the Diamond Creek Facebook page. If you are interested in either becoming a sponsor for the day or a vendor for the event, please contact caroline@diamondcreekfarm.com for more information.
