Burke Concedes Levy, But Not Giving up on Foiled Again

By Bill Finley

Foiled Again will not make the April 25 final of the George Morton Levy Series at Yonkers.

Trainer Ron Burke all but guaranteed that when he failed to drop his name in the entry box for tomorrow's fourth leg of the series. Even if he races the following week, which is no certainty, it's highly unlikely he will have accumulated enough points to make the rich finals of the series.

"He just needed the week off," Burke explained. "Things aren't really right with him right now. The last few weeks he's had some minor physical ailments shows up and I thought I could 'BS' my way through it, but when forced to make a decision I did what I did. He's the least sharpest of my four left in the series right now, so I figured I might as well not race him."

This will mark the first time since 2008 that the 11-year-old gelding has not raced in the Levy final, a race he won in 2009 and 2010.

"I knew when I did this he wasn't going to make the final. It is what it is," Burke said. "You have to do what's best for the stable as a whole and, to be honest, what's best for him. His week off should make a big difference. Now that we're conceding the final we'll even discuss whether or not we'll come back the following week."

"We might pass on it and restart his year like we did with Sweet Lou last year. Things didn't work out for him in the Levy and then giving him some time off we were able to get him turned around. (Foiled Again) will let me know if he wants to come back next week or if we want to restart the year and move on."

Foiled Again began his year with a second-place finish in a Levy leg and was third a week later. Last week, as the 6-5 favorite he finished a dull fifth.

"That was the most disappointed I have ever been in him," Burke said.

Burke described Foiled Again's problems as minor and said none are related to his age. He knows people will say the veteran is finished, but he disagrees.

"More and more, I don't worry about it, what people say about him," he said. "There will come a day when he's over the hill. It's just not yet. What's wrong with him, it's the same stuff any horse, any age, could have. There's nothing serious wrong with him but I knew there was a problem. The other day, that was the worst he's ever raced for us. Then we found some things and saw that the bad race was no big deal."

It has not been a good Levy series for Burke, who, entering tomorrow night, has only one horse among the top eight in the standings in Bettor's Edge. Ironically, he moved Beach Memories, who is second in the standings, to the Scott Di Domenico barn, because he felt he was overstocked for the finals. He said he picked that horse to move because he was not a part owner and is with his other Levy horses.

"The Levy has been a disappointment so far but we've got two more weeks," he said. "We'll get it going."

With a handful of horses having already clinched spots in the finals there were still some notable names missing from tomorrow night's Levy lineup. Last year's winner and this year's points leader P H Supercam is taking the week off as is Beach Memories. Fourth in the standings, Polak A. is also sitting this one out.

There will be just three divisions, each consisting of six horses. Bettor's Edge and Take It Back Terry both look to be in good spots to pick up needed points for the final. In the third division Michael's Power draws the rail after getting the five and six posts and should be tough.

Gural Responds to Corey Johnson Story

In last week's HRU, trainer Corey Johnson said he did not use cobalt with his Breeders Crown starters Voelz Hanover and Traceur Hanover and said, among other things, that Gural's saying he was guilty of using the drug was merely a publicity stunt. Below is Jeff Gural's reaction to Johnson's comments:

Corey Johnson shared his opinions on the high levels of Cobalt detected in his 2014 Breeders Crown starters in last week's Harness Racing Update. I felt I should respond to some of them in the interest of transparency.

Out-of-competition samples were taken by my investigator on a total seventeen horses that raced in the Breeders Crown at The Meadowlands last fall. All samples are identified only by a number, the testing lab has no information on who the trainer might be. The USTA and I shared the cost of having those samples sent for evaluation to the Hong Kong Jockey Club (HKJC) where they use the finest equipment available in the world. Johnson's two were the only horses among the seventeen tested that returned Cobalt levels high enough to be called a positive by the HKJC.

In the interview Johnson accurately states that the Cobalt levels on his horses were approximately fifty (50) nanograms/ml. He incorrectly states that amount is five times what is considered to be "normal". In fact, those levels are 50 times the HKJC base for normal. There is an important distinction to be made between what might be considered "acceptable" and what is a "normal" amount of Cobalt in any horse's system.

The determination of what level of Cobalt is or is not acceptable in horses was made by scientists working for the HKJC, not me. A large percentage of the samples we collected and sent to HKJC for Cobalt testing were within what they consider to be the normal range for race horses, below 1.0 nng/ml. That is the normal baseline for horses racing in Hong Kong as well.

The HKJC tests for Cobalt in the protein of the plasma, not the whole plasma, therefore our tests results are slightly lower than tests conducted in the US. This is actually a benefit to the trainers of horses tested by the HKJC. Johnson's horses' Cobalt levels would have been higher if tested in another US lab.

So far as the length of time it took to notify him; the samples were sent on November 19 and results received December 28. The HKJC lab tests for many substances, some take more time than others. By then you're into the Holidays and after we put some thought into how to proceed which takes us to the time he was notified.

WESTERN IDEAL - MAJOR HARMONY - ART MAJOR

WESTERN VINTAGE blazes into Ohio for the 2015 breeding season being the only stallion standing in Ohio with a sub-1:50 mark as a 2-year-old at 1:49.4 taken when winning The Bluegrass Stakes in Lexington by four, pulling away from the field!

At 2, he also swept the NJSS, winning the first two legs and then the Final to become the 2013 New Jersey State Champion. He then won the Metro Elim, finishing second in the final.

By Western Ideal, just like the very successful stallions, Rocknroll Hanover, American Ideal and Always A Virgin, as well as the sensational 2-year-old, Artspeak, and out of a family of Champions like Vintage Master, Great Vintage, Temujin and Silk Stockings, Western Vintage will be a top choice for breeders looking for extreme early speed!

Owners Perry Soderberg and Marvin Katz are very excited to be standing Western Vintage at Abby Stables in Sugarcreek, Ohio for an introductory fee of $3,500 with generous multiple mare discounts. BOOK NOW!!

Mr. Johnson has a history of positive tests in Canada for TCO2 or milkshaking, which he categorized in the HRU interview as "not major offences". These offences were major enough by the Ontario Racing Commission to have resulted in a 13-month suspension starting November 17, 2014, a $5,000 fine and put on probation for two years. He was also fined $1,000 for breaching his probation, as he was serving time for a prior TCO2 violation. Johnson chose not to appeal.

Those are facts.

Beyond that, he accused me of a number of transgressions. I won't respond to those other than to say that I have been abundantly clear that cheaters are not welcome at my tracks. The fact that his horse won a Breeders Crown at my track made me feel sick, as I imagine a horse injected with a toxic substance might feel.

For the record, since we began to test for Cobalt we've taken samples on 121 horses resulting in 18 horses returning levels above what the HKJC considers acceptable. Several of those were over 100 nngs/ml and one came back 1,100 (yes, that reads eleven hundred). Eleven of those eighteen high readings came from the same trainer, who is excluded from racing at my tracks.

Rocklamation Back in at Meadowlands, Won't be Bred This Year

Dan Patch Award winner Rocklamation will make her 2015 debut tonight at the Meadowlands in a $27,500 mares open. It was expected that she would have just a handful of starts this year before being bred but her ownership group has changed its mind. The 7-year-old daughter of Rocknroll Hanover will instead race throughout the year.

"The owners have decided to abandon her breeding plans and race her the entire year," said trainer Burke. "I'm very happy about that decision."

Rocklamation was a co-Dan Patch winner last year with Anndrovette, rebounding after a slow start that began with some subpar performances in the Blue Chip Matchmaker Series

"Whatever issues she had last year have seemed to resolve themselves and as long as she stays sound we plan to race a full schedule," explained Burke. "Hopefully, we've learned how to manage her better. You can call this year her retirement tour because she will definitely be retired and bred next year."

There is a $71,506 carryover in the fifth race High 5 jackpot at the Meadowlands entering tonight's card and a $35,827 carryover in the 12th race High 5 Jackpot.

Strong Numbers for Woodbine Fall-Winter Meet
TORONTO, April 7 – Woodbine Entertainment Group

Rocklamation will race a full campaign this year

today announced that per race handle for the 2014-15 Woodbine Standardbred Fall-Winter meet, which concluded on Monday, April 6, was up in comparison to the same period during 2013-14.

A total of 94 race cards were held at Woodbine between October 16, 2014 and April 6, 2015, 22 more race dates than the same period over the 2013-14 racing season.

The 2014-15 Woodbine Standardbred Fall-Winter meet recorded an "all-sources" betting total of $138,154,596.15. The average per race handle for the meet was $136,922.30, a 7.2% increase over the same period a year prior.

A handle of $4,696,209 on Saturday, April 4 was the largest handle of the Fall-Winter meet. The significant handle was powered by a record-setting Jackpot Hi-5 pool of $2,581,505 wagered into a carryover pool of $847,458 for a total of $3,428,963. More than $3 million was paid out to horseplayers who had the winning Jackpot Hi-5 combination.

The single-race handle on the Jackpot Hi-5 dash on the April 4 card of $2,966,808 set a new industry record for largest single-race handle, while the Jackpot Hi-5 pool set a record as the largest total for a single-pool.

Sylvain Filion finished the Winter-Fall meet as the leading driver with 119 wins. The veteran reinsman finished the meet as the only driver to top $2 million in earnings. On the training side, Richard Moreau led all conditioners with 87 wins and earnings of more than $1.1 million.

The 118-date Mohawk Racetrack Spring-Summer meet kicked off Thursday, April 9.

Elitlopp Trip Up For Grabs

Millstone Twp, NJ - The celebrated Elitlopp in Solvalla Stockholm (Sweden) is one of harness racing's largest events in world for those who love the sport of racing. A fabulous trip to enjoy a full weekend of Swedish racing is now a fundraiser for the Standardbred Retirement Foundation (SRF) through its annual raffle.

This memorable trip begins with an airfare voucher valued to $1000 and includes a 5 day - 4 night stay for two at a 4-star hotel in the heart of the Stockholm, and includes a welcoming dinner and get together Thursday night, sightseeing on Friday and Saturday morning, entrance to the Solvalla Racetrack on Saturday and Sunday and an English speaking tour guide during your entire stay.

Raffle tickets are $25 each and funds raised will be used to provide hay and grain, medical and farrier care, rehabilitation, vaccinations, and other related needs for more than 200 trotters and pacers currently in SRF's care. More than half of these horses are unadoptable due to age or injury and are under the full care and expense of SRF for the rest of their lives.

Tickets should have arrived by mail to all SRF's supporters and are also available for purchase. The winning ticket will be drawn Tuesday, April 28th at noon; the winner does not need to be present. Help with selling tickets is also much appreciated. Please use the contact information noted.

SRF, now in its 26th year is unique in its mission as the only requirement for a horse in need is need itself. SRF does not limit its help to horses who are young and adoptable. It also provides full care for horses for life if age or injuries make them unattractive for adoption. SRF asks for the support of all whose lives have been touched by racing and these horses through its fund raising efforts, the Elitlopp raffle, Win*Win program, horse sponsorship, planned giving, and through its endowment, so the mission has a future to care for these horses. For more information please contact Tammy at admin@srfmail.com, or by phone at 732-446-4422, or see SRF's website at www.Adoptahorse.org

Muscle Hills Tops Sires of Hambo Hopefuls

Muscle Hill hit a home run with a Hambletonian winner Trixton in his first crop and he has a line-up of 34 male eligibles to this year's Hambo that will try to make it two in a row.

Muscle Hill, now only nine years old, leads the list of male Hambletonian eligibles with the son-and-father team of Donato Hanover, with 25 eligibles, and Andover Hall with 23, ranking in second and third place respectively. After the top trio comes Cantab Hall, leading trotting sire in North America last year. He has 18 Hambo hopefules. He is followed by Muscle Massive(14), Credit Winner(11), and Yankee Glide(10). They are the only trotting stallions in double figures.

Of these top stallions, Muscle Hill, Andover Hall, and Yankee Glide are the only ones that have sired Hambletonian winners. Muscle Hill sired Trixton; Andover Hall sired Donato Hanover; and Yankee Glide sired Glidemaster.

The progeny of super-sire Muscle Hill could dominate this year's Hambletonian

Nikolaus Matzka of the excellent web site
www.breedingtrotters.com

Matzka compiled a separate list of the leading sires of 2015

Of the seven leading sires of Hambo eligibles, only two---Muscle Hill and Muscle Massive---are sons of the same stallion, and that is, of course, Muscles Yankee himself. Muscles Yankee was a rompaway winner of the '98 Hambo.

This list of stallion was compiled by Hambo Oaks fillies. The leading stallions are the same three: Muscle Hill, Donato Hanover, and Andover Hall---all ties for the lead with 10 filly hopefuls.

Consider that Muscle Hill had 82 registered foals in 2012 and that 44 of them have been sustained to the sport's greatest trotting events. That's a remarkable feat considering that some of those 82 foals have surely been exported and that five of his 2012 foals died before last July.

In addition to Trixton 3, 1:50.3 ($947,057), Muscle Hill's top first-crop stars were E L Titan, Southwind Spirit, and Muscle Network.

His top colt from last season was Muscle Diamond, a 1:53.4 winner last season for popular trainer Brett Bittle. It's not surprising that Bittle would take a shine to this colt since he trained Muscle Diamond's mother Windylane Hanover, winner of the Hambletonian Oaks and more than $1.1 million in her career.

Ironically, perhaps the two most dangerous Hambo hopefuls sires by Muscle Hill are the fillies Mission Brief and Jolene Jolene. Fillies can, of course, cross gender lines by skipping the Hambo Oaks and challenging the males in the big dance. (Additional payments must be made to make up the difference between the payments for male and female Hambo eligibles.) No filly has won the Hambletonian since the meteoric Continental victory in 1996.

Mission Brief, of course, startled the world of trotting last fall when she won in 1:50.3 at Lexington with a 16 length margin over her pursuers.

Like the little girl with the curl, when Mission Brief was good, she was very, very good: she later won the breeders crown by almost five lengths.

But when mission brief was bad she was horrid: she raced in the goldsmith maid at 1-5 odd and she was distanced after breaking stride.

The muscle hill filly jolene jolene is another product of the team jc trotting kindergarten as trainer jonas czernyson developed and campaigned her to a promising season, including a 1:52.1 score at the red mile. (Jolene jolene is, of course, named after the wonderful dolly parton song about an evil woman who tried to steal dolly's husband. Trainer jonas czernyson's wife christine says that the four-legged version has her evil ways, too. Christine notes that caretaker jerome brown is the only person allowed in the filly's stall, "unless they want to sign a liability waiver.")

Last year's hambo winner trixton sports a blue-blooded background as his dam emilie cas el is a sister to the famed "band of brothers" (conway, angus, and andover--all with the surname hall).

Emilie cas el is a member of the vast maternal family known as medio. This family is closely associated with the early success of hanover shoe farms, and a half-century ago this family was often casually called the "hanover sisters" or the family of miss bertha c. The "hanover sisters" designation stems from the fact miss bertha dillon foaled daughters in 1926-27-29 and each one took a 2:00 trotting mark, an incomprehensible accomplishment during the depression era.

Mission brief is from the family of small family of blanche. Mission brief's dam southwind serena, a 2007 breeders crown winner, is a daughter of the vaunted varenne, an international superstar. Southwind serena is not the only good trotting lass in mission brief's pedigree. If you turn over enough leaves in mission brief's family tree, you find that her fifth dam is noccalula, a top free-for-aller in the late 1960s and the dam of stakes stars ima lula and kading. Looking at mission brief's pedigree, you find the inbreeding that characterizes many successful trotting pedigrees. Within mission brief's first five generations, she has three crosses to speedy somolli, and two crosses each to bonefish, super bowl and speed crown.

Race 7, f&m n/w $16,000 I5 pace

Mattie terror girl was empty last week when hiked up to this level but alagna has her right back in so we should be able to expect a more true effort. She makes her fourth start of the year and will offer a square price to bounce back. Bettor chill out steps up in her third start of the year but was game last week and much better than I thought she'd be; certainly something to build from. That woman hanover makes her first start since january and her best would certainly give her a big chance; in all likelihood will be campbell's choice for lundell. Icommandmyspirit hasn't been able to get close of late and now rates a longshot. Beautiful lady paid an overlay mutuel of $24 last week when she was able to sweep off a contentious pace up front but this field is much different than that one; at least should offer another good price to repeat the trick. Hot list got the second over trip last week but didn't have the pop; starters from this barn have been uncharacteristically cold much of the season.

Race 8, n/w $7,500 I5 trot

Pounce hanover went first start for mcdermott last week off the claim from virgil morgan jr. and honestly couldn't have looked any better. This one was able to hold sway against bl class act en route to that down the road 1:54 score and there's no question speed will be coming again. Simaz goes first start a new stable and that qualifier doesn't look bad; might have something to offer in his first start since december. Prove up returns after a couple races at dover and was a winner the last time he raced here a month ago. Looking hanover ran out of steam late as those 11-year-old legs got tired; not worth a short price. Tiger's too good owns a history here but he looked very slow in his return; needs to show signs of life first.

Race 9, f&m g-note dash pace

Lightning paige blasted from the outside post last week, was shuffled back to almost where she started from and then somehow came back on again to just miss in a herculean effort. You can toss her trip from two back when she was three wide at the half and seems long overdue for some better luck; she's more than good enough to handle these. Art ideal was an easy winner in this print last week at 2/1 when she was able to win by coming home in :26 flat on a night when the final quarters were ridiculous. She's one of the main contenders but will get a tougher test tonight. Janie bay has now one two of her last three for harmon and may only need some of the favorites to mix it up early so that she sweep past them again late. Angels delight is a sneaky longshot making her second start back for croghan and sir lehigh z tam becomes a threat on the move inside.

Race 10, f&m n/w 2 pace

Bossers joy did all she could last week to close after they all let didomenico's filly crawl to the half in :59:1, at which point the race was essentially over. This one makes her second start back since november's matron and was callahan's pick over #9. American truth had it all her own way last week on the front but still sprinted home quickly; she won't be as overlooked this time around. Knockem for a loop hasn't shown much but now goes from hans to foulk; could be worth noting. Swinging cami will probably take action due to the alagna and zeron connections and for the glory can build from that recent qualifier.
