Leonidas brings a newfound dimension into Borgata final

Breaking down Monday's $549,000 final at Yonkers.

Heading into Monday's $549,000 Borgata Pacing Series final, free-for-all pacer Leonidas A must have a sense of déjà vu.

Owned by Jesmeral Stable and trained by Sheena Cohen, the 7-year-old Mach Three gelding has seen this story before. Leonidas enters the Borgata final having won all four preliminary legs of the series, exactly as he did last year. In fact, Leonidas has never lost a preliminary leg ever since the renaming of the FFA series to the Borgata. And, just like last year, Leonidas has the misfortune of landing an outward post in the series final.

There is a key difference this time around, though. Leonidas is no longer a one-run closer like he was regarded as such this time last year.

Of Leonidas' seven wins this year, all at Yonkers, four of them have come on the front end. It's a turnaround from nearly all his time since coming to North America in 2020 when he had been raced almost exclusively off the pace, including his signature win when he came from last to beat Bettor's Wish in the 2020 Potomac Pace. In winning his first three open handicap's this year, he led at every call in every race. That third consecutive win was a wire-to-wire job from post 8, and he nearly lasted again from post 8 in the open handicap start after that one. In the second of his four Borgata preliminary wins this year, he two-moved from the starting post 5 to the lead past an opening quarter in :26.2 and ended up winning the race comfortably.

Describing the evolution of Leonidas, Cohen said, "We're off to a little better of a start this year, and we continue to know him a little better. Last year everybody kind of knew him as a closer.

In last year's Borgata final, Leonidas had post 7 and there was little doubt that he was going to be relegated to racing from last. This year, from a slightly improved post 6, but more so his form, things are different.

He mostly raced off the pace and that was his thing. As we've been able to experiment with him more this year, starting with the opens earlier in the year, he's raced off the gate, he's raced on the front, he's raced from behind, so we've seen that he can be more versatile than we first thought. He's definitely gotten used to the style of racing here, and he's been here now long enough that we have a better feel."

In last year's Borgata final, Leonidas had post 7 and there was little doubt that he was going to be relegated to racing from last. This year, from a slightly improved post 6, but more so his form, things are different.

"Last year drawing the seven-hole was a huge bummer for us, and we had This Is The Plan on our outside and we knew he could leave, so we figured that we would take back and hope that the fractions worked out for us," said Cohen. "Being able to race off the pace the way that he does, we thought we'd still have a shot if things had gone right, but the fractions just didn't work out. This year now even though he still has the six-hole, maybe we can try a different approach with him and not have to Preferred Equine Online's new digital platform offers both sellers and buyers a better online sales experience than has ever been available — with state-of-the-art technology and old-fashioned customer service that lead the industry. From entry, to pre-sale, to post-sale, PEO makes it easy as 1-2-3!

- 1. Just one log in to buy or sell... and one account to deal with and company to settle with. Preferred Equine Online acts as the sole agent for sellers and the only contact for buyers. The company handles the full collection and distribution of sale proceeds, with ownership transferred using the USTA's e-sales platform.
- 2. The entire sales experience offers unmatched integrity from beginning to end. All buyers are pre-approved and each customer's information is secure, with two-factor log in verification if desired. There is also complete transparency, with each horse's bid history available for viewing.
- 3. The platform offers a full range of important services: For sellers — live past performances, live pedigrees, multiple race replays and display of photos, videos and documents. And for buyers — customizable settings for notifications, short lists, max bidding, bidding increments and currency conversion. The site's modern page design and interface creates a clean and user-friendly display across all devices.

rely solely on him racing off the pace. Maybe we can try to leave with him a little bit, but Austin (Siegelman) knows him really well and I trust his opinion to see what he thinks he'll do. Tattoo Artist has the rail so that's going to be tough (to make the front), but we're going to hope to get away in a better spot than last year."

In sharp form, Leonidas follows others from Cohen's barn that is in the midst of a good streak. Just this week, Cohen has won three of four starts at Yonkers, including winners at 19-1 and at 20-1.

"We were thinking of possibly leaving Leonidas out for his last leg since he already had enough points, but he's just so good right now and we wanted to keep him fresh for the final," said Cohen.

"He's definitely feeling a lot better than this time last year. Last year he did pop a gravel shortly before the final, so that was a little bit of bad luck and so he wasn't at the top of his game that night, so hopefully the next couple of days go well and he'll be in good shape."

After having gone off at odds of 1.00, 0.40, 0.30, 0.10 in his Borgata preliminary legs (all as the race favorite, obviously), Leonidas is listed at programmed odds of 9-2 for Monday's final. I'd have to think he'll get bet down somewhat from that number, but there's no question that race favoritism will belong to Tattoo Artist.

Tattoo Artist (7-5) was the one I pegged before the series as the favorite to win it all, and he's found his better gear after having not won a leg until two weeks ago. That he's trained by Chris Ryder and driven by Dexter Dunn, his status as the one to beat was solidified when he drew the rail. A 1:47.1 winner at the Meadowlands last year, he crushed weaker Borgata foes last week in a statement win.

Perhaps the biggest wild card in the race is the defending Borgata champion, This Is The Plan (5-1). He surprised last year with a masterful drive by Gingras from post 8, but he's been tough to get a read on this time around. He's won twice in the series but was beaten by a big longshot a few back and then last week it didn't look like he ever had any intention of getting close; I think I'd be surprised if he won now.

Jack's Legend (7-2) has also won twice in the series and two back gave super-game chase to Leonidas in a fast 1:50.4 mile. Semi Tough (20-1) got the worst of a ridiculous speed duel last week. He's a longshot though he did beat Leonidas here back in February. Funatthebeach (12-1) has made a good account for himself in the series and can rally for a share. Nandolo (15-1) hasn't been worse than second throughout the series, and those losses came by a neck and a nose. He's capable of leaving, but I'm sure Leonidas will be protecting position immediately to his inside. Pat Stanley (20-1) is in an improbable spot though he does get Todd McCarthy for a return call.

Picks: Leonidas, Jack's Legend, Tattoo Artist

Toes In The Water (#8, Trace Tetrack) looks to turn the tables on Gabby's C Note (#11, Aaron Merriman) in Monday's $50,000 James K. Hackett Memorial Final at Miami Valley Raceway.

Ohio

Loy is off to a great 2022 start thanks in part to Toes In The Water

The sophomore trotting filly is the 5-2 second choice in the $50,000 James K. Hackett Memorial Final on Monday (April 25) at Miami Valley Raceway.

by Jay Wolf

Trainer Tye Loy has been in fixture at MGM Northfield Park since the mid-1980s, but the last few months of 2021 was a period of time that the 66-year-old conditioner wanted to forget.

Loy, who was enshrined into the Northfield Park Wall of Fame in 2011, has a blunt assessment of his late year performance.

"The stuff I was trying to race last winter was junk. I now have better stock," he said.

He finished last season with a Universal Trainers Rating of .246 and through the first four months of 2022, his UTRS has jumped to over .430.

Loy's 2022 season has been turned around in part by Toes In The Water, a 3-year-old filly trotter that overcame some soreness issues at 2 and has been tapped as the 5-2 second choice in the $50,000 James K. Hackett Memorial Final on Monday (April 25) at Miami Valley Raceway.

“She was a May 28th foal and that is a good way to have problems with them when they’re born that late. She had a little bit of soreness last year and had issues getting away from the gate. She’s getting away well now.”

~ Tye Loy

Toes In The Water is not the most royally-bred filly. Her dam was the unraced Royal Bikini out of the first crop sire Long Tom. Toes In The Water was bred by Jonas Schlaback of Apple Creek, OH and was hammered down for $12,000 at the November Blooded Horse Sale to Loy and co-owner Roger Morlock.

“She looked good and she had a really good (yearling) video. She was athletic and long-legged,” said Loy. “I looked at a lot of horses that day and she stood out.”

As a freshman, Toes In The Water raced mostly in the second-level Buckeye Stallion Series, winning the first three $17,500 BSS legs at Northfield Park, Eldorado Scioto Downs and at the Champaign County Fair in Urbana.

Despite their early success, Loy kept his filly away from Ohio Sire Stakes company for much of the year – trying just one OHSS leg at their hometown Northfield Park (a third-place finish in 1:56.3) in late August.

“She was a May 28th foal and that is a good way to have problems with them when they’re born that late,” said Loy. “She had a little bit of soreness last year and had issues getting away from the gate. She’s getting away well now.”

In the season-ending $60,000 Buckeye Stallion Series Final at Northfield Park, driver Ryan Stahl used a grinding, first over move for much of the mile, but was defeated by Miss Cowboy Star by a head in 1:57.3.

The Long Tom filly finished her rookie campaign with a 5-1-2 record in 10 starts with $53,853 in earnings.

Toes In The Water’s first purse start of 2022 came on April Fool’s Day in a conditioned event at The Meadows and her trip was no joking matter. She was seventh at the quarter, last at the half and rallied for nose victory in 2:00.1.

“That mile was deceiving – she was in and out and all over the place. She was 12 lengths back at the half,” said Loy.

In her $20,000 Hackett elimination last week, driver Trace Tetrack used some of Toes In The Water’s recently found gate speed – leaving from post #8, taking the lead at the quarter and sat patiently behind a dueling Chris Beaver trainees, last season’s OHSS champion, Gabby’s C Note (Aaron Merriman) and Stephanie Hill (Jeremy Smith).

Tetrack and ‘Toes’ went toe-to-toe with the divisional champ down the lane, but came up a half-length short in 1:57.

The post draw for the $50,000 Hackett Final was much kinder to Loy and Toe In The Water. She will once again have the services of Trace Tetrack and will leave from post #2, just inside of the elimination winner.

The Hackett filly trot kicks off four straight days of $50,000 finals. The sophomore filly pace will be Tuesday, the colt trotters will be contested on Wednesday and the 3-year-old colt pacers will wrap up the rich Ohio bred finals on Thursday.

The James K. Hackett Memorial events, which traditionally kick-off the Ohio-bred stakes season, honor the late driver/trainer of the 1967 Little Brown Jug champion, Best Of All. Hackett died in 1970, moments after finishing a race at Latonia Raceway in Florence, Kentucky.

Remembering Stan Bergstein's powerful and prophetic first thoughts about simulcasting

by Bob Heyden

It was about 40 years ago, sometime around 1981, when multi-Hall of Famer Stan Bergstein uttered the word simulcasting for the very first time. At least through my rather informal check.

This is what he had to say then about it:

"Last Thursday hundreds of horse players converged on two locations — just as the VIPs and the media had done the night before in a dry-run, for the introduction of the betting phenomenon known as simulcasting. Grant City Mall on Hylan Boulevard and 2795 Richmond Avenue in New Springfield — both on Staten Island."

Stan then wondered about the effect this would have on racetracks.

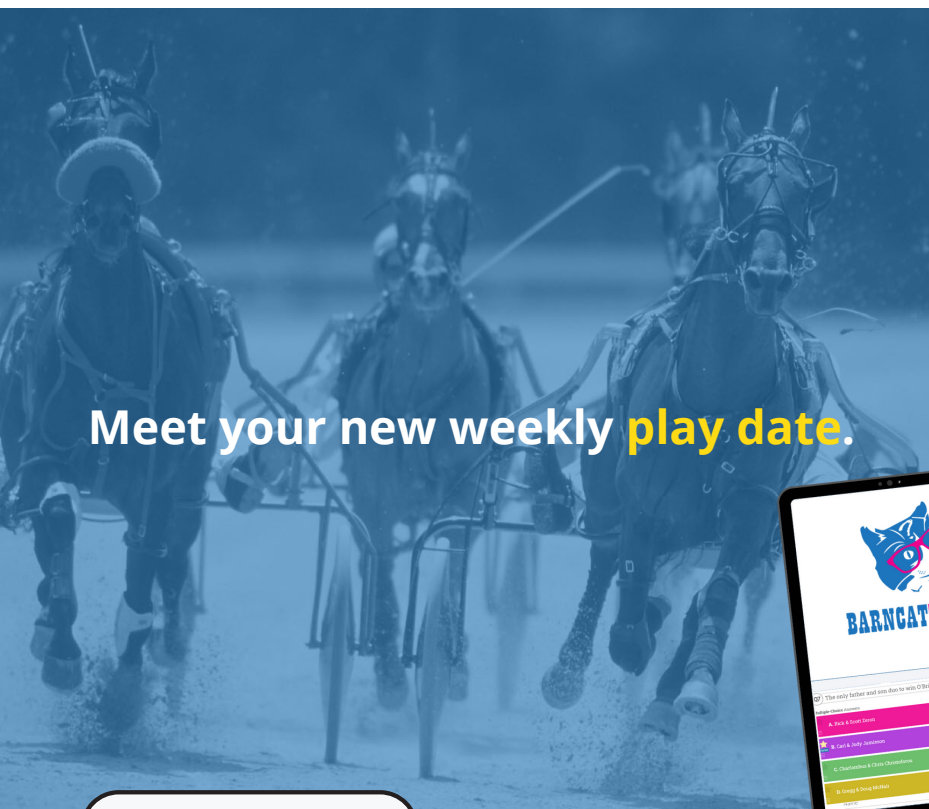

"If people can gather in their own neighborhoods at well-lit, pleasant, policed surroundings with full amenities, how many of them will do so — and how many of them will go back to the track? The ones that do gather, will they be the same ones who formerly went to the track, or will they be new fans? If they are new fans, how many will be there and will that make up for those no longer going to the track? And most important of all: how much of the money that they wager will go back to the track, and thus to the horsemen who race their horses there?"

OH, WHAT COULD HAVE BEEN

What could have been if all these horses had lived longer.

All were either stars or big race winners lost way too early:

- Legend Hanover. The 1979 Hambletonian winner, a son of Super Bowl, died at age 6 in 1982 of intestinal issue.
- Windsongs Legacy. The 2004 Triple Crown winner died at age 7. He sired Chapter Seven so that is his legacy, but what if he had lived on?

- Armbro Elvis. The early-season star of 1985 died at 2.
- Whamo. He was favored over Niatross twice – in the Woodrow Wilson elimination and final in 1979 –but was ill-fated for Charlie Clark.
- Armbro Fling. The Breeders Crown winner lived just four short years from 1984-1988.
- Panty Raid. The 1981 Trotter of the Year only made it to age six for Stanley Dancer.
- Western Shooter. The Breeders Crown and Governor's Cup winner in 2000 was a track record setter at the Meadowlands in 1:50 flat, the first freshman to ever do that. He did not make it back in 2001 for Bob McIntosh and John Campbell and may have been the one with the most potential to do further damage on this list.

WILL THIS EVER HAPPEN AGAIN?

Three trotting females who either were or would be Horse of the Year raced in 1996. C R Kay Suzie was the defending HOY and she made it to the races twice, winning the Breeders Crown against the boys to go out in style. Continental victory was that year's HOY, her dominance on display in her two-heat world record Hambletonian versus the boys and an open length Yonkers Trot win. And, Moni Maker, who was also 3-, dominating the Oaks and winning 19 in a row until bumping into Personal Banner in the Breeders Crown. She was the 1998-1999 HOY to be.

THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES SWEET KAREN

The Harness Horse Youth Foundation lost Sweet Karen this past week at age 25. She had been at Diamond Creek Farm the past few years and received great care and attention there after her HHYF touring days came to a close.

Karen was born to be the center of attention. She was, with her flowing mane and a touch of diva on display 24/7. She was also plucky. One look at her and the other "Miss Photogenic" ladies decided grazing was a better option.

Sweet Karen had her own Facebook page. It's not easy for a Trottingbred to be both a matriarch and a den mother. She managed to pull off that daily double. Yes, the years were adding up.

Thanks, from the kids especially, for the quarter century you gave us. You truly were born to your eventual fate.

TOP DAVES

Let's look at some numbers of note for the two Daves – Miller and Palone. The all-time active money-leading driver and the all-time leading dash winner. Miller has earnings of $261 million and Palone has 19,924 wins.

They both got their start winning for the first time in 1981-1982. But who were the top two Daves when Miller and Palone were just getting started?

The 1981 leaders were Dave Magee at $1,632,765 (15th in the nation and 280 wins good for 16th). Dave Wall was second with $698,486 and Dave Rankin next at $682,447.

On the all-time list going into the 1982 season was Dave Pinkney at #37 with 2,290 wins followed by David Howard at 2,069. Magee was 67th all time as the leading Dave earner with $5,892,057 with Dave Wall another dozen spots back at $4,426,895.

PALONE VS. RUSSELL BAZE

Speaking of Palone, he is at 77,056 starts, 19,924 wins with $151.8 million in earnings in his 40-year career. Now 60. Palone is fourth all time in starts behind Cat Manzi (95,690), Tony Morgan (84,899) and Herve Filion (82,336). That means Palone is going to reach 20,000 wins before 80,000 career drives – he has clicked at more than 25 per cent.

Compare Palone to jockey Russell Baze, who was the kingpin at Golden Gate Baze retired in 2016 with a career slate of 53,578, 12,842 wins 9600 seconds and 7,855 thirds and earnings of $199,334,219. He won over 25 per cent in his final season too 449 118-104-67 $1,809,778 in 2016. He had ridden 43 years.

ALL-TIME DRIVERS' START LIST

The top 10 drivers by career starts:

Cat Manzi – 95,690
Tony Morgan – 84,899
Herve Filion – 82,336
Dave Palone – 77,028
Aaron Merriman – 73,624
Dave Magee – 70,919
Dave Miller – 69,236

As of this writing, Morgan was on the doorstep, just one win away from 17,000 career victories.

TWO JOHNS — CAMPBELL AND VELAZQUEZ

John Campbell retired in 2017 at $299.6 million — easily #1 all time.

Jockey John Velazquez is still active and just topped $450 million in his career — far out in front. He's at 35,223 rides, 6,399 wins 5,151 seconds and 4,632 thirds with an astounding $12,804 per ride lifetime and a win rate of 18 per cent.

FINES & SUSPENSIONS

THIS WEEK'S FINES AND SUSPENSIONS

HRU is providing links to publicly-available fines and suspension lists for convenience.

Readers are reminded that because a person's name appears on the list does not necessarily mean they are guilty of an offense. Many times, cases are not finalized and many of the accused are still entitled to due process.

Also, please note, for context, the first link is to the Association of Racing Commissioners International's classification system of drug penalties to give readers a sense of the difference between a Class 1 and a Class 4 positive.

Anthony Perretti on carrying on his father's legacy in his own style

by Murray Brown

When one hears the name Perretti, one's thoughts would almost always go to the late Wild Bill, the colorful founder and owner of the famous Perretti Farms.

This story will sometimes reference the senior Perretti, but will focus more on his youngest son, Anthony, who in his own way is making a mark in harness racing.

Anthony Perretti was born in Bethpage, Long Island, but has spent most of his life in New Jersey, with some intermediate stops in sunny California and Florida.

Anthony's career in harness racing was not continuous. It began when he was 18 years old and his dad sent him off to work for John Campbell as a groom for his first lessons in the sport that was to become an important segment of his life.

"I suppose at the time I wasn't ready for the day-to-day work that was involved with working with horses," Anthony said.

At that time, Anthony had stars in his head – of the Hollywood type. He wanted to be involved in the entertainment industry. He moved to California where he enrolled in and graduated from the American Film Institute with a master's degree in their producing program. Thereafter, he produced independent films in Los Angeles.

In 2001, he received a phone call from his father. Bill Perretti had decided that he was going to get out of the harness racing business.

He was going to disperse his horse holdings, including the beautiful farm that he had built and established as one of the world's foremost standardbred nurseries. He had planned to invest in other areas including, but not limited to car dealerships and restaurants.

Anthony had worked for his father in various automobile dealerships from 1982 to 1993.

As he was sometimes prone to do, by the time Anthony returned to New Jersey, his father had changed his mind. He had decided to remain in the horse business.

When Bill decided once and for all to get out of the automobile business, he brought Anthony to his farm in Cream Ridge NJ to groom him to become, in effect, his farm manager.

The senior Perretti had gone through many farm managers. For one reason or another, he found them wanting in what he desired.

He would groom his son to manage the farm. He would then have someone he felt he could trust.

It was at this point in Anthony's career that this discussion begins.

“ Perhaps I am a bit prejudiced, but I believe the SBOA of NJ to be the finest harness horsemen's association in all of North America. It is somewhat unique in that it represents all segments of the sport and all its directors are involved and are contributors to the betterment of harness racing in New Jersey. I repeat everyone is involved and everyone contributes. It is a truly democratic group where all have a say and are heard.”

Q. Here you are with no farm experience, relatively little history with horses and you are placed in charge – with the exception of your father – of one of the major standardbred breeding farms in the world. What did you do?

"I believe there were three large components of any success I had with working at the farm: 1. I think that one of the key prerequisites of success in any venture is in not only knowing what you know, but also perhaps more importantly, in knowing what you do not know. In my case that was quite easy. I didn't know very much about the inner workings of a standardbred breeding farm. But I was eager to learn – make that anxious to learn.

"2. I had great teachers, chief among them were Bob Marks, Dr. Peter Boyce and Dr. Beryl Taylor. Bob Marks was with my dad from the very beginning of the farm. It's my belief that without Bob's knowledge the farms might not have achieved the success that it did – certainly not to the degree of success that it attained. Dr. Boyce was an expert, the best that I've known in both equine reproduction and in judging the conformation of a horse. Bob, Dr. Boyce and Dr. Taylor were very willing to share their knowledge with this neophyte. I think that knowledge is much more easily attained when one learns from the best. I was privileged to have been in that situation.

"3. Perhaps most importantly, I knew Bill Perretti. I could get along with him. I could roll with the punches if there were any to be received. I felt I knew how to approach him and get along with him."

Q. Tell us a little about your dad.

"First and foremost, he was a brilliant man. He had the ability to discern opportunity. When it presented itself, he wasn't afraid to pick up the ball and run with it. Maybe, contrary to the opinion of some, he would place great trust in those that he had working for him. He believed strongly in the best of everything – from the physical appearance of the farm itself, to the people that he had working for him and especially to the horses that inhabited the farm. He demanded excellence and would settle for nothing less. He never gave in to adversity. I think the most important thing I learned from him was to never give up. There were times where he was down because of business adversity only to get up and become more successful. He would strive for success and sometimes by the sheer force of his will, he would rise to the top again."

Q. You worked for Perretti Farms from 2002 through 2014, when your father passed away and Perretti Farms was put on the market. What transpired then?

"I purchased a 74-acre parcel of land contiguous with the farm from the William J. Perretti estate. My goal at the time was to use this to establish a boutique farm where I would breed and raise a small group of yearlings that I would offer for sale each year. However, fate intervened. In 2019, a 64-acre farm that had belonged to the late Michael Parisi became available. Its location presented an ideal opportunity. It presented the possibility of perhaps down the road establishing a stallion station there. Anthony Perretti Farms LLC sold the farm adjacent to the former Perretti Farm and bought Michael's farm which is just opposite to White Birch farm.

"The farm is a work in progress. I do just about everything associated with it, including but certainly not limited to building fence, mowing and all the day-to-day chores associated with running a farm. I am very hands on in the operation. I and my wife Gloria do just about everything associated with it. It is now known as Anthony Perretti Farms LLC.

"I partnered up with Joe Davino, Brad Shackman and the trainer Nik Drennan in owning horses."

Q. Please describe your interest with your horses and with your partners.

"It is somewhat involved. My partners and I now own 10 broodmares, five yearlings and are anticipating eight foals of 2022. In addition, we own five horses in training. They consist of three 2-year-olds and two 4-year-old mares. All of the horses in training are destined to become broodmares. They are trained by one of the partners, Nik Drennan.

"I'm pretty proud of the young mares being trained by Nik. They include Mikala, a 4-year-old Always B Miki half-sister to Captaintreacherous, Star Captain, a 4-year-old Captaintreacherous half-sister to Bettors Wish and Mimis Lily, a sister to Papi Rob Hanover.

"Joe Davino owns an 80-acre farm where the mares and their foals are domiciled. When the foals are weaned, they are moved to my farm where we raise them. When they are ready for sale, we move them to Fair Winds Farm, where they are prepped till sale time. Our yearlings this year will be sold at Harrisburg with Diamond Creek acting as agent in our behalf.

"In addition I personally own stallion shares in Always B Miki and Papi Rob Hanover. The group owns a share in Lazarus.

"I'm involved mostly in the breeding end of things, whereas my partners are mostly involved with racing."

Q. You also have what would be described as a day job.

"Yes, thank goodness for that. My wife Gloria and myself are both licensed real estate agents here in New Jersey. The real estate market is now booming. We are glad for that."

Q. There are several areas related to harness racing with which you have a significant involvement.

"I am chairman of TrotPac New Jersey, a board member of the Standardbred Breeders and Owners Association of New Jersey and have been a board member of the Hambletonian Society."

Q. Could you please describe your duties with each of these entities?

"Perhaps I am a bit prejudiced, but I believe the SBOA of NJ to be the finest harness horsemen's association in all of North America. It is somewhat unique in that it represents all segments of the sport and all its directors are involved and are contributors to the betterment of harness racing in New Jersey. I repeat everyone is involved and everyone contributes. It is a truly democratic group where all have a say and are heard.

"TrotPac is the political arm of the SBOA of NJ. I am its chairman. I view my responsibility as first and foremost to bring attention to all facets of the business in the state to our legislators. They include but are not limited to speaking before political groups and keeping in touch with these people upon which our fate lies. I have found that their two greatest concerns are the number of people directly or indirectly involved (AKA votes) and the number of jobs it represents. I hope that I am well suited to the position. I think I speak well and perhaps most importantly generally speaking, I get along with people.

"I've been a board member of the Hambletonian Society since 2010. I view a big part of my presence there as being able to address the needs and achievements of breeders everywhere, with particular emphasis on New Jersey. New Jersey is noteworthy, since the Hambletonian and the Hambletonian Oaks, the two most important stakes owned by the Society take place at The Meadowlands, harness racing's premier track.

Q. You've mentioned your affinity to show business. Are you still involved?

"I view show business as somewhat like harness racing, in that once you get it in your blood, you cannot get it out. I miss Hollywood. I am still involved in a minor manner working on some projects."

Q. How do you view the future of harness racing in general and New Jersey in particular?

"I'm not going to be a Pollyanna and say that all is rosy and perfect. We undoubtedly have our problems. In particular to me is the low attendance at live racing venues and the diminishment of race days. The lessening number of registrations is a concern as well.

"I do see an upswing in New Jersey. Purse money is up. New Jersey-sired horses are going for more money and have greater opportunity. Two of the world's greatest trotting sires Muscle Hill and Walner call the Garden State their home. I'll go back to what my father preached and lived by 'Never Give Up.'"

THE ART OF BREEDING

with ALAN LEAVITT

Back to basics

by Alan Leavitt

Now is as good a time as any to go over some basics that are essential for good horsemanship.

Since it's the foaling season, all foals should be "socialized" before they stand up for the first time. This means putting hands on them, picking up feet, rubbing their ears and face, and rubbing them all over. Also called "imprinting," this early handling will make the foal much easier to handle for the rest of its life.

Then, the first morning of its life, the foal should be haltered. From that early moment on, wherever the dam is led, the foal should be led also. For the first few times mom and son or daughter are turned out, a butt rope is helpful in getting the foal broke to lead.

It only takes one person to lead both mare and foal. The foal goes in front, and gets most of the attention, the mare brings up the rear, usually just tagging along on a slack lead.

It only takes one person to lead both mare and foal. The foal goes in front, and gets most of the attention, the mare brings up the rear, usually just tagging along on a slack lead.

There are so many ways a foal running loose can get into trouble, plus breaking them to lead early on makes them so much easier to handle for the rest of their lives.

Doing things this way also makes them easy to catch because whenever mom and kid are being brought in, the foal has to be caught so the lead can be snapped onto the halter ring. Some years ago I spent some time with Carter Duer as he showed me his teasing methods. In passing, he happened to mention that he could walk out in any field where his mares and foals were turned out and catch any foal he wanted to catch. Carter is one of the best horsemen I've ever known, and that is just one example of his skill.

Weaning time can come any time after the foal is three months old, and I like to stick pretty close to that. I realize that some farms can't wean until they bring their yearlings in to start sales prep, because they use the same fields for each crop.

If you possibly can, it pays to give your fields a rest between each crop. If you do, the field should be chain harrowed to break up the manure lying in it. That way it can be absorbed by the land, and thereby enriched.

Here, a factual correction. When a pregnant mare loses her pregnancy through a process that doesn't involve abortion, the mare has "resorbed" the pregnancy, not "absorbed" it.

Here a general rule regarding turn-outs, whether mares, yearlings, or horses in general. Horses should always be turned out in even numbers. Horses are buddy animals, and if there is an uneven number of horses in a field, they will always be a "lonely only." Which means some poor horse who is picked on by everybody else, who gets last crack at the feed, whose life is unnecessarily unpleasant.

Somehow the plight of the single horse in this situation reminds me of the lonely guy who stays up all night playing solitaire with a deck of 51. On request, I'll sing it for you.

As for weaning itself, it should be the least traumatic as you can make it. Assuming you're dealing with a field of nursing mares, every few days you remove one mare. Eventually, you are down to one mare and a bunch of foals, now weanlings. At this point you move everybody to the field where the yearlings will be raised, and after a few weeks you can quietly take out the one remaining mare, and all her foster kids will hardly realize she is gone.

The next important stage is yearling sales prep. In addition to all the usual grooming tools, a vacuum cleaner is very useful. As for feed, a high level of corn oil does wonders for a horse's coat.

I like a mane pulled. It's easy to do with a mane comb. If an occasional yearling doesn't want to stand, a blanket clip on his or her nose will solve the problem. I was taught early on to pull the mane the length of a dollar bill, and I still do today.

Videos are essential in yearling marketing. Music is just a distraction as far as this kid is concerned, but others love it. If you must use music, at least use good taste. I'd recommend Dire Straits' Walk of Life.

I shoe all my yearlings, trotters and pacers, with 5/8's half rounds. I also put bright, white rubber bell boots on in the front. The boots accentuate the yearling's action, and I've never grasped why everyone doesn't use them. The little weight they add will also help to keep the yearling on the trot the whole way.

The boots accentuate the yearling's action, and I've never grasped why everyone doesn't use them. The little weight they add will also help to keep the yearling on the trot the whole way.

This means videoing both trotters and pacers on the trot. From all the years I spent with Howard Beissinger, I'm confident I could get my pacers to pace in their videos, but it never has seemed worth the trouble. If anyone wants to try it, start by leaving the yearling barefoot in front and shod with a side-weighted shoe behind. But again, the pacers will bring just as much money with a good trotting video as they would if they paced, so why bother?

Finally, an interesting message from my dear friend, Moira Fanning. She sent me a report on the leading sires in Europe in 2021. The major trotting countries, France, Italy, Sweden, and Norway were dominated by familiar names like Love You, Maharajah, Ready Cash, and Varenne.

But working your way down the list of European countries where trotters are bred, one comes to Estonia, Lithuania, and Hungary. Lo and behold, the champion sires in all three of those booming standardbred breeding hot beds are sons of Conway Hall!

So I walked down to his paddock, where he lives in glorious retirement, and fed him a handful of Mrs. Pasture's Cookies For Horses. And as he rested his beautiful head in my shoulder, I whispered, "Szép Munka" in his ear. Which as every well educated citizen of the world knows means "Well done" in Hungarian, thanks to Google.

SUPERSTAR FEMALES OF HARNESS RACING

with VICTORIA M. HOWARD

Emily Pursell – Farm manager of Diamond Creek Farm (PA)

by Victoria Howard

Working hard and having patience does pay off. Just ask Emily Pursell.

Pursell has a dream job, working as the farm manager at Diamond Creek farm in Pennsylvania. Every day she gets to mingle with some of harness racing's top stallions, such as Captain Crunch, Father Patrick, Bettors Wish, Sweet Lou, Always B Miki and Heston Blue Chip.

What does Pursell enjoy most about working with some of harness racing's four-legged stars?

"My favorite part of my everyday routine is getting to work with the stallions and learning all their different personalities and quirks.

"Horses are just like people, for they each have their own personality and disposition. Such as: Captain Crunch – He is the athlete of the bunch. He's always on his toes, whether it be in the stallion shed or getting some exercise in his paddock. He lets one and all know who he is.

"Father Patrick – He is the 'wisest' of them all. He never misses a beat and expects the same from you.

"Bettors Wish – is the playful one. He has the best temperament and can make friends with anyone or any horse.

"Always B Miki – Here at the farm we call him, 'The Gentle Giant.' He is 16'3 hands and as big a beast as he is, Miki has the kindest eye and the utmost respect for his handlers.

"Sweet Lou – is the 'handsome one,' for as anyone who owns or knows his offspring, they mostly all have the legendary white blaze. Thus, his kids that are on the farm are the most colorful. This stallion catches your eye, as does his offspring, and you can find them easily with some variation of daddy's white blaze. Lou is also the businessman for he is always 'on point' in the breeding shed.

Caroline Vazquez
Diamond Creek farm manager Emily Pursell.

"And then, last but not least, is Heston Blue Chip, who by far is the most level-headed. He knows when it is time to go to work, but he's also very laid back and an all-around happy horse."

As far as the ladies:

"I currently have most of the maiden mares for Diamond Creek Farms here with me. This year fresh off the track ready for their new career as a mama is: Altar, Blood Oath and Heart Of Mine."

Many yearlings have been bred, raised and sold from Diamond Creek Farm. The latest and most talked about is the filly Exile who was sold in 2021 at the Lexington Selected Yearling Sale for a whopping $800,000.

"Exile is now a 2-year-old in training and we are excited and looking forward to seeing what she can do on the track," Pursell said.

Born in Tiffin, OH, Pursell came from a small roots farm family, who were not involved in the standardbred industry.

"I grew up competing with my own horses and always knew I wanted to make a career in the equine industry, but I first had to finish college.

"After graduating from Ohio State University, I began interning at Diamond Creek Farm in 2018. I worked hard and worked my way up to farm manager.

"My duties as a farm manager here at Diamond Creek (PA) are managing the breeding shed and overseeing the stallions and mares."

"Currently 40 horses reside here so there is always something going on and needing done.

"Diamond Creek is a great place to work at because of the environment and people there. We offer the opportunity to learn just about anything from the basics of horses to the details of producing a champion racehorse.

"Hard work, consistency, progress, and a positive attitude are all the things we pride ourselves on having. Striving to reach the high standards of being 'a cut above' is just a little part of what keeps everyone who works at Diamond Creek so close.

"Leaving your horse in the care of Diamond Creek is a wise choice, for each horse is cared for equally – but are also tended to its individual needs.

"Routine maintenance of each horse is kept up on and the clients are updated weekly on the horses' status and how they are doing – whether they are here to be bred, foal out, or prepped for a sale."

As far as Pursell owning a horse, she said, "I do own a part in one of our mares here – Catamaran Fashion. She is a 4-year-old mare by Always B Miki out of Galliebythebeach. She is presently in foal to Tall Dark Stranger.

"I'm super-excited, yet a bit anxious. This is a new chapter in my life and I couldn't be happier."

Ah, ha, ha, ha, staying alive in a new gambling world

by Trey Nosrac

In 1865, Frenchman Pierre Oller invented pari-mutuel wagering. His concept was a system of placing bets where winning players divide the total amount of each bet in proportion to their wagers minus management expenses. In 1908, pari-mutuel betting became the standard for horse race wagering when used at the Kentucky Derby. It became the most popular betting method on horse races, the foundation of horse racing.

Our foundation is cracking. The engine that keeps our game afloat is losing steam. We are reluctant to admit that our business model, which worked perfectly well in the last century, will not work much longer, at least not for mortals.

I present myself as exhibit A.

My first harness wager occurred near the merciful end of the disco era. After an evening channeling John Travolta, I danced beneath the mirrored spinning ball in the Stardust Lounge of the Holiday Inn in Naperville, IL. The next afternoon, I visited a nearby harness racetrack where I plopped $20 on a racehorse. I believe the name of the racehorse was Fading Fast.

Astonishingly, Fading Fast won the race, and I won some money. The payoff sealed my fate.

At that time, I knew (vaguely) that my competition in that horse race came from the people on the racetrack premises, folks who used paper programs to wager paper money on other horses in that race. I also knew that the racetrack took a cut, a takeout, for putting on the show. A horse wager was like a hand in a poker game where we played against each other, and the host took a piece of the action. Horseracing gamblers enjoyed this arrangement.

Today, my horse gamble is different. I am no longer sure what happens to the $20 I wager on a trotter or what happens to the money returned on a winning wager. I'm not sure who my competition is, but I have suspicions that my foe is no longer a guy in a cheap suit smoking a cigar or a factory worker out for a night at the track. A barrage of questions without answers makes me feel like a sap. Even ex-disco dancers do not want to feel foolish.

Are we gambling against a person or a computer program?

Are we betting against a syndicate?

Are we gambling against a computer-robotic wagering platform?

Do high-volume wagers and wagerers get a rebate, a better deal on the takeout than average Joe's and Jane's?

What is the best Advanced Wagering Platform?

Will fixed-odds wagering level the field?

Can robots or bots sneak in wagers at the last megasecond to skew the odds?

How many gamblers on horse races use metadata from machines that crunch numbers?

Are there shady offshore gambling sites that steal the horse racing product?

Can any human brain using a paper racing program consistently turn a profit gambling on horse racing?

Why would we play a game with a 20% takeout when other sports gambles are much lower?

What will the next decade bring to our beloved sport?

see something.
say something.

USTA Integrity Tip Line: 833-878-2847 (USTATIP) / reportit@ustrotting.com

Do you know the answers to these questions? I don't. Noodling around the Internet, I stumbled across a think tank on the business of gambling in racing. Here is a snippet of often indecipherable information:

"Most of the play from the HVBS (high-volume betting shops) or SPMOs (secondary pari-mutuel organizations) do not count in the ADW figures. Customers like those place their bets directly into the pools, bypassing an ADW intermediary. There are also smaller CRW's (computerized robotic wagering groups) which DO process bets through ADWs, entities betting tens of millions annually. Their total handle is unknown to the wider industry because it is commingled with ADW betting. Bettors may not understand how the big HVBS/SPMO groups operate and precisely what they are betting, but they can readily observe their impact on the game."

This jibberish leads one to believe that some serious-minded players are in the food chain between money wagered and returned on a horse race. Money often leads to rough neighborhoods. And the sports gambling neighborhoods are about to get much larger and more cutthroat.

Many of you will not be troubled by issues of this ilk because you have had your harness racing fun and may not be around. Others will carefully cover your heads and wait for the tooth fairy to solve all problems. For those who care and have influence, the fork in the road for harness racing would seem to be one of the following:

- A. Fix the broken engine of our sport, pari-mutuel wagering, and make a horse wager palatable for all players.
- B. Concoct new wagering methods on racing harness horses that do not require our traditional engine. This retooling will certainly involve fixed-odds wagers and gambling plays that are more luck than skill for new players. Most new players will be searching more for entertainment and less for intellectual stimulation.

Option A does not look promising. Technology will continue to squeeze money out of every dollar, competition for gambling dollars will expand, and the presentation of our product will remain static to most eyes. Horse racing will be a poor wager for both loyal and casual fans. We will be a hard sell for new participants.

Option B may not thrill you but is the most promising.

A shift to fixed-odds wagering for veteran handicappers and entertaining random plays for new gamblers on horse races may offer our best hope for - Ah, ha, ha ha staying alive.

An unbreakable bond

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

It is not uncommon for a caretaker to develop a bond with a horse. Sometimes, the bond is strong. Other times, it is unbreakable. This is one of those times.

Stefanie Seaman is Perfect Bet's best friend forever. A 10-year-old male pacer, Perfect Bet entered Seaman's life around March 2014, several months before he made his debut at age 2. Since then, caretaker and horse have remained together through the ups-and-downs of racing, and several barn changes.

Perfect Bet, a son of Bettor's Delight—Perfectionist, has overcome numerous obstacles during his career, both in terms of illnesses and injuries. Despite the setbacks, he has won 25 races and $370,830 lifetime. He's competed on the Grand Circuit, won on the state-bred stakes level, and beaten millionaires.

But his most-enduring accomplishment is winning Seaman's heart, which in good part has to do with the heart of Perfect Bet himself.

"He tries every week," Seaman said. "He goes out there and he gives everything he's got. That's why he is my favorite. I do everything I can to help him, and in return he does everything he can for me.

"He might not be a world champion, but he deserves to be."

Seaman's attachment to Perfect Bet, though, started to form before the horse ever competed in a race.

"Since I first got him as a 2-year-old, we've just always had a bond," Seaman said. "He was just the coolest horse. He always had his head out, looking for attention, wanting somebody to do something to him. I just loved his personality."

Not much has changed in eight years.

"You would hate him if you walked into the barn because he's a spoiled brat," Seaman said with a laugh. "He stands at the gate and paws all day long hoping somebody will give him something. Most of the time, he gets what he wants."

As for what he wants, Perfect Bet isn't fussy, especially when it comes to food.

Perfect Bet and Stefanie Seaman.

"You put it in front of him, he will eat it," Seaman said. "He likes peppermints, and he really loves apple-and-oat treats, but he will eat anything. Donuts, candy bars, crackers. As you can tell, he's not skinny."

Perfect Bet and Seaman have shared many winning moments. All have been special. One recent triumph, at Freehold Raceway in December of last year, was particularly satisfying.

"I really thought, he hadn't been himself in a while; I thought he was getting to the end of his career," Seaman said. "It was a cheap class, but he went out there and won, and I thought, oh, wow, he really does still have it in him.

"Every year, he comes back."

So far this year, Perfect Bet has a win, a second, and a third in eight starts. Owned by Aimee Scheid, the gelding has been in the New Jersey-based barn of trainer Travis Kolaczynski, who is Seaman's boyfriend, since March 2018. No matter where Perfect Bet was stabled previously, Seaman was with him.

"If they were ever to sell him, I'd ask for a job wherever he went," Seaman said. "I wouldn't be doing this if it weren't for him. I've been doing this since I was a kid. I'm about ready to do something else. I want to move to Florida and get a real job, have days off, vacation days."

And what about Perfect Bet?

"One day I will own him," Seaman said with a smile, "and he will live in Florida with me."

Sparkling races at Enghien in Paris

by Thomas Hedlund

Paris track Enghien offered a nice race card on a sloppy surface on Saturday (Apr. 23) afternoon and in the $130,000 Prix de Tonnac-Villeneuve for 4-year-olds, dominant trotters Idao de Tillard and Izoard Vedaquais impressed.

Thierry Duvaldestin-trained Idao de Tillard (Severino) disarmed leader Izoard Vedaquais after a pocket trip and it seemed like Idao de Tillard would sprint to safe win, but the leader fought well and approached the winner shortly ahead of the wire.

Idao de Tillard won in a mile rate of 1:56.3 over 1.7 miles and this was the horse's 11th win in his career.

In the $215,000 Prix de l'Atlantique for older trotters, Vivid Wise As (Yankee Glide) showed that he has found a high form. Driver Matthieu Abrivard had to face a tough first half mile three wide before the duo landed outside of leader Etonnant. Etonnant still had control of the race when the field turned out of the last turn, when he suddenly made a break and lost several lengths. Vivid Wise As took over the lead, but Etonnant fought back on the inside and the two trotters impressed, as Vivid Wise As held on by a length in mile rate 1:55.2 over 1.3 miles.

Etonnant was second and Delia du Pommereux finished strongly as third.

Vivid Wise As (Matthieu Abrivard) winning the $215,000 Prix de l'Atlantique for older trotters on Saturday afternoon at Paris track Enghien.

DRAMA IN FINLAND

The $150,000 Seinäjoki Race was on the race card in Seinäjoki, Finland on Saturday (Apr. 23) afternoon and a devastating break spoiled the day for Adrian Kolgjini and his Kali Smart.

Kali Smart left second over at the back stretch and seemed to have the race under control, challenging leader Esprit Sisu throughout the last turn, but with 150 meters to go, Kali Smart went off stride and Esprit Sisu once again was in advantage position.

From the pocket, Finnish 8-year-old mare Willow Pride (Love You) had a lot of power to use and driver Santtu Raitala noted that Willow Pride hit the wire with length advantage to Esprit Sisu.

Kali Smart would most probably have been the winner of the race without the break with 150 meters to go, but Willow Pride's win was a nice triumph for Finland in one of the country's biggest races for older trotters.

The mile rate for the winner was 1:55.3 over 1.3 miles.

NIGHT BRODDE TOWARDS PARALYMPIATRAVET

Conrad Lugauer-trained Night Brodde claimed a spot in the final of Paralympiatravet when he took a safe wire-to-wire win in Halmstad's elimination race on Saturday (Apr. 23) afternoon.

Nigh Brodde held first choice Extreme on his outside when the car left the field and Extreme, who already is ready for Paralympiatravet final on May 7, couldn't challenge the leader over the home stretch.

GOCCIADORO WITH TWO HORSES IN ELITLOPPET

Italian trainer Alessandro Gocciadoro now has two horses invited to the 2022 Elitloppet. Vivid Wise As was invited earlier for the big mile race at Solvalla and on Saturday afternoon, Vernissage Grif (Varenne) got his ticket for Elitloppet.

Eight-year-old Vernissage Grif had a tremendous season 2021 when he won several high staked races in Europe and the charismatic chestnut will be an attraction at Solvalla in late May.

Changes to racing schedule ahead at Yonkers

Yonkers Raceway would like to alert participants and industry members about alterations to the racing schedule starting soon.

This coming week, Yonkers will conduct live racing six days, Monday through Saturday. Saturday's (April 30) card will be drawn on Monday (April 25) along with Friday's (April 29) program, and the box closes at 3 p.m.

After that, starting on the week on Monday, May 2, Yonkers will no longer have live racing on Wednesdays and will instead race on a Monday/Tuesday/Thursday/Friday/Saturday slate. Post time will remain at 6:55 p.m.

Final changes/morning lines/other details for Monday's series finals.

On Monday, April 25, Yonkers will roll out the red carpet for a 12-race program that includes the $549,000 MGM Borgata Pacing Series and $381,000 Blue Chip Matchmaker Series finals.

The full fields with final drivers and morning lines are as follows:

$549,000 MGM Borgata Pacing Series Final (Race 8)

1. Tattoo Artist (Dexter Dunn/Chris Ryder) 7-5
2. Semi Tough (Joe Bongiorno/Ron Burke) 20-1
3. Jack's Legend N (Matt Kakaley/Josh Green) 7-2
4. Funatthebeach N (Jordan Stratton/Jeff Gillis) 12-1
5. This Is The Plan (Yannick Gingras/Ron Burke) 5-1
6. Leonidas A (Austin Siegelman/Sheena Cohen) 9-2
7. Nandolo N (Jason Bartlett/Shane Tritton) 15-1
8. Pat Stanley N (Todd McCarthy/Cory Stratton) 20-1

$381,000 Blue Chip Matchmaker Series Final (Race 7)

1. Drama Act (George Brennan/Ron Burke) 2-1
2. Racine Bell (Jason Bartlett/David Dewhurst) 5-2
3. Easy To Please (Jordan Stratton/Cory Stratton) 7-1
4. Best Head West (Matt Kakaley/Nick Devita) 8-1
5. Miss You N (Dexter Dunn/Virgil Morgan Jr.) 6-1
6. Mystical Carrie (Marcus Miller/Erv Miller) 20-1
7. Karma Seelster (Doug McNair/Andrew Adamczyk) 7-1
8. Keep Rockin A (Tim Tetrick/Jeff Cullipher) 20-1

In addition to the finals, there is also a $100,000 MGM Borgata Pacing Series consolation event (race six), a $75,000 Blue Chip Matchmaker Series consolation (race five), and another $50,000 race for horses that were eligible to the MGM Borgata Pacing Series (race four).

On the wagering front, there is also the usual Monday night $10,000 guaranteed Pick 5 pool, which will encompass races five through nine.

Also, as a reminder, the Empire Terrace Dining Room will be open Monday night.

The price point will be $80 per person, plus tax and gratuity for the food. There will also be an open bar available for $40 per person, plus tax and gratuity. For reservations, please call 914-457-2531 on Saturday. For more information on Sunday or Monday, please reach out to the race office.

Hippodrome 3R raises purses by 10 per cent

At the recently held Gala de Champions at the Hippodrome 3R last week, Francois-Patrick Allard, the general manager of the Quebec Jockey Club, surprised the hundreds of harness racing guests with a special announcement.

Allard said there would be a purse increase of nearly 10 per cent for all the overnight races this season at the Hippodrome 3R.

The purse increase will affect all classes and will start on opening day, Sunday, May 1, 2022.

H3R race secretary Cynthia Theriault pointed out that some classes will benefit more from the increase, but the overall average purses will see some classes get less than 10 per cent and some a little more. The actual average increase is 8.8 per cent.

Qualify for the World Harness Handicapping Championship April 30

Four spots are up for grabs in the Saturday, April 30 WHHC qualifier at the Meadowlands Racetrack.

The qualifier has a $400 total fee ($200 entry plus a $200 real-money bankroll). The format requires players to bet a minimum of $20 to WIN on exactly 10 Meadowlands races. Players can register on-site Saturday up until 6:20 pm.

Other Meadowlands onsite qualifiers are:

- Saturday, June 4, 2022 – Free contest with winner earning WHHC Final seat
- Thursday, July 7, 2022 – $100 contest with winner earning WHHC Final seat

The World Harness Handicapping Championship is a one-day tournament on Sept. 10, 2022. Players that did not earn a seat through a qualifying event can directly buy-in for $1,000. The $1,000 entry fee includes a $300 bankroll, with the remaining $700 going to the prize pool. The WHHC contest format requires players to bet 10 races: their choice of seven Meadowlands races, plus three designated mandatory races. Players keep all pari-mutuel winnings. Prize payouts are to the Top 10.

Players that have qualified for the WHHC final include:

John Settembrino – Meadowlands November 2021 free qualifier
William Alemijevic – Meadowlands $400 January 2022 qualifier
Jaime Ortiz – Meadowlands $400 January 2022 qualifier
Karen Fossli – Meadowlands $400 January 2022 qualifier
Joe Barre – Meadowlands $400 January 2022 qualifier
Sean Loebis – Meadowlands $200 February 2022 qualifier
Stefan Ferrara – Meadowlands $200 February 2022 qualifier
John Vail – Meadowlands $200 March 2022 qualifier
John Murphy – Meadowlands $200 March 2022 qualifier
Leo Talback – 2022 Winter Survival Challenge
Michael Kepler – 2022 Winter Survival Challenge
Charles Polgar – 2022 Winter Survival Challenge
Jeff Marrotte – Tioga Downs
Frank Palmasani – Vernon Downs
