Giannelli testifies in her own defense at horse doping trial

She is on trial on a conspiracy charge, accused of assisting veterinarian Seth Fishman in the distribution of performance-enhancing drugs.

by Robert Gearty

Lisa Giannelli testified at her horse doping trial on Wednesday (May 4) that she had a good reason for wanting to testify in her own defense.

"To tell my story," she told the jury in U.S. District Court in New York.

She is on trial on a conspiracy charge, accused of assisting veterinarian Seth Fishman in the distribution of performance-enhancing drugs that prosecutors say were used by corrupt trainers to dope racehorses in violation of racing regulations.

During three hours of questioning by her attorney Louis Fasulo, Giannelli, who admitted being nervous when her testimony began, told the jury that it was never her intention to defraud any racing commissions.

She also testified that she never benefited financially when trainers decided to break the rules to win races.

And she testified that she never agreed with Fishman to engage in fraud.

"It was never my intention," Giannelli testified.

The testimony came on the trial's sixth day in front of Judge Mary Kay Vyskocil.

The trial resumes Thursday (May 5 – unavailable prior to press time) with closing arguments and then possibly jury deliberations.

Prosecutors say Fishman, who was convicted in February and faces 20 years in prison, manufactured PEDs that Giannelli sold out of her home as an employee of Fishman's company Equestology.

Giannelli testified it was her understanding she could sell whatever products Fishman created because he was a licensed veterinarian.

"I was just to take orders," she told the jury. "I was not to give medical advice or offer a medical opinion or act as a veterinarian."

Giannelli testified drugs she kept in her home that the FBI seized when she was arrested in 2020 were "items of Dr. Fishman that clients called in for as needed."

She said Fishman manufactured his products without her help and that she knew little about them.

Gianelli also testified that she wasn't involved in designing labels for those products.

Asked then by Fasulo why another Equestolgoy employee sought her input on the color of a new drug bottle's cap, she replied, "Dr. Fishman was color blind."

She also said that in conversations with Fishman it was hard to know what he was talking about.

Giannelli told the jury she didn't know what he meant when he told her about "stem cells" in a 2019 call that was wiretapped by the FBI.

"He is rambling and I was just like, 'Yeah,'" Gianelli testified. "Dr. Fishman rambled a lot."

When asked why she sold drugs without any label on the bottle, she said, "That was a decision by my boss. It was what it was."

On cross examination, prosecutor Sarah Mortazavi asked Giannelli if she knew the difference between prescription and non-prescription drugs.

"My employer did," the witness testified, adding that she knows the difference now.

"But you didn't at the time?" Mortazavi asked.

"I know only know what Dr. Fishman told me," Giannelli replied.

At another point, Mortazavi asked Giannelli if she had suggested new products for Fishman to make a Equestology.

"Yes," the witness said.

"So now you are clarifying your testimony on direct in which you testified that you didn't suggest new products for Seth Fishman to make?" the prosecutor asked.

"Correct," Giannelli testified.

At the start of the cross-examination, Mortazavi asked Giannelli about her days working as a groom and a trainer at harness tracks decades ago, before she began working for Fishman. Giannelli acknowledged her license was suspended when a horse tested positive for TCO2.

"It was a bicarbonate," the witness testified.

"Is that baking soda?" Mortazavi asked.

"Bicarbonate is whatever bicarbonate is," Giannelli told the jury.

DAY 5 TESTIMONY

Federal prosecutors called their final witnesses Tuesday (May 3) at the New York horse doping trial of Giannelli.

The government's witnesses Tuesday included Adrienne Hall, a harness trainer who also testified against veterinarian Seth Fishman, whom prosecutors believe Giannelli conspired with, and a retired special investigator with the Pennsylvania Racing Commission.

Hall testified that after first reaching out to Giannelli she sent Fishman a text saying that she wanted to know if he could help her come up with "pre-race options" for a horse she had just acquired.

On cross-examination, Hall was quizzed about her deal with prosecutors in which she agreed to testify in exchange for a non-prosecution agreement.

"I was committed to help regardless of signing an agreement or not," Hall told Giannelli's attorney Louis Fasulo.

She said she was testifying "because I believe this will help the sport, it will help the horses and we really need that today."

"You care about the integrity of racing?" Fasulo asked.

"Very," Hall replied.

"You were part of the problem and now you're the remedy?" Fasulo said.

Hall insisted she wanted the sport to change.

"I bought two bottles of VO2 Max from Lisa Ranger," Hall told the jury of eight men and four women.

Hall testified the sale took place in 2019 and that she knew Giannelli at the time by her married name.

Prosecutors have described VO2 Max as an adulterated and misbranded PED designed to help a horse respire.

They showed the jury a June 2019 invoice for two bottles of VO2 Max and the $158 price. The return address on the invoice was Giannelli's home.

At another point, Fasulo seized on Hall's answer to a question in which she denied using PEDs out of greed.

In fact, she lost money, she testified.

"You did it to lose money?" Fasulo said.

"I did it to keep my horses," she said.

The investigator who testified was Rita Noblett who retired in 2021.

She said contraband medications were seized from trainer Silvio Martin during a search of his pick-up truck that took place in February 2020 at Parx Racing.

"He was coming through the gate and I asked him to pull over," she testified.

She said the substances were Banamine, Butaject, and Dexium. Also seized were syringes and needles.

The medications were contraband because the bottles had no prescription labels.

Prosecutors said the bottles were found in a box with a shipping label addressed to Fishman at Giannelli's address in Delaware.

Noblett testified it took her days to reach Martin to interview him.

"I tried to get a hold of him numerous times," she told the jury. "He never responded."

She said when she finally spoke to Martin, he said Fishman was his veterinarian at his private farm.

Noblett testified she thought it was odd that Fishman, who was from Florida, was the vet for Martin's farm in Pennsylvania.

"It didn't make sense to me," she testified.

On cross-examination, the witness testified that Martin's private farm would not have fallen under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Racing Commission.

DAY 4 TESTIMONY

Conor Flynn, a witness at Lisa Giannelli's horse doping trial Monday (May 2), testified that he was a former harness trainer who understood the penalties for violating race-day medication rules.

"You're not supposed to administer any drugs on race day," Flynn, 32, told the jury on the trial's fourth day in U.S. District Court in New York.

Flynn is testifying for the government as a cooperating witness — the second cooperator to flip and testify against Giannelli who is on trial on a charge of conspiring to misbrand and adulterate drugs. The other cooperator was Ross Cohen, also a former harness trainer.

Cohen testified last week that he purchased performance-enhancing drugs from Giannelli. He also testified on cross-examination that he fixed horse races.

Prosecutors charged Flynn and Cohen two years ago as part of the government's sweeping crackdown on horse doping. Other harness trainers have been arrested in the case as well as several Thoroughbred trainers, veterinarians and those prosecutors say were distributors.

Flynn and Cohen pleaded guilty and agreed to cooperate in a bid for leniency at their sentencings.

Flynn was indicted on charges of conspiring to secretly administer performance-enhancing drugs to horses under his care.

He testified he became a licensed New York harness trainer when he moved to New York in 2009.

He said in 2015 Richard Banca hired him as an assistant trainer at the Mount Hope Trainer Center in Middletown.

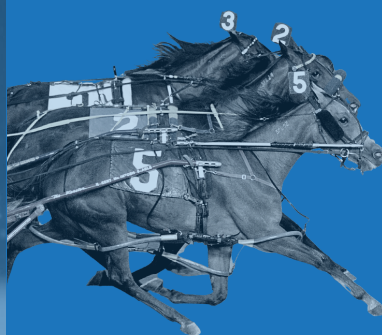

Banca was among those nabbed in the horse doping case. He pleaded guilty last month and is scheduled to be sentenced in September.

Flynn began testifying late in the day and his testimony was cut short when court recessed for the day.

He returns to the stand May 3.

The day's first witness was Food and Drug Administration veterinarian Dr. Jean Bowman who testified as a government expert witness on new animal drugs.

During her testimony prosecutor Sarah Mortazavi asked Bowman about a document that was found on Giannelli's computer during an FBI search. It was an inventory list of drugs available for purchase.

The list included a product called HP Bleeder Plus along with a description that it could "achieve the same results without the same side effects of Lasix."

Prosecutors have said HP Bleeder Plus was a performance-enhancing drug. They said veterinarian Seth Fishman, Giannelli's boss at Equestology, was the product's manufacturer.

In February, a jury convicted Fishman of creating PEDs that were used to dope racehorses and that were designed to avoid being detected in post-race tests.

With Bowman on the stand Mortazavi played for the jury a wiretapped conversation from three years ago in which a customer ordered a bottle of HP Bleeder from Giannelli.

"Okay," Giannelli is heard saying.

"Just mail it," the customer says to her.

"Okay," she says.

Bowman testified the bottles of HP Bleeder that the FBI seized in raids in Pennsylvania and New York violated FDA rules.

"It's missing the prescription legend, the name of the veterinarian," Bowman testified. "It lacks information on the manufacturer and the ingredients."

On cross-examination Giannelli's attorney Louis Fasulo tried to get Bowman to say that a veterinarian could compound drugs if he wanted to create his own product.

"He'd have to meet certain conditions," the witness responded. She said it would be okay only to prevent an animal's death or suffering or when no other drug was available.

"And suffering would be up to the discretion of the veterinarian," Fasulo said.

Bowman disagreed.

"I think there's a pretty good definition for what is meant by suffering," she testified.

The give and take continued as Fasulo continued to press the topic. He suggested it would be okay for a veterinarian to compound drugs, if it involved the use of two approved drugs.

Bowman testified in that instance you didn't need to compound anything. You could just administer the two drugs separately.

On re-direct examination, Mortazavi asked Bowman about her answers to the drug compounding questions.

"Animal suffering wouldn't be running slow?" she asked.

"No," Bowman replied.

New Jersey speedway

by Debbie Little

The fastest miles on both the trot and pace in the sport this season took place at The Meadowlands on Saturday, April 23.

Was it a fluke or maybe a harbinger of things to come?

"Any given night, you're going to see wicked-fast miles at The Meadowlands," said trainer Jeff Cullipher. "They do an amazing job there."

Cullipher, and his partner, Tom Pollack, sent out 13 Big M starters that night and their sole winner was trotter Lovedbythemasses in 1:51.

"I was more than confident he could go that kind of mile and getting into the year, he's going to have to go those kinds of miles," said Cullipher. "It builds the confidence up for me."

On the pacing side, it was the Nancy Takter-trained Red Right Hand that sizzled in 1:48.1.

"All winter, I said to the guys in the barn, 'I wonder how fast he'd go at The Meadowlands?' And I guess we got our answer," Takter said. "I think both those horses had a very good night that night. It was kind of cold that night, so it wasn't ideal conditions for horses to go super-fast either, but both of the races kind of set up for fast miles, too. I mean they went down to the half pretty quick."

Red Right Hand, owned by Christina Takter, Nancy Takter & JAF Racing, Joe Sbrocco and R A W Equine Inc., spent the winter and early spring honing his skills at Yonkers Raceway while working his way up the condition ladder to the open ranks.

"That was his 10th start of the year, so he's race tight. Even though it's early in the year for him, he's had a little bit of a season under his belt already," said Takter. "Did I think maybe that Red Right Hand was going to finish in :25.4 his last quarter? Maybe not, but The Meadowlands is always a fast track and when races get set up with fast fractions they tend to go fast there. They even go fast in qualifiers when they have fast fractions. It's one of our faster tracks that we have that we race on so I'm sure that helped, but at the same time, I think those two horses both had a good day."

Perhaps how fast Lovedbythemasses went that night shouldn't have been a surprise since the national season's mark he bested that night was his own. In mid-March, he went 1:51.1 over a sloppy track at The Meadowlands.

"A foot injury kind of lingered last year and maybe held him back a little bit," said Pollack. "But he trotted 1:50.2 twice at The Meadowlands, including winning on Hambo Day [in the Vincennes], so we obviously knew that we had something pretty special."

Lovedbythemasses, who has won five of six starts this season, is back in to go in an open at The Meadowlands on Saturday [May 7].

Pollack thought he had a good open horse, but wasn't sure how he'd do against Grand Circuit competition until he saw the 5-year-old gelded son of Muscle Mass race in an open handicap at Dover Downs on Feb. 15.

Lovedbythemasses (Tim Tetrick) recorded the fastest trotting mile in the sport this season, so far, on April 23 at The Meadowlands when he won in 1:51.

Red Right Hand (Scott Zeron) won at The Big M in 1:48.1 on April 23. It is the fastest pacing mile this year, so far.

When Lovedbythemasses was sitting seventh through most of the mile, Pollack questioned why they had sent him there. But at the three-quarter pole, Hall of Famer Tim Tetrick moved Lovedbythemasses three wide and looped the pack to score the victory.

"Then, it was like, we've really got to start managing this guy now, so we staked him up," said Pollack. "Rico [Robinson, who manages Cullipher's New Jersey operation] has done an incredible job with him out there and Jeff's doing a great job of spacing out his races so we could earn a little along the way and keep him sharp and, knock on wood, now we're getting ready for the stakes season and we'll see how he stacks up."

Pollack clearly remembers watching Lovedbythemasses win at The Big M on April 23.

"Coming on at the end of it had kind of been his style and he was almost starting to get labelled as just a closer," said Pollack. "Not a bad thing. It's always good to finish well, but I think what struck me that night was the versatility he showed by being able to leave, get position, and then kind of quarter-move and control the mile. It kind of showed a different facet that maybe he hadn't showed so much.

"Obviously, Timmy [Tetrick] has done an incredible job with him, keeping him calm and getting him to finish well and the tactics he used there were impressive. We kind of never thought of ourselves as trot guys, if you will, but this has been a pleasant surprise for sure."

Lovedbythemasses is not staked to anything in Canada but has plenty of opportunities in the U.S. and although he's not scheduled to go to the Cutler at The Meadowlands on May 21, he hopes to be invited to the Maxie Lee at Harrah's Philadelphia on May 30.

Red Right Hand, a 4-year-old son of Captaintreacherous, finished second on Tuesday [May 3] at Yonkers and is now headed north of the border.

"The reason I took him to The Meadowlands is he has The Confederation Cup, which they renamed [the Charles Juravinski Memorial Cup, May 22 at Flamboro Downs]. He has that coming up in a couple of weeks, so I just wanted to give him a little bit of a mile at The Meadowlands to stretch him out a little bit."

Last year, Red Right Hand won only five of his 21 starts but did hit the board 13 times. A series of unfortunate outside post draws against the top horses in his division definitely didn't help.

"I always thought he did show the ability and the speed that he could possibly one day be that type of horse," said Takter. "At the same time, he was very tense and nervous and not confident in himself and I give Scott [Zeron] credit because I think he helped with that.

"He's matured a lot during this time and I have to give Scott a lot of credit for it, too, because he's been racing him accordingly and building his confidence and taking him off the gate when he had to, but at the same time driving him with confidence when he was the best in the race and putting him on the front and letting him do his thing. I always say a confident horse is a tough horse to beat because sometimes they'll overperform just because of confidence. And I think he has that now."

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Fourth-generation horseman Wade Tomaszewski takes great pride in being an unofficial ambassador for Buffalo Raceway

by Chris Lomon

What's in a family name? For Wade Tomaszewski, it's everything. "I'm a fourth-generation horseperson," said the native of Lancaster, NY. "My family has always had horses dating back to the start of Buffalo Raceway. Growing up as kids, it was go to school, go to the barn, go to baseball practice, get done with practice and go feed the horses at night. My parents own their own farm, so after school, we would always go jog the horses and take care of them. I was always helping my dad [Richard]. Our mare had a nice baby and at the time, I was the only person that could help out. So, I was 10 when I broke my first 2-year-old."

That horse, V' La Faire, a Tomaszewski homebred, would go on to make $320,054 in her racing career, one that yielded 37 wins, including a special one for a young, wide-eyed driver, who launched his life in the sulky in 2014.

On June 10, 2015, at Buffalo Raceway, the daughter of Village Jove delivered Tomaszewski his first victory.

"It's amazing. The horse that I knew right from the start was the one who gave me that first win. Her mom [Trade Fair] was the first horse I jogged by myself. And V' La Faire was the first one I drove in a race and won. She's a broodmare now and we have a couple of her babies, including a 2-year-old that's in training now. We had a couple of her sisters that we raced, too. She was such a nice racehorse. I really took it for granted how easy she was to drive. The only thing was, don't be first-up with her. If you tipped her out on the last turn, she'd come flying home. It's a pretty special story the way it all worked out."

And it has continued to work out well for Tomaszewski, who works full-time as a physical therapist assistant for the McGuire Group, an award-winning health care provider that has programs and services in Western New York and Long Island.

Despite the demands of his two careers, the 25-year-old, who graduated from Villa Maria College and started working at The McGuire Group in 2018, currently, at their Seneca health care facility, is living a busy, but rewarding life.

But his hectic world doesn't end at the office or the racetrack.

Engaged to be married this October, Tomaszewski and his fiancée, Nichole Ochs, are in the midst of whirlwind times in the lead-up to their wedding day.

"It's a very, very busy time for Nichole and I right now. She goes to school and works full-time, so she has lot going on. We're selling a house, buying a house, and getting married."

The harness racing industry has added several new fans, Nichole included, thanks to the efforts of Tomaszewski, who takes great pride in acting as an unofficial ambassador for Buffalo Raceway and the sport.

In certain instances, it's taken him a little longer to make a new fan, but those efforts haven't gone unrewarded.

One particular story comes to mind.

"Nichole was deathly afraid of horses when I met her. Now, she loves them. We own a horse together and she's just so happy being around the horses. She loves it. With my physical therapist job, I've invited people from the office to come out to the race all the time. It's something they've never seen before or never thought of, but they love it. You can reach a lot of people with this sport. It's a nice, little thing we have going on in this industry and at our racetrack. Everyone I've taken there has really enjoyed it. It's better than going out to a restaurant or bar and just watching TV. You can dine, gamble if you want and then you have a live sport every 10 or 15 minutes. We're lucky to have what we have."

It's why Buffalo Raceway continues to be a treasured place for Tomaszewski and his family.

"It's nice and it's fun. When we're at family parties and all my aunts – who used to help out around the barn – are there. It always gives us stuff to talk about, to recall some stories from the past and talk about what's going on these days. I know there are always rumors about things going under, but that's been the case for as long as I can remember. I hope it keeps going. It's been in our family for so many decades, and I want to see it flourish and do well for years to come."

It's why Tomaszewski is grateful to be carrying on the family legacy in racing, something he's reminded of every time he heads to Buffalo Raceway.

His connection to horse racing and horses remains as strong as ever.

"With racing, I just want to be as successful as I can be. I run a smaller stable with my dad, and with the couple of babies we have, hopefully, they make it to the races. Right now, it's a littler early to tell, but they've done everything we've asked of them. Hopefully, they can keep moving forward and travel with them around New York and have a really fun summer."

Tomaszewski doesn't have to worry about support. He has plenty of it to lean on.

"A lot of things going on at once right now, but there's so much to look forward to, personally and professionally. I know I can count on a lot of support from so many people."

That list, outside of his fiancée, family and friends, also includes the company he works for.

"With Buffalo having afternoon cards, I've been very lucky to have such a great employer, a fantastic boss, and amazing co-workers, who understand and allow me to pursue racing. If it wasn't for them, it would be a very tough decision to make if I had to cut back on racing and choose between work and racing."

Thankfully for Tomaszewski, he doesn't need to worry about such a choice.

Which makes his time in the race bike even more rewarding.

"The thrill of racing... it's something I truly enjoy. I drive for a handful of stables, and if you've had a bad day and things aren't going your way, when you win a race, everyone is happy. And that just turns your day around. That's what racing does, it can make everything in your life better."

ALN
Cokstile has earned the right to try to win a second Elitloppet to go with his 2020 victory.

Cokstile brilliant in Helsinki

by Thomas Hedlund

The $200,000 Finlandia-ajo mile-long race was held at Vermo racetrack in Helsinki, Finland on Sunday (May 1) afternoon and when the bettors' top choices faded, an old fighter showed he still belongs in elite races in Europe.

Cokstile (Quite Easy), trained in Italy by Erik Bondo and driven by Swedish driver Christoffer Eriksson, had to face a first over trip as first choice Bepi Bi controlled the field in front.

The winner of Elitloppet 2020, Cokstile earned another ticket for Elitloppet by winning the Finlandia-ajo with a 1:52.2 track record.

The Norwegian-bred trotter is now ready for his fourth attempt in Solvalla's big mile race later this month.

Stoletshow finished strongly as the runner up, while Gareth Boko claimed the bronze medal.

"Cokstile is a fantastic horse and he has competed on a very high level during many years. He came to this race after a strong meeting in France, even if the result weren't as good as expected," said Eriksson.

Bepi Bi, trained and driven by Alessandro Gocciadoro couldn't defend himself in the race's final stage and the Italian trainer announced, before the Finlandia-ajo, that Bepi Bi's next objective will be Sweden Cup at Solvalla during the Elitloppet weekend.

SUPER RACES AT ÅBY

racetrack in Sweden plays host to a really nice race card this Saturday (May 7) when the $315,000 Paralympiatravet final highlights the day.

In addition, the $205,000 Kungapokalen and $205,000 Drottningpokalen for 4-year-olds are on the menu.

The Paralympiatravet over 2,140 meters looks to be an interesting race where title defender Delia du Pommereux (Niky) enters the race after a positive performance in the Prix de l'Atlantique at Enghien and she will face tough opponents like Who's Who, Extreme and Upstate Face, among others.

To save a racetrack

by Melissa Keith

Far up the Atlantic coast, 2,236.6 miles north of Pompano Beach, a small Nova Scotia racetrack has recently averted the same fate as The Pomp (RIP 1964-2022). Florida standardbred decoupling aside, urban sprawl and skyrocketing real estate values have been transforming grandstands across the continent into rubble, backstretches into subdivisions, and harness racing into a quaint memory at an unsettling rate.

There is often unintended irony: The developer building “the Downs” on the site of Maine’s Scarborough Downs dubbed its project #ACommunityTrifecta.

Returning to Nova Scotia: Northside Downs is situated on the Cape Breton Exhibition Grounds in North Sydney. It was put up for sale as commercial real estate in late March.

“Wow, 35 acres of prime property in the heart of North Sydney. Horse track, exhibition grounds [sic]. buildings for rental, storage, many uses. Possibly future home of a giant sub division,” read the real estate agent’s listing for the 35-acre property, listed at $1.1 million (Cdn).

Continuation as a harness racing and equestrian multi-sport venue didn’t make it into the suggested uses, although they have a long tradition on the land.

North Sydney Trotting Park opened July 31, 1898. When Sydney’s Tartan Downs closed in May 2006, Northside Downs was redeployed as a racetrack. Over the decades, when it wasn’t racing, Northside found use as a training center. Inactive as a pari-mutuel venue for 18 years, the North Sydney track successfully reopened in 2007, before the current grandstand was even built. In 2009, it reported Canada’s largest per-capita increase in live handle, even though Northside was not yet available for online wagering.

Truro Raceway, the province’s only mainland track, has also survived brushes with permanent closure in the past decade. It’s currently in the midst of infrastructure improvements that Nova Scotia Department of Agriculture spokesman Bruce Nunn said are intended to support its future as a racing venue.

“The grounds are being upgraded to support the harness racing and exhibition industries. The Department of Agriculture, through the Farm Loan Board, will continue to own the property, and the department is looking for new management. An RFP

Tanya Romeo

The John Ratchford Memorial Grandstand at Northside Downs.

[request for proposals] for new management closed at the end of February.”

The 2022 live race meet begins today (May 6).

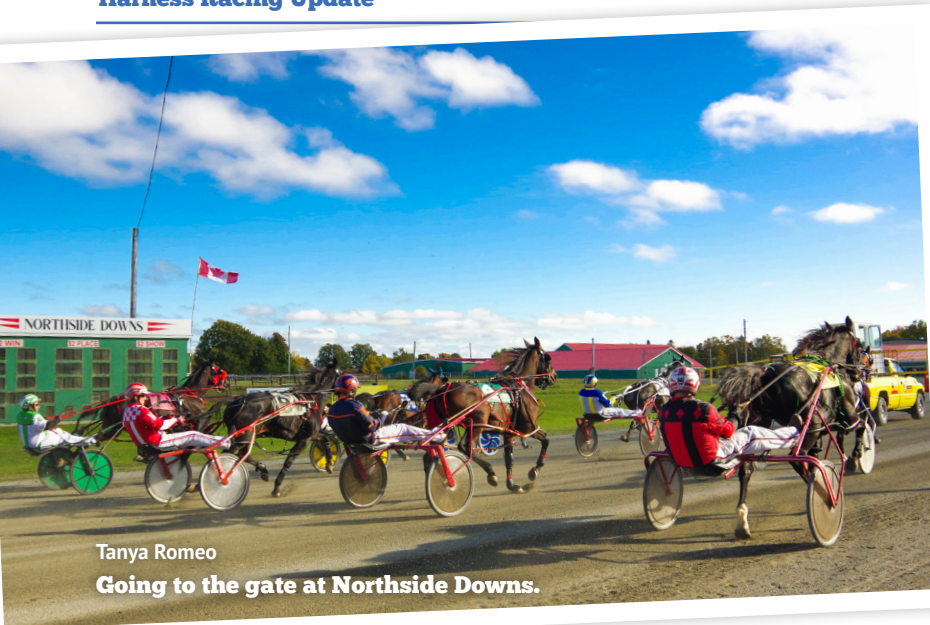

Nunn told HRU that operational details had not been made public, but “We expect to be in a position to announce the successful RFP applicant in the weeks ahead.”

Nunn added that Truro Raceway is protected by the latest arrangement: “The Farm Loan Board is committed to having harness racing on the property. The RFP was for a 10 year period, and harness racing is to be maintained on the site as part of the RFP.” The request for proposals stipulated that applicants were “required to maintain the history and spirit of the property as an agricultural and harness racing destination, while also unlocking the property’s full potential as a driver of economic and community development.”

The Department of Agriculture spokesman said there was no such condition in place for the Cape Breton Exhibition Grounds, but “The Farm Loan Board is always able to consider loan applications for Agriculture properties, and the Department of Agriculture has staff resources such as Business Development officers available to assist industry as needed.” The provincial Farm Loan Board is a Crown corporation that describes its role as “foster[ing] the development of sustainable agriculture and agri-rural businesses in Nova Scotia through responsible lending,” which it has done for a century.

When the Cape Breton Exhibition Grounds went on the market, there was no specific plan to do away with Northside Downs. “The current owner, the Cape Breton-Richmond Federation of Agriculture, just thought that their efforts would be better served focusing on programming, not so much running these facilities,” said Harness Racing Cape Breton chair Joel LeBlanc. “So they decided to put the property for sale. They felt they were spending a lot of human hours and a lot of finances towards something that was sort of out of their mandate. Then COVID really impacted them as well, where they didn’t have their local week-long exhibition the last two years. That was a big revenue-generator for them.

Tanya Romeo

Going to the gate at Northside Downs.

"There were a number of different factors that led to them selling, but their intent right from the get-go was they did want to sell it to a new owner who was going to keep it going in its current function. So that's how this new exhibition group was formed. They're facility users as well, but they don't use the racetrack portion. [They use the] indoor arena and exhibition barns... It makes a pretty good partnership, even though we don't share a whole lot of space. Harness Racing Cape Breton did have meetings with this newly-formed Cape Breton Exhibition Society. We did talk about trying to form a partnership going forward."

LeBlanc told HRU that the Exhibition Society's bid may not have been the largest, but it was selected over at least "two other real estate bids" considered by the Cape Breton-Richmond Federation of Agriculture.

Northside Downs held its first qualifiers of the year last Saturday (April 30), the same day that the good news broke about the property's future. Exhibition Society co-founder Donnie MacNeil shared his relief with the Cape Breton Post last weekend, noting that, "Of the four offers, we know at least one, and possibly more, were slated for development. So just to be able to avoid that, to avoid the wrecking ball and the bulldozers, was a huge relief."

The timing is critical for local horse owners, confirmed LeBlanc.

"There's no question it's key for the local standardbreds, because right now there's only a handful of training tracks in the Sydney area... Stabling is pretty tight here, to be honest with you. Talking today, there's not really a lot of excess space for new horses... It is one of the challenges that we do have."

Western Cape Breton lost two other training facilities this year: the former Donmar Farms, destroyed in a tragic December fire, and the decommissioned Tartan Downs, which was sold by owner Jack MacNeil to Cape Breton University in 2019 for redevelopment. It remains in use as a training center with stabling, but a 430-unit residential project is preparing to break ground.

"There's still a handful of horses there, I'd say five or less, and they're basically staying there on little three-month mini-agreements," said LeBlanc. "Last I heard, unofficially, was they were going to be okay there for the next few months... There's been nothing done there to date, but I know [residential development] is in the plans to happen fairly soon."

The 2020 request for Tartan Downs development proposals stated that the track would be replaced by "a complete neighborhood that will enhance social interaction, improve the overall well-being of tenants and provide opportunities for diverse cultural exchanges." Preserving Northside Downs and the Cape Breton Farmers Exhibition is arguably the better approach to facilitating these goals, while also keeping an agricultural tradition alive.

Harness Racing Cape Breton's chair said he was optimistic about Northside's return.

"We are planning on a regular full season for the first time since before COVID. We are starting on May 14 and we run through to the middle of November," said LeBlanc. "There should be a significant improvement in our livestream," which will return to Canada's Horseplayer Interactive ADW, with a new race day broadcast produced by PEI's Universum Media. He noted that Northside's usual 1 pm (Atlantic) Saturday post time would remain in effect.

There is more than symbolic importance to Northside's survival. It's a longstanding incubator for talent, including 2020 O'Brien Horse of the Year Century Farroh (p,1:49s; BT1:47.3m; $1,557,016), who trained and qualified there with local owner/trainer Dave Ratchford.

"Out of our small population, we've had a number of good young horses who have went to Ontario and beyond in the last 10 years," said LeBlanc. "A couple of young drivers, Colin and Dave Kelly, started their careers there." Both are likely participants in the upcoming 2022 Canadian Regional Driving Championships, representing Ontario and Western Canada, respectively.

A grateful LeBlanc praised the Cape Breton-Richmond Federation of Agriculture's decision to prioritize the local racing and exhibition communities over profit.

"Really, I have to give them credit, that they did actually turn down higher offers and that shows their commitment to the property staying an agricultural property," he said. "Being able to sustain this property... There's no other option for racing outside of Northside Downs... There's nowhere else for us to go. [Losing the track] would be huge. We're business as usual now. In general, we feel very positive about the future of Northside Downs and its current new purchaser does have plans to keep operating the racetrack going forward."

Odds and ends and little wonders

by Frank CotoLO

Having a history as a pari-mutuel gambler and a writer, I am a person who uses 99 per cent of the three per cent brain usage available to me and who spends most moments of his life thinking about and concocting alternative actions (AA).

This month's AA episode is the debut of a format we will deliver now and then. It is a sketchy memoiresque [sic] collection of ideas, opinions, celebrations, etcetera, that float over, under, around and through my busy, alternative consciousness.

Let us begin.

Thoroughbred handicappers always argue their opinions about jockeys. Who is good, who is bad, who is a natural, who is asleep at the reins. I find the arguments moot considering something I have witnessed over the decades that provides a once-and-for-all answer for my money. When a horse continues to race after dumping a jockey at the gate, it always runs faster (better) without the rider and even beats the field a lot. I know that is a semi-empirical result. But really.

Speaking of jockeys and handicappers, harness racing drivers are cut down and raised up based on what? Here are some answers.

A bettor loses money because he or she has a bad experience with a wager on a horse driven by Del Delaney (of course that name is a template). "A bad experience," by the way, is defined as a losing bet. Or, a horse wins when driven by Del Delaney, resulting in "a good experience," which is defined as the opposite of "a bad experience." In the first case, Del Delaney is a bum. In the second case, Del Delaney must be headed for the Hall of Fame.

Speaking of drivers, the most memorable person sitting in a sulky dragged by a 1,000-or-so pound steed in a race surrounded by other multi-thousand-pound steeds, is Gene Vallandingham. One night at Los Alamitos, Gene was in a spill near the finish line of a race and it tossed him from his seat so he hit the track surface hard. Knowing in his heart that a driver is an important character in the drama (not the sport) that is harness racing, immediately following his impact Gene rolled over and used his appendages to kick him into a kneeling position and project him to stand, upon which time he stood before the crowd and raised his hands like a Broadway star after singing the last note of a solo and remained in that position until the applause died down (at which time he presented a polite bow and walked off the track).

It is a shame that Gene's surname has to be the most mispronounced driver surname in the history of the sport. It is a subtle mispronunciation but enormously consistent when it is pronounced "Van-land-ing-ham." Adding insult to injury, Vanlandingham was not even a human; he was a champion American thoroughbred and I always wondered if the horse was named after Gene (who preceded the act of living long before the horse was foaled) because it was so obviously misspelled.

Speaking of drivers, what happened to the Meadowlands' Mean Tweets? The feature that showed drivers (see paragraphs above) reading disparaging Twitter comments about them is laugh-out-loud funny. Yes, it is borrowed from another source, but as I was told by a veteran comic when I was writing jokes for stand-ups, "Amateurs imitate; professionals steal." Using the format for harness drivers, as applied by Andrew Demsky, is a stroke of AA genius and should find a way to continue and be distributed as a promotion for finding new fans.

Audiences of all ages love when celebrities from all theaters of show business address the public with humble attraction. If that was not true, Jimmy Fallon would not host "The Tonight Show" and nor would Charles Barkley be comfortable hosting his void-of-edited basketball opinions. Watching Scott Zeron read "Scott Zeron is trash," does not give a person enough time to finish laughing before Corey Callahan reads "Corey Callahan is an a**hole, you should get lost at Dover Downs." Or to experience Leon Bailey's version of laughter. You can still see some segments on YouTube and make note of comments like "Do more of these" which must speak for tons of folks that still have not seen the variation on the hilarious format.

From some of the contents of this AA contribution, there are bound to come topics I shall discuss at greater length in future episodes. Meanwhile, if you have a response to anything mentioned in this episode (based on your own amount of brain usage and experience in our sport) then please send any and all comments to HRU and we will respond to your responses in another edition of this format or we will merely praise your amount of brain usage. However, if you would like to write something and not be identified, please do not include a byline).

Enjoying the moment with Lanjo Lee

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Lanjo Lee continues to provide thrills for owner Gordon Swift. This past weekend, the horse stretched his season-long winning streak to six with a victory in the Bobby Weiss Series championship for 3-year-old male pacers at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono. What happens next is uncertain, but Swift is enjoying the moment now.

"It's exciting, especially when it's your first one to be doing what he's doing," said Swift, an upstate New York resident who owns a half-dozen horses. "He's six-and-oh, and I never dreamed he would be that good."

"He's really impressed me with his attitude, his gameness, his true grit, and his speed. I thought he would be a fast colt, but I didn't realize he was going to be this fast."

Lanjo Lee won the Weiss final in 1:50.3, a career-best clocking that ranks as the third-fastest mile of the season by a 3-year-old pacer. His $64,000 in purses this year are second among all 3-year-old pacers in North America and his six wins are tied for fourth.

For his career, the Jeff Sorenson-trained gelding has won eight of 12 races, finished second twice, and earned $80,500. Lanjo Lee, by So Surreal out of My Drag Queen, is named after Swift's grandsons Landon and Jordan, who both have the middle name Lee.

Swift purchased the horse privately as a weanling. Lanjo Lee is a half-brother to Dragon Said, who won a division of this year's MGM Borgata Series and the 2021 M Life Rewards Gents Pacing Series final. Swift usually buys two weanlings a year.

"Usually, I get a better price," Swift said about the practice. "I wouldn't be able to afford some of these horses if they were yearlings and ready to go."

Last year, Lanjo Lee had two wins and two seconds in six races, with five of the starts coming in the New York Excelsior Series.

"We kind of protected him a little bit, just tried to teach him to be a horse, more than anything," Sorenson said. "We saw big changes in him (from age 2 to 3). He kind of grew up and got more mature, stuff like that. He's doing big-boy things. What we did last year really helped. It's really showed up this year so far."

"He's a pleasant horse to be around. He's always in a good mood, and he always wants to work. He's been a nice horse for us."

Curtis Salonick

Lanjo Lee (Tyler Buter) winning the $50,000 Weiss final in 1:50.3 last Saturday at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono.

This year, Lanjo Lee again is eligible to the Excelsior Series, which begins June 1, but is not staked to any other events.

"Right now, we're searching for some more series to race in," Swift said. "But we haven't made plans that far out yet. We're seeing what's out there."

While the future is up in the air, Swift knows what Lanjo Lee wants to do.

"This guy wants to race," the owner said, adding with a laugh, "All the time, I think."

JD aims to take down Reynolds rivals

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

After breeder George Zitone saw Ray Schnittker purchase So Park N Proud at the 2020 Goshen Yearling Sale, he approached the trainer and asked about retaining an interest in the pacer. Schnittker said yes, but he was changing the name of the horse.

The new name would be JD, after Zitone's son, who had been a two-time NCAA Division III All-American wrestler at Centenary University, placing second in the nation at 285 pounds in 2013 and seventh in the country the year before. While in high school, J.D. Zitone had finished second and fourth in the New York State Tournament.

Schnittker himself was a standout scholastic wrestler in New York before turning his talents to harness racing. He still follows the sport closely and has officiated youth matches.

"I've done work for Ray but never owned horses with him," said Zitone, who runs a family-founded construction company in addition to his involvement in harness racing. "Ray said I could keep a part of the horse, but he was going to call him JD. Ray knew my son from wrestling.

"I was fine with that," he added with a laugh. "But I had nothing to do with it."

JD, like his wrestling namesake, knows how to come up big. He was the 2021 New York Sire Stakes champion for 2-year-old male pacers and has earned $148,316 for owners Schnittker, Zitone and Melissa Beckwith. Tonight (May 6), he will make his 3-year-old debut in the $41,100 W.N. Reynolds Memorial at Yonkers Raceway. The gelding will start from post one with Tyler Buter in the sulky and is 5-1 on the morning line.

"He's really fulfilled more than my expectations," Zitone said about JD, a son of So Surreal-Park N Orchard who has hit the board in seven of 11 races, winning three. "He's a big, powerful, horse. He has speed, and he's versatile too. I think he's an overachiever, myself. Sometimes you get lucky."

Zitone's family got started in harness racing in the early 1970s. His father, Joseph, and uncle, Edward, started a farm and training center called Big Z Stables in Montague, N.J., and also bred and owned horses under the same name. George trained and drove horses for a number of years before becoming more immersed in the family's construction company following his dad's passing in 2005.

"It was always my passion to be a driver and trainer," Zitone said. "I soon figured out that my passion wasn't paying the bills too good. When my father passed away, I had to concentrate on the construction business. When he was alive, it was a lot easier to play. When he passed away, the playing kind of stopped."

Zitone sold Big Z Stables a couple years ago to Rob Harmon and Steve Finkelstein.

"It just got to be too much work," said Zitone, whose daughter, Heather, works at Fair Winds Farm in New Jersey. "If it wasn't for my kids helping do the work nothing would have gotten done."

Despite becoming less hands-on, Zitone has remained active in harness racing. He has several broodmares and currently has two racehorses, a 2-year-old male pacer named Boozer that he owns with Beckwith and Steven Arnold as well as JD.

"I like to stay involved," said Zitone, who in addition to his other responsibilities is a former mayor of Montague, like his father before him, and current member of the Township Committee. "I just go with the flow."

In the Reynolds, the entry of 2021 MGM Springfield Stakes winner Pleaseletmeknow and American Zestar is the 5-2 morning-line favorite. PJ Lou is 3-1 followed by recent Paul Revere Pace winner Groovy Man at 7-2.

The card also includes the $34,400 W.N. Reynolds Memorial for 3-year-old female pacers. Gotthegreenlight, a New York Sire Stakes champion and winner on the Grand Circuit in 2021, is the 9-5 morning-line favorite.

Racing begins at 6:55 p.m. EDT at Yonkers Raceway. The two Reynolds stakes top the 10-race card. For tonight's complete entries, click here.

Marcus Miller records 4,000th career driving victory

Marcus Miller, four days short of his 33rd birthday, gave himself a nice early present when he recorded the 4,000th victory of his still-young driving career, guiding trotter Dylan The Great to a 1:56.3 success on Monday (May 2) at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono.

With father Erv one of the winningest trainers of all time and sister Hannah a two-time Amateur Driver of the Year, Marcus reflected his "bloodlines" very early in his life, winning for the first – and second – time in a straight-heat victory in an amateur purse event at Altamont IL on Aug. 5, 2004. (His other two wins at age 15 were at Grand Circuit tracks Springfield and DuQuoin.) Marcus is in his 19th year of driving harness horses, with his best season for wins (501) in 2011 and earnings ($5.45M) in 2016.

Dylan The Great, Marcus's #4000, stands in quite a contrast with his driver – this victory was his first since October 11, 2020 at Northfield, although he has had only six starts in the interim. Since Dylan The Great's last victory, Marcus had visited the winners circle 424 times.

Another milestone awaits the young sulky-sitter shortly. After the Monday card at Pocono (where he is fourth in the driver win standings), his lifetime earnings were calculated at $49,890,113.

Monte Miki retired after sustaining tendon tear

Monte Miki, the Dan Patch Award winner as the top 2-year-old male pacer of 2021, has been retired, according to his trainer, Mark Evers.

"He's got a tear on the side of his tendon and is going to stud," said Evers. "We were devastated. He had a little bump on the side of his tendon and he had a 20 per cent tear after we worked him the Friday before last."

Evers was looking forward to a big 3-year-old campaign for the son of Always B Miki-Montenegro, who won six-of-seven starts a year ago, good for earnings of $665,276, by far tops in his division.

"It's disappointing, that's for sure," said Evers. "He had a lot of talent, but there are a couple of breeding farms interested in him and we are currently in negotiations."

Monte Miki took home divisional honors on the strength of two major stakes wins – the $650,960 Metro at Woodbine Mohawk Park in 1:52.2 and $600,000 Breeders Crown at The Meadowlands in 1:53.2. After being driven in his first three starts (all wins) by Josh Sutton, Scott Zeron was in the bike for the remainder of the season.

Owned by Velocity Standardbreds, 'Miki' took his lifetime mark of 1:50.4 in a Breeders Crown Elimination at The Big M.

Long-time on-air host Jason Portuondo leaving Woodbine

Woodbine Entertainment announced Wednesday (May 4) that long-time on-air simulcast host Jason Portuondo is leaving the organization to pursue a new opportunity. Portuondo's last broadcast show will be on June 26, 2022.

Better known throughout the Woodbine racing community as 'Porty,' he has been involved in horse racing since 1985 when he was a groom on the backstretch. He eventually joined Woodbine Entertainment's coverage of thoroughbred racing in 1999 before moving to Sportsnet in 2002. Porty would return to Woodbine in 2014 where he would be a main fixture in simulcast coverage for both standardbred and thoroughbred racing.

"Jason has been a big part of our racing product over the years and represented our brand, our sport, and our industry with professionalism, enthusiasm, and integrity," said Jim Lawson, CEO, Woodbine Entertainment. "Although we will certainly miss Porty, it's comforting to know he will remain in our industry, and we will all continue to see him around our racetracks. On behalf of our industry and our fans, I would like to thank Jason for all of his contributions throughout his years at Woodbine and wish him good luck in his new endeavour."

Portuondo has accepted a role with the AGCO as a racing official.

Woodbine Entertainment has started a search for an on-air simulcast host.

Caesars Entertainment invests $39 million to expand racing and gaming space at Harrah's Hoosier Park Racing & Casino

Caesars Entertainment, Inc. has shared plans for a $39 million investment to expand the casino gaming floor of Harrah's Hoosier Park Racing & Casino, further enhancing the casino operator's commitment to racing and gaming in Indiana.

Harrah's Hoosier Park, located in Anderson, will add approximately 30,000 square feet to the northwest end of the casino, allowing for 150 brand-new slot machines and 16 additional table games. Across the entire property, guests will enjoy significant updates to architectural features, including new carpeting and design elements.

Additionally, the expanded gaming floor will feature a new high limit space, a casino bar featuring hand-crafted cocktails and a quick-serve restaurant with access directly from the casino floor.

Pepper Construction of Indianapolis will begin work on May 2, 2022, with renovations set to be completed by July 2023. The project is expected to add 100 new jobs and bring in millions to local and state gaming tax revenues.

Preliminary plans include:

Additional table games and slot machines

A new high limit room for slots and table games

A new bar in the high limit room

New and improved Caesars Rewards center and promotions area

Upgrades to the Pegasus trackside bar

Additional quick-serve restaurant on casino floor

"The enhancements at Harrah's Hoosier Park further exhibit Caesars Entertainment's commitment to gaming in the state of Indiana," said Anthony Carano, president and chief operating officer of Caesars Entertainment. "We're committed to bringing the best in gaming to our Caesars Rewards destinations across the country. We are thrilled to unveil our exciting plans for the expansion of Harrah's Hoosier Park. We're confident these changes will benefit our guests and our team members."

"The growth of Harrah's Hoosier Park will continue to allow us to bring the best in racing and gaming options to our guests," said Trent McIntosh, senior vice president and general manager of Harrah's Hoosier Park. "With the addition of a new high limit room and gaming tables, new food and beverage offerings and upgraded design concepts, we're elevating ourselves as one of the best gaming destinations in Indiana."

Additional details on new hospitality, entertainment, and culinary offerings are anticipated in the coming months. For more information, please visit www.caesars.com/harrahs-hoosier-park.

Filly champions shine in Ohio Sires Stakes first leg

Two-year-old Ohio Sires Stakes (OHSS) champions Gabby's C Note and Sea Silk wasted no time defending their titles as both were easy winners in the first leg of the OHSS at Miami Valley Raceway, Wednesday night (May 4).

Gabby's C Note and Kirsi Dream were winners in the trotting divisions, while Sea Silk and Secret Side Piece were the pacing winners. Each division carried a purse of $55,000.

In the first Sires Stakes race of the year, Kirsi Dream with Tony Hall fired at the start and took the lead, covering the first quarter in :28.2. Toes In The Water, the 4-5 favorite, took over the lead covering the half mile in :57. Trace Tetrack kept the favorite on the front past the three-quarter pole in 1:27.

As the field headed to the final turn, Hall popped the pocket and Kirsi Dream took control at the top of the stretch, pulling away to win by three and a half lengths tripping the wire in 1:54.4.

Kirsi Dream went off at 7-2 and paid $9.00 to win. Breckenridge and Aaron Merriman finished second while Toes In The Water was third.

The daughter of Uncle Peter won for the second time this year and has earned $31,250 this year. Kirsi Dream is trained by Miles Wollam and is owned by Dark Horse Farms, LLC.

In the second trotting division, Aaron Merriman took Gabby's C Note to the lead at the quarter pole in :28.3 and the 2-5 favorite never looked back. Gabby's C Note covered the half in :58.3 and the three-quarters in 1:27 and pulled away down the stretch to win in 1:55.2.

The daughter of Triumphant Caviar is trained by Chris Beaver and paid $2.80 to win.

Favorite Aunt with Brett Miller was second by a head over Toast The Host and Trace Tetrack.

Gabby's C Note has won two out of three and earned $50,000 this year for her owners, Chris Beaver, his mother Johanna and Steve Zeelandar.

In the first division for the filly pacers, it took a photo finish to decide the winner.

Ronnie Wrenn Jr. raced Twenty to the lead covering the first quarter in :27. Twenty gave up the lead to stablemate and 4-5 favorite Cape Cod Hanover and Chris Page as they hit the half in :55.3

The field bunched up down the back stretch as Catamaran, the third Ron Burke trainee, made a charge to the front. The three hit the three-quarter pole in 1:23.3.

Cape Cod Hanover maintained her lead and started to pull away down the stretch holding off her stablemates but closing hard in the middle of the track was Secret Side Piece and Cameron McCown.

The daughter of Downbytheseaside stormed down the lane catching the favorite at the wire in a new lifetime mark of 1:51.4 for her first win of the season. Do It Like Bobbi finished third.

Trained by Brian Brown and owned by Black Magic Racing, Secret Side Piece went off at 12-1 and rewarded her backers, paying $27.20 to win.

Secret Side Piece has three lifetime wins and earnings of $135,449.

In the final Sires Stakes race of the night, Sea Silk made it look easy as the 1-9 favorite. The daughter of Downbytheseaside set a new track record winning in 1:50.2 in her season debut.

At the start, Dragon's Revenge and Dan Noble raced to the lead at the quarter pole in :27.3.

Chris Page and Sea Silk sat third but not for long as Page pulled and covered the second quarter in :27.0 to grab the lead at the half in :54.3.

Sea Silk maintained her lead at the three-quarter pole in 1:22.3 and pulled away down the stretch to win by two lengths.

Trained by Ron Burke, Sea Silk paid $2.10 to win.

Sea Silk is owned by Burke Racing Stable, Weaver-Bruscemi, Knox Services, and Hatfield Stables. She has now won ten of twelve races and has lifetime earnings of $611,592.

The three-year-old colts will take the track Saturday at Miami Valley Raceway for the first leg of Sires Stakes action with two divisions each for trotters and pacers.

Buckeye Stallion Series trotting colts impressive at Miami Valley

Three-year-old Ohio-sired trotting colts had their turn in the spotlight at Miami Valley on Monday (May 2) when five $17,500 divisions of Buckeye Stallion Series action took place. In the end, all five winners took new lifetime marks and earned valuable points towards qualifying for the $60,000 final at Hollywood Dayton Raceway in October.

Hustlenomics (Trevor Smith) overcame an outside post draw to win the first split in 1:56.2. Still On Gap (Tyler Smith) was the place finisher with Pine Rocket (Peter Wrenn) third across the finish line. Black Magic Racing owns the son of Full Count who is trained by Todd Luther. A $25,000 winner at age two, this success was Hustlenomics first score in four tries in 2022.

Creatine Star (Brett Miller) beat My Guy Wrapsitup (Darrell Wright) and Prince Of Sussex (Mike Wilder) in the second division. The 1:56.3 winner broke his maiden in his initial 2022 start, although the son of Creatine did bank $58,900 as a freshman. Carl Howard, Joyce McClelland and Larry Wills own Creatine Star and entrust his conditioning to Virgil Morgan Jr.

Miller and Morgan Jr. teamed up to win the next division with Surgeonemoretime, who sped to a 1:55.3 clocking to just eek out the victory over favored All Gas No Brakes (Trevor Smith). The Jesmeral Stable owns the son of Uncle Peter, who got his first lifetime triumph in just his fifth lifetime start.

Uncle Leon gave Brett Miller his third B.S.S. win topping Said N Done AS (Tony Hall) and Striking Count (Dan Noble) in 1:56.1. Fresh off a maiden victory at Miami Valley, Uncle Leon is now two-for-two on the year. Dustin Arledge trains the son of Uncle Peter and co-owns with G. Clark, M. Thompson and T. Hoovler.

The final division was captured by Phantom Tom (Trace Tetrack) in 1:57 over Mo Bay (Chris Page) and Dirty Money (Mitch Cushing). It was the fourth win in his short career and boosted his earnings over $50,000. Scott Cox trains the son of Long Tom for owners Jughead Stables, G. Peters and David Lindsey.

Camluck is back: “Classic” invitational returns to The Raceway at Western Fair

The race's namesake stallion was unraced at age 2, earning his place in the Canadian and U.S. Halls of Fame as an iron-tough older campaigner and renowned sire. Also unraced for two years, the $150,000 Camluck Classic makes its long-awaited return to The Raceway at Western Fair on May 27, 2022.

In 2018, Seelster Farms became title sponsor of the Grand Circuit race that dates back to 1972. The Labatt, then Molson, Pace was naturally renamed in honour of Camluck (p, 5, T1:48.4m; $1,003,260 US), who stood at the Lucan, ON breeding farm for 23 years. While he passed away in 2015, Camluck's legacy of durable speed continues: His sons won the event in 1998 (Any Excuse, part of a triple dead heat), 2001 (Intrepid Seelster), 2006 (Our Lucky Killeen), and 2008 (Eagle Luck); a grandson won the 2009 edition (Stormaway).

The Raceway's 1:50.1h track record was established in the 2018 Camluck Classic by Rockin Ron (p, 5, 1:47.2s; $1,730,973 US), driven by Louis-Philippe Roy for trainer Ron Burke, in the gelding's fastest-ever winning mile on a twice-around oval. The 1:50.3h London record for pacing stallions belongs to Evenin of Pleasure (p, 7, 1:48.3s; $1,171,179 US), set in the 2016 edition for Sylvain Filion and Richard Moreau.

The names of the pacers entered in the 2022 renewal remain a closely-guarded Raceway secret for a little longer. But Racing Manager Tony Elliott confirmed that, barring late changes, every horse in this year's Camluck Classic has a mark of 1:48.1 or faster, ensuring a field that puts the “Super” in the accompanying Super Hi-5 wager.

The London, ON half-mile will welcome everyone back with a variety of ways to take in the action-packed card. Live music, food trucks, an outdoor bar, and swag giveaways will be part of the “Party on the Patio.” Fans wanting a unique vantage point will find it with the “Infield Tent Experience” (ticket details coming soon). Table reservations are now being accepted for Camluck Classic night dining at the Top of the Fair restaurant (e-mail topofthefair@westernfairdistrict.com).

The card will be one of the strongest of the year, as The Raceway marks its final Friday night of the 2021/22 winter/spring meet. In addition to the Camluck Classic, the $50,000 Forest City Pace for Invitational mares returns May 27 after a 10-year absence. The undercard includes $25,000+ City of London Series Finals for Ontario-sired 4-year-olds and younger (male and female, trotters and pacers), as well as $20,000+ Ontario Sires Stakes Grassroots legs for three-year-old filly pacers.

With announcer Shannon “Sugar” Doyle calling the action, handicapper Robert Reid Jr. providing onsite interviews and commentary, and COSA TV on track, the 2022 Camluck Classic is a comeback that shouldn't be missed.

TheStable.ca Spring Open House to be held at Woodbine Mohawk Park

TheStable.ca's annual Spring Open House will be held at Woodbine Mohawk Park on Sunday (May 8). The event features brunch in the Mohawk Harvest Kitchen overlooking the track where 50 2-year-olds will train in sets.

The sets will also be broadcast via livestream on www.TheStable.ca website and social media starting at 10 a.m. EST.

Brunch is served 9 a.m. – 2 p.m. in the Mohawk Harvest Kitchen. Brunch tickets are $25/person and must be purchased in advance. (The price includes tax and gratuity.)

Prizes totaling more than $1,000 will be awarded to clients through random draws during the event.

TheStable.ca merchandise will also be available for purchase during brunch.

Additional festivities are planned for the weekend, including race night dinners at Woodbine-Mohawk Park on May 6 and 7, and the opportunity for a limited number of clients to jog a horse (accompanied by staff) at Tomiko Training Centre on May 7.

For complete information about the weekend's events, and to purchase tickets for brunch on May 8: www.TheStable.ca/openhouse

Open houses are an important social component of TheStable.ca and this is the first major in-person event offered to clients since the start of the pandemic. Open Houses are typically held in December and May of each year at TheStable.ca's Ontario headquarters at Tomiko Training Centre. More than 300 clients and their guests from across North America are expected to attend festivities throughout the weekend.

"In addition to seeing their horses in-person, our clients really enjoy meeting each other and our staff," explains TheStable.ca co-founder Anthony MacDonald. "The social aspect of TheStable.ca is valuable to many of our clients, so there's a lot of demand now that many Covid restrictions have been lifted. We're grateful to Woodbine-Mohawk Park for working with us to meet this demand and offer a great event at their world-class facility."

Horseplay car giveaway back for Meadowlands Championship Meet

Meadowlands Racing & Entertainment is bringing back fan-favorite promotion Horseplay and giving away a brand new 2022 Toyota Corolla LE. Horseplay will run tonight (May 6) through Friday, Aug. 5.

This year's Horseplay is sponsored by Wanda Polisseni's Purple Haze Stable.

Racetrack guests can enter to win every live race night by picking up a free horse to toss at the Horseplay Promo Car at the Players Club desk or the Horseplay table in front of the winner's circle.

Participants attempt to throw their numbered horse into the window of a moving car. A winner, randomly chosen from all the horses that make it into the car, will receive a $100 betting voucher. The 30 winners will be entered into the Horseplay Final Drawing on Aug. 5 and have a chance to win the 2022 Corolla through a reverse drawing.

For every horse that makes it into the Horseplay car during the season, Meadowlands Racing & Entertainment donates $5 to the designated monthly charity and $5 to Purple Haze Standardbred Adoption Program. The May donation recipient the ACT Now Foundation, a grass roots not-for profit organization, works tirelessly to raise awareness, advocate and educate New Jersey about Alzheimer's disease, prevention, and early detection. Bluemont Sanctuary is the June charity recipient whose mission is to rescue, rehab and foster equines, minis and donkeys. The July/August charity recipient is the Allaire Community Farm who has a mission of rescuing animals to rescue people of all ages. Their focus population is special needs individuals, teens with mental health issues and local families battling cancer in our community.

Team Henry captures 2022 Horsemen's Hockey Tournament

Following the lead of his beloved Tampa Bay Lightning, Trevor Henry was hoisting a trophy of his own at centre ice on Sunday after managing/coaching his Oh Henry! squad to victory in the 2022 Horsemen's Hockey Tournament.

Henry's team ran through the competition with a perfect record of 4-0, including an 8-2 beating of Team Jody Jamieson in the championship game. Goaltender Louis-Philippe Roy was stellar between the pipes for the champs, while those playing in front of him found instant chemistry to back-up the drafting of their manager.

Although the name of Trevor Henry will be etched on the trophy, those around the team chalked up the victory to great managing from Trevor's daughter, Tess.

The members of the winning team are:

Louis-Philippe Roy
Bryan Richardson
Ryan Marriage
Justin Abraham
Alec Morgan
Bruce Richardson
Brad Doyle
Matt Bax
Brady Jackson
Kris Rose
Cody Henry
Dan Pugliese

This year's Horsemen's Hockey Tournament was the first contested since 2019. A total of five teams competed in the tournament, with managers Henry, Jamieson, Doug McNair, Rob Fellows and Anthony Haughan drafting their respective teams from a pool of over 60 players.

The event was a success and organizers are planning to hold another tournament in 2023.

The Horsemen's Hockey Tournament was largely made possible thanks to the generosity of its sponsors. The organizers would like to thank the following groups and individuals for their support:

Glen Smith – Merit Insurance
Dr. John McKnight
Central Ontario Standardbred Association
Woodbine Entertainment
The Raceway at Western Fair District
Clinton Raceway
Cujo Entertainment
