BETTOR'S BEWARE

The debate about the "No Tuck" rule continues to rage at The Meadowlands.

by Debbie Little

Top horses are returning to prep for the stakes season and bettors better brush up on the rules.

There was a lot of banter on social media after One Eight Hundred made his 2022 debut in March and when reigning Horse of the Year, Test Of Faith, returned to the track for her 4-year-old campaign on May 7. Both races were at The Meadowlands.

Some of the discussion was about what's been labeled as the "No Tuck" rule, while others felt it was bad optics to have both One Eight Hundred and Test Of Faith not be forwardly placed as the 2-5 and 6-5 betting favorites, respectively.

The rule in question from the New Jersey Administrative Code clearly states that "Laying off a normal pace and leaving a hole when it is well within the horse's capacity to keep the hole closed," is a violation.

This rule is not new, but it is getting a lot of attention these days.

"I can tell you, it was called differently over the years from the time I went to The Meadowlands until I quit racing," said Meadowlands' all-time leading driver, John Campbell. "Sometimes, it was extremely strict and unreasonable and sometimes it was very lax and everything in between over the years. I will tell you, it was fairly strict the first, I would say, 12 years at least."

Campbell started racing at The Big M in 1978 and won his last race there in 2017 before retiring to become president and chief executive officer of the Hambletonian Society.

To some it may be semantics, but to Campbell there's a distinct difference between tucks and holes.

"Letting somebody in is a totally different thing, don't confuse the two," said Campbell. "All horses cannot get out of the gate and get to the first quarter at the same speed in the same fashion. They're not cars. So, some can leave faster than others, some can accelerate on the turn faster than others, so there's going to be holes depending on the pace. Some horses don't travel as well in the first turn. There's always going to be holes and that is different than letting horses in. There are two different issues."

The question remains, does the betting public understand the rules when it comes to keeping holes closed?

"I don't know who the average bettor is anymore," said professional gambler Les Stark. "I think that most people that bet are much more sophisticated than if you go back 40 years ago. So, I think most of the people that play now probably have an understanding of what the "No Tuck" rule is."

It's not a surprise that long-time bettors such as Stark would have a good handle on the rules. However, right now those rules are perhaps not quite so black and white.

"The rule does not apply to 2-year-olds," said Meadowlands president/chief executive officer Jeff Gural. "We told the drivers that we would cut them a little slack, because we recognize that these horses are valuable and they're making their first start and if they draw the nine or 10 hole we don't want them to necessarily be afraid to leave because they're afraid they're going to get parked. So, we did make a minor change for the month of May for the stakes races.

"But so far, truthfully, the stakes races I've watched, they've actually closed the holes. I think they're getting used to closing the holes and, hopefully, the public recognizes that the racing is different and the goal is to give the horses coming from behind a better opportunity.”

Gural and his team have worked hard to put the best possible product on the track, but even with those efforts, there are still complaints.

“The biggest problem we have, truthfully, is people pick up the program and bet and yet we know that the trainer may be instructing the driver to race a horse easy, especially if it’s the first or second start, or if he’s getting him ready for a big race. And the betting public has no way of knowing,” said Gural. “And the betting public then complains and they’re right. And I get it. I own horses. I’ve been there. And at the same time, people bet on it so we’ve got to be cognizant of the fact that: a) people bet on it, and b) most racetracks are empty. So, if we’re just going to keep doing the same thing over and over again, we’re going to get the same result, which is the definition of insanity.”

The Meadowlands has done an exemplary job of keeping the bettors informed when it comes to whipping rules, which appear in the on-track program. However, there is nothing in there regarding keeping holes closed.

“I think you would be better served to try to educate the bettors than trying to manipulate how the drivers are driving the races,” said Nancy Takter, trainer of One Eight Hundred. “We have to teach people or inform people on a kindergarten level. I think we’re trying to teach them like they have a PhD and they don’t. We’re over complicating it for them.

“That’s why I went right out and said it in the [Dave Brower] race review [in the program] that the horse is going to race off a helmet. I didn’t spend four months to have my horse gutted to go fast to the half to get hung out there and have him stop again. I wanted him to pass horses finishing.”

Takter believes One Eight Hundred could have won that race if the fractions had set up more favorably for him, but even with her pre-race explanations, she was still skewered on social media.

"I got so much hate mail after his race," said Takter. "He wasn't even off the track yet and messenger was going off on my phone. 'You and Dex stiffed that one. Thanks for screwing the public.' And I was like, no, I informed you that was going to happen."

Brett Pelling, trainer of Test Of Faith, thinks the rules need to be in the program so that every bettor knows what's going on.

"Our business revolves around one thing, and that's the gambler," said Pelling. "And [The Meadowlands] needs to program that information so that Joe Blow knows about it. People need to know."

In regard to Test Of Faith's first start, Pelling had no intention of having her leave and made sure he and driver David Miller were on the same page.

"David, there's no frigging way in the world that you're going forward out of the gate," said Pelling. "You understand that, right? And he's like 'I know. That's what I was going to do anyway. I don't want to get parked.'"

Both Takter and Pelling would like to see drivers given more leeway to make strategic race choices.

"This may be a bad analogy, but if you have a performer like Madonna and you tell her, 'You have to do your routine this way,' you're taking away what makes her, her," said Takter. "There has never, ever, ever, been a moment where I have questioned any of my drivers' desire to win a race."

“These are the best drivers in the world,” said Pelling. “They are the crème de la crème that know what they’re doing and they’re out there to win. They’re competing. There’s no losing driving fee in America. You don’t get a losing driving fee. The only time you get paid is you finish fifth or better.”

"These are the best drivers in the world," said Pelling. "They are the crème de la crème that know what they're doing and they're out there to win. They're competing. There's no losing driving fee in America. You don't get a losing driving fee. The only time you get paid is you finish fifth or better."

Takter also suggested that if a driver doesn't keep a hole closed and a horse drops in, that driver should be interviewed live following that race to see why it happened.

Stark doesn't think that The Meadowlands is obliged to take people by the hand and tell them what the rules are and what to be wary of.

"It's gambling and we've been doing it for a long time and if you're dipping your toe into the pools and you're betting any money beyond a $2 show bet, you should have a certain understanding of what a horse's first start out for a stakes performer may include," said Stark. "If you analyze the Pelling and David Miller situation, they will almost always give one a fairly easy race first start, especially one of that quality."

"I'm not sure if I bet against One Eight Hundred, but I'm pretty sure I did and I certainly bet against Test Of Faith, even though she's as good a horse as can look through a bridle. Only because she'd have to come so far and she wasn't in by herself."

In regard to properly explaining things to our fans, Campbell thinks you can never go wrong giving more information.

"We've done a terrible job about that over the years," said Campbell. "We should have started that in the 1960s. My opinion and the participants opinion are really moot. It's what the bettors want and expect. That's who we should be listening to."

Racing the Rockefeller way

Racing needs to learn how to exploit its edge in the new gambling world.

by Dean Towers

I like reading books about people I know little about, and after some searching, I downloaded Titan by Pulitzer Prize winner Ron Chernow. The life and times of John D. Rockefeller was a dandy read.

Although I enjoyed learning about the man and his vast philanthropic zeal – along with the neat fact he owned, bred and drove trotters – I was most enamoured with his business tactics and philosophy.

As most know, his company – Standard Oil – was a Trust, and was the focus of Anti-Trust legislation of the early 1900's. A "Trust" primarily refers to the way a company was set up to discourage competition; read a monopoly. Rockefeller's business strategy took full advantage of monopolistic tactics, and did many things we would not consider fair in this day and age.

However, glossed over in history was his savvy business philosophy and this presented many teachable moments.

Rockefeller bought competitors and hired the best of them into executive roles. He created above-board backward and forward linkages, and using large retained earnings he built out new technologies for growth.

He kept the price of oil as low as possible, to combat both new competition, technologies that may be created, and burgeoning Russian oil.

Rockefeller sold lamps for lighting and other useful items at cost so people could afford these devices to purchase his fuel. These strategies helped create staggering wealth. When the Trust was broken up in 1911, his net worth was $900 million.

Racing has constantly – as a monopoly on legal gambling through much of its existence – not kept prices low to kill off competition, it raised them; from 5 per cent takeout in 1907, to the 21 per cent or so today.

To put that into perspective, the entire U.S. federal budget that year was $715 million.

Over the last century, I think the racing monopoly presents a worthwhile contrast.

Racing has constantly – as a monopoly on legal gambling through much of its existence – not kept prices low to kill off competition, it raised them; from 5 per cent takeout in 1907, to the 21 per cent or so today.

Racing has not sold 'lamps' at cost to fuel long term demand for betting. We've all paid for past performances, admission and even a pencil at the track to mark our programs. Hell, it's not that long ago TVG had "per bet" fees.

Racing did not raid other firms for top talent – say, from online gambling houses or sports betting – and put them in positions of power based on their unique skill-set.

Racing did not retain earnings to use as investment into the future; into new markets, brand new technology, or buying pieces of old ones. Even its slot money primarily went from a nickel dropped into a machine directly into purses or a share price.

At racing conferences and in board rooms, the topic has rarely been about how the competition can be killed, rather how the sport can slow the competition from doing the killing.

That's the past you may say, and that's true. But it's the mindset that I find troubling as the sport tries to move forward.

For example, racing still holds a monopoly on pari-mutuel wagering. This system, notwithstanding its flaws, works very well and is unique in the gambling industry. It contains the tote and a pipeline of deliverables no one else owns – not FanDuel, or DraftKings or William Hill – encompassing millions of worldwide customers with billions on account. What can the sport do with it? Is anyone even talking about it?

Scraping away the anti-competitive, rock bottom business tactics of Rockefeller, he'd probably look at this sport oddly. How can it have such an advantage on other forms of gambling and it not result in massive market share and a healthy balance sheet? It's something we'll never know, but I honestly believe there's still time to reverse the oversights; to reverse the old way of thinking.

I don't agree as some say that "racing is dead" as a gambling game, but I do think it needs to learn how to live. Racing's pure wagering monopoly may be over, and that's too bad, but with the right people calling the shots, I think there's still a lot of meat on the bone to create and exploit new ones.

Centurion ATM unleashes a potential star in Jonas K S

The sophomore trotting colt dominated the inaugural Battle of Bunker Hill Trot at Plainridge Park with a 1:53 track record.

by Brett Sturman

What began as a typical, seemingly quiet Monday afternoon at Plainridge Park earlier this week, ended with the potential to have a material impact in the sport's 3-year-old trotting colts division this year. That's because in the inaugural Battle of Bunker Hill Trot for $100,000, Jonas K S (Centurion ATM) left competition far in his wake en route to a 12-and-a-half length win in a new track record time for 3-year-old colt trotters of 1:53.

An unknown at the time to practically everyone, Jonas K S was making just his second lifetime start in the Battle of Bunker Hill. Following up his win in his debut at Pocono on April 25 in a time of 1:57.4, Jonas K S took control from the start in the race at Plainridge. He rebuffed an early brush attempt by the heavily backed 1-9 favorite S I P and continued rolling right along through testing fractions of :27.1, :55.1, and 1:23.3. By the final quarter mile of the race, last year's $260,000 earner S I P could do no more and broke from second when it appeared he had already seen enough, clearing the way for the double digit and track record win in the end for Jonas K S.

Bred by Tristan Sjoberg's Knutsson Trotting Ab, as well as owned by Knutsson Trotting along with Little E LLC and Stall Kalmar Inc, the performance from Jonas K S was no fluke.

"He showed a lot of promise as a 2-year-old, and he just towards the end of his training to qualify last May-June, but he just wasn't quite mature enough. He was going through a growth phase all of the time," said Sjoberg. "But (trainer) Ake (Svanstedt) was always very keen on him. He said that we're going to have a very good horse as a 3-year-old, and so we stuck by him and stuck by the decision to not race at 2.

"To be perfectly honest with you, he was training back very normally at first. And then, until the middle of March, Ake called me and said that Jonas was really showing some talent and that we've got a really nice horse here, that he's been doing really well and really stepped up. So, we qualified him in April at the Meadowlands, and he had that blistering last quarter (:26.4), though I didn't want to get my hopes up. But Ake told me that we are talking about a horse that is extremely similar to his sire, Centurion. He doesn't really do a lot on the training ground – he does what he's supposed to do and never really makes a mistake but doesn't really shine either. And when Ake qualified him in April, he said it just dawned on him that Jonas hadn't actually ever trained behind a mobile starting gate, and that he hadn't been on a racetrack – ever. As it turned out, Jonas couldn't have cared less. He was so cool, calm, collected and did what he was supposed to do, and that’s what he did Monday as well. Nothing really phases him, he just does it. He has a very nice technique, and that’s what Centurion had. They are amazing technique horses, and you could see it at Plainridge in that last quarter, the other horses just couldn’t keep up with him.”

Jonas K S (Kevin Switzer Jr.) winning the inaugural Battle of Bunker Hill Trot on Monday at Plainridge Park.

“He [Jonas K S] was so cool, calm, collected and did what he was supposed to do, and that’s what he did Monday as well. Nothing really phases him, he just does it. He has a very nice technique, and that’s what Centurion had. They are amazing technique horses, and you could see it at Plainridge in that last quarter, the other horses just couldn’t keep up with him.”

On Twitter following the Battle of Bunker Hill win, Sjoberg noted, perhaps tongue-in-cheek, that he had staked the wrong horse to this year’s Hambletonian.

“I had two 3-year-old colts and the one I staked to the Hambletonian was Jaqen h’ghar (Walner). I kept Jonas out of it and obviously now it looks like I made the wrong decision. It should have been the other way around, but that happens sometimes,” Sjoberg said.

Despite not being staked to the Hambletonian (which is a race that does not allow supplements), Sjoberg noted that Jonas K S is still well-staked. Engagements to larger stakes include the Earl Beal, Yonkers Trot, Bluegrass Stakes and Matron.

Jonas K S has the potential to greatly impact the direction of his sire who stands currently at Kentuckiana Farm for a fee of $2,500. Centurion ATM is a world champion and Peter Haughton champion at age 2. He is a full brother to fellow world champion Triumphant Caviar, both of whom earned over $700,000. They are both half-sibs to another $700,000 earner, Prayer Session (Like A Prayer).

“I have a lot of faith in Centurion as a stallion,” said Sjoberg. You look at Centurion’s pedigree and it’s all black type. You look at Triumphant Caviar (SJ’s Caviar) and how well he’s done as a sire over many years in Ohio. That (ENS Tag Session) maternal line is extremely strong, and Centurion is one of the most amazing, nicest animals I’ve ever been around. I think he has fantastic potential to be an excellent sire if the breeders will give him the opportunity.

“Centurion has already sired winners in four countries. He’s been standing in Australia for two seasons and he’s already sired winners there. He had a 2-year-old winner last year in Sweden, and he had a winner in Holland three weeks ago. Even though he’s had small crops, he’s sired winners in four countries. And with the Kentucky bonus that you have now, I think that him standing at $2,500 compared to some of the other stallions that are there – I think that he offers tremendous value for people that want to be part of the Kentucky Sire Stakes program and get that stallion bonus.”

The plan was for Sjoberg to first showcase Centurion ATM beginning in 2020 when he shipped two of his yearlings to Kentuckiana to get the summer there prior to sale later that year in Lexington. But those two yearlings, Jonas K S ($15,000) and Jessica K S ($12,000), were bought back by Sjoberg and neither of them raced as 2-year-olds.

However, Sjoberg’s vision may now be coming to fruition.

“Monday you obviously had Jonas racing a great mile and then Tuesday morning at Harrah’s Philadelphia Jessica K, the other horse that I shipped over, won her qualifier there with Julie Miller. They are extremely positive about her, very. She’s staked for a lot of races also, particularly towards the end of the season. And I’m very hopeful about both of them.”

Hall of Famer Dr. J. Glen Brown dead at 88

by Mark McKelvie / Woodbine communications

Editor's Note: HRU's Murray Brown is believed to have conducted the final interview with Dr. Brown. That story was published in February of 2021 and can be read here.

Woodbine Entertainment is saddened to learn of the passing of former board member and Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame member Dr. J. Glen Brown at age 88.

"Dr. Brown was an incredible builder who impacted all areas of our industry," said Jim Lawson, CEO of Woodbine. "Woodbine was fortunate to be one of the groups that got to experience and benefit from Dr. Brown's deep passion and knowledge for racing."

Born in New Liskeard, ON in 1933, Dr. Brown graduated from the Ontario Veterinary College in 1957 with a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine and Veterinary Surgeon degree.

In 1958, Dr. Brown became farm manager and veterinarian for Elgin and Ted Armstrong's ABC Farms and would eventually become general manager, president and chairman of the board of the world-class breeding facility in Inglewood, ON. He retired from the Armstrong Board in 2005 after nearly 47 years.

The son of James W. Brown, also a Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame member, Dr. Brown also carried on his father's Glendale Farms breeding operation.

In 1981, Dr. Brown's Fan Hanover brought him great success when she became the first and only filly to win the Little Brown Jug. Fan Hanover was named Harness Horse of the Year and her legacy is honoured each year with the Fan Hanover Stakes at Woodbine Mohawk Park.

Dr. Brown held many principal roles throughout the harness racing industry, including serving as a member of the Ontario Racing Commission, president of the Canadian Standardbred Horse Society, director of the Ontario Harness Horse Association, president of The Classic Series Limited, director of The Hambletonian Society, president of the Kentucky Standardbred Sales Co., chair of the Ontario Agriculture and Horse Racing Coalition and trustee of the Harness Racing Hall of Fame.

In 1985, Dr. Brown was elected to the board of the Ontario Jockey Club (now Woodbine Entertainment) and spent most of his term as chair of the standardbred committee. Dr. Brown retired from the board in 2009.

Dr. Brown was inducted to both the Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame and U.S. Harness Racing Hall of Fame in 1995.

Dr. Brown is survived by daughter Lynne Hague (Bob), sons James Brown and Douglas Brown (Tammy), and grandchildren Jenna Hague, Alex Hague, William Brown and Christopher Brown.

As per Dr. Brown's wishes, there will be no funeral service.

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Standardbreds a key part of trainer Kaylee Martin's life dance

by Chris Lomon

There are certain sounds that will always be music to owner/trainer Kaylee Martin's ears.

When she talks of being fourth generation, the 19-year-old from Grove City, PA, isn't speaking of just one life's calling.

In this instance, it happens to be a pair of careers that happily keep her on her toes.

"Outside of my racing life, I teach dance," said Martin. "I started doing dance when I was eight, and now I get to teach it. The kids are anywhere from two to 19, and I go two days a week, sometimes more. It's a competition school, the Dotty McGill School of Dance. So, we teach competitive dance, and we go to various competitions throughout the state. I teach tap, ballet, jazz, acro, lyrical – a little bit of everything.

"With racing, it started with my great-grandfather, who worked with ponies. My grandfather is part of the industry, and my mom is too. I've been basically doing it my whole life. I started when I could walk, basically. I felt that instant bond with the horses."

Does she see any connections between teaching dance and her standardbred life?

"It would be the sound. With the horses, when they are trotting or pacing, and in certain forms of dance, you hear similar sounds.

And I really like that. Whenever I'm doing one of those things, it reminds me of the other."

As for her racetrack life, Martin, in just her second year of training, has fared well, going 8-3-9 from 25 starts in her rookie season.

She recorded her first career pari-mutuel win with Heytherwillie on Dec. 9, 2021, at The Meadows. Martin, who had already won several races in the Pennsylvania Fairs Circuit, co-owns the 3-year-old son of Possess The Will—Heythergeorgiegirl with Jodi Martin and Fred Uber Jr.

"That was a great moment. You always hope that day will come and when it does, it's even better than you imagined."

Although it's early on in her career, two horses in particular have already had a profound impact on her life.

"San Zambello really taught me a lot and helped me so much," said Martin, of the hard-knocking trotting son of San Pellegrino, who went 12-10-10 from 91 career starts, with his final victory coming on Nov. 20, 2012, at Northfield.

Then there is Broadway Kabam.

Martin and the trotting daughter of Broadway Hall shared a deep affection for one another.

"We were very much like one another in so many ways and we just connected."

Kaylee Martin.

Is that a compliment to the horse?

"Well, sometimes," Martin said with a big laugh. "She could be playful at times, and then at other times she wasn't. She didn't like it when people came up to her stall door. She would flare her ears back. But she was the best horse to work around."

Unfortunately, the brown mare, who posted a mark of 14-13-8 from 78 starts, accompanied by $108,747 in purse earnings, recently passed away.

The loss of her beloved trotter still stings.

"It's just hard to talk about still," said Martin. "She died three days before her seventh birthday. She was the one I learned almost everything with and the one that meant the most to me. I could do anything with her but not everyone could. She was my world. The day she passed away I got the call that she was down, so I went and I feel she waited for me to get there. When I got to the barn she nickered and tried to stand up but couldn't, so I went and sat beside her. She picked her head up and laid it in my lap and took her final breath with me holding her."

In that moment and to this day, Martin is reminded of advice she received before she started her horse racing career.

"Never give up on a horse and always try your best. That's what I'll always do."

Putting in long hours at the racetrack and in the barn never brings her down.

Although she's listed as an owner and trainer, Martin also has several other roles.

Not that she sees it as a negative.

"I'm jogging and cleaning stalls, water buckets and all of it. When I'm jogging a horse, I find it very relaxing. It's very peaceful when you are out there, and any stresses you have seem to be forgotten. It's just all about being with the horses and meeting new people. I love being around the horses every day and the chance to meet so many great people, that's also something I really enjoy too."

In just her second year of training, Martin has already set out a foundation for what she would like to achieve, both short-term and beyond.

This year, the objective is to get the young horses, all trotters, under her tutelage, up to speed as the racing season heats up.

Kaylee Martin in the bike at The Meadows.

Beyond that, Martin has hopes of building something special for the future.

"Short-term, it would be getting our 2-year-olds racing. In the long-term, I'd like to get a barn for myself. Right now, we're stabled at the Stoneboro Fair, and I'd like to get a place for myself, put a track there, and hopefully get more horses."

While educating trotters can be, at times, frustrating, Martin isn't daunted by the hurdles that can come with the gait.

Instead, she sees it as a welcome challenge, something she has always thrived upon.

"I like the challenge with the trotters. Any challenge, I'll accept it."

Which is exactly what Martin somehow manages to conquer every week, dividing her time and energy into dual careers, both of which keep her engaged and energized despite the demands and little time for outside interests.

After all, when you're a fourth-generation dancer and horseperson, keeping things running smoothly is the top priority.

"It can be hectic, and it can be busy, but when you love what you do, that makes all the difference in the world. I look forward to every chance I get to do both."

Who's Who will be driven by Åke Svanstedt's in this year's Elitloppet.

Svanstedt accepted, meaning he will make a trip to his former home country to drive in the Elitloppet behind Who's Who, a fact that puts a great deal of spice into the mile race at Solvalla.

Örjan Kihlström, driver of four or maybe five of the horses in Elitloppet, has chosen Don Fanucci Zet, the title defender of the race.

Googoo Gaagaa son Hail Mary, now trained by Daniel Redén, is invited to the Elitloppet, but Redén hasn't said yes yet, but it seems like Hail Mary will enter the race after an impressive comeback a few weeks ago when he took a strong first over win in 1:52.4.

The last chance to qualify for Elitloppet is this Saturday (May 21) in Gävle when the $40,000 Prins Daniel's lopp mile is held. The winner gets a ticket to Elitloppet and it seems like the fans can look forward to an open race where several trotters can win.

Hagoort, Bakker team claims another big trophy for The Netherlands

by Thomas Hedlund

Trainer Paul Hagoort and driver Robin Bakker from The Netherlands had a successful afternoon at Åby on May 7 when their Chebba Mil claimed the $205,000 Drottningpoklaen for 4-year-old mares.

When the $105,000 Copenhagen Cup – which I incorrectly claimed is a Group 2-race now (the race has Group 1-status) – was held in Copenhagen, Denmark on Sunday (May 15) afternoon, the Dutch duo struck again, this time with the Conway Hall son Mister F.Daag.

Milligan's School was in front and got some pressure from outside trotters Stolettheshow and Alcoy, which resulted in empty gas tank in the last turn.

Calle Crown guided the attacks from horses attacking three wide during the race's last half mile and behind him Mister F.Daag got the perfect cover trip. Robin Bakker lifted his horse four wide at the top of the stretch and Mister F.Daag disarmed the inside horses quite easily.

The German-bred winner came home in mile rate 1:55 over 1.3 miles and for Hagoort and Bakker, this was their second win in Copenhagen Cup. In 2015 Robert Bi claimed the title in the race and in Mister F.Daag they have a horse for some of the biggest races in northern Europe this summer.

Calle Crown was heroic as runner up and Stolettheshow ended as third.

SVANSTEDT DRIVES WHO'S WHO IN ELITLOPPET

When Back Of The Neck was announced out of the game in this year's Elitloppet, the entourage around Who's Who quickly called Åke Svanstedt to ask if he wants to drive the Maharajah son at Solvalla on May 29.

Jujubee (Andrew McCarthy) winning the 2021 Kentucky Futurity at Red Mile.

Delayed start for Jujubee

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Jujubee, who was the 2021 Dan Patch Award Trotter of the Year as well as being voted the sport's top 3-year-old male trotter, has seen his 4-year-old debut delayed, but owner Jon Erdner hopes his homebred star will be ready to return to action during the summer.

Last season, Jujubee won 14 of 18 races, finished worse than second only once, and earned $948,791 to lead all male trotters in purses. Trained by Greg Wright Jr., the stallion qualified in mid-April at Spring Garden Ranch, where he won in 1:56.1, as he prepared for this year's campaign.

Jujubee was eligible to compete in the Graduate Series for 4-year-old trotters, which got underway May 7, as well as this weekend's Arthur J. Cutler Memorial at The Meadowlands but was not entered in either event.

"He trained down pretty good during the spring, but Greg thought he was just a little bit off," Erdner said. "We had him looked at, and we didn't find too much, but it looked like there might have been some stress in one of his bones. So, we decided to give him some time. He should be back in July.

"I don't think (Jujubee) knows anything is wrong, but we're not taking any chances. Maybe we're a little bit overcautious, but you have to do what is right by the horse."

Jujubee was lightly raced at age 2, racing five times in conditioned events, and posting two wins, two seconds, and a third. Last year, his victories included the Breeders Crown, Kentucky Futurity, Phil Langley Memorial, and Pennsylvania Sire Stakes championship.

Along the way, the son of Creatine—La Cantera became the first 3-year-old male trotter in history to win with two sub-1:50 miles, capturing the Muscle Hill Trot in 1:49.4 at The Meadowlands and the Futurity in 1:49.3 at Lexington's Red Mile.

"You always like to set records and so forth, but we still have that ahead of us," Erdner said. "I think that when he's ready to go he will come back pretty well. He will be stronger and more mature. I think he can tackle some of the records he hasn't beaten yet."

Jujubee is eligible to a number of stakes during the second half of the Grand Circuit season, including the John Cashman Memorial in August, Maple Leaf Trot in September, and Breeders Crown in October.

"He's missing a few (stakes now) but he should be fresh for the end of the year," Erdner said. "He still has a career ahead of him yet. We'll hope for the best there."

Chapheart wins NYSS trotting event at Buffalo

by Brian J. Mazurek for Buffalo Raceway

Driver Trond Smedshammer let Chapheart decide what to do leaving the starting gate in the $115,600 New York Sire Stakes for the 3-year-old colt and gelding trotters at Buffalo Raceway on Wednesday afternoon (May 18). Chapheart said 'let's go' and it ended up being the right choice.

Going coast to coast on the front end, Chapheart ($4.10) collected the $57,800 winner's share of the huge purse by defeating Castle House by a solid 1-3/4 lengths in 2:00.3 over the fast track. Valentine Express (John MacDonald) took third place honors.

"I didn't have any mindset if I was going to race him from behind or on the lead," Smedshammer said after the race. "I was just letting him trot out. I didn't think I'd get to the front that easily."

Chapheart was able to dictate the soft fractions of :30.2, 1:01.3 and 1:32.2. Castle House (Kasper Foget) was looming first over approaching the three quarter pole but couldn't chip in the lead heading to the wire as Chapheart fired off a :28.1 last quarter to seal the deal.

"I got away with soft fractions and then sprinted home," Smedshammer added about his journey over the Buffalo Raceway half mile with Chapheart.

Owned by the Purple Haze Stables of nearby Fairport, NY and trained by Smedshammer, it was the second victory in three appearances on the season for the gelded Chapheart (Chapter Seven—Hip To My Heart). The win increased his 2022 earnings to $68,625 and $96,841 lifetime.

Classic Express ($3.80) led every step of the way but needed a photo in the end to collect the nose victory over Makadushin N Cheez in the $15,000 Excelsior A Series race for the 3-year-old colt and gelding trotters in 1:59.4. It was actually a faster time than the Sire Stakes event.

Scoring from the rail, driver Drew Monti took advantage of the pylons and sent Classic Express on his way off the gate. With splits of 30.0, 1:00.3 and 1:31, Classic Express wasn't home free as Makadushin N Cheez got the perfect pocket trip.

These two broke away from the field turning for home with Classic Express managing to hang on by a nostril as Makadushin N Cheez (John MacDonald) ran out of real estate and had to settle for second. Screamer (Phil Fluet) took the show spot.

Co-owned by James De Armond and Turn N Burn Stables, Classic Express (Conway Hall—Rucoucou) is a 3-year-old colt that is trained by John Kinney. It was his second victory in five starts for Classic Express, now a winner of $11,425 this year and $22,659 lifetime.

Night Hawk impresses in Pennsylvania All-Stars at Pocono

by PHHA / Pocono

The sport's "glamour division," the 3-year-old pacing colts, came to The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono on Sunday (May 15) for three $30,000 divisions of a Pennsylvania All-Stars event, and the most impressive – not necessarily because he had the fastest time, but the way he raced – was the Betting Line colt Night Hawk.

David Miller guided the sophomore up to the lead by a :27 quarter, and then got "average" (for these) splits of :55.4 and 1:23.4. The only foe hanging close was pocket-sitter Captain Cowboy, and when Miller gave his colt a gentle wakeup call soon into the stretch, he responded with a :26.1 blitz home to complete the 1:50 mile, not looking like he was working hard at all. Captain Cowboy, to his credit, was only a length back, but Night Hawk always looked to be in control while establishing a lifetime best.

The Brian Brown trainee won two Pennsylvania Sire Stakes at 2, one without Lasix then one with, and his season was ended last July 17. Since returning for Acadia Farms Inc., Joe Sbrocco, In The Gym Partners, and Leeman Lombardo Stable, he won in 1:51.2 - :53.3 - :26 at Hoosier, was second from off the pace in the first Sire Stakes event at The Meadows, and now produced this powerful performance, hinting at better things to come.

The other two winners also put in high-quality miles. In one, the Sweet Lou colt Market Based rebounded from a break in his 2022 debut in a Meadows Sire cut, sitting in the pocket as PJ Lou set splits of :26.3, :55.2, and 1:23, then sprinting home in the Pocono Pike to get the decision by three-quarters of a length in 1:50.2, his fastest win. Andrew McCarthy got a sharp late response from the winner of the 2021 Matron and an All-Stars event last year as well; Nancy Takter trains the talented three-year-old for the ownership of Chuck Pompey, Edwin Gold, and H&M Taylor Stable.

Mad Max Hanover, a hard-charging second, just a neck shy, in last year's Governor's Cup, is now two-for-three in 2022 while taking a new mark in 1:50.3 in the other All-Stars contest.

Six Feet Apart took the lead from Layton Hanover past the quarter in :27.1 and set midrace numbers of :55.4 and 1:23.3, with Mad Max Hanover coming up on the grind for driver Tim Tetrick. The colts mentioned put on an excellent three-way stretch battle, with Mad Max Hanover finishing a neck ahead of Six Feet Apart, who in turn was a neck ahead of Layton Hanover. The victorious altered son of Always B Miki is trained by Jake Leamon for owner Marvin Rounick.

These Pennsylvania colts return to Pocono on Memorial Day, Monday, May 30, for their second Sire Stakes rounds, and as a whole the group looks like it will put on a top show, both in Pennsylvania and perhaps further afield down the road.

SBOANJ plays host to Assembly Speaker Coughlin at Gaitway

New Jersey State Assembly Speaker Craig Coughlin spent part of his Monday morning (May 16) at Gaitway Farm Training Center, where he toured the grounds, talked with horsemen and horsewomen, and even climbed into a double-seated jog cart for a trip around the farm's one-mile track.

Speaker Coughlin's visit, which included a fundraiser and brunch, was hosted by the Standardbred Breeders & Owners Association of New Jersey and TrotPAC. Speaker Coughlin's support was vital to the five-year, $100-million appropriation for the state's horse racing industry that was approved by the Legislature and signed by Gov. Phil Murphy in 2019.

Prior to brunch, Speaker Coughlin watched horses jog and train on the farm's multiple tracks as well as swim in the center's pool. He also visited the Backstretch Community Assistance Program clinic run by Dr. Chris Samaha before joining trainer Julie Miller to jog 3-year-old New Jersey-bred female trotter Spendthemoneyhoney.

"I thought the event was very well received by Speaker Coughlin," said Miller, who is an SBOANJ director. "He really enjoyed the hands-on experience of getting to jog a horse with me and I think he was impressed with the horse as a professional athlete. Getting to see them jog, getting to see them swim, feeding them carrots, it all made an impact. He got to see everything we do with the horses every day at a training center."

Speaker Coughlin's first visit to any equine facility in the state came in 2019 when he attended an SBOANJ event to support his re-election campaign at Fair Winds Farm and the Hogan Equine Clinic.

"These events are critical because they let Speaker Coughlin to see firsthand the impact and importance of our industry to the state," SBOANJ President Mark Ford said. "Working with our legislators, and maintaining their trust and backing, is crucial as we strive to protect and enhance our future in the years to come."

"I really want to thank Speaker Coughlin for spending time with us, listening to us, and enjoying his time with the horses."

Speaker Coughlin, a Democrat representing the 19th Legislative District in Middlesex County, has served in the State Assembly since 2010. He is in his third term as Assembly Speaker and is the first Democratic Assembly Speaker to ever serve three consecutive two-year terms.

Responsibilities of the Speaker include scheduling meetings and determining which bills will be considered within the Assembly. The Speaker also leads the legislative sessions. As the Assembly Speaker, he is third in the line of succession to the governorship, following the Lieutenant Governor and State Senate President.

"This was the third time I've had one-on-one conversations with him, and he asks great questions," Miller said. "I really enjoy that about him, and he is interested in the explanations."

"I was really happy with Monday's event and appreciate the generosity of the horsemen in supporting Speaker Coughlin. I'm proud of the way everyone has gotten on board to make sure we do all we can to keep this appropriation going for New Jersey."

2022 New York County Fair racing schedule announced

The Agriculture & New York State Horse Breeding Development Fund released the 2022 racing schedule for the New York Sire Stakes (NYSS) County Fair Series. This year's season gets underway on July 4 at Goshen Historic Track. The County Fair Finals are scheduled for September 6 at Monticello.

The full schedule of race dates can be viewed here.

The series will consist of 19 non-pari-mutuel harness racing events open to eligible 2- and 3-year-old New York-bred Standardbreds. The events provide young horses with the opportunity to earn as they learn while bringing harness racing to communities across the state.

"The county fair series is an exciting competition that we look forward to each year," said Ronald Ochrym, acting director, Division of Racing at New York State Gaming Commission. "We are proud to partner with each county fair to provide outstanding harness racing competition to their towns. We look forward to seeing our loyal attendees and attracting new faces to this year's events."

USTA joins Final Stretch Alliance

Along with this announcement, on Tuesday (May 16), the “Final Stretch Alliance to End Horse Slaughter” issued a joint letter to congressional leaders, calling for passage of the SAFE Act to end the slaughter of American horses.

On Tuesday (May 16), a diverse group of equine industry and animal welfare organizations that includes the U.S. Trotting Association announced “The Final Stretch Alliance to End Horse Slaughter” – a collaborative effort to permanently ban the slaughter of American horses.

“We strongly support congressional efforts to end the legal pipeline of U.S. horses being transported outside of the United States for slaughter and human consumption,” said USTA executive vice-president Mike Tanner. “This loophole enables bad actors to take advantage of horses and horse owners in vulnerable situations who should not have to fear that selling or donating their horse might mean unintentionally placing them in the horsemeat pipeline. The existence of this loophole also stymies programs and organizations working to provide more suitable options for care of our retired standardbreds.”

In an open letter to congressional leaders, including U.S. Representatives Nancy Pelosi (D-Calif.) and Kevin McCarthy (R-Calif.) and U.S. Senators Charles Schumer (D-N.Y.) and Mitch McConnell (Ky.), the alliance urged federal lawmakers to pass the Save America's Forgotten Equines \(SAFE\) Act \(H.R.3355/S.2732\) to permanently ban horse slaughter in the U.S. and end the export of American horses for slaughter in other countries. To read the letter, click here.

The supporting members of the “Final Stretch Alliance to End Horse Slaughter” include: the U.S. Trotting Association, The Jockey Club, the Stronach Group, the Breeders' Cup, Thoroughbred Owners and Breeders Association, The Jockey's Guild, the New York Racing Association, Del Mar Thoroughbred Club, the Maryland Horse Council, the ASPCA® (The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals®), the Animal Welfare Institute, the Humane Society of the United States, the Humane Society Legislative Fund, and Return to Freedom Wild Horse Conservation.

Despite congressional efforts that have effectively blocked the operation of horse slaughterhouses on U.S. soil since 2007, tens of thousands of American horses continue to be shipped to Canadian and Mexican slaughterhouses that supply other countries with horsemeat.

With the Thoroughbred Triple Crown underway and public attention on equine sports, equine industry and welfare groups are calling on federal lawmakers to take action during this critical moment by passing the SAFE Act to end this sad chapter in American history.

In the open letter, the groups highlight a recent poll indicating that an overwhelming majority of Americans (83 percent) oppose horse slaughter. The letter explains how, despite robust, innovative partnerships between equine industry and welfare groups to support horses transitioning between careers, the looming threat of the horse slaughter pipeline continues to significantly harm industry, enthusiasts, and adoption organizations:

“Racing industry groups have demonstrated real leadership in committing resources for aftercare and career transition programs; instituting, and enforcing track policies against sale to slaughter; and spearheading state and federal policies prohibiting horse slaughter. These programs are critical, but until the laws shut down the slaughter pipeline itself, no horse, no matter how beloved or decorated, will be truly safe.”

The SAFE Act would close this legal loophole to stop the funneling of American horses to slaughter for human consumption abroad. Introduced by a bipartisan group of federal lawmakers, the SAFE Act is currently sponsored by nearly half of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Horse Rescue United wins Meadowlands Charity Handicapping Contest

This past Saturday night (May 14) the Meadowlands Racetrack held its 3rd Annual Charity Handicapping Contest. Nine local charitable organizations were selected to compete for their share of $14,500.

Horse Rescue United took the lead after the 4th race when they hit on their $2 across the board wager on Bayfield Beach. They racked up $51 from that race and finished with a final bankroll of $99.60. This was Horse Rescue United second win in the Meadowlands Charity Contest; the organization took home the top prize in the 2021 charity contest.

Coming in second with $75.60 was the Standardbred Pleasure Horse Organization of New Jersey with the Wayne Police Athletic League finishing third with $67.20.

"This is tremendous," said Sue Cohen, the representative from Horse Rescue United. "This contest is so much fun and what makes the win extra special is that it helps so many horses under our care."

The organization amassed a mythical bankroll if their selection finished first, second or third in the designated race. Official $2 WPS (Win, Place, Show) payoffs were added to the mythical bankroll. The organization with the highest bankroll was declared the winner.

Each organization came out with a crew of volunteers and supporters that thoroughly enjoyed their night at the races which included winner's circle presentations.

"We want to have a positive impact on our community which is why we plan on running this promotion every year," said Jason Settlemoir, COO and GM of Meadowlands Racing & Entertainment. "Seeing these organizations bringing out family and friends and enjoying the races is exciting."

Late donation = bye, bye mustache for Dr. Pete Sheerin

Dr. Pete Sheerin, internationally renowned theriogenologist at Rood & Riddle Equine Hospital in Lexington, recently began a "fun"draiser to benefit Harness Horse Youth Foundation. He offered to shave his head if $2,000 was raised by his colleagues in support of HHYF's mission of educating young people and their families about harness horses. "Standardbreds have always been a big part of my profession and this gave me an opportunity to give back and get a haircut," he said.

Partway through the event, Dr. Sheerin upped the ante significantly by pledging to also shave his 40-year-old mustache if $5,000 could be raised.

Honoring his word, Dr. Sheerin was "sheared" live on Facebook — his locks and facial hair — thanks to a very late donation pushing the total to more than $5000. A win by a "whisker"!

Many thanks to Dr. Sheerin, his family and friends, Rood & Riddle, and all those who supported this endeavor.
