Eight ideas North American racing must steal from Sweden

Racing in Sweden makes much more logical sense on a number of fronts critical to growing handle. Here's the top ideas that should be adopted in the U.S. and Canada to improve our betting product.

John Hernan's race call from the Rooney Final at Yonkers is spot-on: "And they have to catch Bettor's Wish, who's peeled away!" This colt by Bettor's Delight-Lifetime Star won the Rooney by six widening lengths and established a 1:51.4 season's record in the doing. And without question, the $20,000 Lexington Selected bargain yearling buy has placed himself squarely among the division leaders heading to the North America Cup.

As North American handle continues to decline, industry leaders should look to Sweden for creative solutions for sustaining the sport. Much about the way the industry functions in Sweden makes the kind of logical sense sorely lacking in the U.S. and Canada. Here's eight ideas North America should adopt immediately from Swedish racing:

1. V75, V75, V75

A lottery system built around horse racing, not ping pong balls, is the lifeblood of Swedish racing (full story here) and is built on a national distribution system that gives the sport outstanding exposure. The V75 (and its sister wagers that require people to pick the winners of multiple races at the track) is playable in grocery and corner stores throughout the country, watchable on national broadcast television — and regularly covered on sports reports — and is as essential for maintaining national interest in horse racing and preserving agriculture as it is for growing handle. North America simply must find a way to emulate it to make horse racing self-sustaining.

2. Post time is post time

Swedes can be a no-nonsense people by nature, so it makes sense that when they say the post time is 7:35 p.m., the post time is 7:35 p.m., complete with countdown clocks. Post-time drag is a completely foreign concept in Sweden — as it should be — and punters have no problem getting their bets in on time. Apart from making it a more honest gambling process — and shouldn't transparency in gambling always be tantamount? — simply sticking to running races every 22 minutes, as they do, for the most part in Sweden, allows fans to easily calculate how long a race card will last and get home to their families in a reasonable time. In an age where time for leisure activities is increasingly precious, racing at the posted time increases the likelihood of people being return customers.

3. Drivers pick horses, not post positions

Here's an interesting Swedish concept: trainers rank multiple drivers on horses and then those drivers with choices to make pick their horses BEFORE the draw is conducted. What a boon to the handicapping process it would be in North America to have drivers trying to pick the best horses regardless of post position. Yes, race offices would have to work a little longer, but technology can help considerably. Besides, shouldn't the race office's first priority be to craft the most bettable races? The end result is worth that effort.

4. Trailing horses have more options

This one, again, is for the handicappers. Rather than saddling a trailing horse with having to start behind the rail horse, as is the rule in North America, in Sweden the first trailing horse has a starting slot behind the first two horses on the gate. For example, in a field of 10 in Sweden with eight on the gate, the #9 horse would start behind the #1 and #2 horses and the #10 horse would start behind the #3 and #4 horses. This gives drivers of trailers more options to get involved in the race, gives handicappers more to think about and puts more horses in play to grow pools.

5. Heavily-banked turns

The turns at Solvalla and other Swedish tracks are banked so high one has to be careful when walking on the outside edge of ovals lest you take a serious tumble. Banked turns, particularly on tracks smaller than a mile — Solvalla, the biggest track in Sweden is a five-eighths — allows more horses to make moves in the turns and, again, puts more horses in play for the bettors. Since most of North America's tracks are smaller than a mile, banking the turns even more is an important equalizer.

6. Softer track surfaces

Softer track surfaces decrease both lameness and vet bills. Yes, a softer surface can be an antithesis of speed, but remember, how fast a race goes doesn't grow handle. In a time when horse shortages lead to smaller fields which directly decreases handle, moving to more forgiving track surface is critical to keeping horses on the track longer.

7. Distance races

Swedish races are contested at a wide variety of distances, making for an extra handicapping challenge that, again, drives handle.

8. Strict limits of whipping

In Sweden, drivers can only use the whip a maximum of four times in the last quarter-mile and must keep a line in each hand the entire race. Not only does this present a better image to customers and animal rights activists — a growing adversary as evidenced by the Santa Anita saga — science has proven that whipping horses has a limited effect in encouraging a horse to go faster, so why do it? Yes, many North American jurisdictions have — or are heading toward — stricter limits on whipping. Not only must that trend continue, it needs to be accelerated.

Canada's McNair in second heading into final round of World Driving Championship

Sweden's Ulf Ohlsson is leading and Yannick Gingras from the U.S. is fifth as the WDC concludes this morning at Gävle in Sweden.

by Dave Briggs

Despite the steep learning curve piloting unfamiliar trotters and even coldbloods at different distances, with different starting methods and on foreign ovals, driver Doug McNair of Canada was starting to find his stride by time the World Driving Championship (WDC) reached the racetrack in Rättvik on Wednesday evening.

The five-eighths mile track surrounded by picturesque hills – think Pocono – and located near Lake Siljan some 3 ½ hours northwest of Stockholm, was the site for the fifth of six legs for the competition that concludes this morning at the track in Gävle. McNair sits second, just two points behind Sweden's Ulf Ohlsson, heading into today's finale.

McNair's first win in the competition came Monday (May 27) — in the third leg of the championship — driving a coldblood named Klocksve Sprinten. As McNair waited in the Rättvik backstretch to pick up the coldblood he was driving that night, he talked about the challenges of adjusting to the horses.

"Mine wasn't too bad, but he was still worse than a normal horse. At least he trotted," McNair said of Klocksve Sprinten. "There were three or four of them that were half choked off before the race even went. They just pull on you and they don't have much speed, that's all, and they kind of feel to me like you're driving a pony, other than they are way stronger."

Fellow Canadian driver James MacDonald, the defending world champion, found the coldbloods to be an even bigger challenge.

"I'm just about to go drive a dirty coldblood here and see if I can get my arms torn out," he said, laughing. "(The first one) was hard… my ass didn't touch the seat for about three minutes straight. It wasn't a lot of fun, but I've gotta go find the next one."

Heading into today's final round, MacDonald sits 11th in the 12-man competition, 57.5 points behind the leader. Still, he said the experience of driving in Sweden has been fantastic.

"It's been great," he said. "I'd like to do well everywhere I go and I'm not doing that well, but, at the same time, these things are a lot of luck, you know? You've got to get the good post with the good horses and get some points when you have a follower or just an average horse, so... unfortunately, I've been making breaks with the good ones and not being able to chip away with the average ones."

U.S. representative Yannick did some major chipping away at Rättvik, jumping into fifth place with a win with Levi Mistress in the first WDC race of the night (and another win outside of the competition). Gingras sits 17 points off the lead and is behind Eirik Höitomt of Norway (fourth), Mika Forss of Finland (third), McNair and Ohlsson.

"It's definitely a different challenge for us," Gingras said of the North American drivers. "Some of the European guys have a little bit of an advantage, but it's the same everywhere. If they come to the U.S., they have to drive pacers that they never driven before, so that's the name of the game. For me, I think it's fun... I want to come here and learn."

Gingras said driving coldbloods wasn't easy, but it was "something to try.

"They don't have a lot of speed. This one was actually perfect to drive, easy in the mouth. The other one I drove was really grabby, but the minute you let them go, they go slower. It's more like you've got to keep them brave."

Gingras said he'd love to drive in the Elitlopp again one day and win it.

"I don't want to just race in it, I want to win it and that's where the experience of being here (helps)," he said, adding he has received a warm reception from the Swedish people. "I think people know how much I love Sweden and all the experiences, and I think they appreciate that I love their country."

MacDonald said he has been "just taking it all in" this week.

"I'm enjoying being in Sweden and it's probably somewhere I never would have gone in my life unless it was to watch the Elitlopp, so to make it here and compete on these racetracks… to see what they do over here and just learn the difference cultures, it's been a great experience," MacDonald said.

"The whole trip we've been comparing, 'This is how we do it back home' and 'This is how they do it here.' I'm not going to say anything is better one way or the other, but it's completely different. There's very few similarities, but the great drivers over here are fun to watch and it's definitely a very different driving style from what we see back home, but I don't think we're going to change back home anytime soon and I don't think they are going to change here anytime soon."

Drivers earn points based on their finishing position. The top point-earner will be declared the 2019 World Driving Champion and win $25,000 (U.S.) in prize money. Points for the championship are awarded as follows: 19 points for a win, 14 (2); 11 (3); 9 (4); 8 (5); 7 (6); 6 (7); 5 (8); 4 (9); 3 (10); 2 (11) and 1 (12).

Jamieson jumps at the chance to drive Sintra in tonight's Camluck Classic at Western Fair

Plus, Bruce Richardson on Grand River Raceway as Opening Night approaches for the Elora, ON track.

by Sandra Snyder | Sponsored by Ontario Racing

With a full lineup of stakes to complement the $157,000 Camluck Classic, tonight's program will be a fitting finale to The Raceway at Western Fair District's meet.

Seven Ontario Sires Stakes (OSS) Grassroots divisions for the 3-year-old pacing fillies and four City of London Series Finals will prime fans for the main event, which goes postward as Race 12. Driver Jody Jamieson will steer nine horses on the program, capping off the night with Sintra in the Camluck Classic.

"Just getting to race Sintra on the weekend is such an honor. He's such a class act," said Jamieson, who will send the 6-year-old gelding after the 2019 Camluck Classic title from Post 5. "He's got the track record for 3-year-olds and I'm hoping that he likes his return to London."

Sintra toured the London half-mile in 1:52.4 to win an OSS Gold Series division on the 2016 edition of what was then called Molson Pace night. The Mach Three—Dancin Barefoot son heads into tonight's test in top form, winning a pair of preferred class events at Woodbine Mohawk Park on April 27 and May 4 before getting nabbed by Horse of the Year McWicked in the stretch on May 18.

Jamieson, who steers the gelding for his wife, trainer Stephanie Jamieson, and owners Michael Guerriero, Kelly Waxman, Nunzio Vena and Frank Cirillo, will have plenty of practice mapping out trips from the center of The Raceway's starting gate before he steps into Sintra's race bike on Friday. Of his nine drives, four will see him line up at Post 5, two at Post 3, one at Post 4 and one at Post 6. His lone rail sitter is Blackcheddar in the fifth $22,450 Grassroots event.

"We own and train Blackcheddar, and we also bred her," said the reinsman. "She's the first horse of that distinction that we'll race in any kind of stake race, so we're excited about her."

Unraced at two, Blackcheddar has two races to her credit heading into her provincial debut, a 1:57 win over the Flamboro Downs half-mile on May 11 and a runner-up effort at Woodbine Mohawk Park on May 20. The filly is a Betterthancheddar daughter out of Lone Mystic, a full sister to $1.9 million winner Mystician who carried Jamieson to victory in the 2010 Metro Pace.

Claus Andersen

Sintra and driver Jody Jamieson (shown winning the 2018 Mohawk Gold Cup) will attempt to win the Camluck Classic tonight at The Raceway at The Western Fair District in London, ON.

All of tonight's action gets underway at 6:55 pm with the Grassroots fillies competing in Races 2, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, and 10, the City of London finals slated as Races 1, 3, 7, and 11, and the Camluck Classic going postward in Race 12.

Grand River Raceway set to open June 5

The last in the springtime wave of Ontario racetrack openings is Grand River Raceway, which will kick off its 16th season on Wednesday, June 5.

"We're excited obviously. The dining room is sold out already many nights," said director of operations Jamie Martin. "We've got our major events, same as the last few years. We have, of course, our Battle of Waterloo and Battle of the Belles scheduled for the same time (Aug. 5) and our Wiener Dog night is July 5."

Martin notes that regular visitors to the Elora, ON oval will notice a few changes this season. There will be ongoing construction throughout the meet as the Elements Casino facility expands, including the loss of the main-floor simulcast area. Once the meet wraps up on Sept. 27, the racetrack will proceed with an expansion of its popular Lighthouse restaurant to create a new space for simulcast horse racing customers.

The other change fans will notice is the absence of long-time marketing manager and Tarmac Show host Kelly Spencer, who left the racetrack in January to develop her own communications agency.

"It won't be the same because there's only one Kelly, but we are going to still endeavour to keep it lots of fun," said Martin. "We like to think we've got the same exciting, fun schedule of events here and we're looking forward to starting up."

Trainer/driver Bruce Richardson is one of the local horsepeople that Grand River Raceway staff members have leaned on to help out during their fun-filled events and the Fergus, ON resident is also looking forward to the track's opening day.

"I only live seven minutes away from the track, so rather than driving to London or Flamboro, I am there in minutes," said Richardson. "And they get a good crowd usually, and through sports I know a lot of people, so you see quite a few people there that you know.

"Until you do bad, and then they let you know it," he added with a laugh. "Once they lose their five dollars they're not friends with me anymore, it seems like."

Richardson, who started his career in 1990, has 3,452 wins and $21 million in earnings as a driver and 519 wins and $2.8 million in earnings as a trainer. With just two horses in training at present, he will spend this summer padding the former stats rather than the latter.

True Nature Communications

Driver Bruce Richardson said he can't wait for Grand River Raceway in Elora to open its live season next Wednesday.

"I've always done both. I guess we had as many as maybe 10 horses at one time, but I've always tried to keep it between six and eight, six and 10, but I've slowed down a little bit now," he said. "I had four, and I'm down to two right now. I bred Stormont Kate, the good mare. We just retired her this month."

A winner of $333,963 for Richardson in her seven-year racing career, Stormont Kate (Kadabra – Princess Stormont) was bred to Royalty For Life and the horseman is looking forward to developing her foal for the 2022 Ontario Sires Stakes. This summer he will campaign 3-year-old trotter King For Life (Royalty For Life – Samartina) and the gelding's Kadabra half-sister Kads Kiss.

"We usually try to buy a yearling every year and keep them as a 2-, 3-, 4-year-old, and then move them on and start over again," said Richardson, who has always had a penchant for trotters. "That's kind of what I've been trying to do."

King For Life will make his OSS debut in the Grassroots on Grand River Raceway's opening day and Richardson and his partners Peter Irwin and Joseph Coffey are hoping the trotter evolves into a regular on the provincial circuit.

With regular appearances at Grand River Raceway's Monday, Wednesday and Friday night programs and Hanover Raceway's Saturday night cards, along with semi-regular drives in Ontario Sires Stakes events across the province, the summer season is Richardson's busiest. Always circled on his calendar, however, is the annual Industry Day celebration at Grand River Raceway, which features the Battle of Waterloo and Battle of the Belles Finals and goes postward at 12:30 pm on Civic Holiday Monday (Aug. 5). Post time for Grand River Raceway's other 47 programs is 6:30 pm.

Richardson's recommendations

With the Grand River Raceway dining room regularly sold out on race nights, Richardson suggests the Gorge Country Kitchen, located almost directly across Wellington County Road 7.

"The Gorge restaurant is right almost across from the racetrack, it's very good. I eat there, not on a regular basis, but a handful of times a year guaranteed," said Richardson.

The trainer also suggests that visitors take in the Elora Gorge, which offers camping, scenic vistas, hiking and biking trails, and trips down the Grand River on a tube.

Elora is located approximately 45 minutes northwest of Woodbine Mohawk Park and 35 minutes north of Kitchener-Waterloo, ON.

Stakes action May 31 to June 6

May 31 – The Raceway at the Western Fair District – Camluck Classic, OSS Grassroots (3fp), City of London Finals

June 1 – Woodbine Mohawk Park – Somebeachsomewhere, Graduate Series, OSS Gold Series (3fp)

Thoroughbred's new maiden allowance auction concept is worthy of harness consideration

by Brett Sturman

I often see chatter amongst harness racing circles on ways that harness racing can emulate some of the successful workings from their thoroughbred counterparts. I usually don't see many of these ideas as viable with the most recent being harness racing's attempt to mirror the Pegasus World Cup by having owners of 2-year-olds ante up $100,000 each to race for $1 million (an idea that's been since put on hold), but out of New York this week comes an idea that absolutely warrants harness racing consideration.

This week in the thoroughbred industry, the New York Racing Association (NYRA) announced a series of maiden races to be conducted at this summer's famed Saratoga meet for purses of $75,000 that are to be restricted to only 2-year-olds that were purchased at sale for $45,000 or less. The overarching logic for it is that smaller-to-middle market horses can be competitive, and in the process give owners a chance to realize early returns on their investments in young horses. Similar as to the expected thoroughbred benefits to owners, sales companies and breeders, such an initiative could be a boon for those across harness racing as well. So, how specifically then could this play out in our industry?

One of the more hotly contested debates has been where to direct purse money. For example, should more money be diverted away from older claimers and put into maiden races as a way to incentive owners to buy young horses. Taking this scenario a step further, what you could have is increased maiden purses and then within that, have races that are restricted to those who were purchased at their most recent sale for under let's say $15,000.

Unlike thoroughbreds, 2-year-old maiden claiming races in harness racing are non-existent. What happens often then is that especially early in the 2-year-old season, there is little distinction in a 2-year-old maiden race and a stakes race. All the time there are horses that come out of these 2-year-old maiden races and are immediately successful stakes types, and vice-versa where quality horses drop from being competitive in top level sire stakes races after pacing in 1:51 into a maiden (or a n/w 2 that's filled with maidens). In this situation, if you have moderately quality horse that can only pace in about 1:55 it can be difficult to compete – even in maiden races.

Putting a restriction on the maiden or n/w 2 race based on sale price can be a way to give horses from mid-priced stallions a chance to race early in their careers against horses not from the most expensive sires. As an example specific to New York, you could have a trotter from new stallions Devious Man or Met's Hall and be able to race them in NY without having to go up against a $100,000 horse by Chapter Seven. Of course, you'd have to race against whoever is entered once you get into the various sire stakes levels, but at a minimum it gives lower-priced horses a chance to get their careers off to decent starts while getting owners early returns on their investments. It gives the smaller owners a chance to compete before having to race against the typical powerhouse stables that seem to have the market cornered.

The benefits to gaining new owners and to sales companies are obvious. Smaller owners in particular have been hesitant in recent years to buy yearlings or 2-year-olds because of what they're up against. It's tough to compete in stakes races at 2 and 3 when an overwhelming majority of the races are won by a select number of trainers. It's even more tough when you know you'll be taking your $10,000 So Surreal against a $150,000 Captaintreacherous. Giving these owners the ability to race against horses that were purchased on comparable budgets could certainly help cultivate new ownership.

From a sales standpoint, these lower-mid priced horses now have more value than they would have had otherwise. With more of an interest now in these horses and with more potential owners bidding, these horses would sell for more than they would today. The difference would be seen at all the major sales including Harrisburg and Lexington, but where you'd really see the impact are at sales like Goshen, Morrisville, Ohio and Hoosier where most of the horses will fall into the lower to mid-range price categories.

To make things even more interesting, using the recent sale price as a race condition could be extended to beyond maidens. For years, one of the key reasons to buy a 2-year-old from the Harrisburg sale was to buy with the intent to race them in upcoming winter series racing at the Meadowlands in non-winners conditions. A lot of these 2-year-olds are unproven, and it would only help spur interest in these types at the sales if knew that not only could you race them in an upcoming series against younger horses, but that you could race them in a series that restricted to ones that were purchased for under a nominal amount. This way you could safely avoid the horse that's still a maiden but has been timed in 1:50.4 from the Red Mile. Doing so would again increase sales, but also lead to more races being filled and more horses out on the track.

To be clear, harness racing already does provide ample opportunities for young horses to make money. Sticking still with New York, there are a myriad of different sire stakes levels and in some of them you don't have to trot quicker than 2:00 at Yonkers as a 2-year-old to make money. The same can be said for sire stake programs in other states. But providing owners with further incentives to be active and to be involved with horses that otherwise might be overlooked seems like an all-around win for the industry.

Former Flamboro Downs owners create $100 million health care endowment

Charles and Margaret Juravinski's donation to Hamilton Health Sciences, McMaster University and St. Joseph's Healthcare Hamilton is one of the largest legacy gifts in Canadian history.

Flamboro Downs founders and former owners Charles and Margaret Juravinski of Hamilton, ON will create an endowment of more than $100 million to support researchers across Hamilton Health Sciences, McMaster University and St. Joseph's Healthcare Hamilton.

The long-time philanthropists' estate gift is one of Canada's largest ever legacy donations and will provide up to $5 million a year to the institutions, in perpetuity. Charles is 89 and Margaret is 87.

"It brings us great pleasure to think that when we are gone, our legacy to this community may be measured in the good health of those who come after us," the Juravinskis said in a letter to the community released this week. "As a couple, our most important lesson has been this: the greatest plea- sure in life and the most powerful force for good in the world is sharing."

The endowment will create the Juravinski Research Centre, which will equally support Hamilton Health Sciences, McMaster University and St. Joseph's Healthcare Hamilton by funding health research in a variety of areas including cancer, mental health, lung and respiratory care, and diseases of aging.

"The health of generations of Canadians will be positively impacted by this wonderful legacy gift from Charles and Margaret Juravinski," said Hamilton Health Sciences president and CEO Rob MacIsaac. "In making this gift, they also helped inspire and enable our three organizations to collaboratively address some of the most important health issues of our time."

The Juravinskis, who have called Hamilton home for decades, are generous benefactors to health care, education and research in the city. They have given more than $50 million to Hamilton organizations, which includes support for the Juravinski Hospital and Cancer Centre at Hamilton Health Sciences, the Margaret & Charles Juravinski Education, Research & Development Centre at McMaster University and the Margaret & Charles Juravinski Centre for Integrated Healthcare and the Juravinski Innovation Tower at St. Joseph's Healthcare Hamilton.

"McMaster had already started talks with Hamilton Health Sciences and St. Joseph's about how we could create new dimensions to our research partnerships to deliver even more to our community, when I received a call from Charlie Juravinski," said Dr. Paul O'Byrne, dean and vice-president of the faculty of health sciences at McMaster University. "He was very excited to explore how he and Margaret could leave a legacy that would improve the health of people in Hamilton and around the world by supporting research. We will be eternally grateful for Charlie and Margaret's vision and their confidence in our world class researchers' ability to have deep and long-lasting impact in many critically important areas of health research."

Flamboro Downs founders and former owners Charles and Margaret Juravinski have set up a health care endowment of more than $100 million.

Dr. Thomas Stewart, president and CEO of St. Joseph's Health System said, "Charles and Margaret Juravinski's visionary gifts have forever changed health care in Hamilton and their legacy of giving will continue thanks to their investment in world-class research. By enabling collaborative research into mental health care, lung and respiratory health, oncology, and diseases of aging, the Juravinskis' gift will impact not only patients and families in Hamilton, but countless others around the world for generations to come."

About the Juravinski Research Centre

- A research collaboration between Hamilton Health Sciences, McMaster University, St. Joseph's Healthcare Hamilton, St. Joseph's Healthcare Foundation, Hamilton and Hamilton Health Sciences Foundation
- The Centre will support areas of research including cancer, mental health, lung health/respirology and diseases of aging (e.g. Alzheimer's disease and macular degeneration)
- Together, the partners will engage in collaborative, strategic projects that are focused on health-related research enhancing the health and prosperity of all of our citizens
- An eight-member Steering Committee will be responsible for setting all priorities and programs to be undertaken by the Juravinski Research Centre

Thoughts on: whether owners that partner up hurt breeders, great farms that sell a lot of bargain yearlings and why our horses are going so fast

by Ron Gurfein

Tidbits: What a great weekend of racing. Starting with Bettors Wish entering rarified air with a heart-stopping performance in Yonkers Art Rooney final. He marched off to a six-length victory without a bit of Dexter Dunn urging. Warmest congratulations to his trainer/owner, the amiable Chris Ryder and my dear friends Leah and Art Zubrod (Fair Island Farm) as well as Bella Racing LLC, and Kenneth Solomon. Expect to see a lot more from this talented colt.

How about Captain Crunch? This colt gives me goosebumps. He has the will to win of Captaintreacherous and the speed of Always Be Miki. He totally crushed a field of PASS colts at Harrah's Philadelphia in 1:49.2.

The entire card at Philly was great, but the Betsy Ross stole the show. The stretch battle between Shartin N (Tim Tetrick) and Caviart Ally (Andrew McCarthy) was one for the ages, especially considering Andy parked Timmy the first quarter in :25.2. In case you didn't know the result, Shartin N prevailed by a quarter of a length.

Congratulations once again to the Melander Machine and the White Knight for obliterating the Empire Classic Final field in 1:54 at Vernon Downs Monday afternoon. The colt looked flawless.

To all that cried on Facebook that Dijon (winner of the 2019 Elitloppet) was pacing in the lane, I have now watched the video from various sources at least 25 times and don't see a miss step. I am also 100 per cent sure that it was quite evident he was trotting past the wire. I would find it very hard to believe (although I admit not impossible), that he trotted to the wire, switched to the pace and switched back to the trot and never went on a gallop for even a step. Evidently, the judges agreed with my opinion, as there was no placing.

I sincerely regret that our industry both in HRU format and on social media, provides a forum for Mike Campbell. If you continue letting him stir the pot as you all did on Facebook over the Memorial Day weekend, and overreact to his postings, he will certainly continue to do his best to tarnish our sport. However, if you ignore him, he will go away.

To those of you that like books on harness racing, there is a new offering this week that is totally enjoyable. Ms. Vickie Howard has published the life and time of Roger Huston. It is called "The Voice," which is certainly apropos. It is basically his autobiography but has stories of all of the two big races he has called — the Jug and the Adios — in a year by year accounting. It is also available for Kindle.

Wendell Roach asks: Do you think that Brittany Farms has sold an inordinate amount of bargain yearlings? I think any farm that races horses has a better chance of a good colt or filly falling through the cracks because the buyers are a bit more skeptical of purchasing from them.

My thinking is just the opposite. Farms like Brittany, Lindy Farms and Fashion Farms that race a lot of horses do so because they believe in their product. They raise good horses.

Whether it's their feeding program, exercise regimen, or simply the quality of the earth they are built on, the horses race well. Remember, the bargains were raised the same as the high-priced colts.

One thing for certain about these three farms, and the main reason for the bargains, there are no bad pedigrees in their consignments. So if a colt is too big, too small or a little crooked he will be sold at a major discount.

Chris Ryder's colt Bettors Wish that won the Rooney Saturday was a $20,000 purchase from Brittany. His second, third and fourth dam produced Allstar Legend, American Ideal, and Life Sign, respectively. Two others that come to mind were Mr Muscleman ($2,000) and He's Watching editor@harnessracingupdate.com

I myself selected a few nice horses from there consignment that were under appreciated in the sale ring. Possess The Magic, a million-dollar winner, was $23,000 as were two $400,000 winners — Lucy's Pearl $23,000 and Great Success $8,000. In the same price range, Lindy Farms sold Delicious for $8,000. One thing they all had in common was pedigree. Looking back, Possess the Magic, He's Watching, Lucy's Pearl and Delicious were all too small. Mr Muscleman and Great Success were way too big, or so the masses thought. I would like to give credit to the two trainers that selected the big bargains from Brittany — John Wagner and David Menary, who bought Mr Muscleman and He's Watching, respectively.

The most important thing to remember when entering the sale ring is to have the courage of your conviction. Do your homework. When your choice walks into the ring and you think you have selected a $50,000 horse and he is stuck at $5,000 you can't stutter and say, 'Maybe I missed something,' you have to jump in and steal him.

When Great Success entered the ring I thought he was a $50,000 colt and they couldn't get a $5,000 bid. When they hammered him down to me I was standing next to Perry Soderberg who immediately put his catalog page in front of me with a big RG written in the middle of the page. He smiled and said, "the first time I saw that colt I knew you were going to buy him." Just a Little Guru anecdote.

Mike Hall asks: Do you think the formation of partnerships to buy yearlings hurts the breeders by bringing the prices down due to lack of competition?

In the golden days I would have answered yes. But not so today.

In the past we had buyers that were NEVER an under bidder. When guys like Tony Pedone (Boardwalk Enterprises), Jeffrey Snyder, Bill Perretti, Bob Suslow and Jim Wheeler partnered up it could severely hurt the sale of a colt, because they had the ego and the money. We actually witnessed that in reality when Snyder and Lothlorien started to partner up.

Today's partnerships are good for the prices. The partners today are usually socially friendly and wouldn't be bidding against one another anyway.

Instead, with the formation of these groups, we have lots more money to be spent on an individual horse. When the Alagna camp fights the Burke Camp there are lots of smiles on the auction stand. None of Tony's or Ronnie's owners are going to buy a pacing colt for $400,000 on their own, but put four together and it's GAME ON.

Vickie Howard asks : How come our horses are going so fast? If you had a 2:00 trotter back in the day, you had a great horse. Now that 2:00 trotter is a $5,000 claimer. Watching a trotter go 1:48 is mind boggling. What is your take on this? Where is the ending point?

Of course there is an end, but it's not tomorrow. Look at the difference of what a yearling looks like in 2019 and what he looked like in 1950, 60, 70, etc.

I have been lucky to have been around these horses for six decades. The horse reminds me of the automobile. The 1958 models were huge, bulky and didn't look fast. The 2019 versions are sleek and quick looking.

The same for the standardbred. We have most likely, by inbreeding, created a fine, athletic racing machine. Add to this tighter tracks, advanced sulkies, no hubrail and smaller drivers and you have the formula.

I am certain in the next decade the Hambletonian, the Kentucky Futurity and any venue where we have daytime racing in warm weather will produce a myriad of 1:49 trotting miles. I believe that as I write this piece I can name at least a handful of 3-year-olds in this year's crop capable of crashing the 1:50 barrier.

The days of the big-gaited pacers and trotters have passed, and the breeders have delivered to us a new and more gait efficient model that is more slender and much lighter boned. The tough old standardbred is a thing of the past. The new colts will present new problems. Soundness will become a greater concern as the lighter version will be more brittle, and on top of that, speed kills. However in this writer's opinion, no matter how racy they make our colts they will still have the ability to race week in and week out and not have to race sparingly as their thoroughbred counterparts.

Thanks to all my readers for your kind words, they are much appreciated. Don't miss the New Jersey Sires stakes finals tonight featuring my number one selection for the 2019 Hambletonian — Greenshoe. Then, on Saturday, we start the day with Breakfast for the Babies from the Meadowlands, and Saturday night you can see some real humdingers at Woodbine Mohawk Park, including Captain Trevor, Atlanta, Manchego, Captain Ahab, Stag Party and a full contingent of top 4-year-olds in the Graduate, led by Jimmy Freight. Plus, in case you forgot, there is also Stanley Cup Finals, The French Open, and NBA Finals on the menu. Have a great week.

Best In Show takes Toscano back to the main stage

by Ray Cotolo for Woodbine Communications

Trainer Linda Toscano is hoping she's headed towards the top of harness racing's glamour boy division as she sends out the morning-line favourite Best In Show in the second division of the $160,000 Somebeachsomewhere Stakes on Saturday at Woodbine Mohawk Park.

Toscano, who hit career highs earlier in the decade with millionaires Chapter Seven, Market Share and Heston Blue Chip, once again has a shot at a million-dollar prize as she heads towards the Pepsi North America Cup with Best In Show off the heels of retiring Walner, who was considered the Hambletonian favourite in 2017, due to injury.

"Walner broke my heart — I thought I had the best trotter in the world," Toscano said, "We kind of danced around a bit since then. We've had a couple of nice horses but for the most part I've had some pretty nice trotters recently and I haven't had a nice pacing colt in a while so this will be fun."

Best In Show, a homebred son of Bettors Delight for Richard and Joanne Young out of their millionaire-mare Put On A Show, has only six starts on his record — three as a 2-year-old and three so far this season. However, Toscano and the Youngs decided to send Best In Show to Tony O'Sullivan for his freshman season.

"I just had a lot of horses," Toscano said. "I broke him, trained him and having one Ontario-sired horse that had to race (in the Sires Stakes) was a hard thing for me to do and try to do it right. We talked about it, the owner and I, and he didn't really want to ship him back and forth.

"We had a horse or two with Tony before and he felt comfortable with Tony, so I was fine with that. Tony does a good job, so we shipped him up to Tony to race for us."

Off two baby races in early July, Best In Show shipped north and debuted in a division of Ontario Sires Stakes Gold, where he finished fourth behind Bettors Wish, who recently won the $300,000 Art Rooney, and Stag Party, who went on to win the Metro Pace. He then won a preliminary of the Dream Maker series and finished second in the final.

Rookie soreness developed and prompted Toscano to shut him down for the year by late August.

"He was kind of following the plan exactly as we had hoped it was going to go but then he just came up sore after that last start," Toscano said. "I was up there for the Grand Circuit and went over him and made a decision that he was a quality horse and we thought we'd just shut him down and bring him back this year."

The colt has since grown and developed enough to the point that the travel is no longer a concern.

"He certainly didn't have a clue last year training down, and that's still an issue; he's a green colt," Toscano said. "He's come a long way considering he's on a bit of a slow learning curve. I find with those Bettors Delights that's kind of the best part about them: they have good mouths and that Cam Fella line tends to get better and better.

New Image Media

Best In Show (Bob McClure) is the morning-line favorite in the second division of the $160,000 Somebeachsomewhere Stakes on Saturday at Woodbine Mohawk Park.

"The shipping is a funny thing. Back in the day, we didn't ship horses — we shipped them to the place and they stayed. Nowadays, the trailers are much more sophisticated, the roads are great, we know the traffic patterns for the most part and horses are used to shipping. Bottom line is if he had been a difficult horse to ship — if he'd been fractious or anything like that — he'd be here."

Toscano isn't sure she will continue to ship Best In Show back and forth each week from her base in New Jersey.

"If he does really well I might stay up there next week and go that route, so I'm going to take it week to week and decide what to do."

Best In Show will start from post four in his division of the Somebeachsomewhere, carded as Race 6, with Bob McClure driving. He again faces Bronx Seelster and Stag Party, both of whom he beat last week with a career-best equaling 1:50.3 mile in a $108,800 division of Ontario Sires Stakes Gold.

"With the field he's in against this week, he deserves a shot because he had a conditioning edge on those two colts last week, I knew that going in," Toscano said. "I knew this was a week he was going to beat them and I had a funny feeling he was going to have to do it on the lead because I figured Casie (Coleman) wasn't going to want to race (Stag Party) down the road and I figured the same with Bronx Seelster. Now you throw Captain Ahab into the mix and that's a pretty solid field of 3-year-olds right there. If he can go with these then he deserves a shot at (the North America Cup)."

Toscano has approached Best In Show's campaign going week to week, but the North America Cup has always been the goal for the inexperienced colt.

"I think (that's) probably the case but you'll never get me to admit those kind of things," Toscano said with a laugh. "That's not who I am. I just try hard to let the horse tell me what to do and, God willing, he'll come out of it good and we'll take it to next week."

Post time for Saturday's card at Woodbine Mohawk Park is 7:10 p.m.

ISS kicks off at Hoosier

The opening round of Indiana Sires Stakes (ISS) action highlighted the Wednesday (May 29) program at Harrah's Hoosier Park Racing & Casino and featured two divisions of $48,000 Indiana Sires Stakes for 3-year-old trotting fillies.

Indiana's 2-year-old trotting filly champion, Grand Swan, kicked off her 3-year-old campaign in impressive fashion and looked every the bit the part of a 4-5 favorite as she powered home a winner in 1:54.3. In just her first start of the season, Grand Swan overcame a first-over trip to score in a new lifetime best for driver/trainer LeWayne Miller.

Leaving from the rail, Grand Swan was unhurried from the gate and settled along the rail in fourth. Measuredperfection and Ricky Macomber Jr. left alertly to take command and lead the field through opening fractions of :28.2 and :58. Pink Tulip and Doug Rideout benefitted from a pocket trip and as the field approached the final turn, Miller had Grand Swan on the attack first-over.

Grand Swan ranged up and was matching strides with the leader at the third station in 1:26.4. Miller asked his mount for more and she dug in gamely — trotting home in :27.3 and finished two lengths in front of Morairtime and John DeLong who rallied well late for second. Measuredperfection held on for third. As the heavy betting favorite, Grand Swan returned $3.80 to her backers at the betting windows.

"I wasn't sure what to expect off of her qualifiers," Miller said after the win. "She's been good all winter but she was quiet in both of her qualifiers. The trip worked out like I thought it would and she did everything I asked her.

"She's grown up, she's stronger this year but she still loves her job. She loves to chase horses and her attitude is what sets her apart. We staked her to a few Grand Circuit events this season, like The Matron and The Bluegrass, if all goes well, we will give her a shot."

The daughter of Swan For All—Queen Mum recorded her first win of the season and ninth lifetime victory from 13 trips behind the gate. With the win, Grand Swan pushed her lifetime earnings over the $200,000 mark for owners, Grand Swan Racing, Go Fast Stable, and Never 2 Late Stable.

In the second division of the stakes action, it was Savannah's Lucy and Todd Warren who pulled the slight upset to score in 1:55 and record their first win of the season. The victory established a new lifetime best mark for the daughter of Guccio—Seductive Lady.

Leaving from post six, Savannah's Lucy left just enough to get a good early spot along the rail in third. The heavy favorite, Swanind Fastlane and LeWayne Miller, went to the front and dictated first half fractions of :27.4 and :56.2 while the rest of the field sorted out early positions.

The field was gapped out approaching the final turn as Swanind Fastlane appeared to be up to the task but Savannah's Lucy saved her best for last. Utilizing a :28.2 final quarter, Savannah's Lucy found late racing room and tracked down the leader to get the win by nearly two lengths. Swanind Fastlane held on for second while ER Kim and Don Eash rallied late to get up for third at odds of 28-1. Savannah's Lucy returned $10.20 at the betting windows for the win.

Trained by Robert Reeser, Savannah's Lucy improved her lifetime record to three wins from 20 lifetime starts while bankrolling $70,645 in lifetime purse earnings. Savannah's Lucy is owned in partnership by Deborah Clark and William Clark.

"She grew up nicely this year," Reeser noted after the win. "She's a really nice filly who always tries hard. She's been getting stronger with every start and got away up close tonight which I think really helped her."

Somebeachsomewhere and Graduate headline stakes Saturday at Mohawk Park

The Somebeachsomewhere Stakes and Graduate Series will take place this Saturday at Woodbine Mohawk Park to kick-off a spectacular month of Grand Circuit action.

A group of 16 3-year-old pacing colts and geldings have been split into a pair of $85,000 divisions for the Somebeachsomewhere. The Graduate Series for four-year-old pacers and trotters will feature two $99,000 contests with large fields.

The Somebeachsomewhere (formerly Burlington) is annually the final prep for many sophomore pacers on their way to the Pepsi North America Cup. 'The Beach' Stakes has seen two of the last three Pepsi North America Cup champions (Betting Line and Lather Up) win divisions.

Dr. Ian Moore trainee Century Farroh (PP3, Sylvain Filion) leads the opening division of the Somebeachsomewhere. The son of Mach Three is a perfect three for three this season and comes in off a stunning eight-lengths score in an Ontario Sires Stakes Gold division last Saturday.

Century Farroh, who has won seven of 13 career starts, is no stranger to blowout victories. The Moore student capped off his rookie season with a victory of over seven-lengths in the OSS Grassroots Championship.

The first division also features multiple-Grand Circuit winner Captain Trevor (PP2, Andrew McCarthy) from the Tony Alagna barn and a pair of Casie Coleman trainees in Better Up (PP5, David Miller) and Quatrain Blue Chip (PP7, Louis Philippe Roy).

The second division promises to be quite the showdown with several prominent sophomores clashing in the early-season Grand Circuit event.

Linda Toscano trainee Best In Show (PP4, Bob McClure) delivered a major statement last Saturday with a 1:50.3 victory in an OSS Gold division. The son of Bettors Delight-Put On A Show raced just three-times as a rookie and enters 'The Beach' on a two-race win streak.

O'Brien Award winner Stag Party (PP8, David Miller) finished third to Best In Show in his season debut last weekend. The Casie Coleman trainee will be looking to build momentum for the mid-June classic and is reuniting with driver David Miller, who steered him to victory in last summer's Metro Pace.

The second 'Beach' split also features the return of Captain Ahab to Mohawk Park. The Captaintreacherous colt won seven of nine starts as a rookie (five of them at Mohawk Park) and most-recently rallied from seventh to finish third in his season debut at The Meadowlands.

Local standouts Bronx Seelster (PP6, Trevor Henry) and Tyga Hanover (PP7, Sylvain Filion) will also compete in the deep second division. Wayne McGean trainee Bronx Seelster finished second to Best In Show in his season debut last Saturday, while Ben Baillargeon student Tyga Hanover is riding a two-race win streak.

The Somebeachsomewhere Stakes will feature 13 Pepsi North America Cup eligible sophomores. The divisions have been carded as Races 3 and 6 on Saturday's 11-race card.

The star power is bright in Saturday's Graduate Series, which features the top 4-year-old pacers and trotters. The trotting side features a field of 10, while the pacing side has a field of 12.

Superstar Atlanta (PP4, Yannick Gingras) headlines the trotting contest as one of three mares in the field. The Ron Burke trainee will make her second start of the season. Last year's Hambletonian champion won her season debut in a dazzling 1:50.4 on May 6 at Miami Valley before being scratched from the first leg of the Graduate on May 18.

A daughter of Chapter Seven, Atlanta sports career numbers of 13 wins and $1.2 million in earnings. She did fail to find the winner's circle in three starts last season at Mohawk Park.

Atlanta's rival Manchego (PP8, Scott Zeron) will make her season debut in Saturday's contest. The daughter of Muscle Hill will be making her first start for trainer Nancy Johansson after a successful two-seasons with her Hall of Fame father, Jimmy Takter.

Manchego, who has qualified three-times this season, won seven of 14 starts last season and holds career totals of 19 wins and $1.6 million earned in 26 starts.

The Graduate Series pacing division has all the makings of a show-stealer, as an overflow field of 12 will clash. The list of stars in the field includes Lather Up, Dorsoduro Hanover, Jimmy Freight and Courtly Choice.

Although he is trained south of the border, Lather Up (PP1, Jody Jamieson) is a big fan of racing at Mohawk Park. The Clyde Francis trainee won last Saturday's Preferred to remain undefeated in five starts at the Milton oval.

Award-winners Jimmy Freight (PP5, Roy) and Dorsoduro Hanover (PP2, Gingras) will each make their first starts since finishing second and third in the Confederation Cup.

Blake MacIntosh trainee Courtly Choice (PP11, Miller) is coming in hot after a 1:49.1 victory in a $100,000 invitational on Sunday at Harrah's Philadelphia.

Courtly Choice and Lather Up each won first leg divisions of the Graduate on May 4 at The Meadowlands.

The Graduate Series divisions have been carded as Races 5 and 7.

Saturday's card will also feature three Ontario Sires Stakes Gold Series divisions for 3-year-old pacing fillies. Total purses for the 11-race card is $662,800.

2019 Hambletonian Future Wager Pool #2 opens today

The 94th Hambletonian Future Wager at The Meadowlands will open its second pool today (May 31), at 11 a.m. The Road to the Hambletonian is underway for the 199 trotting colts and fillies eligible for the $1 million Hambletonian and $500,000 Hambletonian Oaks.

This is the second of four pools opened in advance of the race to be held Saturday, Aug. 3, at The Meadowlands.

The first Future Wager poll closed with Indiana-sired Swandre The Giant the favorite at 2-1. Swandre the Giant is set to make his first start at Harrah's Hoosier Park on Thursday, May 30, for new trainer Ron Burke.

Meadowlands handicapper Dave Brower has assigned the favorite status of 4-1 to Greenshoe, a Marcus Melander trainee whose first start in New Jersey Sire Stake competition at The Meadowlands was an astonishing 1:51.2 mile finished with a last quarter of 26.2.

Empire Breeders Classic winner Gimpanzee, also from the Melander Stable, was tagged at 6-1. Swandre The Giant will now open at 8-1 in the second pool.

There are 54 of the 101 colts eligible entered in either races or qualifiers between now and Sunday, June 2 when the pool closes, with state-bred competition ongoing in in New York, Indiana, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Wagering will be available at racetrack and online sites throughout North America and internationally, and wagering for the first pool closes on Sunday, June 2 at 11 p.m. (EDT).

The wager will be discussed at length on The Meadowlands weekend simulcast show.

Though fillies have their own division in the $500,000 Hambletonian Oaks, several have started in the $1 million open event in recent years, most recently Atlanta, who became just the 14th filly to win a Hambletonian. The only filly not offered at field odds is Evident Beauty, at 20-1. Trained by R. Nifty Norman, Evident Beauty is two-for-two this year in both her starts at The Meadowlands.

The 14 horses assigned odds in the pool are listed in alphabetical order. The mutuel field, No. 15, will consist of all remaining horses eligible, including all fillies eligible to the Oaks. There are no supplements permitted to the Hambletonian or Oaks.

The minimum future wager is $1 and all future wagers are win only. The winner of each pool will be determined by the official first-place finisher in the 2019 Hambletonian.

The third future wager pool will open Friday, July 5, at 11:00 a.m. through Sunday, July 7 and close at 11:00 p.m. The fourth and final pool opens Thursday, Aug. 1, after the entries and elimination heats are sorted, and closes at post-time of the first elimination and/or heat of the Hambletonian on Saturday, Aug. 3.

The Hambletonian Future Wager will be set-up in the tote system as one separate event.

Past performance lines for the Hambletonian eligible horses will be available free of charge on the Meadowlands website www.playmeadowlands.com. All rules and updates can be found there and on www.Hambletonian.com.

Pick 4s are wild at Big

It's a proven fact that Meadowlands fans love to try and pick four winners on one ticket in an effort to make a score, and the pools for the ever-popular Big M 50-Cent Pick-4 – as well as those for the new 20-Cent Can-Am Pick-4 – back up that statement.

The consistency of the Big M Pick-4 has been remarkable. Of the 42 race cards contested at the mile oval in 2019, 21 times (50 per cent) the pool has exceeded $100,000.

The current six-figure streak stands at three, showing pools of $104,786, $100,408 and $111,105, respectively, for the most recent programs. The highest pool of the year was achieved on March 2, when $134,614 was pushed through the windows.

"Our big fields and competitive racing create multi-leg wager pools that out fans want to be a part of," said Big M chief operating officer and general manager Jason Settlemoir. "We have also found that the new Can-Am Pick-4 is popular with our players as well. The cooperation we get from everyone at Woodbine Mohawk Park as well as the hard work that's done at both tracks has much to do with the bet's success."

With a 20-Cent minimum bet and the challenge of picking winners at harness racing's top two venues – the Big M and Woodbine Mohawk Park – betting in the Can-Am Pick-4 has been steady, due in part that with the low minimum, players can 'spread' their tickets further, which creates more winners.

The Can-Am Pick-4 is only 10 weeks into its existence, but betting has been solid, with an average pool of $56,423. Payouts are smaller due to the decreased minimum, so players should be aware that a CAP4 that pays $200, would come back $500 had it had a 50-Cent minimum. The CAP4 is comprised of, in order, Mohawk's 10th race, Meadowlands' 10th, Mohawk's 11th and the Big M's 11th.

Free program pages (along with expert selections) are available on both the Meadowlands' 50-Cent Pick-4 and the 20-Cent Can-Am Pick-4 by going to www.playmeadowlands.com or www.ustrotting.com. Both wagers have a low 15 per cent takeout.

For those who like to play the 20-Cent Jackpot Super High-Five, a carryover of $97,120 awaits for the fifth race on Friday night.

HEAD TO CANADA TO GRADUATE: Simulcast fans will want to check out the action at Woodbine Mohawk Park on Saturday (June 1), as Leg 2 of the Graduate Series for some of the best 4-year-old pacers and trotters in training will be the featured event.

On the trotting side, 2018 Hambletonian champion Atlanta will make an appearance, while on the pace, Courtly Choice is the marquee name.

Leg 3 of the series is June 9 at Tioga Downs before the fourth and final leg is contested at the Big M on June 28. The Graduate Series Finals will be on July 6 at the Meadowlands.

SEE THE STARS UP CLOSE: Two New Jersey Sire Stakes standouts will be on tonight's (May 31) card at the Big M.

In a non-betting event at 6:10 p.m., Hurrikane Emperor, No. 4 in the current "Road to the Crawford Farms Meadowlands Pace" weekly Top 10 poll, goes after the 3-year-old colt and gelding pace final, while, in the 3-year-old colt and gelding trot final, Hambletonian hopeful Greenshoe is the 9-5 morning-line choice in the second betting race on the program.

First race post time tonight and Saturday is 7:15 p.m.

HANDICAPPING YOUTH: Come out to the Big M on Saturday (June 1) and take part in a free handicapping contest with cash prizes on "Millennial Night", but only if you are 18-30 years of age.

The $5,000 prize pool is entirely sponsored by Jeff and Paula Gural's Allerage Farms and is earmarked for young folks who want to come out and see the live race card and try to pick winners along the way.

Register on the night of the contest by 7 p.m. on Victory Terrace. First prize is $2,500, with the second- and third-place finishers taking away $1,500 and $1,000, respectively.

For more information go here.

TRIPLE CROWN FINALE: The featured simulcast event at the Meadowlands on Saturday (June 8) will be the Belmont Stakes.

Big M gates will open at 10:30 a.m. The first race at Belmont is at 11:35 a.m. with the Belmont Stakes scheduled to go at 6:37 p.m.

Hambletonian-level colts at Pocono Saturday

If you're The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono, and on Saturday night you have the world's fastest 2-year-old, the filly Warrawee Ubeaut (1:48.3), among the entrants in four $30,000 divisions of a Pennsylvania All-Stars race for 3-year-olds – what can you do for an encore on Sunday?

Here's the answer: you turn to the Hambletonian-class types, the 3-year-old colt trotters, stage three $56,868 divisions of the second preliminary leg of their Pennsylvania Sire Stake, add five more $20,000 divisions of the group's Stallion Series action, then also card two $30,000 races in the Great Northeast Open Series, one for mare pacers and one for trotters. That's what you do.

The three Sire Stakes races are slotted in races three, five, and 11, each having seven entrants, and each section has a winner from the first preliminary round, held at The Meadows on May 11. In race three Ginger Tree Skyr is the PaSS winner already, having posted a 1:55 upset at 26-1. Dan Rawlings will come east to drive the Explosive Matter colt for trainer Steven Cook as they begin from post two. Also highly-regarded in this division is Gerry (post six, driver Brian Sears), who broke at The Meadows in his seasonal bow but who won in 1:54.3 last year, and Marseille (post four, driver Åke Svanstedt), a maiden but who comes in for his 2019 debut off a good second in a qualifier.

Goes Down Smooth will start from post six in the fifth race for the formidable team of trainer Ron Burke and driver Yannick Gingras, who will be freshly-returned from the World Driving Championship in Sweden. In addition to winning in 1:54.3 in his PASS contest at The Meadows, the Muscle Hill gelding won two starts back in the final of the Walner series at The Meadowlands, and he also shows a 1:53.4 victory at the Jersey miler. White Tiger, who won his seasonal debut at The Meadowlands in 1:54.2, could be the major danger, starting from post two for driver David Miller.

In the third Sire Stakes cut, Gingras appears to have a good chance to add a second feature tally as he steers the Cantab Hall colt Osterc from post five for trainer Per Engblom. He is undefeated in two starts this year, preceding his 1:55.1 win at The Meadows with a victory in the Dexter Cup at Freehold, and he is also the defending Sire Stakes champion this division. Guaranteed (post two, driver Tim Tetrick) has a 1:53.4 victory at The Meadowlands this year and certainly could contend on his best outing.

The Stallion Series events go gateward in races 1, 4, 7, 9, and 12, and they are full of young horses who are developing now – 17 horses in the five races show a win within their last two starts. All three winners in The Meadows StS races are here – Kate's Massive (race 4), Raceace (race 7), and Lapped By Lindy (race 12); Kate's Massive may be the most interesting in that he followed his StS win with a victory in the Currier And Ives Trot at The Meadows, and he is luring the winningest driver of all-time, Dave Palone, for an infrequent visit to Pocono.

The Great Northeast Open Series has divisional leader Tequila Monday in the mare pace and Crystal Fashion, winner of the Earl Beal Final here in 2018, in that gait's open event; these two races will be further examined in a release tomorrow, along with the GNOS open pace at Harrah's Philly earlier on Sunday.

2,000 wins for driver Nick Steward

A victory behind pacer Jake Parrish is always special for driver Nick Steward, but was particularly so on Monday night (May 27) at The Raceway at Western Fair District as it marked the 2,000th career trip to the winner's circle for the London reinsman.

Jake Parrish is a family favourite who is conditioned by recent Wall Of Fame inductee Larry Fitzsimmons who is also the grandfather of Steward. In Monday's first race, Steward sent his charge straight to command from post one and was able to wire the field in a sharp clocking of 1:56.1 for the milestone win.

It was the third win this season and 27th lifetime for the 7-year-old gelded son of Whosurboy who sits with close to $160,000 in career earnings.

Fans are reminded that the final card of the season at The Raceway goes this Friday night, featuring the $157,000 Camluck Classic Invitational Pace. The card gets underway at 6:55 p.m. and full details are available at www.camluckclassic.com.

Captain dominant at Philly

Sons of Captaintreacherous won five of the six $20,000 third round preliminaries of the Pennsylvania Stallion Series for 3-year-old pacing colts Monday afternoon at Harrah's Philadelphia, but it was the Somebeachsomewhere gelding Prince Of Tides who posted the fastest time, 1:50, which also rewrote the North American season's record for his division.

Eric Carlson, who tasted sulky success four times on the matinee card, moved the winner to the lead in front of the stands, and the sophomore came home powerfully, last half in :54.1 despite bearing out in the stretch to be 6¼ lengths clear of favored Skip To My Lou, the only StS horses to win in both the preliminary legs before today. Prince Of Tides, who dropped down from the Sire Stakes to post the impressive triumph, is trained by Ross Croghan for Let It Ride Stables, Mr. Dana Parham, and Howard Taylor.

Carlson had another Stallion Series winner, this one part of a StS training triple for Tony Alagna, Odds On Boca Raton, who is now perfect in two Stallion Series starts after a 1:52.1 victory. Odds On Boca Raton went right to the top and discouraged all other challengers, finishing a length to the good of Stienams Beach for Odds On Racing.

The other two Alagna winners were driven by Dexter Dunn, who joined Carlson in showing up in Victory Lane twice after a PaStS race. The Dunn-Alagna pairing included U S Captain, who is undefeated in three 2019 starts, the last two in the Stallion Series, after taking a new mark of 1:50.2. The promising pacer controlled the throttle and kept pocket-sitting Cloudbreak 3¼ lengths at bay for Brittany Farms, Brad Grant, Joseph Barbera, and U S Captain Racing.

The other win for Team Dunn/Alagna was produced by Waterway, who took his second start of the year after a third in his yearly bow. Dunn moved Waterway to the lead in front of the grandstand and had smooth sailing from there, withstanding Champagneonthebeach by ¾ of a length in 1:52.1 for Alagna And Begley Stable, Santo and Joseph Barbera, and David Silverman.

The final two Stallion winners both took new marks; one was Latissiumus Hanover, who took his fifth straight win, all in Stallion Series action, while lowering his mark to 1:50.3 in this third round prelim. No, that is not a typo – Latissimus Hanover had swept his four prelims in 2018 and would have been the likely choice for the 2YO Championship, but his season ended after the quartet of wins, and this was his first start since August 13 of last year. But the colt looked muscled up and fit to go, taking the lead early and maintaining it by 1¾ lengths over Captain Mckee for driver Mark MacDonald and trainer Ray Schnittker, who co-owns the talented youngster with Ted Gewertz and Mary Arnold Kinsey.

The smallest margin of victory came in the race with the only off-the-pace winner, as Revelry swung wide from third-in coming into the lane and just caught Seafarer by a nose in 1:51.1. George Napolitano Jr. guided the winning gelding for the Cancelliere brothers – trainer Tom and owner John.

Record number nominated to 2019 $200,000 Prix D'Ete

For the sixth straight year a record number of 4-year-old pacers have been nominated to the $200,000C renewal of the Prix D'Ete at the Hippodrome 3R in Quebec on Sunday, Aug. 18.

A total of 29 nominees for the final surpassed the 2018 record of 27 nominees. The top eight money winners in 2019 at entry time will compete in the $200,000C final.

Headlining the list of nominees is Courtly Choice, a million-dollar career winning son of Art Major, who won $910,000 last year with a record of 1:47.1 for trainer Blake McIntosh. His top victories last year were in the Little Brown Jug and the Meadowlands Pace.

Courtly Choice is already off to a great start in 2019, having won two of his three starts. Last week he won the $100,000 Commodore Barry Pace in 1:49.1 at Harrah's Philadelphia.

The Prix D'Ete was the most prestigious race in all of Canada from 1966 through 1992. World champions Bret Hanover, Albatross, Niatross, Hot Hitter, Cam Fella, On The Road Again, Ralph Hanover, Matt's Scooter and a host of other top pacers have won the Prix D'Ete.

The Ron Burke Stable's Done Well is another major early contender. The gelded son of Well Said has two wins in three starts this year. Last week he scorched the half mile oval at Flamboro Downs, winning the $139,000C Confederation Cup in 1:50.2. The week prior he won his elimination division in 1:51.4 over a sloppy track.

O'Brien award winner Jimmy Freight is nominated and he is a career winner of $941,000. The gusty son of Sportswriter was a game second last week to Done Well in the Confederation Cup.

Prix D'Ete eligibles who won last week include Thinkbig Dreambig, who scored at the Meadowlands in 1:50.2, Hitman Hill at Pocono Downs in 1:50.1 and Trump Nation at the Meadowlands in 1:49.3.

Quebec-owned nominees include Courtly Choice and Stock.

"I want to invite everyone to come to Trois-Rivieres the weekend of August 18," said Quebec Jockey Club president Piere Levesque, "as we want everyone to come out and enjoy our great racing and Quebecoise hospitality."
