Brain in perpetual motion

Rising star Daniel Redén has ditched his stopwatch and jogging routine, tried deep straight tracks, short bursts of training, maximum paddock time and even spiritual mediums to help him get the most out of his horses. Though the Swedish trainer has yet to win his coveted Elitloppet despite multiple cracks at his country's top trotting prize, he is not, for one second, about to give up.

Daniel Redén (right) and Brixton Medical AB's Bengt Ågerup after their beloved Delicious won a 4-year-old Elite race for mares at Solvalla in 2013. Delicious has become the patron saint of Redén's operation.

Daniel Redén has one of those faces that suggest his brain is always spinning, chugging, processing the next move. It was exactly the expression the 39-year-old Swedish trainer was wearing three days after failing to win his beloved Elitloppet despite having a record four entrants, including one of the favorites, Propulsion (who finished third).

Sitting at his farm office computer, over-sized headphones clamped just off his ears to the side of his active noggin, fingers in pondering formation on his face, Redén said he thinks he has figured out why Propulsion, Double Exposure, Sorbet and Heavy Sound all were unusually sluggish on Elitlopp Sunday, whereas Missile Hill, his new acquisition from the United States, was gangbusters winning the $105,000 Fyraåringseliten for 4-year-olds that same afternoon at Solvalla.

Unlike 2018, when Sweden experienced a drought and high temperatures, this year the weather was overly rainy and temperate, making for overly-lush paddocks. Redén, who obsesses about trying to let horses be horses to bring out both their best possible performance and a predictable level of consistency, turned out his Elitlopp horses to enjoy the fresh, beautiful grass. He figures the quartet filled up on grass rather than feed. Meanwhile, Missile Hill was turned out separately in a paddock without much grass and heartily ate what he was given.

"This year I learned a lot and I think I know why my horses didn't perform the way I wanted them to," Redén said, contemplating the ceiling for a second and sighing. "This year there was much rain before the Elitlopp. The grass just started growing and they went in this big field so they could eat and get strong. I think that's why my horses were very lazy and not the best.

"If I could do it again this year, the last four days they would not be in the paddock. I would have been out there walking with them and maybe I'd put them in the small (paddock) without the grass. Missile Hill was in one of those paddocks without grass and he was happy."

Redén said he can't sleep until he figures out why his horses don't perform well. That said, he laughed when asked if finding an answer as to why his Elitlopp horses weren't at their best at least allowed him to rest easier.

"No, I just find another thing to not sleep about. I'm trying to find the answer to black holes, too," he said, laughing. "It's not so easy. My mind is always spinning."

Longtime friend, righthand man and HRU columnist Thomas Hedlund nods in agreement about how Redén's mind works.

"This is true, this energy talk and this (fixation with) black holes," Hedlund said. "Last night, he called me and he had figured out something..."

"I'm into this time equation, what is time?" Redén said, adding that he thinks it is possible to move backwards and forwards in time.

"It's hard for me to explain in English."

For now, he just wishes he could jump back in time a week or two before the Elitlopp, which he has never won.

"Then I know that Propulsion would win with 30 metres left to race, because he's so much better than the horses (that) raced on Sunday, normally," Redén said. "Readly Express and him are similar. The other horses, they are not there."

But more on black holes and the spiritual energy of

RISING STAR

Redén, who trains mostly for Bengt Ågerup's Brixton Medical AB, is one of the trotting world's rising stars. He is a quiet man of deep contemplation, forever tinkering with what doesn't work and what does — never satisfied. He is somewhat shy and avoids the limelight.

The goal, the trainer explained, using his hands for emphasis, is to avoid great hills and valleys in his horses' performances and produce a flat line of incredible consistency. To accomplish that, he wants horses to be happy and strong and eager to perform at their best.

"If you see my result, all of the time the horses are performing at a high level. Not the highest, but we are there," he said.

The main barn at Stall Zet houses the office, kitchen, some apartments, racing trophies and photos and an employee lounge complete with ping pong and a deck overlooking the farm.

Both Redén and Hedlund met while working for top Swedish trainer Stefan Melander and both left in 2009. Redén went to work as the private trainer for Stall Zet (the stable name of Brixton Medical AB). Hedlund, a racing journalist who dreamed as a child of being a driver, joined Redén not long after as the office manager / bookkeeper.

A decade later, Redén is training 85 horses, 74 of them for Brixton Medical AB.

Between 2015 and 2019 (so far), Redén's trainees have won 461 races, posted a collective win percentage of 22 per cent and earned $12.73 million combined (U.S. dollars). His best year was 2018 when he had a record of 122-96-60 in 502 starts, good for a win percentage of 24 per cent and personal best of more than $4.6 million. This year Redén is winning at a rate of 32 per cent.

In 2013, Redén made a radical change in his approach to training. At the time, he was jogging or training his horses every day. Then his horses started to get sick.

"I thought, 'I must be doing something wrong. I must be stressing them or something,'" Redén said.

About that time, he read a scientific article that found the benefits of humans riding a test bike as hard as they could peddle for one minute every day at the same time for a month were as good, if not better, than those of someone who jogged six miles a day.

Redén thought horses might benefit from the same short, but incredibly intense training, doing so on a heavy straight track and just two times a week. The rest of the time, the horses would be turned out in paddocks to allow them to be horses.

He went on a search for the right material. Sand was good, but he knew horses that trained regularly on beaches were prone to tendon injuries. He decided a mix of sand and clay would be best.

“Every horse was sick, so I had to try. I went all over trying to find the new materials and bought a tractor to work the new tracks. People were thinking, ‘He’s totally lost it now,’” Redén said, laughing.

The positive results came quickly, as did the finger-pointing.

“It was hard, because I was not so famous. I was new in this situation, so there was so much s--- and people sending emails. They were really crazy,” Redén said.

Most of his accusers were gamblers, but even a famous Swedish horse racing journalist implied, in the country’s biggest newspaper, that Redén was cheating.

“I was angry I stopped talking to him and said I was angry. He called me up and I tried to explain to him (the changes I had made),” Redén said. “Then everything changed because he called his source who had said he was 100 per cent certain that I cheated. He called him up again after he talked to me and asked where he got his information and the source said, ‘I was making it up.’”

Today, that journalist is a regular visitor to Redén’s farm.

“He’s here all the time now and he sees how I train. It’s great to understand and see it with his own eyes,” Redén said, adding his farm is always open. “If you look at my horses at the track, no one has horses that look like mine... I want them to be like that. Our distance racing is no real distance for a horse, so I have them like 100, 200-metre runners, like human (sprinters)... I want them to have big muscles and (the deep, heavy straight track) is one way to do it.”

Redén’s impressive level of success in a relatively short time is all documented in the expansive and pristine complex on the second floor of his main barn at the 740-acre farm named Furuby Gård. The farm is owned by the Ågerup family and located in Örsundsbro, Sweden, about 50 miles north of Stockholm. Here you will find a plethora of well-framed racing photos that line the walls that contain an office, kitchen, some small apartments and a large lounge with a deck overlooking the farm. Apart from providing an outstanding vista, the high-ceilinged lounge comes complete with a ping-pong table, deep massage chair, large leather couch and equally-large television and lots of racing trinkets. It’s all overseen by the patron saint of Furuby Gård, as depicted in a huge mural of beloved mare Delicious that looks down on it all from the apex of the roof on the wall leading out to the deck.

DELICIOUS CHANGED EVERYTHING

Redén said he has difficulty explaining in English what Delicious means to him and his entire operation, but he doesn't have to put it into words. It's clear on his face that the tiny mare has secured a major piece of his heart.

The U.S.-bred Cantab Hall mare out of Ipsara LB, formerly trained by Ron Gurfein, enchanted fans in Europe many times during the summer of 2015 when she broke world records in three consecutive starts at three different distances on five-eighths mile tracks.

"She is the most valuable horse that I've had contact with in my life. Everything about her is so special and she's a fragile individual that has to be handled with care," Redén told Hedlund for HRU back in 2017 when Delicious was retired from racing.

Redén bought Delicious at the Standardbred Horse Sales Company's mixed auction in 2012.

"She was so small and so tiny, but she had won the last start in Lexington in a good time. She won in :52.2 (beating Maven)," Redén said. "She had a good look. The conformation was really good, but she was too small, but something hooked me about her. I talked to my owner and said, 'I like this horse. Can we go?' The pedigree was not (super) good and she was small. But she was fast. He said, 'We can go to $100,000.' I was happy, because I thought, 'Now I will get this one and I'm happy with that.' They started to bid and I saw straight on the other side, there was Ron Burke bidding. I thought 'S---'. He got to $98,000, I think, and I thought this was my last try, so I said, '$100,000' and he was, like, 'Nope.' So he has his limit, too, I guess. We were probably both at $100,000."

When Redén got Delicious to Sweden and started training her, she started developing small colic-like symptoms, yet she began racing as advertised. Delicious won a small race against the boys and was so impressive Redén opted to try her in a 4-year-old elite race for mares on the Elitlopp card.

"She flew. She was so fast and it was raining like hell and she was the fastest horse of the day, almost," Redén said. "It felt really, really good, because I felt something with her. She was really different than my other horses. We have a connection.

"After that race, she started to get really sick sometimes and this veterinary clinic wanted to open her and do tests and it was a different story."

It was around this time in 2013 that Redén was desperately searching for answers for the rampant sickness that had swept his stable. No possible solution was ruled out, including hiring a spiritual medium. For a man who reads up on black holes and is intellectually curious, the medium wasn't that much of a stretch.

"There were many, many horses that were very, very sick and had strange diseases the year before, so we had to solve this. I tried everything I knew. They were here to take tests and couldn't find anything. The vets said the horses are not sick, but then they would take their temperatures and it would be 39 and they would say, 'They are sick.' They would take blood samples and they are not sick, but they were sick," he said, explaining his decision to go the spiritual route, initially "just for fun."

"There are no signs on the (stalls) in the stable, so he could not know which horse were\] where... but he talked first about my family, because he didn't know he was coming to a horse place. He said something about my family that was true – my grandfather, ex-girlfriend, people that had died. He picked them out and he got many right. He asked, 'Can we go out in the stable and look?' I said, 'Okay.' So we went into the barn and he was talking a lot. Then he just stood in front of Delicious. He just stayed with her for a couple of minutes, saying nothing, just stood there. Then we just walked away and he said, 'Daniel, this is a really, really special horse. You're going to have some really, really great moments with this horse.' It was just so unbelievable that he picked her out because she was so small and didn't look like a good racehorse or anything and it was so early after she arrived."

One year later, Delicious had a serious bout with a colic-like illness and the vets insisted they operate to save her life. Redén said he heard the words of the medium in his head about how special the mare was and refused to let the vets operate.

"I said, 'No. If I do this, her career is done.' (The medium) told me so many things and everything he told me was true. So, I said, 'No, you cannot open her.'"

The vets pleaded with him, but Redén drove to the clinic and took Delicious home.

"They were so angry with me, 'You are going to kill this little horse!' and blah, blah, blah. I called my other vet and said, 'I think she's got some other problem, she's a little stressed and we'll give her other medicine.' We did it my way and she started getting better and better."

The next year, Delicious finished third in the Elitlopp.

The following year, Delicious set the three world records in a row.

But in 2017, Delicious nearly died again, this time due to a twisted bowel. Redén let the vets operate.

"She was in so much pain and one of the vets said, 'We must open her up now.' I saw how bad she was and I couldn't be in the room, I had to get out because I was crying and I couldn't see her. It was so bad. I told him 'Yeah, yeah, open her up now.'"

Vets told Redén that if they would have waited five more minutes, Delicious would have been dead.

"They fixed her and we put her on heavy cortisone for her sickness and she's been feeling very good. Since then, she has not been having any problems.

Nervous about her carrying her own foal, they tried breeding Delicious via embryo transfer, but it didn't catch. A year ago, they took a chance and bred her to Daley Lovin.

"She's happy, she looks great and she's the Queen of the farm," Hedlund said.

As to why Delicious means so much, Redén said she "gave me so much and earned me so much," but, more than that, she taught him to listen to his horses.

"I don't drive with my watch any more, I listen with my head. I think that is better and you must listen to the horses and she taught that to me... I think my skills are better," Redén said.

As thanks, Redén even named his daughter after the mare. Jacqueline's middle name is Delicious.

"She's four now. Jacqueline was born just a couple of days after (Delicious') first world record race," Redén said, proudly, adding his wife was fine with Delicious as a middle name given how important the mare has been to their family.

After all, Redén – and Hedlund, as well, for that matter – are the first people in their families to devote their lives to harness racing.

ELITLOPP DREAMS

Redén and Hedlund met in 1997 when both were working for Melander. Redén was 18 and Hedlund 23 and the two became fast friends, both long obsessed with the Elitloppet and filled with dreams of, one day, winning it.

That obsession extends to the pair camping out at the gates to Solvalla the night before the big race and running to get a good spot in the grandstand when the gates were opened. Think the Running of the Bulls with the same level of intoxication, but no bulls.

One year, Hedlund and Redén stayed up all night drinking in Melander's barn, waiting to be sprung from the gates

"Daniel started running (when the gates opened) and he was faster than me for the first 200 or 300 metres, then he got tired legs," Hedlund said, laughing, explaining that Redén crashed to the tarmac.

"I thought I was going to die, my heart was pounding... and I was a little bit drunk," the trainer said, laughing. "It was not a good combo."

A few years later, the duo looked after one of Melander's Elitlopp horses.

"It was big, I thought he could win, but he couldn't. But it was big. It was exciting. It's better to be a groom and have a horse in the Elitlopp than to be a trainer, because, as a trainer, you get this pressure from everywhere. As a groom, you are proud of your horse and it's more enjoyable," Hedlund said.

"I feel more pressure now. We had both quit the Melander stable before Iceland won in 2010. We were no longer in his stable, so we couldn't feel the happiness about Iceland's victory. I was (working at Swedish racing publication) Travronden and Danny was running this place, so we've never won the Elitlopp."

In the last decade, Redén has raced 14 horses in the Elitlopp and finished second twice. He admits it's been frustrating, "but someday..." he said, his voice trailing off.

Asked if this year's result is painful enough to cause him to stop trying, Redén is particularly defiant.

"No, no. I never give up," he said.

Look in his eyes and you can see his brain is already working on the next one.

My summers as a swipe - Part 1, 1966

by Dean A. Hoffman

After my final two years of high school and my first two years of college, I spent the summers working at the bottom rung of the ladder in the horse business. I took care of horses, first on a breeding farm and then on the track.

What I experienced stays with me even today, although these were years in the late 1960s when America was experiencing racial strife and protests over the war in Vietnam.

In harness racing, however, there was nothing but optimism then. There's no such thing as a sure thing in horse racing, but we knew in the late 1960s that harness racing would get bigger and better every year. It had been that way since the end of World War II in 1945.

In that sense, the late 1960s were a vanished world for harness racing. The scourges of off-track betting, state lotteries, simulcasting, and racinos had yet to give gamblers choices that threatened the basic business model of racetracks.

It was indeed halcyon era.

This is the first in a four-part series in which I relive my education and experiences as a groom (I prefer the old term "swipe" in the headline) over four summers from the distant past.

"Here, boy, you might as well learn the horse business on the end of one of these."

With those words in June, 1966, Ted Woodley, the manager of Walnut Hall Farm, introduced me to four summers of caring for horses, first while in high school and later college.

I was a suburban kid from Cincinnati. I knew a crouper from an overcheck and I knew that straw was yellow and hay was green. But that was about all I knew about the practicalities of horsemanship.

My learning process did indeed begin on the end of a pitchfork. At times I thought it would never progress beyond that point. It seemed that I spent at least three weeks at Walnut Hall Farm cleaning stalls.

I was paired with two brothers from Louisville who were of similar age. We were the greenhorns just there for a summer job before school started. We lived together in a small room above the broodmare barn office. That was just a stone's throw from the historic stone stallion barn where Volomite and Scotland reigned for many decades. Not far away was the statue of Guy Axworthy near the farm's graveyard of greats.

At time I thought that some of the stalls at Walnut Hall had not been cleaned since Guy Axworthy died at age 32 in 1934. I had come to Walnut Hall with visions of being around famous horses, but the routine of cleaning stalls never seemed to end.

The evenings, however, were mine, and I could roam among the broodmares in the endless pastures. There was Impish, the feminine bay that made history as a juvenile five years earlier. There was the dark Emily's Pride, winner of the Hambletonian just eight years earlier and already the dam of the wunderkind colt Noble Victory.

I secured my summer job because my father knew Ted Woodley, the manager, and dad was also close to Cincinnati owner Sam Huttenbauer, who was close to Katherine Nichols, who owned Walnut Hall. My responsibilities consisted of 12-1/2 days of work every two weeks. Every other weekend I got off from Saturday noon until Monday morning.

For my services, I was paid $75 every two weeks (minus deductions, of course). But the farm provided me with a place to live and I took my meals at the farm's boarding house, a tradition that now seems quaint but then was simply part of farm life.

In fact, my first day gave me an introduction to boarding house etiquette and taught me a valuable lesson on seniority.

Farm hands gathered in waiting room in the boarding house until one of the cooks rang a bell to indicate the food was ready. We waited on ancient couches, a few hardback chairs, and one or two easy chairs. I arrived before lunch and took the most comfortable chair.

I noticed that some of the farm workers looked at me with a smile or slight snicker, but I wrote that off to the fact that I was the new kid on the farm, just a teenager among much older, experienced men.

As I waited, a stooped old man walking with a cane approached me, stared at me with absolute disdain and disgust, then exploded like Mount Vesuvius with a torrent of mumbled profanities. When he began shaking his cane at me, I shot up out of that chair like a Jack-In-The-Box as I heard and saw snickers from others in the room.

It seems that on my very first day, I had committed the unforgivable sin of sitting in the easy chair of George Johnson, a bent-over pensioner who had earned certain privileges with decades of seniority.

From that day forward, I never even got within a few feet of the old man's easy chair and never dared to speak to him. I was much younger, a foot taller, but he always carried that cane and scared the bejesus out of me. I gave him a wide swath.

If I had been smarter, I would have befriended George Johnson because he had lived an absolutely amazing life in the harness horse world and I could have learned so much from him. But then I just saw him as a crabby old SOB to be avoided at all costs.

George Johnson was born in 1879 and spent his entire life with horses. When I encountered him, he was 88 and had been a pensioner at Walnut Hall for almost two decades. But in 1912 he had been among the grooms that accompanied the C.K G. Billings horses for exhibitions in Czarist Russia. Johnson sailed with the Billings' troupe to Hamburg, German, then took a train into Russia.

Later in life, Johnson came to Walnut Hall to work as a stationer and in that role he cared for such stalwarts as Peter Volo and his son Volomite and the rugged Scotland.

Eventually, I was experienced enough to be trusted handling broodmares as they were bred or checked for pregnancy. I remember sitting on the tailgate of a pick-up truck that summer leading the mares Beloved and Cheetah Goose behind me. Beloved's daughter Kerry Way would win the Hambletonian that summer and Cheetah Goose had a good son named Bullet Van that roughed it up with Bret Hanover.

I was also thrilled to find myself working alongside Donnie Miller, a top-notch trainer and driver who had steered Bret Hanover to his freshman record of 1:57.2 just two summer previously. Donnie was experiencing some health issues that kept him away from the racing wars, but he pitched right in with the know-nothings like me to help with the Walnut Hall breeding stock.

Perhaps the most significant friend I made that summer was Phil Straw, a fellow Ohioan who was finishing up his college education at the University of Kentucky. He had fallen in love with harness racing as a young teen, as I had, and made Walnut Hall his home in the summers and later when he was a full-time student at UK. He lived in a little cabin near the foaling barn which he called The Ponderosa.

Inviting me into his abode, Phil pulled out a box that was chock-a-block with harness racing treasures and mementos. He had a shoe worn by Hickory Smoke when he won the Hambletonian nine years earlier. Phil had a photo of him with Adios Butler when the pacer set the world record for pacers on a half-mile track at 1:55.3 in a time trial five years earlier.

I was both fascinated and envious and asked Phil, "How'd you get all this stuff?"

"Wrote the owners," he said simply. "They appreciate it when someone shows a genuine interest in their best horses and they'll usually send you something."

I filed that information away and later that summer I wrote a letter to Norman Woolworth, owner of Meadow Skipper, who was then completing his first season at Stoner Creek Stud in Paris, Kentucky. I admired Meadow Skipper because I knew he was troubled by splints and yet gritted his way past the pain to have a successful race career. At my high school, I competed on both the cross-country and track teams and was hampered by shin splints. (I was also hampered by a lack of speed.) That letter to Woolworth was my paean to Meadow Skipper.

Woolworth responded by sending me photos not only of Meadow Skipper, both also of other stars from his stable. That led to a friendship of almost 40 years with Norman and I was honored to speak at a memorial service for him at the Harness Racing Museum in 2003.

Walnut Hall is truly the grand dame of standardbred nurseries, having been established 1892 with the money Lamont V. Harkness made from his association with Standard Oil. It was a magisterial Bluegrass estate with sweeping and seemingly endless fields of bluegrass.

Other trotting nurseries came and went over the first half of the Twentieth Century but Walnut Hall endured and the business of breeding horses carried on through several generations of Harkness descendants.

It was truly the dominant breeder of that era and its old stone stallion barn housed such legends as Guy Axworthy, San Francisco, Peter Volo, Scotland, Volomite, Guy Abbey, and Demon Hanover. Countless Walnut Hall broodmares contributed immeasurably to the breed.

The stallion roster when I worked there in the 1960s, however, consisted of a now-forgotten brigade of well-bred wannabees. Among them were The Intruder, Storm Cloud, Saboteur, Uncle Sam, Duane Hanover, Coffee Break, Adios Paul, Kimberly Kid, Trader Horn, etc. In retrospect, the stallion roster looked like a losers' convention.

When Castleton Farm, located just across Newtown Pike, stood Good Time, Speedster, Florican. Worthy Boy, Speedy Scot and other prominent stallions, Walnut Hall's line-up played second fiddle.

Perhaps the sudden demise of Demon Hanover chilled farm owner Katherine Nichols' desire to invest heavily in a single stallion. Walnut Hall had participated heavily in the syndication of Demon Hanover for $500,000 in 1958. The intelligent and talented stallion was moved from his base in Ohio to Walnut Hall and ensconced in the stall long occupied by Volomite. (No pressure there.)

Demon Hanover bred one book of mares at Walnut Hall in 1959 and died suddenly that fall. The hopes and dreams – not to mention a lot of money – of his shareholders went into the ground with him. Seldom again was Walnut Hall a force in acquiring the best young stallions in the breed.

The Walnut Hall stallions of the mid-1960s, despite commendable accomplishments on the track left a very limited legacy to the breed.

I came to know them as individuals with the expected quirks in the breeding shed. Coffee Break was small and short-legged, as were many of the get of Good Time. He was so short that he had difficulty mounting mares at time, so a small mound was built into the corner of the breeding shed. Coffee Break would stand there when he mounted mares and, as a result, we called that mound "Mount Coffee Break."

Kimberly Kid, a sensation on the track and considered as "the last of the Volomites," had a weak hip and hind end. When he mounted a mare, David White, a burly son of the Kentucky hills, would put his shoulder under Kimberly Kid's hindquarters to give him support during breeding.

Courtesy Dean A. Hoffman

This statue of Guy Axworthy stands sentinel over the Walnut Hall cemetery.

Most of the breeding was done by live cover. Because I began work after the school year was over, much of the breeding season was over. Invariably, miscues occurred in the breeding shed. I recall seeing Duane Hanover breed a maiden mare named Ensign's Delight. She was so startled when she felt the stallion on her back that she collapsed and fell to the ground, almost taking her paramour with her.

Artificial insemination was practiced in the most rudimentary fashion. Stallions were fitted with condoms ("equine breeding bags" sold by a firm in Crestline, Ohio) and the semen was collected. It was then poured into cups and delivered to a mare to be inseminated. I recall assisting in such efforts and riding in a pick-up truck with a cup of semen sitting on the dashboard.

In the evenings after work at Walnut Hall, I loved to walk up to the cemetery where so many legends of the breed rested for eternity, with the statue of Guy Axworthy standing sentinel over them. Stones marked the final resting places of Volomite, Scotland, Peter Volo, Demon Hanover, Guy Abbey, and many important and influential broodmares.

I recall a towering oak with roots at its base that provided me with a comfortable spot to sit and read, looking out over the sweeping Bluegrass pastures.

At the end of August, it was time for me to return to Cincinnati and start my senior year in high school. But I was already planning another summer amid the boundless beauty of Walnut Hall Farm.

Which is more impressive, Jimmy Takter's five straight Hambletonian Oaks or Woody Stephen's five straight Belmonts?

by Bob Heyden

Which is more impressive, Jimmy Takter's five straight Hambletonian Oaks or Woody Stephen's five straight Belmonts? It's tough to say. Neither has ever been approached by any other trainer.

Jimmy Takter retired on Dec. 6, 2018 having won the Hambletonian Oaks five straight times, the only time in North America any trainer has won a half-a-million dollar or more contest that many times in a row.

Woody Stephens is the only trainer to win a Triple Crown race five straight times, having captured the Belmont Stakes five in a row from 1982-1986. He had never won the race prior, and never did again.

Takter had won the Oaks three times before (1994-Gleam, 2003-Southwind Allaire, 2006-Passionate Glide) and his eight Oaks scores is easily an all-time best (the race started in 1971).

Woody's Belmonts - the facts

1982 – Conquistador Cielo Laffit Pincay, Jr. Time 2:28.20.

This colt had won the Metropolitan just five days earlier at Belmont, giving him two major stakes within a week's time at the same track. Purse $159,720

1983 – Caveat with Laffit Pincay, Jr repeating. $215,100 was the pot, and the owner was August Belmont IV. The Belmont family won the Belmont stakes six times.

1984 – Swale with Laffit for a third time!. $310,020 was on the line. Swale competed for the Claiborne Farm.

1985 – Crème Fraiche wins it, but this time with Eddie Maple riding (Remember he was the last rider for Secretariat 12 years earlier) $307,740 was the purse, and the winner was the first gelding to capture the Belmont.

1986 – Danzig Connection gives Woody Stephens his fifth in a row. Chris McCarron wins his first of six Triple Crown races (It would be 11 years until his next, the 1997 Belmont with Touch Gold) $338,640 made this the richest of the five Belmonts that went Woody's way.

James G. Rowe, Sr. owns the record for a trainer in a career-with eight Belmonts, the same total as Takter on the Oaks side.

No wonder they have a "Woody's Corner" at Belmont Racecourse on the first level.

Jimmy's Hambletonian Oaks - the facts

2014 – Lifetime Pursuit got it going to the tune of $22.00 (fifth choice) with a new track record of 1:50.4. Yannick Gingras would be driving in all five Oaks wins.

2015 – Wild Honey, the $4.60 favorite, scores by a length and 3/4s. She is a daughter of Cantab Hall, giving him two straight Oaks. Muscle Hill was on deck to take the next three Oaks.

2016 – All The Time by 3 and 3/4 lengths at $9.20 as the third choice.

2017 – Ariana G wins by 4 and 3/4 lengths, the largest margin of any of Takter's eight Oaks – and also pays the least $2.40 (Note: 13 of the 48 Oaks have been decided by a nose-head or a neck).

2018 – Manchego sets the Oaks record of 1:50, and goes faster than the boys and girls did in the Hambletonian (either heat or the final). Her time was the fastest mile in the history of either the Hambletonian or the Oaks. Yannick and Jimmy post their fifth straight, all for $500,000, and she returned $4.20 as the second choice. Phaetosive (2nd) was the slight post time favorite.

The last six Oaks are the fastest six Oaks in Hambletonian history – five of them Jimmy's. Bee A Magician in 1:51 in 2013 for trainer Nifty Norman is the other won. He also won the Oaks with Personal Style in 2012.

Takter's average payoff for the five wins was $8.40. Only Brian Sears was second to one of his winners twice, with Magic Presto in 2017 and with Designed To Be in 2014.

Both Jimmy and Woody are Hall Of Famers and legendary figures in their sports. D Wayne Lukas in 1994-1995-1996 is the only trainer to win three straight Belmonts since. Nobody ever took more than three in a row prior.

New to the list this week, the colt is undefeated in five attempts this year. Unraced at two, he has burst on the scene in formidable fashion. To be honest, I trained his second and third dams, both impressive stakes winners, and in my mind, I thought the pedigree was a little old fashioned. I was soooooo wrong. The competition in the Goodtimes where he won the fastest division on Friday at Mohawk left a little to be desired, but the 1:52 mile was very impressive.

Another new kid of the block. I give great credit to Determination and Blais for selecting this colt from the great mare Pure Ivory. He sold as the fifth foal of the mare and she has not had a foal that has a race record and the two that raced earned $1,835. Great buy. Very talented youngster. The colt did race very well in his Goodtimes division, finishing with a sizzling :26.3 last quarter. He beat Swandre The Giant off pedestrian fractions. The Indiana champion had no excuse except the 26-second last quarter. I can't really understand that Swandre is the early Hambletonian futures favorite. The colt has never won a race outside the confines of the state of Indiana.

Tim Tetrick scores 11,000th career win in NA Cup eliminations

by Mark McKelvie / Woodbine communications

The field is set for the 36th Pepsi North America Cup following a pair of $50,000 eliminations on Saturday night at Woodbine Mohawk Park that yielded Tim Tetrick's 11,000th career driving victory.

Bettors Wish and Workin Ona Mystery captured the elimination contests to earn the right to select their post position in the $1 million final. The top five finishers from each split advanced to Canada's richest standardbred race.

The first elimination took an unexpected turn when favourite Captain Crunch made a break entering the first-turn, which opened the door for Bettors Wish and driver Dexter Dunn.

Dave Landry

Workin Ona Mystery scored a career-best 1:49 victory for Tetrick and trainer Brian Brown.

Air Force Hanover got around a breaking Captain Crunch to post an opening-quarter of :26.2. Bettors Wish and Dunn circled to the top from second entering the backstretch. Hurrikane Emperor made a backside rush from fourth and led by a neck at the half in :56.2, before clearing as they hit the far turn.

Captain Crunch reset after his first-turn break and grinded away on the outside through the middle-half, sitting third at three-quarters. Hurrikane Emperor paced a :26.3 third-quarter to lead into the lane.

In the stretch, Bettors Wish shot up the inside on Hurrikane Emperor to win in a career-best 1:49.3. De Los Cielos Deo rallied from eighth with an incredible :25 final quarter to finish second by a length. Best In Show came from sixth to finish third. Hurrikane Emperor battled to finish fourth, while Captain Crunch made the final by gutting out a fifth-place finish.

Trained by Chris Ryder, Bettors Wish came into his Cup elimination undefeated in three starts this season. The son of Bettors Delight had most recently crushed his rivals in the $300,000 Art Rooney.

"The good thing about this horse is he is so versatile where he seems to be able to handle whatever is going on around him," said Dunn of Bettors Wish after seeing Captain Crunch make a break. "He's the kind of horse that makes you feel full of confidence when you sit behind him.

"Coming into today we had a really good draw, but we were up against a hot field, so you never know, but like I said he's versatile and gives you a lot of confidence.”

Bettors Wish now sports career numbers of nine wins and $550,488 earned for owners Ryder, Bella Racing Limited, Fair Island Farm Inc. and Kenneth Solomon.

A $2 win ticket on the Ontario-sired Bettors Wish returned $8.60.

Tetrick recorded the milestone victory in the second Cup elimination with Workin Ona Mystery.

Trained by Brian Brown, Workin Ona Mystery grabbed the lead in the second-quarter and powered away to a career-best 1:49 victory to give Tetrick his 11,000th career victory.

“I want to say this win is for my father. I hope he’s doing good and watching back home,” said Tetrick following the victory. “I’ve come a long way from a small town in southern Illinois. I’ve been very fortunate and hopefully this isn’t my last milestone.”

A son of Captaintreacherous, Workin Ona Mystery improved to three for three this season with the elimination victory. The Brown trainee has only suffered one loss in nine career starts and has amassed $183,817 in earnings for owners Diamond Creek Racing, Stambaugh Leeman Stable, Alan Keith and Wingfield Brothers LLC.

“He likes to race and every time I put him up close he can just go forever it seems like,” said Tetrick. “Brian (Brown) said he was ready and most of his always are ready and he wasn’t lying, colt raced super, big mile.”

A $2 win ticket on Workin Ona Mystery returned $3.70.

Brown trainee Air Force Hanover, who finished sixth in the first elimination, won the draw to be the also eligible in next Saturday’s final.

The post-position draw for next Saturday’s $1 million final will take place Tuesday afternoon during a special luncheon at Woodbine Mohawk Park.

by Ayers Ratliff / Northfield Park

None Bettor A ($6.60), a newcomer from Down Under continues to take the U.S. by storm, winning the $200,000 Battle of Lake Erie in 1:49. The 1:49 clocking tied the all-age track record at Northfield Park.

Saturday's victory marks the sixth straight sub-1:50 victory for the 6-year-old Bettor's Delight gelding. Bettor's Delight had a great racing career in North America and is the dominant sire in Australia.

Joe Bongiorno drove None Bettor A for his sister Jennifer Bongiorno, who trains the pacer for co-owners and long-time Billings Amateur Drivers, Joe P Racing LLC (Joe Pennachio) of Florida and Steve Oldford of Michigan.

None Bettor A started from post six and fired to the lead from the gate and remained in control the entire mile through fractions of :26.4, :55, 1:22 and 1:49, besting his closest rival by 1 ¼-lengths.

"He (None Bettor A) feels good and does everything on his own," said Joe Bongiorno. "He puts his head down and really has fun out there."

None Bettor A (Bettor's Delight—Limerick Star—Christian Cullen) increased his career bankroll to $229,245 by taking home the lion's share of the healthy $200,000 purse.

Completing the 2019 Battle field were Jimmy Freight, Southwind Amazon, The Wall, Filibuster Hanover, Bully Pulpit, Rodeo Rock and Always A Prince.

Fans looking to follow the Aussie Phenom need to keep their ears open.

"I'm not sure where we go from here. He is not staked at all," said Joe Bongiorno. "Hopefully he continues to get invited to races like this one, and I'm not even sure how many of these Invites there are."

Until they figure out their next move Joe will be happy with Saturday's Battle win.

"We work very hard and this horse is giving us a shot that I feel we deserve," said Bongiorno. "This is going to be a special horse."

Sophomore pacing fillies battled on Saturday evening's card at Woodbine Mohawk Park in the eliminations of the Fan Hanover.

A group of 19 3-year-old pacing fillies were split into a pair of $35,000 eliminations. The top-five finishers from each advanced to next week's $454,000 final.

Treacherous Reign overcame a post 10 start to win the first elimination in a career-best 1:50. The Tony Alagna trainee and driver Dexter Dunn fired from the far outside to get away fourth and made a second-quarter move to the top.

Sent off as the public's top-choice, Treacherous Reign posted fractions of :56 and 1:23.2 before sprinting home in :26.3 to win by 2 ½ lengths. Beautyonthebeach finish second, while Trillions Hanover was third. The top five was completed by Deb and St Somewhere.

"(Dexter Dunn) said she just gets over the ground so easy that you don't even realize what she's doing," said Alagna. "He said she had plenty of go and grabbed up down by the wire, which is how you want any elimination to go."

A daughter of Captaintreacherous, Treacherous Reign is now three for three this season. The Pennsylvania Sires Stakes standout has won seven of 15 career starts, earning nearly $290,000 for owners Alagna Racing LLC, Big Als Stables, Let It Ride Stables Inc. and Dana Parham.

A $2 win ticket on Treacherous Reign returned $3.90.

Dan Patch Award winner Warrawee Ubeaut captured the second division by also making a second-quarter move to the top and never looking back.

Driven by Yannick Gingras, Warrawee Ubeaut grabbed command after being parked fourth at the quarter. The Ron Burke trainee posted fractions of :55.3 and 1:22.4 before sprinting home in :26.2 to win by a length and three-quarters in 1:49.1.

"I knew I was going to be maybe first up from fifth or sixth, which was too far to come, so just let her grind her way to the front and she took care of the rest," said Gingras. "I think tonight she was good as she's been. 1:49.1 here, as easy as she did it tonight, it's a scary mile."

Tall Drink Hanover finished second, while Stonebridge Soul was third. Beach Bar and Powerful Chris completed the top-five.

A daughter of Sweet Lou, Warrawee Ubeaut is now three for three this season. The Ron Burke trainee has won 10 of 15 career starts to earn over $721,115 for owners Burke Racing Stable LLC, Phillip Collura, JandT Silva Purnel & Libb, Weaver Brusceci LLC.

Warrawee Ubeaut paid $3.60.

The post-position draw for the $454,000 Fan Hanover final took place following the eliminations.

1. Tall Drink Hanover
  2. Deb
  3. Treacherous Reign
  4. Warrawee Ubeaut
  5. Trillions Hanover
  6. St Somewhere
  7. Powerful Chris

A perfect trip for Milligan's School

by Thomas Hedlund

Stefan Melander-trained Milligan's School (Yankee Glide) was the answer when $145,000 Jämtlands Stora Pris was held at Östersund racetrack in Sweden on Saturday afternoon.

And it was a perfect trip, signed by Carl Johan Jepson, that established the prestigious victory.

Two contenders from this year's Elitloppet entered Jämtlands Stora Pris 2019 and the story of the race had indeed two main characters in Double Exposure and Milligan's School.

Double Exposure flew when the car left the field of nine horses in the 1.3 miles long race and Örjan Kihlström seemed to have everything under control pretty soon after the first turn. But an early attack from Volnik du Kras and driver Jorma Kontio made the race more spectacular than it seemed to be after the first quarter and Mindyourvalue W.F., who was parked outside leader, was given command to defend the position, at least for a couple of hundred meters before Robert Bergh decided to let Volnik du Kras pass him by. But at that point, the Italian-bred Volnik du Kras lost focus and couldn't really make Double Exposure company on the outside and the pace in the race was very irregular.

Carl Johan Jepson sat behind the leader with Milligan's School and when horses attacked three wide at the back stretch, the field started to disunite whereupon Milligan's

School got the space he needed to get out of his locked position.

Double Exposure defended herself well, but couldn't give more when Milligan's School's finish was too strong. The 6-year-old Yankee Glide son collected his second big win in north of Sweden within a year. Last year, he won the $212,000 Sundsvall Open Trot at Bergsåker and finished second to Propulsion in the $424,000 final of Masters at Östersund.

Mile rate for Milligan's School was 1:54.1 over 1.3 miles and Double Exposure held to second place ahead of Sweden Cup winner Queer Fish.

Track record at Vincennes

Elitloppet runner up, Aubrion du Gers (Memphis du Rib) was back in France and Vincennes on Saturday afternoon and Jean-Michel Bazire's gelding chased the victory as first choice in $113,000 Prix Chambon P. The 1.8 miles long race became a speedy story where leader Traders kept the pace at high level throughout the race. Aubrion du Gers followed as third horse and Jean-Michel Bazire left inside position for first over with 5/8ths of a mile to go. Aubrion du Gers couldn't really get control of the leader until the home stretch, when Traders lost his gait and got out of stride. Carat Williams followed behind Aubrion du Gers and seemed to be a serious challenger when he as well made a break and disappeared.

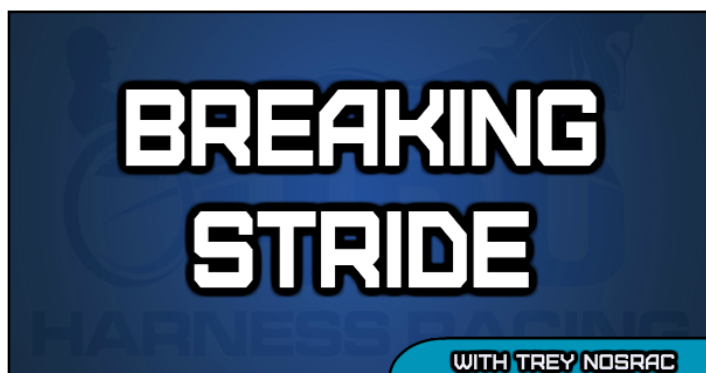

At that point, Aubrion du Gers was the winner in many fans' eyes, but far outside Tony Gio (Varenne) attacked quickly and driver Eric Raffin managed to put his horse's nose first at the wire in mile rate 1:55.2, which is a tangent off the track record over the particular distance.

Sébastien Gurato trains the Italian bred 7-year-old Varenne son.

Aubrion du Gers finished second and Anzi des Liards third.

Behind the Masks

The Real Life Ventures and Adventures of Trey and Batman

by Trey Nosrac

You may be alarmed to learn that aside from pseudonyms, literary license, and occasional exaggerations, this column is 94.7 per cent true.

Trey does indeed participate in harness racing at the fringes. Among his various escapades, he is a gambler, an owner, and a breeder of trotters. He operates on a small scale. Fiscal challenges keep him an enthusiastic minnow, not a whale. The horses referenced are real. The events in these rambles have usually happened, or are happening in real time. Trey is just a person who enjoys the sport, not an expert or insider. You probably know more about this sport than him...er...me.

Batman is the nom de plume of another real person, exactly the type of person we would like to see join our harness racing ranks... alive and with money. He enjoys many sports, has an impressive financial portfolio, and is very technologically literate. He is extremely analytical, retired, relocated, and inquisitive.

Despite dragging him to barns, breeding centers, horseraces, constantly bending his ear, and making him read this ridiculous column each week, he resists the charms of our beloved preoccupation. He has never owned or gambled on harness horses.

We are complete opposites in many respects but we are civil. I do not grab him by the lapels and scream, "Gamble on horse races, purchase a trotting yearling with me, get involved, and have fun."

This is more than mere civility; he is tall and quite fit. For his part, he does not furrow his brow, point his finger at my nose, and say, "You're stupid for tossing your money and time away on horses pulling goofy carts in circles."

Jokes aside, and we do banter, something keeps me in our game, and something keeps him out of our game. Whatever drew me in has not enticed him. Much of the dialogue on this site is an attempt by me to go deeper into the mind of a non-believer, to look at our sport with new, fresh eyes and a mind not infected with the racing virus.

Here is a recent example of some repartee -

After a rambling preamble, I asked him a simple question.

"Gambling on the races and owning horses are thinking games. They are intriguing to me, but you avoid them the same way I avoid gainful employment. I try to put myself in your head to figure out why you do not get involved. Here is a simple list of obstacles that might stop you from joining me in the world of trotters and pacers. Give me one of these that I can work with..."

One by one, I ran through a list, "Losing money... animal rights... cheating... drugs... time.... learning curve... feeling like it is too complicated or too intimidating."

He thought for a second and replied, "Learning curve is directly related to time involved, since like Sgt. Schultz, 'I know nuthink!' The data you pour over is intimidating. A newbie would be throwing money away trying to compete with buyers or gamblers who have in-depth knowledge of the sport. “

With a frown, I shot back, “I asked you for ONE reason, you gave me five smackdowns. I see that your conversion to the dark side will not be easy. Let us take, ‘I know nuthink,’ which, by the way, was not even on the list. To me, this reason does not abide. In my delusional world, NOT knowing anything is the best part. Nobody knows anything before they know something.”

I said, “Four years ago, I did not know anything about Snooker. I never saw a frame or a match. I didn’t know the rules, didn’t know a single player, didn’t know the Crucible from a containing safety to bulk at dead weight using the spider. Today, I am quite snooker literate. I don’t sacrifice my other vices, I just add to the list. I can vouch for the concept that spending massive amounts of time and money as an ignorant fool is quite refreshing.”

He turned the table and asked, “So why did you get interested in snooker?”

This made me pause, “I don’t know, I think I stumbled across the game on a YouTube video. No wait, wait, now I remember, it was a magazine article, a New York Times article about a snooker player with an unusual backstory. The article made the player out to be some sort of genius savant. After I read the story, I went to YouTube to see him in action and to see what the sport was all about. I watched a few matches. That got the snooker ball rolling. Things snowballed from there.”

He just nodded.

I got philosophical, “You know, these are amazing times we live in. Twenty years ago, I would have read that article about snooker and it goes nowhere. Today, without leaving the couch, you can go deep into a new sport or hobby. My quest is to lead you deep into harness horse racing.”

He shook his head, “An impossible quest my friend, you are tilting at a windmill.”

“Hey man, windmills are what we do in harness racing. Plus, you may recall that Don Quixote wound up on a horse named Rocinante and his pal, Sancho Panza, rode a donkey named Dapple. They had legendary adventures – just saying.”

Philly Hanover sets stakes record in PASS at The Meadows

Philly Hanover barreled to the lead at the quarter and didn't stop pouring it on until she set a track record 1:49.2 in Saturday's $168,074 Pennsylvania Sires Stake at The Meadows. The event for 3-year-old filly pacers, known as the Adios Betty, was contested over three divisions, with Sylph Hanover and Odds On St Lucie taking the other splits. Dexter Dunn enjoyed a PASS double behind Philly Hanover and Odds On St. Lucie.

Ron Coyne, Jr., who trains Philly Hanover for Ron Coyne Stables and Blair Corbell, praised Philly Hanover's versatility in a pre-race interview, but what he saw Saturday from the daughter of Captain Treacherous—Paris Hanover was a combination of speed and power that may vault her to the ranks of divisional leaders.

"That's her biggest, strongest effort to date," Coyne said. "She settled there a little bit and waited for the dust to clear and was obviously pretty strong. She had a good week, so I'm glad it showed up."

Abigail Dawn was second, 3-3/4 lengths back, with Sweet Heaven third. The time erased the previous stake mark of 1:49.4 established by Darlinonthebeach in 2016, and it also is the fastest this year by a sophomore filly pacer on a five-eighths-mile track.

It was the second win in as many PASS starts this year for Philly Hanover, who vaulted over $200,000 in lifetime earnings and will be pointed to the Lynch.

Pennsylvania's juvenile champion, Sylph Hanover got off to a rocky start this year with three straight losses, a performance that persuaded trainer Ron Burke that she wasn't ready for Saturday's lucrative Fan Hanover at Woodbine Mohawk.

"That was impressive," Burke said. "She's turned things around. Maybe we should have gone to the Fan Hanover, but this gets us points for the PASS final and preps her good for the Lynch."

The daughter of Somebeachsomewhere—She's A Fan appeared to turn a corner in the PASS, as she quarter-poled to the point for Matt Kakaley and overwhelmed the field, defeating Rockin Philly by 3 lengths in a career-best 1:50.4. Afraid Not Hanover completed the ticket.

Sylph Hanover extended her career bankroll to $371,234 for Burke Racing Stable, William Switala, James Martin and Joseph Critelli.

Saturday's card also featured a $60,000 PA Stallion Series event for 3-year-old filly pacers. The stake turned out to be a showcase for Dave Palone and trainer Chris Oakes, who swept the three divisions with Annie Hill, Blue Ivy and Demi Hill — all daughters of Captain Treacherous.

Blue Ivy got the trio off on the right foot with a stake-record 1:51 victory, lowering the 1:51.3 mark Brazuca set in 2017. That new mark lasted about 15 minutes, as Annie Hill sprang to the lead from post 2 and held off the late challenge of A Beach Cowgirl to down her by 1-1/4 lengths in 1:50.3. What A Fox was third.

"I kept her to her task," Palone said. "She's a lazy filly, but every time I asked on her, she was willing."

Tom Hill campaigns Annie Hill, who now boasts $120,507 in career earnings. Palone finished with four wins on the 14-race program.

Engblom enjoys big day at Big M qualifiers

Per Engblom's stable got off to a strong start at Saturday's second edition of Breakfast with the Babies at The Meadowlands, and kept the good times rolling through the morning. Engblom won six times, dominating the eight-race trotting portion of the card for 2-year-olds.

"It was a very good day," Engblom said. "I thought we had prepared them good enough, especially my trotting fillies. They've been training great all winter. I had high hopes for them. The colts also came out nice."

"We've got good horses, so they're supposed to look good when they come out. I was happy with pretty much everything."

There was a total of 13 qualifiers for 2-year-olds Saturday, with all but five horses in those races making their debuts. In addition to Engblom, trainers Tony Alagna and Ray Schnittker were multiple winners, with two victories each.

Schnittker picked up a win with filly pacer Rodeo Beach, a full sister to Dan Patch Award-winner Huntsville, who was the best in a contentious stretch drive for driver Mark MacDonald in 1:57.1, final quarter :27.1.

"I thought she went very well," Schnittker said. "She was a little green, running out in the stretch. But she's a nice filly. She's got a lot of speed. I think she'll be a good one. All of them (from her family) have got speed. She's probably a little better gaited than some of them. She's nice. It was a good day."

One of Alagna's wins came with colt pacer Its Showtime, a son of Captaintreacherous out of Breeders Crown champion Uffizi Hanover who won by four lengths in 1:54.3 in his first trip to a qualifier. He came home with a :26.4 final quarter with Andy McCarthy in the sulky.

"It was very nice," Alagna said. "The colt trained down well all winter. He (qualified) well in hand. He gets a little lazy on the front, he's actually a much better horse from off the pace, so (McCarthy) was just keeping his attention. He had plenty left in the tank. It was a really nice mile for him."

Following is a race-by-race recap of the 2-year-old qualifiers:

Ms Savannah Belle, a trotting filly bred and owned by Al Libfeld, got the day started with a 1:58.1 win. The daughter of Muscle Hill out of O'Brien Award-winner Stubborn Belle was third during the first half but moved to the lead at three-quarters and marched to victory with a :27 final panel for driver Yannick Gingras and trainer Engblom.

Engblom-trained filly Munster won the second qualifier in 2:01 with a final quarter of :28. Driven by Tim Tetrick, Munster was second through the opening quarter and inherited the lead when Mission Us went off stride just prior to the half. Munster is a daughter of Chapter Seven out of Richesse Oblige S bred by Blue Chip Bloodstock, Herbert Burns III, and Jacob Kiefer. She was purchased for $175,000 under the name Robin Blue Chip at the Standardbred Horse Sale and is owned by Black Horse Racing and Wiesman Farms.

Engblom's stable made it a sweep of the filly trots when Hello Tomorrow won the third qualifier in 1:58.3 with a :28 final quarter. Hello Tomorrow, driven by Gingras, is a daughter of Muscle Hill out of Armbro Deja Vu and half-sister to millionaire Dejarmbro. She was purchased for $380,000 at the Standardbred Horse Sale and is owned by Brixton Medical Inc., Hatfield Stables, Marvin Katz, and Lynn Katz. She was bred by Fair Winds Farm.

When 2-year-old male trotters took center stage in the fourth qualifier, Engblom showed no signs of slowing down. King Slayer, driven by Gingras, won with a stretch move to pass Sheena Soldier in 1:59.4, final quarter in :28.4. King Slayer is a son of Father Patrick out of Forever Graceful from the family of 2010 Hambletonian winner Muscle Massive. He was purchased for $135,000 at the Lexington Selected Sale. He was bred by Al Libfeld and Marvin Katz and is owned by John Fielding, Herb Liverman, Renato Bruni, and Alfonso Cesarano.

Engblom was without a starter in the fifth qualifier, which went to Andrew Harris-trained colt trotter Sixteen and driver Scott Zeron in 2:02.2 with a final quarter :28. Sixteen is a son of Donato Hanover out of Met's Inn and a half-brother to millionaire Met's Hall. He was purchased for $160,000 at the Lexington Selected Sale and is owned by Howard Taylor, James Walker, and Hutt Racing Stable. He was bred by Winbak Farm.

Engblom picked up his fifth winner in the sixth, when colt trotter Synergy and driver Gingras led at every call and held off Take The Credit in the stretch for a 2:00.3 score with :28.1 final quarter. Synergy is a son of Father Patrick out of Southwind Sauna from the family of O'Brien Award-winner Federal Flex. He was purchased for $275,000 at the Lexington Selected Sale and is owned by Brittany Farms, John Fielding, Herb Liverman, and David Anderson. He was bred by Southwind Farms.

Win No. 6 for Engblom followed with colt trotter Staro Onthe Rocks S in the seventh qualifier. Staro Onthe Rocks and Gingras won in 2:03.1, final quarter :28.2. The colt is a son of Conway Hall out of Stunning Lindsey and a half-brother to millionaire Sevruga. He was bred by Staffan Nilsson and is owned by Crawford Farms Racing and James Crawford.

Qualifier eight was won by Staffan Lind-trained and Christian Lind-driven colt trotter Hennessy Am S in 2:01 with a :28.1 final quarter. Hennessy is a son of Muscle Hill out of Crysti Dream. The $100,000 Lexington Selected Sale buy is owned by Lind Racing Stable, Acadia Farms, Jonathan Klee Racing, and Pegasis Investment Group. He was bred by AM Bloodstock.

Two-year-old filly pacers hit the track for the day's next two qualifiers. Caviart Jane stormed home with a :26.3 final quarter to win the ninth in 1:58.1. The filly was driven by Zeron for trainer Nancy Johansson and owners Caviart Farms and Christina Takter. The White Birch Farm-bred daughter of Captaintreacherous out of Act Now was purchased under the name Treacherous Act for $100,000 at the Lexington Selected Sale.

Rodeo Beach, a full sister to Dan Patch Award-winner Huntsville, was the best in a contentious stretch drive and captured the 10th for driver Mark MacDonald and trainer Ray Schnittker in 1:57.1, final quarter :27.1. The daughter of Somebeachsomewhere out of Wild West Show was bred by Schnittker and Charlie Iannazzo. She is owned by Schnittker, Mary Kinsey Arnold, and Paul Bordogna.

Male pacers closed out the 2-year-old portion of the card, with Tony Alagna-trained Its Showtime living up to his name with a 1:54.3 romp, final quarter in :26.4. Andy McCarthy drove Its Showtime, a son of Captaintreacherous out of Uffizi Hanover. Bred by Al Libfeld, Marvin Katz, and Sam Goldband, the colt is owned by Alagnafrankinthegym Stable, Joe Sbrocco, Katz, and LeBlanc and Head Partners. He was purchased for $150,000 at the Lexington Selected Sale.

Alagna-trained Chief Mate, also driven by McCarthy, won the 12th, leading from gate to wire in 1:55.1, final quarter :26.3. Chief Mate is a son of Captaintreacherous out of Heaven Forbid. He was purchased for $150,000 at the Lexington Selected Sale and is owned by breeder Brittany Farms, Marvin Katz, Brad Grant, and Captain Kirk Racing.

Splash Brother, who was a 1:54.3 winner in last week's qualifiers, returned Saturday for a 1:54.2 triumph, final quarter in :26.3. The Schnittker-trained colt was driven by MacDonald for owners Schnittker, Nolamaura Racing, Steven Arnold, and Tammy Ann Flannery. The son of So Surreal out of Sugarcoated was bred by Steve Jones and sold for $30,000 at the Goshen Yearling Sale.

Following the 2-year-olds, there were four additional qualifiers for horses ages 3 and older. Past Hambletonian winner Marion Marauder, the 2016 Trotter of the Year, and driver Zeron defeated one of this year's Hambletonian hopefuls, Green Manalishi S, in 1:53.1 with a :26.3 final quarter. The 6-year-old Marion Marauder, trained by Paula Wellwood and Mike Keeling, is preparing for his 2019 debut.

Other winners were 3-year-old trotting filly American Kronos for trainer Julie Miller in 1:54.2, 4-year-old pacing stallion Nutcracker Sweet for trainer Tom Cancelliere in 1:50.4, and 5-year-old gelding pacer Allunedisfaith N for trainer Ross Croghan in 1:53.
