Christmas in June

The weekly Breakfast With The Babies program of baby races at The Big M provides one of the first opportunities to see what horses are and might become. Connections are filled with anticipation as if it's Christmas morning.

What's a good description for The Meadowlands' Breakfast With The Babies?

"It's a little bit like Christmas for a little child," said Hall of Famer Jimmy Takter. "We've been working and waiting and here comes Christmastime and we have our presents. It's a nice present. Excitement is up. Sometimes you get disappointed. Sometimes you get surprised."

On Saturday, June 19 at The Meadowlands, there were two qualifiers sandwiched around 15 baby races.

Takter was there supporting his daughter, Nancy, who had 22 starters that morning and he drove in four races for her, winning two.

With nearly one-third of her barn competing, it was impossible not to admire what a well-oiled machine Nancy's stable is. In all, Team Takter won nine races, including one driven by second-trainer Josert Fonseca, who is excited to finally be bringing the babies to the track.

to them since they were broken and seeing them get better and better every day," said Fonseca. "And then, finally, you get to this time of year and you get to see what you've done all winter and see if you've done a good job or not. A lot of them surprise you and a lot of them disappoint you. You don't know. This is where you find out."

Trainer Marcus Melander, who had nine in that day, prefers to race his babies at The Meadowlands.

"It's such a nice track," said Melander. "The surface and the track itself, the long straightaways. I think it's the best place to baby race. Ninety-nine per cent we baby race here."

For drivers, being available at Big M baby races can give them the edge when it comes to landing that special horse.

"It's where all the really good ones qualify, so sometimes you might just luck out and be Johnny-on-the-spot," said Mark MacDonald. "It has worked out in the past where you just happen to be in the right place, right time. This business is like life, timing is everything."

Since driver Todd McCarthy, a native Australian, has been here less than a year, Breakfast With The Babies is brand new, but no worries, he's a fast learner.

"I feel like I'm catching up pretty quick and getting the hang of things with the babies and how it works here," said McCarthy. "I've been lucky enough to sit behind some nice ones and it's really exciting. I think the most exciting thing about babies is that no one really knows. There are certainly nice ones at the start of the season but then there are ones that can look a little mediocre and then they jump out of the ground halfway through the season. So, it's just an exciting time to try and get one you get a good feel for and hope that it can take you through the season."

Fellow expat driver Dexter Dunn was introduced to baby racing when he visited the U.S. in the summer of 2011.

"As far as babies go, it couldn't be more different back home [in New Zealand]," said Dunn. "The first 2-year-old qualifier, there might be three in it and there might be one for the day. Nobody really rushes the 2-year-olds back home."

Even though sometimes it may be hard to do, driver Scott Zeron has learned to keep his emotions in check when it comes to driving babies.

"I used to get super excited, even training them down to two minutes, and then I've just had so many disappoint and so many that were disappointing turn into the ones that were great, so now I just take it in stride," said Zeron.

For driver Yannick Gingras this is a fun time of year, but he tries to stay focused on the present.

"I don't like to look too far ahead," said Gingras. "They could get hurt the next week. I take it one week at a time. You definitely get excited about some, but I'm not looking three years ahead."

In addition to talking about first-time sires like New Jersey's Walner and New York's Devious Man and Huntsville, the main theme of the day was teaching.

"What we do here on the Saturdays, and what I like to do is strictly educational," said Zeron. "No showing off, nothing like that. I don't want to find the bottom of their lungs. It's strictly educational, because if I can educate them in qualifiers, they're going to be really easy for me to race in a race."

"If I do the opposite and try and see what I've got in the tank in qualifiers, it might be very impressive out there, but when it comes time to race, I will feel the wrath of what I did at qualifiers. They will be fast, but uneducated."

Like Zeron, trainer Julie Miller is also all about educating her babies. She won that morning with Gertrude, a daughter of Devious Man, driven by her husband, Andy.

"To me, my biggest thing is that they mind their manners, trot or pace super and finish with go," said Miller. "It's like taking that kindergartener to school the first time. You hand them off to the teacher and hope for the best."

And you didn't have to be a trainer or driver to enjoy the morning's festivities.

David Reid, a baby race aficionado, had the past performances pulled up on his iPad and was totally immersed in the goings on.

"I think from an educational point of view, a big track is probably good for the young ones to get their confidence," said Reid. "They're going to come to their speed a lot quicker here than any other racetrack. The best drivers, the best racetrack, a mile racetrack, a lot of positives and that's so exciting for sure. The only negative I would say is if you come here to The Meadowlands, you better be ready to roll the second week. The first week they give you a little pass but the second week you better be ready to roll."

Reid is conflicted because in addition to being an owner, he's a sales manager, syndicate manager, consigns horses and represents a lot of breeders.

"They are babies, that's why they call it Breakfast With The Babies, but on the other hand it's time for some of the more mature ones to step up and perform. But it's a balancing act. It's a long year."

Northwood Bloodstock Agency's Bob Boni spent time in both the paddock and with some owners outside on the second-floor grandstand.

"There might be some we sold or some we bred," said Boni. "You want to see your next good horses, hopefully."

Although maybe not as crowded as in past years, there were people at nearly a dozen tables, including owner/breeder Timothy Hauser of Hauser Brothers Racing Enterprises LLC and Alan and Steven Katz of 3 Brothers Stables.

Hauser's main goal is a good experience for his babies.

"For a qualifier or even their first pari-mutuel race, slow and steady, pass a horse, pack it in, go home," said Hauser. "You've only got so many bullets in the gun, especially with a 2-year-old. In my brain, my gun holds eight bullets and you don't want to waste a bullet on a qualifier."

The Katz brothers always enjoy being outside watching the baby races, especially when it's one of their homebreds.

JK I Feel Fine, whose dam JK Fine Art is a sister to JK She'salady, was one of Takter's nine winners that morning.

"We don't care if we win qualifiers," said Alan Katz. "Just to educate them, not abuse them and hopefully make a racehorse. These are the major leagues, it's put up or shut up now, training is over. When you buy a baby, if you don't think it could be a world champion, then don't buy it. If you can't dream, what are you doing in the business?"

American Courage flies under radar into tonight's Messenger Stakes

by Brett Sturman

Having raced almost exclusively in New York state in his young career to date, American Courage (American Ideal–Nota Fool Bluechip) is a colt that not many outside of those circles may be intimately familiar. Owned by Fiddler's Creek Stables LLC from Michigan, American Courage's trainer Travis Alexander thinks that's about to change big time.

Entered into the first of two Messenger Stakes eliminations tonight (June 25) at Yonkers, American Courage drew into the more contentious of the two divisions. While presumptive Messenger favorite Abuckabett Hanover drew into the second elimination and should go off at odds of about 1-5 coupled with stablemate Exploit, the first elimination is highly competitive. In that race, New York Sire Stakes (NYSS) star American Courage will get his first true taste of open stakes competition going against last year's Governor's Cup winner Always A Miki, a former Pennsylvania Sire Stakes (PASS) winner in Chase H Hanover, and a couple of strong invaders from Ohio who are also testing the open stakes waters, Heart of Chewbacca and Charlie May.

In a normal stakes calendar, American Courage likely would have already raced against these types in Canada. But with the shift in Woodbine Mohawk Park stakes, the Messenger becomes the first opportunity to see he matches up against a group that includes not only North America Cup eligibles, but also Meadowlands Pace eligibles.

Asked how American Courage measures up and his path to get here, Alexander said, "He's done everything right; he's done everything we've asked. COVID in Canada threw everyone a monkey wrench, with the North America Cup and Somebeachsomewhere stakes having to be moved (to late August and early September). That's what changed his schedule and I wasn't going to take him to Buffalo for New York Sires. It was too risky, and the risk-reward wasn't there. But I think he stacks up better than anyone realizes. Matt (Kakaley) and I are the only two that really know how good he is, and I think everyone else is going to see (tonight)."

Even if American Courage attracts betting attention tonight off his 5-1 programmed line – which he probably will – he likely still won't go off as the race favorite. That would be only the second time in his career that's occurred, with the other time being his first start this year. In that race, a division of the Reynolds stake at Yonkers, American Courage was dismissed at almost 4-1 against the Chris Ryder-trained and fellow Messenger starter I'll Drink To That, who was bet down to 1-5. American Courage won handily that night, though Alexander doesn't put much stock into the odds of the two horses from that night.

"I wasn't really surprised (by the odds) because I'll Drink To That had already raced, and raced well," said Alexander. "I don't look at or worry about the odds as much as focusing on my own horse and how he responded, and Matt said he had a lot left in the tank that night. That was just off one qualifier, too. He's much fitter now than he was then. He's coming into this race excellent, and he trained an amazing mile this past Saturday. Every time I tighten the ratchet he responds in spades. I don't know how high his ceiling is to be honest with you but it's fun because he's amazing."

With a possible prep in NYSS at Buffalo out, American Courage enters his Messenger elimination on the heels of a career best 1:49.4 mile, taken almost two weeks ago at Pocono Downs. In that win against older rivals, Alexander got out of that race exactly what was needed.

"I never really tell Matt what to do, but I did just tell him that we can't lull around there in 1:53," said Alexander. "And he just did it from there. That was the easiest kind of 1:49-type mile you could hope for; he was on cruise control."

Though American Courage has raced only on smaller-sized ovals, Alexander has no doubt of the colt's ability to race on the big tracks.

"I hate to keep saying it because I don't want to get ahead of myself," he said. "We train down on a mile track in Florida at Sunshine Meadows, he's been on a mile track. Without sounding arrogant, they have no idea what this horse can do and he's going to open some eyes on a mile track."

For future races, Alexander said that as long as American Courage can prove to him that he can go with the open sophomore division, then his path would include those types of races over New York Sire Stakes. The trainer said he is frustrated by the scheduling.

"New York's schedule is horrendous," said Alexander. "He may not even see a New York Sire Stake because they conflict with all of the other major races. He'll see the Empire Breeders at the end of August and that's it."

Just as he's staked this year for the North America Cup, American Courage was staked last year to another major stake at Woodbine Mohawk in the Metro stakes, but his 2-year-old season came to an end shortly before that in a total puzzler in the $225,000 NYSS final at Yonkers.

The only time he's ever been beaten in 10 career starts, American Courage came to a stop that night when setting a seemingly comfortable pace on the lead. It was widely reported at that time that a virus had run through Alexander's barn prior, but that American Courage and trained back good for the final. "We still don't know definitively what happened," said Alexander. "It wasn't an A-fib, his blood work and everything else came back good, it was one of the weirdest things. One of our vets who bases out of Lexington had some thoroughbreds do the same thing where they were coming off a virus and when they push their hearts faltered. But we still don't really know for sure what happened, and we've done everything to try to figure it out. It might have just been a fluke and he picked a bad time to have a bad day."

With that race long since behind him, American Courage is strong coming into the Messenger. If he can pass this week's elimination test, even tougher challenges could loom in next week's final at which point we'll continue to see just how good he really is.

Brad Conrad

Rock N Republic (Josh Sutton) won his Ohio Sires Stakes test on June 19 at Scioto Downs impressively in 1:51.3.

Rock N Republic goes from fair circuit to promising Ohio Sires Stakes horse

by James Platz

Rock N Republic won half of his 12 freshman starts in 2020 while racing primarily on the Ohio fair circuit for owner Dossie Minor. In limited attempts at Northfield, Scioto and Dayton, a trip to the winner's circle eluded the young pacer. It may have been a blessing in disguise, as the gelded son of Pet Rock—My Juliana's Girl used a non-winners of one series to launch into sires stakes last week, winning impressively with a 1:51.3 performance for driver Josh Sutton on June 19.

Last season, Rock N Republic was campaigned by Ronnie Gillespie, who also served as driver in nearly every start. With a 6-1-2 record, the freshman earned $27,522, taking his 2-year-old mark of 1:54.2 at Delaware. This season, Minor reached out to Robert Taylor, who has raced other horses for the Illinois-based owner, and is stabled at Harrah's Hoosier Park.

"He brought him over to Hoosier and I qualified him. I've raced horses for him over here the last couple of years," said Taylor, who is building a training center four miles east of the track in Middletown, IN. "He asked if I would take the colt. It would be a little bit too far to ship from Illinois."

After the qualifier, where the sophomore wired the field in a time of 1:53.4, Taylor entered his new pupil in the Jerry Knappenberger series at Scioto Downs. In his seasonal debut May 11, Rock N Republic won by two and one-quarter lengths as the favorite, timed in 1:54.1 with Taylor in the bike.

"He was getting a little bumpy here and there. I've made some shoeing changes a couple of times and adjusted his hobbles. He's getting better and better now," said the trainer.

In the second leg a week later, Taylor moved the 3-year-old to the lead shortly after a :27.3 first panel and controlled the tempo on the way to a 1:53.1 score. Once again the favorite, Rock N Republic finished more than two lengths in front in the $8,000 contest. Drawing post two in the $16,000 Knappenberger pace final, Taylor was able to settle in behind favoring Imma Be through fractions of :27.1, :56.2, and 1:24.3. In the stretch, the gelding dispatched Imma Be and paced clear by nearly two lengths with a 1:52 clocking. Bred by L & J Racing LLC, the $7,000 Illini Classic purchase raised his record to three-for-three on the year.

"The non-winners of one series really boosted his confidence," said Taylor. "The Plan B would have been to race him in the Buckeye Stallion Series. We decided to let him tell us if he went a good mile in the series final."

By virtue of his effort, Rock N Republic earned a shot at sires stakes competition, entering the second round of action. After a tightener at Hoosier Park, qualifying in 1:52.4 on June 12 with a :26.2 kick home, Rock N Republic lined up behind the Scioto starting gate for his first sires stakes event. He drew post seven in the $50,000 contest, and for the first time this season, Taylor vacated the bike, calling upon Sutton to guide the pacer.

"I called Josh up about driving him because I had some horses in at Hoosier. I stayed here and asked him if he would drive for me," Taylor said. "I told him, 'He's not a real big horse, but if you can put him on a helmet, when you pull him off a helmet he explodes.'"

Armed with that information, Sutton left the gate sixth before picking up cover from Bare It Hill and Kayne Kauffman through a :56.2 opening half. Deciding he could not sit any longer as the field raced to three quarters, Sutton moved three deep and advanced on leader and favored Four-Star Flash. Rock N Republic forged to the lead shortly thereafter and held off closing Laughagain Hanover by a neck with a lifetime best effort.

"He's small. He's not a very big horse. He's right at 15 hands. But he's as gritty as a pit bull. He does not know he's small," said Taylor. "He's got a lot of guts, that's his best attribute. He's a gritty little horse that does not like to give up."

By comparison, Charlie May bested slight favorite Heart Of Chewbacca by half a length in 1:49.3 in the second OHSS division June 19, a full two seconds faster than Rock N Republic's mile. Taylor doesn't know if his gritty pacer can match those exploits, but he's excited to see how the season unfolds.

"That's going to be left for him to prove. I wouldn't be upset if he's third or fourth best in the state," he said. "We're tickled to death and he can still make a lot of money picking up checks in those events."

Still undefeated in 2021, Rock N Republic has banked $41,000, bringing his career tally to $68,522. The sophomore is eligible to a few fairs, and with several weeks between sires stakes starts, Taylor plans to prep his charge via overnight races at Hoosier Park.

"Hopefully we can keep going forward with him," he said.

Fixed odds wagering approved in New Jersey, but Meadowlands, Freehold will take wait-and-see approach

by Bill Finley

Fixed odds betting on horse races in New Jersey was unanimously approved by both houses earlier this week and the bill has been sent to Governor Phil Murphy, who is expected to sign it shortly. Once he does, the state's thoroughbred and standardbred racetracks will be allowed to offer fixed odds betting on their products.

Under fixed odds betting, a player locks in a set price on a horse when making the bet and, unlike with the pari-mutuel system, those odds cannot fluctuate after the wager is made. Introduced about 10 years ago in Australia, the form of betting has been very popular there and is seen as one of the reasons purses on thoroughbred and harness races in that country have exploded in recent years.

"Our ultimate goal is to have what happened in Australia over the last 10 years or so, and after online betting was deregulated, happen here," said Dallas Baker, the head of international operations for the Australian firm Betmakers, which will operate the fixed odds betting platform for Monmouth. "In that time, the handle has doubled and purse money doubled as well. That's what we want to see here, too. The opportunity exists in the U.S. to have that happen here and on a quicker time line than 10 years."

With just 24.6 million residents, $25 billion is wagered annually on racing in Australia or about $15 billion more than what is bet each year on thoroughbred racing alone in the U.S.

Led by track CEO Dennis Drazin, management at the thoroughbred track Monmouth Park has pushed hard for the new form of wagering and is expected to begin offering it on July 17, the date of the track's marquee race, the $1 million Haskell Stakes.

"We've been pushing hard to get it up and running by the Haskell," Baker said. "That's always been our goal. We've got a lot of work to do, which is great. We've always been aiming for the Haskell and we're all confident that's when we can begin. It's go time."

While Monmouth has reached an agreement with BetMakers to operate their wagering platform, the Meadowlands has yet to come to terms with any such company. Meadowlands owner Jeff Gural has the luxury of watching how the experiment unfolds at Monmouth before making any decisions regarding fixed odds betting.

New Jersey

"We are willing to give it a try," Gural said. "Most likely we'll sit back and watch how it does at (Monmouth). They already have a deal in place and we have not made any deals with anybody. We will be in wait-and-see mode. Fundamentally, I am not opposed to it."

Gural said that fixed odds wagering will need to attract the sports bettor in order to succeed. He believes that could happen.

"If this helps us get the sports bettor to bet on horse racing that would be a big plus," he said. "There are a lot more sports bettors out there than there are horse bettors. The horse racing bettor is dying off, while the sports bettors are coming out of the woodwork. My guess is that there will be some crossover with the sports bettor. During the pandemic, these guys were betting on ping pong from Korea. If they were willing to bet on that I don't see why they wouldn't be willing to bet on horse racing."

A fixed odds bet more closely resembles a sports bet than the typical pari-mutuel wager and sports bettors may not be comfortable with the idea that you can bet a horse at 10-1 only to have it go off at 5-1.

But it is not clear whether or not American horseplayers will have the same appetite for fixed odds wagering that there is for the bet in Australia. New Jersey's experiment with the betting exchange Betfair, which is wildly popular in the U.K. and also consists of fixed odds bets, was a bust.

Chris McErlean, vice president of racing for Penn National Gaming, parent company of Freehold Raceway, said that Freehold's owners are interested in fixed odds bets but have no immediate plans to implement it.

According to www.playnj.com, the takeout on the fixed odds betting will be 12.5 per cent, which is considerably lower than the typical take on pari-mutuel win wagers.

Once the betting debuts, it will only be available to New Jersey residents, but Baker was confident that it could soon spread across the country.

"We have spoken to a lot of other states and they have shown good interest in it," he said. "But they were waiting to see the bill passed in New Jersey first. We see the roll out going very similar to what happened with PASPA (The Professional and Amateur Sports Protection Act.) The obvious ones to take fixed odds wagering on horses are the ones that already have sports betting."

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Home for Norwegian Ulf Holm-Johansen is where the horses are

by Chris Lomon

The places, faces and races have all changed, but Ulf Holm-Johansen's love of all things standardbred racing has very much stayed the same.

He has seen the sport as few others have, a horseman who developed an affinity for horses and horse racing during the 1950s in his native Norway.

"I would go to the racetrack with my older brother back in the 1950s. My brother built a hobbyhorse farm, which was difficult because only five to six per cent of Norway is tillable land, but the rest is lakes and rocks. I was a student in the 1960s and finished my Master's degree in the U.S., but whatever I was doing, I always had an enjoyment of horses and the racing itself."

During his time in the U.S., Holm-Johansen wrote letters to several horsemen looking for a broodmare. Delvin Miller, an icon in standardbred racing, responded to Holm-Johansen.

"He was a very kind man, a gentleman. He had a mare who was blind in one eye, but I took a chance and bought her. Her name was Tarport Sis, who was by a trotter named Pompano Flash, out of Florican. So, I brought her to Norway in 1974, along with my wife and son, and she had eight foals. I kept some but all of them raced. I also took a teaching job in Halden, a Norwegian city near the Swedish border."

Living in Halden had its privileges, including proximity to a plethora of Scandinavian racetracks.

Holm-Johansen was a frequent visitor to them all, as a trainer, owner and fan.

"I had access to six Norwegian racetracks and three in Sweden. I could go to all of them and still sleep in my own bed. The distance travelling between the countries is quite short. There were times when I would get home around two in the morning, but I was very lucky to be able to go to so many racetracks without having to drive too far."

Courtesy Ulf Holm-Johansen

Ulf Holm-Johansen developed an affinity for horses and horse racing during the 1950s in his native Norway and is still working with horses in the United States.

After 35 years in Norway, Holm-Johansen sold the two horses he had in his native land, and along with his family, headed to the U.S. — Minneapolis, specifically — in 2008, where he has rekindled his connection with horse racing.

"It was serendipity that Running Aces opened in 2008. I went there in 2009 to help the Jensen family, who are horsepeople from Iowa. One year later, I saw this filly by the name of Candy Is Dandy. She is by Revenue, who I used to watch race in Europe and I really liked him. Her dam was Dandy Hanover, so she was very well bred. The people that owned her wanted to sell her, so I bought her. I figured if it didn't work out racing, I could always breed her. She was very small, but her foals have been excellent. One of them, a colt called Liquorskwikker, was a 2-year-old champion."

Holm-Johansen doesn't have the same number of horses he once did, but the 79-year-old, now retired, is still enjoying plenty of success at Running Aces.

At first blush, the win totals and earnings are modest by comparison to his contemporaries, but that hardly provides an accurate barometer of Holm-Johansen's training talents.

A lifetime UTRS of .319, a win average hovering around 19 per cent and a top-three average of 49 per cent, presents a much clearer picture of his abundant abilities.

It's even more impressive considering how Holm-Johansen views his racing participation.

"I'm in this for the hobby. I don't make a living out of doing this. I like to have them prepared with the goal of finishing in the money. What I'm doing is trying to have fun."

And he most certainly is.

"I really am. I don't want it to ever be a chore. I love the horses and the horse always comes first. The horse comes first, the sport is second, and then it is money."

Horses such as SB Madam Secretary keep Holm-Johansen happy.

A 4-year-old trotting daughter of Tom Ridge, SB Madam Secretary, bred by Deborah Hofsaess, who co-owns with Holm-Johansen's wife, Susan, is his current stable star.

In 28 career starts, the bay has six wins, six seconds and five thirds, along with nearly $65,000 in earnings, and a beaten time of 1:56.3 when she was three.

"She's not big, but she has such a sturdy body. She's also very consistent. Last year, she won four races in 14 starts. She finished second in her first start [July 2, 2019, at Running Aces] and just missed winning."

It's horses like SB Madam Secretary, and pacer Rojo Caliente, who is competing the open fillies and mares at Running Aces, that make the hard work and long hours worthwhile.

Cleaning stalls, bandaging, feeding – Holm-Johansen does it all with the help of his wife.

Operating a small operation – he currently trains four – comes with a laundry list of challenges, but Holm-Johansen is very much in his happy place when he's around horses.

"My wife, she retired a few years ago, so she helps me out. We work well together and we both enjoy it."

Holm-Johansen, who played soccer, hockey, and was an amateur boxer during his days in Norway, still heads to the gym on a regular basis.

Those visits keep him in shape for his longstanding sport of choice.

"It's a good hobby. It tires you out, it's not cheap, and you have to take chances, but my wife and I really enjoy it. We had a house in Minneapolis, which is about a 45-minute drive from Running Aces. What we did last year was sell the house and bought a townhouse five minutes from the racetrack. I want to focus on the meet here. I'm too old to get on the road and do all sorts of traveling."

Home, for Holm-Johansen, will always be where the horses are.

"I'm very happy to still have them in my life. I feel very blessed."

Ahundreddollarbill (Andy McCarthy, winning at the Meadowlands) is primed for the Yonkers Trot eliminations which begin tonight at Yonkers Raceway.

Ahundreddollarbill looks like a million bucks heading to Yonkers Trot elim

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Ahundreddollarbill has been a hundred per cent perfect this season, getting his campaign off to a 3-for-3 start, and will attempt to continue his unbeaten ways tonight in the first of two $40,000 eliminations for the MGM Yonkers Trot at Yonkers Raceway.

The top-four finishers from each elimination advance to the $500,000 Yonkers Trot final July 2 at The Hilltop. The race, for 3-year-old trotters, is the first leg of this year's Trotting Triple Crown, followed by the Hambletonian on Aug. 7 and Kentucky Futurity on Oct. 10.

Ahundreddollarbill heads to his elim off a 1:53.2 Empire Breeders Classic win over a sloppy track at Vernon Downs on June 18. He starts Friday from post four with Andy McCarthy driving for trainer Tony Alagna and is the 2-1 morning-line favorite in the field of six.

"He's done everything right so far, everything we've asked of him, so I'm looking forward to Friday night," McCarthy said. "There are some nice ones out there, but with the post position and the way he's been, I think he should be the one to beat."

Ahundreddollarbill, by Chapter Seven out of Swinging Royalty, won two of six races last season for trainer Dan Daley. Both victories came on the New York Sire Stakes circuit. In the fall, the gelding joined Alagna's stable. He is owned by Crawford Farms Racing and James Crawford IV.

This year, Ahundreddollarbill opened with a win in a conditioned race before capturing a division of the NYSS in a career-best 1:52.2 at Vernon followed by his EBC triumph. The victory pushed his lifetime earnings to $206,307.

"I've put him on the front a lot because I think he's the best and it's the safest option, but he can come first over, he can sit in a hole; Tony has done a great job with him," McCarthy said. "A couple months ago, maybe I'd have been worried about sitting in a hole, but now he drives terrific and steers great.

"They worked on equipment changes to make him happy and comfortable. He's set now where he's very quiet and comfortable and can do whatever I ask him to do."

Ahundreddollarbill is not eligible to the Hambletonian, which McCarthy won last year with Alagna-trained filly Ramona Hill. Supplemental entries are not accepted for the Hambletonian.

"It's disappointing because I think he's that caliber of horse," McCarthy said. "I'm not saying he would be favored for it, but that's kind of what I think his potential is. I think he's a top colt. He's just so versatile, and so strong and fast, he's got all the tools there."

Hambletonian-eligible horses in the first Yonkers Trot elimination are Ethan T Hanover, Mon Amour, and On A Streak, who won last year's Breeders Crown for 2-year-old male trotters. Dexter Cup winner Incommunicado, trained by Ake Svanstedt, is the 5-2 morning-line second choice behind Ahundreddollarbill.

Svanstedt has the favored entry in the second elimination, with Ambassador Hanover and Johan Palema at 8-5. Ambassador Hanover, who finished second in the Empire Breeders Classic, and Johan Palema are among five Hambletonian-eligible horses in the field, joined by Arnold N Dicky, In Range, and Julia Muscle Pack.

In addition to the Yonkers Trot eliminations, Yonkers will play host to eliminations for the MGM Grand Messenger Stakes for 3-year-old pacers, Park MGM Pace for 3-year-old female pacers, and New York-New York Mile for 3-year-old female trotters. All finals are July 2.

The Messenger is the first leg of the Pacing Triple Crown, followed by the Cane Pace on Aug. 7 and the Little Brown Jug on Sept. 23.

Ron Burke-trained Heart Of Chewbacca is the 3-1 morning-line favorite in the first of two $40,000 Messenger eliminations. The Alagna entry of Abuckabett Hanover and Exploit is the 4-5 favorite in the second elim. The top-four finishers from each elimination advance to the $500,000 final.

There are two $25,000 eliminations for the Park MGM Pace, with Linda Toscano's Heart Of Mine the 9-5 favorite in the first and Brett Pelling's Test Of Faith the 2-1 favorite in the second. The top-four finishers go to the $150,000 final.

Mazzarati, trained by Lucas Wallin, is the 2-1 favorite in the sole $25,000 elimination for the New York-New York Mile. The top-six finishers join bye recipients Iteration and Sweeping Rainbow in the $150,000 final.

So Irresistible (Andy McCarthy) makes her Grand Circuit debut tonight in the second of two eliminations of the Park MGM Pace for 3-year-old fillies at Yonkers Raceway.

‘Irresistible’ filly ready for Grand Circuit debut

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

After seeing her career delayed by injury, So Irresistible is charming her connections with her competitive ways. The 3-year-old female pacer has posted six victories and hit the board a total of 12 times in 14 starts since making her debut last November.

Tonight, she will test the Grand Circuit for the first time when she races in the second of two eliminations of the Park MGM Pace for 3-year-old fillies at Yonkers Raceway. She is 5-1 on the morning line, the third choice behind once-beaten Test Of Faith (2-1) and Dan Patch Award-winner Fire Start Hanover (5-2).

Andy McCarthy will drive So Irresistible from post four for trainer Bruce Saunders.

So Irresistible, who was sidelined in May of last year by a fractured pastern, earlier this season captured the Bobby Weiss Series for 3-year-old filly pacers at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono. Since then, she has held her own in two Pennsylvania Sire Stakes starts and twice finished third behind older rivals in conditioned events.

“She trained down great last year, acted like a good filly,” said Saunders, who conditions the filly for owners Cotton and Julie Nash. “She had a P1 fracture just around the time we were getting ready to qualify. I liked her, but you never really know until they see the starting gate and get around other horses.

New York

“We started her late just to see if we were correct in our evaluation that she had talent so we could stake her appropriately. We raced her a few times (in 2020) and thought she had enough speed and ability to stake her the way we did. She’s in most of the things a good filly will be in, the Mistletoe Shalee and Breeders Crown, things like that. We’re dreaming a little bit in technicolor.”

Although she is making her open stakes debut tonight, So Irresistible has already faced Grand Circuit winners such as Continualou, Blue Diamond Eyes, Marsala Hanover, and JK Alwaysbalady while on the Pennsylvania Sires Stakes (PASS) circuit. She was third in one PASS event and fourth, beaten only a length, in the other.

“She’s been good,” Saunders said. “She hasn’t had things go the way we’d like to see them go, the races just haven’t come together the right way, but she’s effective. She’s got talent and she always tries hard. She’s been competitive every time she shows up.”

So Irresistible, by Always B Miki out of Some Fancy Filly, has never started on a half-mile track such as Yonkers, but Saunders is not concerned.

“She’s a good athlete, so I think she will negotiate it,” Saunders said. “The level of competition is the issue. She hooked what appears to be the tougher of the two divisions. But I’m happy with the post position and hopefully she will get around the track and get a good enough trip to qualify for the final.

“It’s a very strong division. I’m kind of anxious and curious to see how she fits in with those horses on that track.”

In the first elimination, Heart Of Mine is the 9-5 morning-line favorite. She is unbeaten in five races this year for trainer Linda Toscano and driver Scott Zeron. She was last season’s New York Sire Stakes championship runner-up behind Test Of Faith.

Also tonight, Yonkers hosts eliminations for the MGM Yonkers Trot for 3-year-old trotters, MGM Grand Messenger Stakes for 3-year-old pacers, and New York-New York Mile for 3-year-old female trotters.

Racing begins at 7:15 p.m. (EDT) tonight at Yonkers. For complete entries, click here.

Trainer George Ducharme will send out both Contested Hanover and Lindys Dollywood tonight in a single elimination for the New York-New York Mile at Yonkers Raceway.

Ducharme duo look to make their mark in New York-New York Mile elimination

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

George Ducharme will send two horses to tonight's (June 25) $25,000 New York-New York Mile elimination for 3-year-old female trotters at Yonkers Raceway and the trainer is looking forward to learning how they might fit with the best fillies on the Grand Circuit this season.

Contested Hanover and Lindys Dollywood were among 10 fillies entered in the New York-New York Mile, resulting in a single eight-horse elimination. The top-six finishers from the elim will join bye recipients Iteration and Sweeping Rainbow in the $150,000 final on July 2 at Yonkers.

Also tonight, Yonkers will play host to eliminations for the MGM Yonkers Trot for 3-year-old trotters, MGM Grand Messenger Stakes for 3-year-old pacers, and Park MGM Pace for 3-year-old female pacers. The Yonkers Trot and Messenger are the first legs of the Trotting and Pacing Triple Crowns, respectively.

In the New York-New York Mile elimination, Contested Hanover will start from post two while Lindys Dollywood will leave from post three.

"They're just good, solid-gaited horses, and their attitudes are good," Ducharme said about his FTM Racing Stable-owned entry. "Whether they're fast enough to go with the very top group, we're going to find out in the next few weeks. Both are staked to everything right through the year. They'll tell us what to do. We'll let them tell us which path they choose."

Contested Hanover, by Chapter Seven out of CR Calendar Girl, has won two of eight career races and hit the board a total of five times, earning $64,344. Last year, she debuted with a win in a division of the New York Sire Stakes at Saratoga but started only five more times, winning once in a conditioned race.

"Last year, she just got tired," Ducharme said. "She was just too big and growthy. We quit with her, and she filled out and matured. I'm very happy with how she's come back so far."

This season, Contested Hanover finished third in a New York Sire Stakes division and second to Iteration in a division of the Empire Breeders Classic.

"She's handy," Ducharme said. "She can do whatever you ask her to do. I think she can do whatever we need her to do. I think she's going to be fast enough to race in some of the better stakes as the season goes on.

"Her first two starts this year are the most she's ever trotted in her life, so she's working her way up to that speed and learning how to go there. That's what she needs to do to be competitive with the top group."

Lindys Dollywood, by Muscle Hill out of Lindys Crazy Dolly, has won four of 13 lifetime starts and $55,957. Last year, she won the Garden State Trot for 2-year-old fillies. This season, she has three wins and a second in five races, all conditioned events.

"We wanted to make this her first big stakes race so we raced her in a couple overnights at Saratoga to make sure she would get around a half-mile track okay," Ducharme said. "That didn't seem to be an issue so we figured we'd throw her in with the big girls and see what she could do.

"I think both fillies will be competitive, especially with the races at Yonkers. They both get around the turns really nice and are really good gaited. After this, we'll try them at The Meadowlands and see if they're good enough."

In addition to his two fillies, Ducharme will send gelding The Irishman to the second of two Yonkers Trot eliminations. The top-four finishers from each elim advance to the $500,000 final on July 2.

The Irishman, by Cantab Hall out of Demoiselle Hanover, has won four of 11 career races and $48,469 for owners Bill Donovan, Tom Dillon, Purnel & Libby, and Joe Sbrocco. He is a three-quarter brother to Grand Circuit winner Sherry Lyns Lady.

All his wins have come in the Pennsylvania Stallion Series. He will start his Yonkers Trot elimination from post one.

"He'll get around a half, that won't be a problem, but this is a pretty big step up for him," Ducharme said. "But we figured if we were going to give it a shot, we'd do it on a half, where he can get around good and hopefully keep up where they're not going to go in (1):50. He's just honest. He'll give us everything he's got every week."

Racing begins at 7:15 p.m. (EDT) tonight at Yonkers. For complete entries, click here.

Caviart Camden (Andy McCarthy) qualified at Gaitway on Monday (June 21) in 1:56.1.

Chafees pleased with Caviart Camden's Gaitway performance

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

When horse owner Buck Chaffee watches his 2-year-olds qualify, he tries to never get too excited based on their performances.

"I always think a qualifier is one of two things, okay or bad," Chaffee said with a laugh. "You like to see them do well, but you don't get too high off a qualifier because it's not racing yet. But you want them to do okay. First, second, third is fine; halfway down the track isn't so good. That's the bad sign."

Chaffee and his wife Judy were at Gaitway Farm on Monday (June 21) to watch two of their 2-year-olds, Caviart Camden and Boudoir Hanover, in qualifiers.

Both were solidly okay.

Caviart Camden, a male pacer by Huntsville out of Caviart Christa, won his qualifier in 1:56.1 with Andy McCarthy driving for trainer Tony Alagna. The colt paced his last quarter in :27.1; a time surpassed by only one 2-year-old on Monday at Gaitway.

It was Caviart Camden's second time in a qualifier. He went off stride on June 5 at The Meadowlands but was on his best behavior at Gaitway after some equipment adjustments. He won by 4-1/4 lengths.

New Jersey

"Except for that qualifier, he's been very good," Chaffee said. "He doesn't have a lot of size, but Tony has liked him training down. He's always looked the part. We're hopeful. He came home really good (Monday), so we're pleased."

Caviart Camden is owned by the Chaffees' Caviart Farms, which also bred the colt.

"We liked this mare (Caviart Christa)," Chaffee said. "She didn't race a whole lot, but she showed some ability. We bred her to Huntsville, and it turned out really good. We like to have the homebreds and hopefully they do well. It's a little bit different because you've brought them from the beginning."

Boudoir Hanover, a female pacer making her debut, finished second in her qualifier for driver McCarthy and trainer Alagna. She was timed in 1:56.2, finishing 1-3/4 lengths behind Just Divine. Caviart Farms shares ownership of Boudoir Hanover (Captaintreacherous—Bedroomconfessions) with Riverview Racing, Alagna Racing, and the partnership of Daniel Plouffe and Steven Head. She was bred by Riverview Breeding and Visionary Breeders.

"So far, okay," Chaffee said, smiling. "We'll see how it goes."

Just Divine was among six second-time winners in the eight qualifiers for 2-year-olds at Gaitway on Monday. Just Divine (Huntsville—Divine Caroline) was driven by Yannick Gingras for trainer Ron Burke.

Burke also had repeat winners with male pacer JM's Finaltreasure (Sweet Lou—Worldly Treasure), female trotter Cowboy Crushn (Chapter Seven—Cowgirl Hall), and female pacers Hoffman Hanover (Somebeachsomewhere—Hug A Dragoness) and Sweet Hello (Sweet Lou—Well Hello There).

The remaining second-time winner was male trotter Secret Rule (Chapter Seven—Athena Miss), trained by Jennifer Bongiorno.

Joining Caviart Camden in earning a first victory was Alagna-trained female pacer Hamptons Babe (American Ideal—Anndrovette). The filly won in 1:56.1 for owner Crawford Farms Racing. She was bred by Crawford Farms.

Di Domenico reflects on 2,000th win, career to date

by Brandon Valvo for the SOA of NY

Scott Di Domenico isn't one to obsess over the numbers, although with consecutive leading trainer titles at Yonkers Raceway in 2019 and 2020 and in a close battle with Ron Burke at the top of the 2021 standings, the numbers would be plenty to obsess over. With his eyes off the statistics and on the horses, the 38-year-old almost blew past his milestone 2,000th training win without realizing it.

"I didn't know anything about it. I was five or six away and Wendy Ross texted me one day and told me I was closing in on 2,000," Di Domenico said. "I didn't pay much attention to it. I felt some nerves of wanting to get there, but I'm glad we're there and I want to win 2,000 more."

Maroma Beach, a 7-year-old gelding who's been a resident of the Di Domenico stable for about two years, delivered the 2,000th victory when he took a $12,000 overnight by a neck at Yonkers Raceway May 18. George Brennan, a close friend of Di Domenico's in addition to being the conditioner's first call at the Hilltop, drove.

"It's a big accomplishment, I think," Di Domenico said. "To win 2,000 races and a lot of them coming out here where competition is so tough, I thought it was pretty special. It's hard to do. It's not every day someone can say they did it. I still feel pretty young, granted I guess I'm kind of a veteran around here anymore, but I still enjoy the grind of racing every day."

Di Domenico reflected on his unconventional journey to earning 2,000 wins.

When did you start training and what was it like when you started out?

"Horses are the only thing I ever wanted in my life from when I was a young kid. My mom and dad enrolled me in horseback riding classes just to be around horses because ultimately, that was all that I ever really dreamt about or wanted to be around. I played sports, but it was never my top priority. Horses are what I always thought about. My dad (Richard Di Domenico) always liked the races and my cousin was a horse racing guy. We used to go to the off-track places on the weekends and watch the races until finally, one day, my dad said we're going to take a flier and buy a racehorse. It was a family day kind of thing. We'd go to the farm on Saturdays and spend time and be around the horses and watch and learn how the trainer did things. It was always very enjoyable to do."

Do you remember the name of that first horse?

New York

"The first horse we had was named Arbrator. My dad claimed him for $4,000 at Balmoral and a guy named Ernie Adam, who I'm still friendly with, was our trainer at the time. Arbrator was great. He was a wonderful, wonderful horse. When we got him, he was up there in age. He probably won six or eight races for us before somebody else claimed him. For somebody breaking into the business, and for my dad – I don't think he was trying to get rich by any means – but for a horse that could pay his way and give us a lot of thrills, he was the most ideal horse you could put in that situation. I was 12 years old at that time. It was my first taste of being around horse racing and the competitiveness of it."

When did you decide to go the training route? That's a big step up from owning them.

"We did this for a while and my dad decided he was going to try to get a trainer's license and we were going to have a couple horses on the side. That's what we did. We were very new to it. We got our assess kicked often. Between me and him, we didn't really know much about training; he worked at the railroad his whole life and I was in school. I was young and naïve and didn't know much about horses. Neither one of us ever worked with an experienced horseman. We saw some right and wrong ways to train and care for them. We watched Ernie when we had horses with him and when we got stalls at Maywood Park, we watched some of the people there and how they did it. We tried to copy what they did, only because we didn't know any other way. At the time, we were buying cheaper horses and trying to make it work. For a while, it was really difficult. You learn a lot more from a bad horse than from a good horse. A bad horse wracks your brain and takes a lot more of your time than a good horse."

What are some of the key lessons you picked up in those early days from watching those other guys or from making mistakes?

"The first thing for me was seeing some of the backstretch people and how they lived their lives. I thought, 'This isn't the way to be and this doesn't make sense.' That was probably as big a lesson in life as I've ever had was watching people give their life away to gambling or alcoholism or drugs. As far as the horses, let a horse be a horse. As naïve as that sounds, you watch a lot of guys overthink what to do with a horse instead of just letting a horse do what it wants to do and following it along."

Did you ever think, "what are we doing here? This is crazy."

"All the time. All the time. Nobody likes getting their heads kicked in and at the time, we were. We didn't know anything. We were on the fly out there, a dad and son. Some people go out to the baseball diamond and throw the ball around, batting practice and stuff like that. We were on a low budget and no money and we were trying the race horse game. I think my dad did that for me just because he saw my admiration for the horses and how much I enjoy being around it. At that time, Hawthorne was having double headers and I wanted to be there every day win, lose, or draw. Every night when Maywood raced, I wanted to be at the races. I wanted to watch those guys do it. You got to see a guy like Dave McGee or Tony Morgan, those kind of guys that you took for granted how great they were then. Those are Hall of Fame guys and you watched them. Man, the first time I got to talk to them, you remember that kind of stuff. And how grateful and thankful you were that they took the time to talk to you. I think that's a part of the game that we're missing a lot of now. The average guy that might watch a horse race never gets to hear the driver or the trainer; why a trainer added a piece of equipment or why a driver stayed to the inside."

When did you decide to make a career out of it?

"I was studying psychology and criminal justice at Triton College, right outside Maywood Park. It wasn't for me. I remember telling my mom and dad, 'Listen, I don't want to go to school anymore. I want to train horses.' They weren't really fond of that decision at the time. I was three years in, but it just didn't feel right. I was in school thinking about the horses or something that happened the night before at the races. My mind was with the horses, it wasn't in my schoolwork. School was expensive and I wasn't getting anything out of it. I was just costing my mom and dad money. I was getting by, but I wasn't going anywhere with it."

So where did you start? Did you start working with any other trainers?

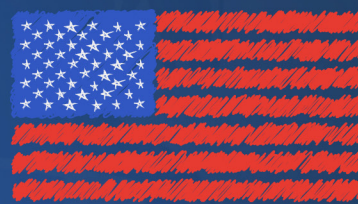

"I never did. As a kid, we were fortunate to be stabled next to Julie and Andy Miller at Maywood Park, before they were the Julie and Andy Miller, they were just Julie and Andy. Watching them, everything we did, we just picked up on the fly. Some things we did right and some things we didn't do right."

Those first few years, not a lot of starts, not a lot of wins. When did things start to pick up?

"Three or four years in, in Chicago I started to understand the horses better, understanding the equipment better. We got away

RESULTS & REPLAYS

US & CANADIAN RESULTS/REPLAYS AVAILABLE IN EACH ONLINE EDITION

from buying the low-level horses and got into claiming horses that were simpler. You claim a horse, you get an equipment card, they're already shod. The thought process is far easier as opposed to buying a horse for no money off a guy and working through whatever the issues are. I got to be very close with Tim Tetrick, who nobody knew then. My friendship with him helped me a lot, too. At the time, he was far more seasoned because he was raised on a farm and he had been around horses all the time. We started playing basketball together, of all things, and when we were done with that, we would talk about horses. It's been a long friendship with me and him and we still do the same thing."

In 2007, you had your first $100,000 season. In 2008, your horses earned nearly $600,000 and it seemed to snowball from there. When that started to happen, did you feel like you had made it?

"No, not at all. I was lost. I didn't have enough confidence in myself to do it and it took me a long time to feel confident in decisions. It was good, but I was still learning. I was over the hump of being comparable with a lot of other stables. I'm not the guy who's going to tell you how good I am or put the statistics on social media every day, that's just not me. I was taught to let your success talk for you. At the end of the day, numbers don't lie."

When did you get that confidence and feel secure with what you were doing?

"When I got here, things started to click. The first few years, I came out here for the Meadowlands, I lived at the track, didn't have any money. When they closed in the summer, I'd go back to Chicago the first two years. Out here, John Brennan, he was one of the three or four really influential people in my life. He taught me the New York way. You're not a kid anymore, you're not a deer-in-headlights anymore. This is the way things are done out here. You've got to handle yourself in a professional manner and do things this way and you're going to give yourself a shot. Sometimes, you have to put your head down and walk away from situations that aren't what you want them to be. I can't say enough good about John Brennan. He was a wonderful human being, very helpful and very influential to me and showing me the way. For that, I'll always be forever grateful for my friendship with him."

"2019 was just a great year. It was probably the most gratifying year I ever had training (in 2019, Di Domenico harnessed 305 winners and his stable earned $4.7 million, both career bests in a single season to date). I won the trainer's title (at Yonkers). I remember when I was going to get my trophy and John was unfortunately sick with COVID and nobody realized at that time how devastating that virus was going to be. I just remember him calling me and crying on the phone that he wasn't going to be able to be there and take a picture with me when I got my first trophy. That will always be something that will be in the back of my mind."

"My dad, I wish he was still alive to see me win my 2,000th race. It would have given him even a greater sense of pride than me. I couldn't have done it without my dad, his support, and certainly all the money he lost trying to get me the horses and the knowledge. He was everything to me. Not having him here anymore is tough."

When you look back, what horses and what wins stand out to you as the most memorable?

"Handsoffmycookie is at the top of my list. She was the first horse ever to give me the opportunity of seeing what it was to have a stakes horse and race at a major league level. Missile J when I raced him, that was a lot of fun competing at a high level with him. He really did well for the first year or so after we bought him, winning a leg of the Levy. Swansea, he's not a horse you read about in Hoofbeats, but watching him progress and get better and go through some of the suspensory injuries he's sustained and still do it at a high level. I can't have any more respect for a horse. I raced Jimmy Freight for a short time and he won a Grand Circuit race in Dayton. There's so many. I'm not giving a lot of the horses I've won with enough credit. There's been a lot of them. Scandalicious, we bought her as a yearling and she's made three-quarters of a million dollars. She's been racing at Yonkers for seven years now, which is hard to do."

"Horses are like people; they all have different personalities and they all have different routines. What works for one doesn't work for another. I like being aggressive classifying, I like to try a lot of different horses because of the old philosophy that you want to see what's under the hood on some of them. You never know when you get that one that really clicks in your system. To see progression and see horses get better, that's the gratification that you work hard to do because ultimately that's what makes you the most money. To see the horses get better and improve, that's what we're out here to do."

Anne Doolin dead at 61

Anne Charles Doolin of Lexington, KY and formerly of Mt. Sterling, KY, died on June 19, 2021 at the age of 61.

Anne was born in Mt. Sterling on Sept. 22, 1959, the daughter of the late Bill and Cricket Charles. She graduated from Montgomery County High School in 1977 and the University of Kentucky in 1981.

Anne's love of horses combined with her writing skills led her early career to The Meadowlands in New Jersey, Scioto Downs in Columbus, OH, and the Red Mile in Lexington. At all three tracks, Anne was involved in public relations and track promotions. She continued her relationship with horses and racing by writing freelance articles for various equine publications until her passing.

During the last 20 years of her life in Lexington, Anne was an activist in animal rescue and care. She fostered many dogs and cats and also coordinated the transfer of animals in shelters to permanent homes throughout the state. She was involved in helping people as well and served as president of "Downtown People", a non-profit organization that feeds a potluck meal every Sunday to those in need. In 2017, she received the January Davies Humanitarian Award, presented by the United States Harness Writers Association for her numerous good works.

In addition to her parents, Anne was preceded in death by a sister, Mary Bess Charles. She is survived by an aunt, Sue Reed, of Lexington. Other survivors include cousins Bert Charles III of Mt. Sterling, Carol Davis, Sara Porter, Kathy Simpson, and Geoff Reed, all of Lexington. Anne is also survived by long-time special friend William Copeland.

Special thanks to Anne's close friends Theresa Shaffer and Francis Richie who assisted Anne through her extended battle with cancer. In lieu of flowers, contributions are suggested to "Helping Every Animal Rescue and Transport"; 4698 Kentucky 409, Sandy Hook, KY 41171.

Jeff Renton dead at 43

With loved ones by his side, long-time Standardbred Canada employee and industry participant Jeff Renton died on June 11, 2021 at the age of 43 after a courageous battle with cancer.

His battle showed his strength in facing life and its challenges head on with a positive attitude until the end. Jeff was a loving husband, father, son, brother and friend.

After working in the media department at Woodbine Entertainment, Jeff joined the SC team in 2006 and served as the website news editor in the communications department for 15 years. Through Jeff's time with the association, he made many valuable contributions that have helped shape the current SC website and its communication strategy in ways that have made the association better.

We will miss his sense of humour, ability to analyze situations and provide insight, and competently handle the complex and diverse nature of standardbred industry news. His loss to our team, this industry and our lives is immeasurable.

Jeff is survived by his wife, Tara; son, Warner; sisters, Amy and Lisa; mother, Judith; mother-in-law, Heather; brother-in-law, James; father-in-law, Peter; uncle, Bob; aunt, Jane and cousins. He was preceded in death by his father, Robert J. Renton.

His family and friends alike will always remember his loving character, his beautiful smile, his love for music and his infamous, "What's Up?" intros.

Forever loved.

Forever missed.

Forever connected.

May you rest in peace.

Until we meet again.

No funeral services will be held at this time.

In lieu of flowers, the family would appreciate a donation to the Juravinski Hospital and Cancer Centre in Jeff's memory.

Take All Comers, Delayed Hanover PASS winners at Philly

Give full credit to Take All Comers for authoring a powerful 1:53.2 victory in one of two divisions of the third prelim of the Pennsylvania Sire Stakes (PASS) for 3-year-old trotting colts on Wednesday afternoon (June 23) at Harrah's Philadelphia, but capturing as much attention was the early-race break of Captain Corey, the 2020 divisional Sire Stakes champion and an easy winner in his 2021 bow.

With the more powerful half of the Svanstedt stable out of the race, it was left to stablemate Fly Light to try to salvage the 1-20 betting on the coupled entry, and Fly Light went to the top from post seven, passing 18-1 shot Take All Comers who yielded, and posted fractions of :27.2, :56.4, and 1:25.1. But midway around the final turn, driver David Miller gave the signal to Take All Comers, an altered son of Creatine-Nantab and thus a half-brother to Next Level Stuff, and he quickly took over, winning by 3¼ lengths over Goodashim, who rallied inside to catch Fly Light by a neck.

Take All Comers, trained by Jim Campbell for Runthetable Stables, won for only the third time in his career, but he has had highlights such as a Grand Circuit win at Lexington, a 3-4 finish in the Breeders Crown, and now this Sire Stakes triumph. And not too many winners of three races have bankrolls of $219,937.

The Svanstedt barn did take the other Sire Stakes division with another colt coming in with a Sire Stakes victory in his only start of the season – the colt Delayed Hanover, who was guided by Åke Svanstedt to the lead in :27.2, put up creaking middle splits of :57.4 and 1:27.1, then sprinted home in :27.4 to complete a 1:55 mile, a half-length of hard-used pocket-sitting favorite Jujubee, who just edged first-over Type A for second. The win made Delayed Hanover the only double winner in his Sires section.

A look at the pedigree of the victorious son of Southwind Frank – Don't Wait Up shows where his $230,000 yearling tag came from: you don't have to go back far to find names such as Hambletonian winner Trixton and the world champion full brothers Andover Hall, Angus Hall, and Conway Hall. Also winning for only the third time in his career (like Take All Comers he did have a Lexington Grand Circuit win), Delayed Hanover, part of a favored coupled Svanstedt entry, has bankrolled $198,630 for Melby Gard Inc. and Åke Svanstedt Inc.

In the five Stallion Series divisions, David Miller performed his Sire Stake feat of having the quickest winner, the biggest win margin, and the longest price with one horse all over again, rallying the 11-1 shot Ritson out of the pocket and coming home with him in :27.2 to reduce his mark to 1:54.1 while winning by 1½ lengths. The son of Cantab Hall is owned by trainer Mark Steacy, Hudson Standardbred Stable Inc., and Dale Larson. Miller also took the last StS cut with the favored Caruso, a Father Patrick colt who went first-over but still went by easily in 1:55 for trainer Joe Holloway and owners Val D'Or Farms and Ted Gewertz.

Father Patrick picked up another StS sire credit with Sunny Crockett, who has won all three of his Stallion Series races this year after a 1:54.3 tally for "Team Orange Crush," driver Andy and trainer Julie Miller, and owners Willow Oak Ranch and Andy Miller Stable Inc. Other StS winners were the Explosive Matter gelding Flemsteen, taking a new record of 1:54.3 for driver George Napolitano Jr. and trainer Chris Beaver, the latter co-owner with Bill Manes, and the Donato Hanover colt Donato Patriot K, taking a new mark of 1:56.4 for driver Tony Hall, trainer Rich Gillock, and owners Bart and Todd Brice.

The busy card also saw the 2-year-old pacers make their pari-mutuel debuts, with all establishing marks. A filly went faster than either colt divisions – the Betting Line–Sportsfancy miss Jazzed, who sailed by out of the pocket in a 1:53.4 mile for Team Orange Crush and the partnership of Andy Miller Stable Inc., Gty Stable, and Louis Willinger. The successful male babies were the Sportswriter–Planet Ocean gelding Camealongway, home in 1:54.2 for driver David Miller (he had five wins in all on the day), trainer Casie Coleman Herlihy, and West Wins Stable, and the Sweet Lou–Breakheart Pass colt Birthday, a 1:55.2 winner for driver Yannick Gingras, trainer Ron Burke, and owners Burke Racing Stable LLC and Weaver Brussemi LLC.

Last call for for Goshen Yearling Sale consignments

Today (June 25) will be your last opportunity to consign horses to the 2021 Goshen Yearling Sale that will be held on Monday (Sept. 13) at the Mark Ford Training Center in Middletown, NY. This year's sale has once again drawn a lot of interest and there has been a late rush of consignments in recent weeks. However, Friday will be the final day to enter the sale.

"This year's sale will offer an outstanding group of colts from our top consignors and that should push sales averages up across the board, especially as we move forward with business as usual after last year," said Mark Ford. "We are looking forward to welcoming another great live crowd in September and will provide the best experience possible for both the seller and buyer."

Since 2015, the Goshen Yearling Sale has offered high quality stock from top breeders including sale regulars Cameo Hills Farm, Winbak Farm, Blue Chip Farm, Vieux Carre Farm and the Silver Tradition Stable.

The sales facility is located at 90 Slaughter Road, Middletown, NY, which is within a 90-minute drive of many major race tracks and training centers in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, making it a very convenient location. It's also only three miles away from the Harness Racing Museum and Hall of Fame and the Goshen Historic Track, making it easy to visit those historic places during your weekend.

Everything you need to know about this year's Goshen Yearling Sale is available on their website at www.goshenyearlingsale.com where consignment forms, a catalog request portal and hotel information for local lodging all can be found.

For any other inquiries please contact Mark Ford directly at 973-568-3253 or by email at fordstable@frontiernet.net.

DSBF trotters complete second leg

The second leg of Delaware Standardbred Breeders Fund (DSBF) 3-year-old stakes action for trotters headlined the Wednesday (June 23) program at Harrington Raceway with five $20,000 divisions.

The fastest divisional winner was Bobby Myers' Big Al M ($2.10, Eddie Davis Jr.), who was a 1:59.1 winner for trainer Eric Davis. It was the eighth win in 10 lifetime starts for the son of Anders Bluestone. After a quarter-pole move to the front, Big Al M held off all comers for his seventh straight win over Bluestone Jackson and Fox Briar Spooky.

HRU Column Directory

Don and David Wiest's Rhett ($2.60, Corey Callahan) won the other male division in 2:00.4 over Vlahos and Blue Devil. The Keystone Activator gelding recorded his fifth career win for trainer and co-owner Don Wiest.

The fastest filly divisional winner was Gary White's Whitesville Beulah ($4.20, David Hill III), who cruised to a 2:00 win over Kim's Command and She's On Broadway. The Anders Bluestone filly won her second straight race via a front end score from post position five for owner/trainer White.

Pam Wagner and Scott Woogen's KJ Diamond ($3.20, Vic Kirby) completed a sweep of her DSBF eliminations with a 2:01.2 win in the first filly division over Designer's Edge and Azurine. The Keystone Activator gelding scored her 3rd lifetime win via a first over brush for trainer/driver Kirby.

Rod Allen's Annalee ($25.40, Allen) scored an upset in the remaining filly division with a wire-to-wire triumph in 2:02.2 over Blue Green Machine and Jazzy Judy. The CR Commando filly earned her first career win.

Montrell Teague had a driving triple. Victor Kirby and Allan Davis each had two wins.

The $100,000 DSBF finals will be contested on July 29.

Rookie trotting colts begin NYSS Monday at Yonkers

The New York Sire Stakes circuit visits Yonkers Raceway for the first time in 2021 on Monday evening (June 28), as the oval plays host to the first leg for 2-year-old colt and gelding trotters. Three divisions will go behind the gate in races one, two, and three, with the first and third splits going for a purse of $47,966, and the second for $47,066.

Many of the entrants haven't made a pari-mutuel start yet so early in their careers, but Velvet Style, who will start from post two for driver Jason Bartlett in the first grouping, has. The Credit Winner colt, trained by Mark Ford for owners George and Rose Bonomo, won at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono on June 21 in 1:59.4.

Wakanda, a colt from the first crop of Devious Man, comes into the second section with a win in his pocket as well, as he was victorious at Saratoga Casino Hotel on Monday, June 21 in 2:02.4. Trainer Dan Daley also drives Wakanda, who was bred in New York by Crawford Farms, for owners Ann-Mari Daley and JLRL LLC.

Nobody in the last flight has a pari-mutuel victory like those two, but Secret Rule, a Chapter Seven colt driven by Joe Bongiorno for trainer Jenn Bongiorno and owner Howard Taylor, won both of his baby races at New Jersey's Gaitway Farm. Tanglewild Road (post six, Todd McCarthy/Nifty Norman) and Wouldyoulookatthat (post seven, Scott Zeron/George Ducharme) also won baby races at Magical Acres and Vernon Downs, respectively.

Before the pari-mutuel card gets underway at 7:15, there are two $15,000 non-wagering divisions of the New York Excelsior A Series and a single non-wagering $6,600 New York Excelsior B Series race. Those races begin at 6 p.m.

Racing applications for Shenandoah Downs fall meet available beginning July 1

Racing applications for the 2021 fall pari-mutuel harness race meet at Shenandoah Downs will be available beginning July 1 via the Virginia Harness Horse Association's (VHHA) website at vhha.net. Applications will need to be submitted by Aug. 6.

The sixth annual season, with its promotional slogan of "Harness The Mountain Magic", will run from Sept. 17 – Oct. 16 with racing every Friday at 3:30 p.m. and Saturday at 1 p.m. The five-week campaign will feature an average purse distribution of $50,000 per day with another $300,000-plus dedicated to the Virginia Breeder's stakes program.

The Woodstock oval will be able to accommodate an extra 50 horses in the barn area this year, an increase of 20 per cent over prior years. The backstretch opens on Sept. 15 and the track will be available for training that day as well. The horsemen's entry gate has been relocated to the main Fairgrounds entrance off Ox Road.

After conducting the 2020 meet without fans and wagering due to the Covid-pandemic, Shenandoah Downs will welcome both back this fall. A full slate of promotions will greet attendees including drawings to experience racing in a unique way.

Four "VIP's for a Day" will each ride in the starter's car, announce a harness race, compete in a double seater sulky race, receive lunch, a $20 bet voucher and have a race named in their honor complete with a winner's circle presentation and commemorative photo.

Twenty-four fans will get a chance to own a horse over three different "VHHA Own a Horse for a Day" events and best of all, keep the share of money their horse earns in a $4,000 race. In all, $12,000 will be given away and three separate fans will walk away with a $2,000 win reward. All "owners" will visit with their horse, trainer and driver in the paddock before the race and enjoy lunch on the track's VIP trackside deck.

Details on the race season and all promotions can be found at shenandoahdowns.com.

A four-day harness meet during the Shenandoah County Fair will precede the Downs meet itself from September 1 - 4. Racing will take place at 12 Noon each day and renowned race caller Roger Huston will announce the first two days. Horses will need to vacate the Fairgrounds between the Fair meet and the Shenandoah Downs meet.
