BURKE and GINGRAS a winning Hall of Fame combination

Fittingly, the trainer and driver will both be inducted into tonight's harness racing's Living Hall of Fame class of 2022, along with George Teague, Jr. and Chris Boring.

Approaching their Hall of Fame induction, trainer Ron Burke and driver Yannick Gingras shared thoughts about themselves and each other.

How do they feel about being inducted, let alone together?

"I'm thrilled, honestly," said Burke. "As it gets closer, actually, I think I'm even more happy about it than I thought I would be. Honestly, it would have been more special to go in with my father, because I feel he's worthy, but right behind it would be Yannick."

"Obviously, it feels great," said Gingras. "Growing up it's not something I really thought about, especially being from Canada."

“[Ronnie] has been tremendous for me on so many different levels, not just giving me great horses to drive. There are so many other things as well. And to go (into the Hall of Fame) at the same time as him definitely makes it extra special.”

~ Yannick Gingras

I feel I'm not done but it's great being recognized by other people that I've had a good career so far.

“[Ronnie] has been tremendous for me on so many different levels, not just giving me great horses to drive. There are so many other things as well. And to go in at the same time as him definitely makes it extra special.”

First and lasting impressions?

“He talks a lot,” Burke said of Gingras. “You know, it's probably the same with me. We probably have a lot of talking, not a lot of listening, going on with us.”

“What sticks out in my mind with him is how easy going he is to drive for,” Gingras said of Burke. “He never calls. He never tells me how to drive. Never bitches after a race. It makes my job so much easier. I don't tell him how to train, he doesn't tell me how to drive. He's just tremendous to work for.”

Each other's best qualities as individuals and as horsemen?

“He's an understanding person and he's loyal to my family and to Foiled [Again] and he tries to do the right thing,” Burke said of Gingras. “And sometimes, he f---- up, and he'll admit he does, too, and I'm the same.”

“As a driver, he enforces his will on other drivers. He makes people do things they don't want to do. At one point, I thought it was his ability to make horses go fast. I think that's been surpassed, he's now more of a thinking man's driver, than even he is at making hard speed. He can still make speed, obviously, but he has become much more about strategy and putting people in wrong positions.”

“He's a great horseman,” Gingras said of Burke. “He brings horses back year after year after year after year. The way he does things it's unreal really. Foiled Again is one example. And it's obviously not easy but Foiled's not the exception, he's kind of the rule. Because he's got so many other ones that are just like that: Atlanta, This Is The Plan, Maltese Artist, Won The West. It just speaks volumes on how he does things and the program that he has.

“As far as a person, he’s a family guy and I think that’s part of the reason why we get along so well because he understands that I want to have a family life as well. Of course, driving great horses for him is important, but he understands that I want to spend time with my kids, that I want to see them grow up. I can take a week off and I come back and I’m listed on all of the horses the following week and it’s something I can never thank him enough for because no other trainer would do that, realistically.”

FAVORITE RACING MOMENT?

“It was 2012 and it’s the only time that (Burke) has ever called me after a race,” said Gingras. “I won the Canadian Pacing Derby with Foiled Again. He wasn’t super sharp at the time. I got away like seventh or eighth with him, went through the inside, squeezed through traffic at the top of the stretch and just got up near the wire to win the race. He left me a message, I’m guessing, just as I crossed the wire. And I still have that same message saved on my phone. I could hear in his voice that he was a little emotional and that meant a lot to me.”

A SHARED FUNNY STORY?

“Last year, we were boating in Florida by the training center and probably had too much to drink and Yannick dove out of the boat to grab an alligator,” said Burke. “And I was like, ‘This simple idiot,’ and I had to grab him and yank him back into the boat while he was trying to swim after an alligator. I thought, ‘What are you doing?’ The next day we were talking and I go, ‘Do you remember jumping in after the alligator?’ He goes, ‘Yeah. Thank God we were not the driver of the boat.’”

BEING ON TOP AGAIN AT THE MEADOWLANDS THIS SEASON?

“Me and Yannick consider that our track so obviously we want to do well there,” said Burke. “When Jeff [Gural] writes those letters bitching at everybody he should put at the bottom, this doesn’t apply to Ronnie and Yannick, they participate at all times.”

THEIR LEGACY?

“For me, I want them to think (Gingras) did it the way he thought it should be done and did well doing it,” said Burke. “I didn’t go everybody else’s way. My barn is obviously not patterned on anybody else’s. Obviously, we did it differently.”

“For Yannick, I think he’d want people to recognize that he became a great big-race driver. When his career is over, then hopefully he would have won them all, and people will say that guy was money in big races. I think there’s more to come with this kid yet. He’s a young 43 because he didn’t start like the other guys at 18 and 19 on the Grand Circuit. We still see improvement there with him. I feel like this year more than ever I’ve seen him be more patient with babies. Yannick’s still going to get better.”

“Obviously, I want people to see that we had tremendous careers,” said Gingras. “But also, that we were consistent year after year we did our things. I’m loyal to him and he’s loyal to me and I wouldn’t want to do it any different. I wouldn’t want to be driving for 25 different barns. And the honesty is part of the reason I think both of us get along so well.”

CLOSING THOUGHTS?

“He’s a tremendous guy,” Gingras said of Burke. “To me, the most important part, like I said earlier, is the family part of it. It’s not just him, it’s his whole family. It’s his dad, his mom, his sister, his brother, the Burke Brigade and I’m just so happy to be part of it. I’m just a small part, but I feel like they’re family to me, too.”

“We’ve been friends for a long time and it’s not always easy,” said Burke. “You know, sometimes he has to pick [other] horses or we have to change drivers and neither of us like being second choice ever.”

“The best part is when the other one was wrong, we don’t throw it in their face. It’s been good for me because with him being 10 years younger, by the time he’s ready to quit, I’ll at least be ready to slow down.”

Trainer George Teague, Jr. will be inducted into harness racing's Living Hall of Fame tonight in Goshen, NY.

George Teague: Hardest working man in the biz

In 2007, at the beginning of George Teague, Jr.'s greatest string of years in the business, the author visited the trainer at his stable in Harrington, DE.

by Dave Briggs

"Did you get a B12 shot before you came?" shouts an assistant trainer with a nicotine-thick cackle. "You're going to need it to follow him around." He aims a thumb in the general direction of the man whose name is stitched into rows of hanging red and black harness bags.

It is a little after 9 a.m. and trainer George Teague, Jr. has already been working for more than four hours this morning at his operation in Harrington, DE. Nothing new there. Teague starts work before 5 a.m. and is still going 12 or 13 hours later. That's before heading off to the track to race many nights, a trip lengthened by the fact Teague's stable, located behind Harrington Raceway, is a couple hours south of the game's east-coast heartland.

This is, pretty much, Teague's schedule seven days a week. He tries to take Sundays off, but admits he's not often successful.

No regrets. No complaints. He said he loves every second of it.

"Go, go, go," he said, widening his ever-present grin as he strolls right on by, heading for another horse to jog as the sun starts to turn up the thermostat on what will later be a tarmac sauna.

Tending to some 60 young racehorses at the training centre behind Harrington Raceway, Teague continually circles between his two barns and the training track, a cell phone pressed to his ear much of the time. He doesn't even stop to eat lunch.

"I wish I could lose weight doing all this, but I eat so badly," Teague said, patting his girth and explaining that he's always eating on the run. "I don't eat until five o'clock in the afternoon and then I eat like a hog. I try not to eat late at night and that doesn't happen, either."

He shrugs. Priorities, priorities.

Two days later, the 43-year-old trainer will win the second million-dollar race in his life — all in less than a year. On June 2, Teague's 3-year-old pacing colt, Southwind Lynx, won the $1 million Art Rooney at Yonkers Raceway. Though Southwind Lynx finished fourth in his elimination for the Pepsi North America Cup at Woodbine on June 9 and failed to advance to the $1.5 million final, Teague is only a year removed from winning Canada's biggest race with Total Truth, a colt trained by his sister, Brenda Teague.

Spend a morning with George and you'll quickly learn his secret to success is really no secret at all. Beyond a lifelong passion for horses and a keen eye for picking out champions from moderately-priced yearlings, George Teague may just be the hardest working man in the biz. That's saying something in a sport where workaholics are as prevalent as horse-loving dreamers.

"The hours are long. The work's hard. I don't downplay that part. Only people that like horses come here (to work)... You do have to work a little bit harder, I do believe that," he said.

He leads by example. "If I want you here by 5 a.m., if I can make it, I think you should. If I tell you to be here at 5 and I'm not showing up, that's the only reason for you to start slacking."

Teague said he's fortunate not to need much sleep.

There's not enough time in the day for work, let alone his family, which includes his wife, Joy Shepard, 16-year-old son, Montrell and two stepdaughters, Shanika, 22, and Shamika, 20. The kids see him by working with him. When he's not in school, Montrell helps in the barn. Shanika and Shamika work out of the house doing the bookkeeping for the stable.

Teague trains horses for some celebrity owners — former heavyweight boxing champion and grill king, George Foreman, Atlanta Falcons linebacker Demorrio Williams and former New York Jets receiver Wayne Chrebet — yet he operates a low-key operation built on sweat equity, not flash. He said he got his work ethic from his father, George, Sr., a harness trainer who died in 1980 at the age of 55.

"My father did a little bit of everything," Teague said. "He was definitely more mechanically inclined. He used to do all his own shoeing, a little bit of his own vet work. He did a lot of stuff, a lot of it for the economics of it. He did a lot of different things that I don't venture off in."

Then again, George Teague, Sr. didn't have a 60-horse operation, a U.S. and Canadian Horse of the Year (Rainbow Blue in 2004) and nearly $10 million in career training earnings to his credit (over $35 million as of 2022).

Coming off his best year in the business, in which he posted 101 wins, had a UTRS of .407 and his horses earned over $3.1 million (he would go on to exceed that figure in each of the next five years, topping out at over $4.7 million in 2009), Teague isn't about to break stride and slow down now. He's riding the momentum for all it's worth.

Last fall, he bought some 40 yearlings, more than double the number he purchased in 2005. Add some 10 homebreds to the mix and he's got 50 2-year-olds in the works. For the record, he loves his crop of rookies.

"This is one thing I want to pound pretty well while everything's working right... then I don't have to do it when I get older. The opportunity's here, and everything's rolling," Teague said.

"I look at it as an opportunity. When everything is going well you get a chance, you get in a groove. I don't want to be the one that settles down in a few years and the game passes me by."

Teague may be as humble and genial as they come — a winner of the 2004 Good Guy Award, no less, from the United States Harness Writers Association for his accessibility to the media — but make no mistake, he's no lightweight. He runs his show his way and does not apologize one second for it.

Much of the day, the trains rumble past like slow-rolling thunder — steel grinding and squealing on steel. The horses, which jog and train on the oval right beside the train tracks, don't even bat an ear.

"Trains go banging all day. I think people worry about it more than horses," Teague said. "There's always been a lot of construction around here. So, when (the horses) leave here they're pretty well exposed to a lot of activities and a lot of different noises. When you go somewhere else, they're pretty comfortable wherever they go. It's not like a lot of places where there's peace and quiet... You won't find too many quiet times around here."

For a man with a barn full of stakes horses, Harrington, DE is off the path a little. Teague seldom races at Harrington Raceway. He doesn't even qualify them here, preferring to ship them an hour-and-a-half away to Rosecroft Raceway in Maryland where the prime advantage is a five-eighths mile track as opposed to Harrington's half-miler.

Still, Harrington is home; has been for 30 years since his parents moved the family here from Melfa, VA, a small town two hours due south. "You know what's big down there? Chicken plants and farming. There isn't much else down there. Really, really quiet. Real quiet," Teague said of his birthplace.

George, Jr. was 12 when his father, a Second World War veteran, moved the family to Harrington in 1976 to race horses. They landed in a trailer park on the racetrack grounds.

A lot has changed in 30 years. Slot machines have led to a revitalization of the entire Harrington complex, which also doubles as the home of the Delaware State Fair. Teague has been one of the biggest beneficiaries. His barns are brand new. He loves the training track. His home and his 65-acre turnout farm are just around the corner.

"I love it here. You can't compare any of the places I've been to here... and I've been a few places," Teague said. "On top of it all, they take care of the track better than anybody. It's second to none."

Why would he ever leave?

The main barn has a long, narrow horse pool, but Teague almost never uses it, or the gigantic Equi-ciser inside the same barn. He prefers working his horses on the track, particularly in groups. By training in sets, Teague can personally see all his horses work. More importantly, he believes it's good for horses' mental game.

"Horses are creatures of packs. Jogging in sets, it keeps them happy.

"The mental part of training, to me, is more important than the physical. Everybody can jog them three miles."

He's quite happy to give credit to his sister, Brenda, assistant trainer Clyde Francis and the staff of 15 caretakers, but the fact George wants to personally see his horses at work is an indication this is not an operation where decisions are made by a show of hands.

"My motto is: if I haven't seen them jog, I want to be on the track to see how they're jogging, see how they're moving, anyway," Teague said. "You see things that you can maybe head off a problem. I trust everybody's opinion, but I'd rather see it myself."

It's his show and George Teague likes things his way... in a nice way. He's particularly careful about his image, not just because he's a role model as one of the few African-American people in the business, but because it makes business sense.

"I don't want to be anybody's target that's decided to be bitter that I've had a little success," he said. "It's so easy to have people sit there and point a finger at everything you're doing wrong instead of the few things you do right. Sometimes, it's just the nature of folks.

"I try to keep a frame of mind that got me to this point — appreciate the people that work for me and like everybody that I run across."

He doesn't smoke, rarely drinks and is always professional. He hopes he can lead other minorities into the business by example. "I don't know if it helps me to stay clean, but definitely my image is everything right now. I don't want to take any chances on spoiling any of it," he said.

"(My race) hasn't been an advantage and it hasn't been a disadvantage. My barn is a mixture of white and black. It's not a racial thing. It shouldn't matter."

What does matter, is being able to control his own destiny with limited outside influence. There's a reason Teague owns 50 per cent of almost every horse in the barn. He cringes at the thought of having owners tell him how he should run his operation. So much so, that his voice rises as he thinks about trainers who get "eaten alive" by meddling owners.

"Just the fear, the threat of losing a horse is so big. I had great fun with Rainbow Blue, but I also told people if I had trained Rainbow Blue for the average person and she started to look like Rainbow Blue, Brett Pelling would have had her and they would be screaming, 'What a wonderful job he had done.' When a horse gets too good with a little trainer like myself, typical owners start to think, 'Well, is he up to the job? This horse might be too good for a little guy like him.' Owning a part of her reassured me that the fear wasn't as nearly there. When she wasn't always 100 per cent, I didn't say, 'Well, I think the guy wants me to race here. I better put her in there because she's able to start this race.' I had none of the fears to go with and that changes my perspective every day I walk in the barn."

Claus Andersen

Teague is in the jog cart as he said this, making slow circles waiting for others to join him. Between the shafts is none other than Southwind Lynx, the colt that two days later will win the Art Rooney at Yonkers, the first of four million-dollar events on the calendar for 3-year-old pacers. The cart creaks and squeaks, the tires crackle through the stone dust. The ire in Teague's voice soon drowns it all out. The owner/trainer relationship — a subject he brought up — clearly has touched a nerve.

"I limit myself on the bitching and complaining. I don't want to hear it. I own 50 per cent. My 50 per cent on the racetrack is just as much as yours. If you don't make anything, I'm not making anything. And I did all the work on top. I do have constant conversations with a few people that when they start taking it for granted, I start changing who I am. When things annoy me, I want out. When I walk in the barn I walk in with peace of mind. What I'm doing in the barn, if you turn it over to me, you trust what I do and I'm doing it for the better interest of every owner, as well as myself. I don't need the extra pressure that comes with a lot of guys that train horses for a lot of folks. I hope people don't take it the wrong way, but I couldn't be one of those guys that sits there and is constantly criticized and there's a threat of losing horses because the owner's talking a better conversation up in the grandstand. He's not in the barn all day.

"I had one guy six, seven years ago, he came in the barn and before he finished the conversation I blew my lid, 'Why don't we change this...' I said, 'Well, let me tell you about me. I need this horse like I need a hole in my head. I'm actually doing you a favour by training it because I don't like training outside horses to start with. If you're coming in suggesting to me what a guy told you up in the grandstand over a beer about how to rig your horse that I'm training for you, I'll loan you a lead shank to walk this horse out of this barn right now, because I don't need it.' I don't listen to it. I have zero tolerance for it. Zero. If I'm the trainer, I'm the trainer. I don't play second fiddle to people up in the grandstand telling me how to rig horses."

With that, he turns and heads for the track. In George Teague's world there's no substitute for experience and hard work.

"If you don't earn it, you're not going to get it," he said. "That's one thing I found out a long, long time ago. I want to work long hours. I want to do it a little differently. I don't want to do everything in traditional ways. I want to make my way in a different way and create different ideas with every year that comes along.

"I see a lot of people get left behind the gate because they don't change with the times and I don't want to be that one for the next few years to say that I'm not subject to change. If a better idea comes along, guess who is going to be one of the first ones to try it? I don't want to be one of those guys that had that one-hit wonder and they say, 'What happened to him? Wasn't that the guy that trained Rainbow Blue?'"

Fear of failure can be a major motivator. So he keeps moving, even though he should stop for a second to have a decent meal. He keeps moving, even though he said he has no personal life. He keeps moving, even though diabetes claimed his father at a relatively young age, long before George, Sr. saw his son have any big success in the business...or maybe, that's why George, Jr. keeps moving. Maybe he's trying to squeeze the most out of every hour.

More likely it goes back to that old adage that those that stand still get left behind. George Teague, Jr. has no intention of being left behind.

Chris Boring and the other inductees

by USHWA

Apart from Ron Burke, George Teague, Jr. and Yannick Gingras, the fourth inductee tonight to harness racing's Living Hall of Fame in Goshen, NY is trainer/driver Chris Boring of Michigan. Boring is being inducted in the veterans category.

The veterans provision permits the Screening Committee once every three years to make a direct assignment of a person 70 years of age or older, who has contributed greatly to harness racing.

Boring, a member of one of Michigan's founding families of harness racing, began to make his reputation in his native state early in his career, and then made his first foray into the national spotlight with True Duane, a winner of $360,000+ more than 50 years ago. True Duane is best known for defeating older

Joviality S beats the boys in MGM Yonkers Trot final

She is the first filly in 26 years to win the race and did so equalling the 1:53.1 track record.

by Yonkers Raceway

Joviality S became the first filly since Continental victory in 1996 to win Yonkers Raceway's MGM Yonkers Trot, taking the $280,904 final and the first leg of the Trotting Triple Crown for 3-year-olds on Friday night (July 1) in 1:53.1 to equal the track record for her division.

Driver Brian Sears had Joviality S ready to leave from post seven, and she fired right to the top, carving out fractions of :27.2, :56.4, and 1:24.4 while pursued by pocket-sitter Double Deceiver (David Miller). Those two faced off in a match race through the lane, and although Double Deceiver made some late headway, it wasn't enough, as Joviality S tallied by a length and matched Plunge Blue Chip's track record established back in 2018. Pour Mea Double (Dexter Dunn) got up for third.

"She's just so handy out on the track and lets me do anything that I want. It makes my job so much easier. She has so much talent, gets over the ground so easy, and just has a great gait to her," said Sears. "I let her roll along a little bit tonight. She felt really good getting over the track. I called on her a little bit down the lane, and she picked it up like she usually does."

With one notch in the Trotting Triple Crown now secured, the question will be if Joviality S opts to go in the Hambletonian or Hambletonian Oaks, but Sears noted she could have some additional racing to do before that.

"I really haven't talked to Marcus (trainer Marcus Melander) about it. Maybe we'll get a sire stake or two in between now and Hambletonian Day or we'll just take it from there. We'd still like to race her in New York and keep her tight," remarked Sears.

Melander trains Joviality S, a daughter of Chapter Seven out of Pasithea Face S, for owner Courant Inc., whose AM Bloodstock Inc. bred the filly. Joviality S has won all five of her starts in 2022, has a record of 14-2-0 from 17 lifetime tries, and has now banked $1,205,818. She paid $2.40 to win as the favorite and led an $8.00 exacta and a $23.00 trifecta.

It was a 1-2 finish for trainer Ake Svanstedt in the companion $126,165 New York New York Mile for 3-year-old filly trotters, with 1-5 favorite Jiggy Jog S (Dunn) defeating stablemate Little Pink Lies (Svanstedt) in a 1:54 effort.

Little Pink Lies shot to the top from post five, but Dunn also left from post six with Jiggy Jog S, and she cleared to the point passing the :27.3 opening quarter. Jiggy Jog S then faced no pressure from there, trotting through a half in :56.1 and a three-quarters in 1:24.3.

While Jiggy Jog S had a fairly routine journey up to that point, it was anything but routine on the last turn as she drifted out and then got rough, allowing Little Pink Lies to take command on the inside and get a bit of separation coming into the lane. However, Jiggy Jog S got back on the right foot once she got straightened up in the stretch and was able to chase Little Pink Lies back down, defeating her by three-quarters of a length. Cash Infusion (Yannick Gingras) came in third.

A Walner—Hot Mess Hanover filly bred by Vestmarka AB and owned by Jorgen Sparredal Inc., Jiggy Jog S won for the fourth time in her 15th career appearance, and she has now earned $349,056. Jiggy Jog S paid $2.70 to win and keyed a $7.70 exacta and a $37.40 trifecta.

Pleaseletmeknow triumphs in MGM Grand Messenger Stakes final

by Yonkers Raceway

For the second straight year, owner/breeder Fiddler's Creek Stables, trainer Travis Alexander, and driver Matt Kakaley won the $261,730 MGM Grand Messenger Stakes final at Yonkers Raceway to begin the Triple Crown of Pacing for 3-year-old colts and geldings, with Pleaseletmeknow prevailing from first-up in 1:51.3.

It would be favorite Gulf Shores (Yannick Gingras) who set the pace in the event, carving out fractions of :27, :55.4, and 1:24 after going to the front from post four. Pleaseletmeknow and Kakaley grabbed a seat in fourth from post seven, went first-over after the half, and advanced into second on the way to three-quarters.

Gulf Shores managed to keep Pleaseletmeknow at bay on the last turn, but Pleaseletmeknow surged by the tempo-setter in mid-stretch and went on to tally by a length. Gulf Shores had to settle for second over Captain Cowboy (Dexter Dunn), who tipped out in the lane after a pocket trip and closed well.

"My gameplan was just to push and hope for a spot. If Yannick was getting around Dexter too easy, maybe we were going to have to push the pace a little bit, but it went the way I thought it would," said Kakaley. "Dexter protected the two-hole and we found a spot in fourth. I was pretty confident once we could be first-over. This colt, he doesn't give up. He's just a little fella, but he gets around a half so good. The half-mile track is probably a little bit to his advantage."

Pleaseletmeknow is an American Ideal gelding, and he has eight victories from 13 career starts. He pushed his bankroll to $362,324 and paid $9.40 to win. He was on top of a $19.20 exacta and a $50.50 trifecta.

"He's come along in a big way. Last year, he was awful training down, and we didn't stake him very much," said Alexander, who conditioned American Courage to victory in the 2021 edition of the MGM Grand Messenger. "Once he saw the starting gate he took off."

"He's got the (New York) sire stakes, he's got the race at Pocono (Max Hempt), and we might talk about taking him to the Little Brown Jug. We'll see."

Gotthegreenlight (Jason Bartlett) and Wine N Dine Me (Tim Tetrick) shared top honors in the companion $104,790 Park MGM Pace for 3-year-old fillies, dead-heating in a 1:52.1 mile.

4-5 favorite Wickedly Innocent (Todd McCarthy) came out of the pocket and took over the lead from Madeira Hanover (Gingras) after the :26.4 opening quarter and kept the tempo hot from there, hitting the half in :54.3 and the three-quarters in 1:23. Gotthegreenlight, who tucked into third from post seven, got going first-over heading to the latter marker, with Wine N Dine Me on her cover second-over.

On the final bend, Wickedly Innocent managed to stave off Gotthegreenlight, but Gotthegreenlight was able to forge her way into the lead in the upper part of the stretch. However, Wine N Dine Me angled out and was able to chase down Gotthegreenlight at the wire, with the photo finish camera unable to separate them. Wickedly Innocent had to settle for third.

A daughter of American Ideal bred by Stephen Dey, Gotthegreenlight is trained by Nifty Norman for Patricia Stable and Kovach Stables LLC. An earner of over $300,000 lifetime, she has won 11 times from 17 career starts, and she paid $9.30 to win as a 7-1 shot. The exacta with Gotthegreenlight on top was worth $70.00 and the trifecta with her in first kicked back $279.00.

Scott Di Domenico trains Wine N Dine Me, a Huntsville filly bred by Steve Jones and Jonathan Kurnit, for owners Triple D Stables Inc., Donald Robinson, Michael Robinson, and Howard Taylor. She has compiled a record of 3-1-3 from 13 lifetime attempts, and scored by far her most significant victory to date. Dispatched at 18-1, she returned $18.40 and keyed a $90.00 exacta and a $392.50 trifecta.

Top freshmen vie for Next Generation riches

The $150,000 events feature Ohio bred's at Eldorado Scioto Downs

by Jay Wolf

While area pyrotechnic displays are scheduled for Monday night (July 4), the real fireworks may be at Eldorado Scioto Downs during the four $150,000 Next Generation events for 2-year-old Ohio-bred, colt and filly pacers and trotters on Independence Day.

The concept of the Next Generation is similar to the Mohawk Million and requires nominators to pay $10,000 on March 15 to claim a spot in the field for any of the four events.

Eight freshman filly trotters will compete in the first Next Gen event.

Chulada (Brett Miller) drew the rail and will be making her second career start. She was fourth in the $25,000 leg of the Kentucky Sire Stakes (June 26) at Oak Grove Racing – timed in 1:58. Owner Crawford Farms purchased the daughter of What The Hill for $70,000 at the Lexington Select Sale. Chulada is a full sister to Chulo who won last year's Next Generation filly trot.

The most experienced filly in the field is The Stable.ca and Hutchison Harness' Swinging Senorita (Anthony MacDonald). The Nex Generation will be the filly's third purse start – a maiden win at MGM Northfield Park (June 17) and a closing second at The Meadows (June 24).

"We had six fillies training down and a month ago we didn't know which one was going to make it (to the Next Generation). I left it up to the filly that had the most experience and did her work the best," said MacDonald. "She's really strong, quick on her feet... I think we are in a pretty good position."

The action moves to pace in race #12 and features a quartet of fillies that are a perfect two-for-two in qualifiers – Tk Dragonfly (Ronnie Wrenn, Jr.), Valley Of Fear (Brett Miller), My Red Sea (Kayne Kauffman) and Mcseaside (Chris Page).

Tk Dragonfly is conditioned by Brian Brown for Milton Leeman, Steve Manning, Brent Meizlish and Warren Miller. The daughter of Fear The Dragon won her second qualifying effort at the Delaware County Fairgrounds (June 26) in 1:55.1 (last quarter in :26.3).

Valley Of Fear comes into Ohio with a couple of Woodbine Mohawk Park schooling wins, including her final one in 1:56.1. The $29,000 yearling purchase is co-owned by Hutt Racing Stable, Ozzie Mackay and trainer Blake MacIntosh.

My Red Sea is a daughter of Downbytheseaside, who was picked from the Ohio Select Sale by Kayne Kauffman for the partnership of Redline Racing Stables, Redracer and David Van Dusen. The $75,000 purchase overcame a break in stride at the start of her last qualifying effort at Scioto Downs (June 27) to win in 1:58.3.

Mcseaside is final 'undefeated' entry, but most overcome post #8. The daughter of Downbytheseaside is owned by Burke Racing Stable, Beasty, J&T Silva Stables and Knox Services. The driver/trainer combo of Chris Page and Ronnie Burke have captured half of the previous six Next Generation events.

The freshman colt trot will feature the undefeated Black Magic (Chris Lems) and the second The Stable.ca/Hutchison Harness entry, What A Mission (Anthony MacDonald).

Black Magic is the son of Full Count and is perfect in two career starts, including a 1:57.2 mile at The Meadows on June 24th. He is trained by Steve Cross for the partnership of Richard Gutnick, Thomas Pontone and Joseph Lozito, Jr.

What A Mission was a length and a half back in second in his first career effort at The Meadows – individually timed in 1:59.3.

"He was one of our worst colts training down, very immature and made a lot of breaks," said MacDonald. "He's really put it together the last month... If we can get him into a good spot and have a little bit of luck, maybe we'll be in the winner's circle."

The colt pacers will close out the Next Generation action.

Twin B Seamonster (Brett Miller) is the group's fastest performers in the young season thanks to his 1:54.1 gate-to-wire win (June 20) at Woodbine Mohawk Park. David Menary trains and co-owns with Anthony Timmins. The pair purchased this son of Downbytheseaside for $65,000 at last fall's Harrisburg yearling sale.

Cross Creek (Tyler Smith) has shown some speed thanks to a second-place qualifying effort at the Delaware County Fairgrounds in 1:55.3. Cross Creek is the full brother of Gulf Shores, last year's Ohio divisional champ and now one of the nation's top three-year-old pacers. He is co-owned by breeders William Walters and Joe McLead, trainer Ron Steck and Johnny Smith.

The Burke Brigade will send out Act Fast (Chris Page). The Downbytheseaside colt rallied to win his second qualifier (June 21) in 1:54.4 at The Meadows. He is co-owned by Burke Racing Stable, Knox Services, Rich Lombardo and Beasty.

THE VIEW FROM WOODBINE MOHAWK PARK

with MELISSA KEITH

Mohawk star Forbidden Trade rounding into top form

by Melissa Keith

On April 29, Woodbine Mohawk Park announced that an “enhanced free-for-all” would be offered to attract competitive new top-class horses. Beginning in May, the purse for the FFA trot and pace would be based on a formula of $6,500 per horse, “with the possibility of a $65,000 purse should the class attract 10 entrants.”

Forbidden Trade is the reigning Dan Patch Older Male Trotter of the Year. The Kadaba–Pure Ivory son began his 2022 comeback gradually, starting with Mohawk’s $45,500 FFA trot on May 16, in which he finished sixth of seven horses.

"I don't think he changed too much, he just needed a few starts in the beginning of the season and now I think he's getting into better shape, feeling better and better," said trainer Luc Blais.

There's no better proof than Forbidden Trade's steady rise through the month of June. In the $36,000 preferred handicap on June 6, he and regular driver Bob McClure flew home ahead of Dream Nation and Hey Livvy in 1:53.1s.

"I think if you check a few starts before, you [would] see he's coming better and better," said Blais, referencing Forbidden Trade's late speed.

In that first 2022 win, the stallion closed in :26 flat over a surface rated "good."

On June 18, Forbidden Trade made the front early in the $45,500 Mohawk FFA, opting to follow Its Academic from the pocket after the opening quarter. McClure launched his horse three-wide for the stretch drive, overtaking Its Academic and Oney Hall, and holding off fast-closing Pikachu Hanover in 1:52.3s.

"He needs all the time and a few races before he gets [in] shape," said Blais.

On June 27, he returned as 3-5 favorite in the $38,500 open, sitting fourth as Hey Livvy cut the fractions. "He was far [back] a little bit. I was a little bit worried about it, on the last turn," said Blais. Forbidden Trade quickly made up the four lengths it took to catch leaders, gaining ground in a :27.2 last quarter that carried him past Patriarch Hanover in a new seasonal mark of 1:52.2s.

Forbidden Trade likes to chase horses on the track. Between races, he enjoys running in his paddock, playing hard-to-get when it's time to go inside. Those characteristics have served him well at Mohawk and The Meadowlands, where he contested Saturday's (July 2) $147,000 Crawford Farms Open Trot.

"We're lucky here," said his trainer. "I think he likes the track, and sometimes when you change tracks, the horse likes that... they step up."

Forbidden Trade stepped up there in the 2021 Crawford Farms Open Trot, just as he did in the 2019 Hambletonian – still his fastest (1:51) win.

The 6-year-old trotter's career highlight remains that unforgettable 15-1 upset. "It's got to be the Hambo," said Blais, recalling Forbidden Trade's battle with heat winner Greenshoe. "Double heat and in the final, the way he just beat them, it was amazing. He was on top of his game."

While many top rivals have since retired, Blais said that wasn't the plan for Forbidden Trade, even two years ago. "We had a bad year at 4 – he [injured] a foot behind, and we were waiting for him. He came back last year and he was the best horse in North America. It's nice to watch him race, and [owner] Mr. Godin likes to watch him race. If he stays healthy and sound, we go year by year."

Canada's 2018 O'Brien Horse of the Year began a limited stud career in early 2022, matched with a select number of broodmares also belonging to Serge Godin (Determination) of Montreal, QC. Blais didn't think double-duty Forbidden Trade's performance on the track was affected much, if at all: "We don't breed too much. We bred a few mares, homebred, and that's it."

Mohawk preferred regular Its Academic joined the defending champ in Saturday's Crawford Farms Open. The enriched Mohawk FFA has yet to bring significant change to the top level at Canada's top track, in Blais' estimation: "I think they look like almost the same horses [each week]. Sometimes [there are] a few more. All those horses are good."

This time of year, Forbidden Trade typically travels. Bob McClure was back in the bike for the trotter's return stateside; Dan Dube was his catch driver in 2021.

"I think he's getting better and better by the week," his trainer told HRU. Last year, the stallion won two major races (Crawford Farms Open, TVG Open) and missed the board in two (John Cashman Memorial, Breeders Crown final) at The Meadowlands.

"It's like that sometimes," said Blais. "It's tough at that level, to be on top all the time. That's a tough level of horse. You try to keep him on top of his game, but it's livestock and sports. It's a long year and you can't control everything. You do the same thing all the time, and you hope everything turns [out] good. You need luck. You need a trip. That level is very tough because they are all good, they can all go fast—anybody can win that race, you know. It's sometimes how the horse feels that day. It's like people—you have good days and bad days. You try to have the good days, but sometimes you won't."

Forbidden Trade has more good days than most.

"He's a great horse anywhere, everywhere. He's very laid back. Not tough on himself. He doesn't waste energy on anything; he uses the energy at the right place," Blais said.

He has brought the stallion to The Meadowlands solo, as staff, including Forbidden Trade's caretaker Nadia Carriere, look after 24 other horses at the private farm in Campbellville.

Ecurie D is "the horse to beat," in Blais' opinion: "I think he is a special horse, that horse. Very special. I see him, we race against him twice, and he was an amazing horse." But Forbidden Trade is also hitting peak form: "He's not complicated at all. He's very natural. He makes me look good," said the 2021 O'Brien Award of Horsemanship winner.

Joe Pavia on the transition from driver to trainer

by Murray Brown

Joe Pavia began driving harness horses professionally 42 years ago. He ceased doing so on doctor's orders after being in a succession of wrecks that resulted in him accumulating five different concussions.

"Thank goodness I don't remember the terrible wreck at The Meadowlands which began the accumulation of five concussions. The thought of it frightens me so much that I've been reluctant to even watch the replay of it. Through my career I've had five concussions and always managed to get back up. After a while, I had no choice. I was literally between life and death. I was out of action. I was forced to redo my career. I had always trained horses, but training them was secondary to driving. I considered myself to be a decent driver – not a John Campbell, Bill O'Donnell or Herve Filion. But I felt that I could hold my own just about everywhere. Don't get me wrong I wouldn't place myself with the Hall of Fame guys, but on the other hand, if I had the horsepower, I think I wouldn't embarrass myself driving against just about anybody. That all ceased on June 27, 2016 at Pocono Downs."

Q: That had to be extremely difficult. You had been driving competitively for 36 years. Now, not only was your income essentially cut in half, but your way of life was significantly impacted.

"It wasn't easy, of course, but on the other hand it wasn't unexpected. I had promised my wife Dawn and son Michael that the next accident I'd be in would certainly be the last one. I had watched several successful drivers during my career end up close to being penniless. I promised myself that would not happen to me. I watched my money and always put some away for the proverbial rainy day. I had made some real estate profits in selling homes. My wife has always been very supportive. She had cared for me the nine months of rehab after my most serious accident. I knew she wasn't keen on me going back to drive, especially since the neurologist had said that I should never drive again. Of course, losing almost half of one's income would create a negative effect, but not near as impactful it could have been if I hadn't taken good care of my finances. Although I didn't have a great many horses, I had a few good ones. Perhaps most importantly I had a great nucleus of owners. They were not only clients of mine but they were also loyal friends who stood behind me in good times and some that maybe weren't that good. One of them is Steve Held a man I consider to be the greatest human being I've ever known. He has been almost like a pseudo father to me. I've had horses for him for 25 years. We speak just about every day."

Q: You weren't born into the sport as many are. How did your life in harness racing evolve?

"My dad used to supply Vernon Downs with bread, pizza dough and other bakery products. I would hitch along in his truck while he made his deliveries. We'd often just hang out watching the horses after the bread had been delivered. I met Tony Mondie. He allowed me to spend time at his stable. I started jogging horses. I got my first job working for Bob McNulty at Vernon. He was a tough old bird. He expected a lot from those working for him and he received that – otherwise you were gone. I remember him asking me, 'What is the difference between doing a good job and a poor one?’ His answer was, ‘Ten seconds.’ One day when the work was done, he asked me if I knew how to tar paper a roof. When I told him I didn’t, he said that I was going to learn. That afternoon the roof was done I got a job with Tony Mondt. Then I was given three horses to train and drive. They looked terrible on paper and their lines suggested that they were just that. I convinced their owner Gino Testa to turn them out for a month to try to freshen them up. We did that. After they came back, they won 35 races that summer. A local man named Joe D’Amato who owned 15 horses gave me my first big break in training a big stable. We ended up doing very well with them. The turning point of my career was meeting Steve Held. I’ve had his horses for 25 years now. He is as kind, generous and as loyal a person as has ever walked this earth.”

Q: What is the best horse with which you’ve been associated?

“In terms of a horse which I’ve had in my stable from a yearling on, that would have to be Steelhead Hanover. He was as honest a horse as you could possibly find. He earned $577,450 and took a record of 1.48.3f for us. I won the Mistletoe Shalee with A filly Named Dolce. I won a heat of the Little Brown Jug behind Easy Goer. I also drove Falcon Seelster to his first win as a 3-year-old at Pompano at odds of around 40-1. His trainer was so happy and so excited that he hugged and picked me up in the winner’s circle.”

Q: Which is the best horse that you’ve ever seen?

“That would have to be Niatross. I think that there is no telling how great he would have been today, with no hubrails, the bikes made for speed, the fast tracks and the incredible drivers out there. I strongly believe that it is unfair to compare horses from one generation against others. Having said that, I also believe that there are exceptions – horses that are trans generational. Niatross was certainly one of them.”

Q: Speaking of drivers, please give me the five best that you’ve seen.

“1. John Campbell. What can you say. He holds most of the records. A true professional. He is a great driver and has now become a great administrator.

“2. Brian Sears. In terms of talent, maybe the one who had the most. He has a great perspective on life. He is able to compartmentalize all the aspects. He is a horse’s best friend. No driver that I’ve ever known took better care of a horse, especially a young one.

“3. Walter Case. Raw speed. He could make horses fly. It was almost as though when he sat behind one for the first time that horse would accelerate faster than it ever would or could with any other driver.

“4. Herve Filion. He was half horse, maybe three quarters. He had a remarkable touch with horses. They could do things for him that no others could do.

“5. Tie - Ronnie Pierce. Scary good. Maybe the greatest intuitive driver I’ve ever seen.

“5. Tie - Tim Tetrick. He does everything well. Very hard to get by in the stretch.

“5. Tie - Bill O'Donnell. For a given period of time, maybe as great a driver as ever sat behind a horse.

“I’d like to add something about two of my heroes when I was just getting started. There are probably many reading this who may not have even heard of them. Trust me, Jack Bailey and Lloyd Gilmour were two guys who defined the term ‘good horsemen.’ You can take it to the bank that they were that.”

Q: How about trainers?

“I won’t give you five. I’ll just mention a couple that I believe are the best of current times. Jimmy Takter is incredible. If there is something challenging about a horse he will bring out the best in it. He is an incredibly hard worker. His record is beyond great. I don’t know how Tony Alagna does what he does and manages to do it so well. He trains and manages 120 horses and does an incredible job with them. I have 17 and I think that I am at or near my max with that number.”

Q: Let’s speak about the 17 head that you are training.

“There are seven 2-year-olds. Thus far, I’ve only qualified one. I’ll have two more done this week. I have three 3-year-olds and seven older race horses. I doubt that I have any champions. On the other hand, I think that just about all of them are worth paying bills on. Two of my 2-year-olds are by Stay Hungry. I like them both. I have a filly that was a little behind with sickness. I think she has extreme speed. I believe the colt by Stay Hungry will likely turn out to be the longest wearing of the pair. The thing that impresses me about mine and a few of the other ones I’ve seen is that that almost without exception, they have good mouths, seem to be willing and are good gaited. I certainly expected Somebeachsomewhere to be a great sire, but the degree of his influence is almost staggering. From only a few years in the stud, his sons are shining more than any other stallion I can recall. Captaintreacherous, Downbytheseaside, Huntsville, Sunshine Beach and now Stay Hungry. I can’t recall any other stallion ever doing that kind of job.”

Q: As a horse trainer do you see it as being difficult to make ends meet?

“Undoubtedly. Costs keep escalating. The cost of fueling vehicles on the road trickles down to every part of the sport. Not only gas, but also equipment, feed and help — help, of course, when you can get it. It seems that most people are having a problem getting help. You name the expense and it’s up. The loss of the backstretch at most tracks has been monumental, probably a whole lot more than anybody anticipated. It has hurt us in many ways. The cost of doing business is the chief one of course. There are others such as the loss of the camaraderie that was a great part of the sport. I try as hard as I’m able to keep my bills reasonable, but it is difficult, very difficult with everything around you going up to keep from going along with the tide. The other side of that equation is that most owners do not need to own horses. With expenses going up, I wonder at what point will they draw in their horns and either get out or reduce their horse holdings.”

Q: It seems like Pompano Park was your winter home base for forever. How will its closing impact you?

“It will hurt as it will hurt just about everyone in the sport, either directly or indirectly. I’ve raced there for 40 consecutive years.

Until this past season I spent every off season there. This past year I moved to Sunshine Meadows just up the road a little. It's a great place to train, but I worry about its future as well. Land expansion and value has been climbing continuously in South Florida. It may be that it's just a matter of time before this equestrian center becomes too valuable to be a place to train horses."

Q: Where are you located at this time of year?

"We are at Wind Gap in Pennsylvania. It's an excellent training center that isn't too far from most of the major east coast racetracks. We are within two hours or less from Pocono Downs, The Meadowlands, Tioga, Vernon, Yonkers and Chester."

Q: How do you visualize our sport?

"I wish I could say otherwise, but I don't see a whole lot to be enthusiastic about. We have many problems. The major one in my opinion is that we have lost generation upon generation of youth. You go to a racetrack and there are very few people there. Those that are there are invariably old. The tracks that have casino affiliation care little about our sport. I sometimes think that they actually want us to fail. Pennsylvania is a prime example. One of the biggest factors in our growth and success was night racing. All three Pennsylvania tracks race during the day when our customer base has to work. I firmly believe that going to and being at the track is the biggest factor in attaining any interest in our sport both from wagering and involvement factors. I hate to come across as being a believer in conspiracies but I believe, especially in Pennsylvania that shunting our product to daylight hours is a well thought out plan to get rid of us. Neither The Meadowlands nor Jeff Gural are perfect, but they are still our major beacons. The Big M is still where it's at. It remains a class operation run extremely well. Of all our racetracks it remains the one where people most like to go, race and bet. Their numbers prove it. Yonkers sure distributes a whole lot of money to the industry, but one wonders how long it will go on. I wish there were a means to promote and spruce up the facility and the paddock. Aside from the huge amount of purse money being offered, it's a tough place to get to. Getting over the George Washington bridge or down the New York Thruway to get there is neither easy nor cheap. I give the folks who race there nightly a whole lot of credit. Perhaps if I were younger and still driving I would feel differently."

THE ART OF BREEDING

with ALAN LEAVITT

He's a hell of a guy, but...

by Alan Leavitt

The other day I watched one of Tony Alagna's grooms expertly roll a bandage onto the front leg of a lovely, big trotting mare. It recalled my days as a groom, circa age 12, when we always used shipping bandages. In those days the outside end of the bandage had two strings, or cords, that you tied around the leg to keep everything in place.

From that operation came the term, "corded," meaning what happened when the strings, or cords, were tied too tightly. That meant a filled tendon, or, in the worst case, a bowed tendon. Today the cords are long gone, and I suspect the term "corded" is, too.

There was another term that I learned as I was coming up, and that was "braving up." I heard it first from a great horseman, Clint Galbraith, who in turn learned it from another great horseman, Clint Hodgins.

For those with short memories, Galbraith made Niatross into a living legend. Niatross was bred and owned by Elsie Berger, whose horse operation was funded by the money she inherited from her husband, who operated several dry cleaning establishments.

In the fall of her colt's yearling year, Ms. Berger gave 50 per cent of him to Clint Galbraith, in return for no training bills. The horse went on to a virtually unbeaten racing career from 2 to 4, setting all kinds of new records in the process. At 4, Galbraith time trialed him at The Red Mile, and he became the first standardbred ever to break 1:50.

When Galbraith pulled him up and came back in front of the grandstand, the track was suddenly flooded with people. The crowd was so thick that a tractor had to be used to clear a path through the throng so Niatross could finally leave the track.

At that point in time, Lou Guida got involved with Niatross, eventually syndicating him for $6 million dollars. Along the way there was some hanky-panky when Galbraith, as a 50 per cent owner, was asked to simply resign a sales agreement that was supposedly "just a formality." As it turned out, several important points had been changed in the copy Galbraith unknowingly signed.

But back to the term, "braving up," that Clint Hodgins passed on to Galbraith, and from there to the man I came up under, Howard Beissinger. What it meant was restoring the inner resources a racehorse can exhaust when he is pushed too hard, too often.

When that happens, although the horse is still physically sound, he loses the will to keep trying at the end of a mile.

"Braving him up" simply means training him in a way that he gets his fight back. I'm not going into all the details that involves, but I watched Howard Beissinger spend an entire winter training Speedy Somolli behind a wall of horses between his 2- and 3-year-old seasons. Speedy would be going bananas, trying to get over his slower road-blockers.

By the time his 3-year-old season started, Speedy Somolli had all his fight back and would keep trying every step of the mile. He was "braved up," as only a master horseman could do it.

*"Braving him up" simply means training him in a way that he gets his fight back. ~ Alan Leavitt

For those who came along too late to know what a great horseman Beissinger was, he both trained and drove three Hambletonian winners.

As an added fillip, two of Beissinger's Hambletonian winners, Speedy Crown and Speedy Somolli, went on to be foundation sires. Beissinger was an integral part of my life for 40 years. I miss you every day, Boss, but I remember everything you taught me.

But back to Alagna's mare with the bandages. I read her halter plate as she headed for the trailer to be shipped off to Oak Grove to race: Beltassima.

With my usual compulsion; I ran her five generation pedigree. Thank you again, USTA.

It turns out Beltassima is highly inbred. In her third generation she not only has two crosses to Garland Lobell, she also is 3 by 3 to the foundation mare, Amour Angus. This kid has played a role in both their breeding careers, I'm immodestly here to say.

Further back, really too far to have any affect, is Speedy Crown once in her fourth generation and then three more times in her fifth. Also, interesting at least to me, was a stallion called Honor Rodney, who was by Rodney, and out of Honor Bright. Honor Rodney was no hell, as we horsemen say, but his full sister, Elaine Rodney, was a top stakes filly here, for Clint Hodgins, as it happens, and then was exported and became a major force in the big money, European trots.

Rodney, by the by, was the greatest trotting sire of all time who never sired a Hambletonian winner. He stood at Walnut Hall Stud, now the Kentucky Horse Park, owned by Sherman and Polly Jennings, managed by Francis McKinzie.

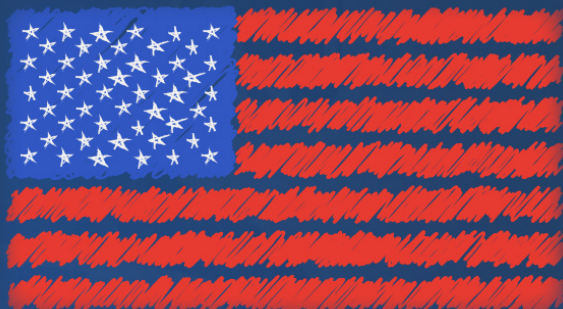

McKinzie, who was a close friend of mine, would never say a bad word about whoever signed his pay checks, and that included Sherman Jennings, whose usual description in the horse biz started with "d and ended with "k," and rhymed with click.

One day, shortly after McKinzie had taken over at Walnut Hall Stud, he was at lunch at a local horseman's joint down town. A local wit shouted across the room, "Hey, Francis, what's Sherman Jennings like?"

Never at a loss for words, McKinzie shouted back, "He's a hell of a guy, but he just ain't much in demand."

Which could apply to more than a few people I can think of.

Sparven posts huge upset in E3 final

by Thomas Hedlund

Jörgen Westholm-trained Sparven (The Sparrow in English) had finished 4-3-2-6-3-3 in six starts career starts for earnings of some $10,000 before she crossed the wire first in the $385,000 (double purse for the winner in this race) E3 final for fillies on Saturday (July 2) afternoon.

It was one of the biggest upsets ever in a Swedish classical stakes race.

Sparven qualified for this final in Eskilstuna finishing third in her elimination two weeks ago. From post 12 in the final, expectations were low from the entire party surrounding the Bird Parker filly.

Mika Forss drove Sparven and, to be honest, even with 1/8to go, she seemed to be out of luck to grab anything other than a smaller check. But Forss never gave up as new leader and first choice Eireann was marked by the tough trip she got.

Eireann was three wide during the race's first half mile and then had to face a first-over trip. Still, she got control of the race at the top of the stretch and looked strong, despite the hard trip, as she got close to the wire.

From far, far outside, Mika Forss gave it all behind Sparven, who finished strongly and hit the finish line a nose ahead of Eireann as a 123-1-upset.

Replay here.

It was a good day to win the first race in her career. Sparven won in a mile rate of 1:58.2 over 1.3 miles.

Eireann was second and Halley Wania third.

BEDAZZLED SOX WINS MALE E3 FINAL

Trainer Roger Walmann's Eireann had a splendid performance to finish second and when the final for colts and geldings was scheduled, Walmann had two shots. Bedazzled Sox (Brillantissime) came to the final after eight lifetime starts where six of them had ended with victory. A solid elimination performance and post 1 behind the gate made Badazzled Sox a factor in the big race on Saturday afternoon.

Driver Torbjörn Jansson, the Elitloppet winner with Meadow Road in 1985, knew that he had to keep first choice, undefeated Corazon Combo, on the outside and the tactic succeeded. Bedazzled Sox kept the lead with Corazon Combo on the outside and it was these two trotters that battled over the stretch. But, to be honest, Corazon Combo was never really close to defeat the leader who won in a mile rate of 1:56.4 over 1.3 miles.

Replay here.

Roger Walmann collected his ninth E3 win and Bedazzled Sox is, for now, the king of the 3-years-old crop in Sweden.

Just like in the fillies final, the purse was $385,000 (Bedazzled Sox earned $192,500 while runner up Corazon Combo collected $48,125) and behind the two dominants, Global Destination followed as third.

CALLMETHEBREEZE CONTINUES TO WIN

Philippe Allaire trained 4-year-old Callmethebreeze (Trixton) went to his home country, Italy, when the $160,000 Gran Premio Tino Triossi was raced in Rome on Wednesday (June 29) night.

Italian driver Andrea Guzzinati sent the Trixton son to the lead, but had to leave that position to outside challenger Capital Mail in the first turn. Guzzinati made a new move and hit the lead with a little less than mile to go and Callmethebreeze fought well when challenged once more from opponents attacking on the inside and outside over the stretch. Allaire's trotter won in a mile rate of 1:57.1 over 1.3 miles.

Italian Derby winner Bleff Dipa (Mister J.P.), trained by Holger Ehlert and driven by Vincenzo Piscuoglio Dell'Annunziata, sprinted to safe win in $160,000 Gran Premio Turilli the same night. Leader Zacon Gio seemed to have everything under control as the field turned for home, but Bleff Dipa finished quickly, as the same time as leader Zacon Gio lost power shortly ahead of the wire. Bleff Dipa won in mile rate 1:57 over 1.3 miles.

The 4-year-old mares battled in the $69,000 Gran Premio Antonio Carena and Enrico Bellei, who has dominated the Italian harness racing business for many years, sent his Crystal Pan (Ideale Luis) quickly to the lead and when Bellei stepped on the gas pedal in the last turn, Crystal Pan left her opponents far behind as she came home in 1:53.4.

PARTY SET FOR HALMSTAD

The $232,000 Sprintermästaren and $155,000 Stosprintern for 4-year-old trotters are on the menu when Halmstad, located at the Swedish west coast, plays host to its famous and well visited summer meeting Thursday (July 7) and Saturday (July 9).

The Thursday race card contains the final of $155,000 Stosprintern with 10 mares in the race and the eliminations were held in Halmstad on June 27.

Stefan Melander trained and Courant Stable owned Imhatra Am (Muscle Hill) has impressed a lot this season and not least in her elimination. From post 4, she will be the favorite to win the race.

The $232,000 Sprintermästaren over the mile will be determined after three eliminations and a final during the night in Halmstad. Crop dominant Francesco Zet (Father Patrick) will try the mile for the first time since his runner up performance in E3 final in August last year and Daniel Redén's horse will be a heavy favorite in his elimination.

Julie Manchester – Caretaker

by Victoria Howard

Julie Manchester is a woman who has spent decades getting up before dawn to feed, bathe, rub, and care for her surrogate four-legged children.

"I was born in Fall River, Massachusetts, and have traveled and cared for harness horses as long as I can remember," Manchester said. "Although my family was not involved in the sport, when I was younger I was a riding and barrel racing instructor and exercised thoroughbreds.

"I guess you could say I was always a free spirit. Beside fast horses, I liked fast motorcycles. Unfortunately, when I was 20 years old, I was involved in a motorcycle accident, which was the factor in my moving to sunny Florida to seek a new career working with harness horses.

"When I arrived in Florida I got a job with trainer Bruce Wienland at the Gilcrest Training Center. I also worked for Herman Ross (who taught me a lot) and Billy Walters.

"Over the years, I worked for some of the sports top trainers, such as Jim Gluhm (Sun Bird Stable), Per Henrickson, Alvin Cummings, Joe Pavia, Joe and Lyndell Adamsky, and Don Harmon.

"I had my children in the early 1990's so I took a sabbatical for several years to raise my babies. But as they say, 'Once horses and racing are in your blood it never leaves.'

"In 1997, I was hired by Bobby Williams – who became my best buddy – to help him break babies. Quite a few became Florida champions such as Doc's Krista. I also worked at Gold Star Farms, helping break yearlings.

"In 2011, I left Pompano and moved to Monticello, New York and raced there until 2015. Along with running my own stable, I got a side job working for Gill, Yonot and Alicica LeFreniere.

"I received several rewards: one was for my claiming pacer, Eadies Desire and another was a training award for my aged trotter, Tyrees Treasure.

"At that time I was married (my married name was Working) and my husband worked for me. After 32 years of marriage, my husband gave me an ultimatum: 'It's me, or the horses!'

"Well, guess who won. He's not around.

"I worked for trainers Danny Gill and Frank Yanoti before moving to Florida. This is about the time I decided to venture out on my own and try my hand in training, and had a very modest stable of mostly Florida bred.

"After I got divorced I started working for trainer Rod Allen at the Golden Cross Stable in Ocala, breaking and training horses."

Anyone in the business will tell you having a career in harness racing can be very difficult if you're married. The long hours, little time off and traveling with your horse periodically takes a toll. Unless the man and woman are both involved, sadly, many marriages end in divorce.

"This was one of my favorite times until 2019 when my health took a turn and I had to stop. I moved back to Massachusetts to be near my family, and began giving riding lessons to children on Cape Cod.

"I really missed the business so when Bobby Williams called in 2021 and asked if I wanted to work for the Luther Stable, I said yes."

Presently, Julie is working for the red hot Luther Stable and cared for the superstar mare Katie's Lucky Day last winter. In May, the 4-year-old trotting mare was victorious in the Graduate Series in a sizzling 1:50 career-best clocking. The daughter of Uncle Peter by Yanksky took home the top prize for owners Black Magic Racing LLC and Patrick Hoopes. It was the fastest trotting mile by any horse in North America in 2022 by one full second.

"I've not cared for Katie since this past April for she is in the racing barn and I'm now in the baby barn, but Katie and I have a connection and close bond. She loves her peppermints and I was a very proud mama when she won the Graduate Series in a sizzling 1:50. Wow!"

Manchester has had many thrills during her career; her biggest was winning the Zweig Memorial Challenge Cup with Tabor Lobell. Besides Tabor Lobell, Manchester has cared for Doc's Krista, Goldstar Raider, Goldstar Spike, Sonett Grace, Now It Begins (winner in the Lady Godiva), Disco Solliel (Delaware state champion) and Dream Baby Dream (Mary Reynolds winner).

"It never gets old working with these horses. Probably the most enjoyment for me is seeing the babies come out of the fields and go to kindergarten through college. To be able to watch them become the amazing athletes they are is what it's all about.

"I truly admire all the horsemen and horsewomen who still dream about having a champion. Getting up at 5 a.m. to wash feed tubs, feed the horses, clean stalls, harness and brush the horse, race into the late hours and get up and do it all again. These are the true superstars in the sport.

"I've been blessed to have met so many wonderful people who have treated me well and was fortunate to care for all these great equines. I believe God gives everyone a talent and special gift and my gift is working with horses."

Hope springs

by Trey Nosrac

Shonda texted me:

"Hey bro, could you drive me to Wellington on Thursday morning? My insurance policy gave me the green light for another stay at a weight loss clinic. I'll be in-house for two weeks and an outpatient for eternity. LOL."

"No problem, I need to stop at a racetrack for my new owner's license, it's on the way. Time?"

"Need an 8 am pickup."

"Book it, girl. This time it will work."

"Thanks, I feel like a ballet dancer already."

Being overweight is a tricky subject. Most of the time, my half-sister and I banter. Shonda may be round, but she is sharp. She always has witty comments like, "My size is always the elephant in the room, or I lost two pounds this week; I'm surprised you can see me."

On the rainy Thursday morning, Shonda tossed her small, red pull-along suitcase into the back seat of my RAV 4, struggled to climb inside, and then wrestled with her seatbelt. We finally heard the merciful click. She flicked a few raindrops off her pretty nose, turned, and said, "Thanks for taking me."

"Anytime, girlfriend. I'll drive you to the moon if it helps. Just hope you lose more than time and money this year."

She smiled and cracked, "And I hope you don't lose your ass on your latest racehorse."

"Hope Springs."

She punched me on the shoulder, "For both of us."

"No. Hope Springs is the name of the yearling filly I bought at the sale. Shonda, this filly has a GREAT pedigree. She is the ONE."

"Bro, you say that every year. You should make a recording."

I dropped the RAV 4 into gear and began to pull away from the curb.

After a few seconds of the rhythmic wipers, she asked, "Do you think this is genetic? Do I have bad genes?"

I shrugged. "Our mother was damn near anorexic."

"That was the meth. Mom was so busy messing up she never ate."

"Well, if your genes are on the heavy side, it probably comes from the male side of the family. We all had a different father. Benny and I are normal, well, normal-sized, and of course, Benny's addiction issues may come from our mother's gene pool."

She asked, "Do racehorses have fat genes?"

"No idea."

"Come on, Trey. You have an idea about everything."

"Well, I had one broodmare. That broodmare had nine babies with mostly different fathers."

"Sheesh, she makes mom look celibate."

"I watched every foal grow and followed every step of their racing careers, always looking for similar traits. The results were interesting and funky. I don't have any scientific data, but there were weird patterns."

"Like what?"

"Well, one thing blows my mind. You know the part of racing that interests me, Stakes racing?"

"Yeah, you told me 50 times. The horse only races at ages 2 and 3."

"Exactly. None of the babies, not one of the nine, made money or did much in their 2-year-old season."

She winced and said, "I know that isn't a good trait."

"No, it stinks, but this is the freaky part. Except for one that got injured, the others did well on the racetrack at age three or older."

"A gene for late development?"

"I guess."

She asked, "What about their size?"

"They all were average except for one shrimp and one dinosaur. The small one did come from a small stallion named Wishing Stone. But check this out, the mare had another Wishing Stone baby, same mom, same dad. The first one was small, and the second one was an average size. Those genes are mysterious little rascals."

She heaved a sigh. "My biological daddy must have been a whale." After a pause, she asked, "What about racehorses? Did you ever have any fat horses?"

"No, some standardbreds are stout, and some are sleek. There were no whales that I ever saw, but remember, racehorses only get a daily feed bucket. It's not like they can ask for second helpings."

Her eyes misted up. "Where Prince Charming will cut in." She wiped the corner of her eye. "Thanks, bro. I know you always have my back."

She smiled again. "Or potato chips and a tub of Breyers pecan ice cream at midnight. Or a handful of Oreos at every frigging commercial."

"Yeah, that's on you."

"Literally on me. Maybe I should live in a stable."

I nodded. "And run three miles daily."

"Pulling a cart, driven by a handsome man who falls in love with me."

I smiled. "Interesting concept."

"I wouldn't need to buy fat clothes, and people would help me travel in trailers."

"At least you can laugh about it."

"Oh, Trey, there are tears, rivers of tears."

The wipers swished, and I said, "Keep trying, sis."

"The road looks so long."

"Hey, I just bought a $6,000 yearling. In harness racing, that level of yearling is like buying a Ford Fiesta and hoping to race at the Indianapolis Five Hundred."

"Oh bro, you always have been a dreamy, delusional dolt."

"Look, Shonda, I'm not wasting time on platitudes and pep talks. You will probably get plenty of them at the clinic. I know dropping a hundred pounds at age thirty-eight must feel like walking to the moon in snowshoes, but the only way to get there is to go forward with a hopeful heart. Hell, I believe my new filly will be great. You have to believe and go a step at a time. Let's make a date. Next year I'll waltz a thinner you into the winner's circle."

Her eyes misted up. "Where Prince Charming will cut in." She wiped the corner of her eye. "Thanks, bro. I know you always have my back."

I winked at her and said, "Hope Springs."

We knuckle bumped. It felt good.

Big smiles and big plans in OSS Gold opener for freshman pacing fillies

by Austin Stanton / OSS publicity

Two-year-old Ontario Sires Stakes Gold action kicked off on Canada Day (July 1) at Woodbine Mohawk Park, with a pair of $102,200 divisions for 2-year-old pacing fillies.

In the first division John Pentland trainee Cheesy Smile was the bettors' 8-5 favourite and proved worthy of their support, pacing a mile in 1:53.4 to win her second straight start.

Bob McClure positioned the Betterthancheddar daughter fourth at the half-mile, seven lengths off a scorching :55.4 pace set by Beca Mitchell (Sportswriter).

McClure moved her out under cover from Charming Vixen (Sportswriter) driven by Jody Jamieson as the field rounded the far turn. Cheesy Smile powered down the stretch three wide to take the lead and held off a late charging Freshen Up to win by a neck.

"They battled up front and Bob had her settled in nice," said Pentland. "It was fortunate the way they got to the half in a big time. When Jody went, he looked like had a lot of horse. We were lucky to get on his back and everything seemed to work from there."

Cheesy Smile is undefeated through two starts and she made it to the races ready to win thanks to the team helping her along.

"This horse is kind of in your face all the time," said Pentland. "Tori McKinnon is her groom, and Tori is able to make light of the whole situation. She has such a way with horses that are a little awkward. So, she has been a real big help."

Another name Pentland mentioned was Doug Downey, who has driven Cheesy Smile all year and proclaimed her one of the best fillies he's ever worked with. High praise from a man who worked for Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame trainer Bob McIntosh.

"On the track she's just a nice training horse," said Pentland. "She doesn't pull. She doesn't try to pull up. She's happy to do her work. She likes training with other horses. The filly has a shot at being somebody.”

The final piece of the puzzle, which is key to any successful racehorse, is Pentland’s supportive co-owners Cindy Molyneux, Peter Charlton, and Archie Leach.

“You can’t get a better group of people to own a horse,” said Pentland. “If this horse had won a Grassroots race they would have been just as happy. I am so glad to have their support, and they just make it a lot of fun.”

James MacDonald drove Freshen Up to second place finish for trainer Chantal Mitchell. Owned by Bella Racing, Evan Katz, and Frank Canzone, the Bettors Delight filly closed in 27.3 in a game effort. Rounding out the top-three was Starlight Dancer (Artspeak). Trevor Henry drove the Melissa Lamoreaux trainee.

The second Gold division went in race six at the Campbellville oval and 9-5 favourite Big Big Plans gave freshman sire All Bets Off his first OSS winner from his first crop of racing age.

Virtual Kiss, Lyons Bettorday, and Ima Doll jockeyed for the early lead with each holding it at a point in the light :28.3 first quarter before Trevor Henry moved Big Big Plans out four wide down the backstretch.

“We were going slow,” said Henry. “Sylvain wanted to be in the two-hole or something, and I couldn’t sit where I was because we weren’t going much, and she cleared and fought all the way to the wire.”

Big Big Plans out of SomethinIncredible is trained by Bob McIntosh who bred her with X Stables, and Dave Boyle. Henry has driven her Bettors Delight half-siblings Beyond Better and Thats Incredible who have earned $296,470, and $323,494 respectively.

“She’s better gaited than all of them,” said Henry. “She’s a great gaited filly. She hasn’t done anything wrong yet. Touch wood.”

McIntosh and Boyle co-own the filly with Mardon Stables.

Matching his runner-up result in the opening OSS division, James MacDonald piloted Lyons Bettorday to second place. Anthony Beaton trains the Bettors Delight filly who is owned by Threelyonsracing.

Birdie Three (Sportswriter) was third for trainer Wayne McGean. Austin Sorrie drove for McGean and co-owners David Mercer, and Joseph Lewis.

National season's record for Boudoir Hanover in Nadia Lobell; JK Victory wins Hoosier Cup

by Emily Gaskin / Harrah's Hoosier Park

Boudoir Hanover ventured to Harrah's Hoosier Park Racing & Casino for the first time and made her Harrah's Hoosier Park debut a winning one on Friday (July 1) as she captured the featured event of the evening, the $115,000 Nadia Lobell Stakes for 3-year-old pacing fillies. Stopping the timer in an eye-catching 1:48.3, Boudoir Hanover established a national season's record for 3-year-old pacers and a new lifetime best with the victory. Boudoir Hanover just missed the Harrah's Hoosier Park track record for 3-year-old pacing fillies which is held by another Tony Alagna trainee Reflect With Me who established a 1:48.2 mark in the same event in 2020.

With driver John DeLong in the bike, Boudoir Hanover left just enough to protect her rail position and landed along the rail in third. Ricky Macomber Jr. had Goo Goo Won away from the gate firing and she grabbed the lead through the opening panel in a snappy :25.2 while JK's Rollin Baby and Michael Oosting benefitted from a pocket trip. As the field approached the half mile station in :54.1, Boudoir Hanover ranged up to take command. Trace Tetrack had Trick Of The Light on the attack first over through the three-quarters in 1:22.

As the field turned for home, the top pair were matching strides and the stage was set for a battle to the wire. Just when it appeared Trick of The Light had the momentum on the outside, Boudoir Hanover dug in gamely and used a :26.2 closing quarter to get the win by a neck. Trick Of The Light was forced to settle for second while JK's Rollin Baby held on for third. As the heavy betting favorite, Boudoir Hanover returned $2.80 for the victory.

"She raced tough," DeLong noted after the victory. "We were going pretty good but she held tough all the way to the wire."

With the win, the daughter of Captaintreacherous—Bedroomconfessions recorded the second win of her sophomore season from four starts. Boudoir Hanover pushed her lifetime bankroll to $329,471 for owners Riverview Racing, Alagna Racing, Caviart Farms, D. Plouffe, and S. Head. The win also marked the third consecutive Nadia Lobell Stakes victory for trainer Tony Alagna.

JK Victory (Trace Tetrick) won the $70,000 Hoosier Cup with an impressive gate to wire 1:48.2 track record score.

HOOSIER CUP

The stakes action continued just a few races later on the card as the 3-year-old pacing colts took their turn in the spotlight in the $70,000 Hoosier Cup Final. JK Victory and Trace Tetrick were victorious after an impressive gate to wire 1:48.2 track record score. The 1:48.2 effort bested the previous 1:48.3 mark for 3-year-old pacing geldings that was previously held in a three-way tie. The 1:48.2 effort also marked the fastest mile of the young 2022 season for a three-year-old pacer.

Leaving from post five, JK Victory wasted no time and went straight to the front to dictate fractions of :26 and :53.3. As they reached the third station Sure Thing Herman and Ricky Macomber Jr. were applying pressure from first-over and Ponda Warrior and Jimmy Whittemore looked poised to strike from the pocket at the three-quarters in 1:21.4. As the field turned for home, JK Victory was able to put away Sure Thing Herman and keep Ponda Warrior at bay. JK Victory paced strong to the wire finishing a length to the good over Ponda Warrior and The Longest Yard and Michael Oosting. As the betting favorite, JK Victory returned $3.80 for the victory.

Trained by Ron Burke, the son of JK Endofanera—GT Miss Royal recorded his third win in five seasonal starts. JK Victory is owned in partnership by 3 Brothers Stable and Caviart Farms.

Little Expensive lives up to price tag at Big M

by Dave Little / Meadowlands media relations

He might have a way to go to get his connections even, but Little Expensive is well on his way.

The son of Muscle Hill—Seviyorum impressed in his pari-mutuel debut, taking the second of three $30,000 divisions of the first leg of the New Jersey Sire Stakes for 2-year-old colts and geldings on the trot at The Meadowlands Thursday night (June 30), the first of two straight Thursdays that will see live racing at The Big M.

The price tag was steep on Little Expensive, but his trainer liked what she saw early on.

"I campaigned his mother," said Julie Miller. "And I had seen the colt when he was a weanling. I just followed him a little bit and went to Blue Chip Farm to see how he looked and was fortunate enough to have partners willing to pay what we paid."

At the Lexington Select Sale, the Andy Miller Stable, Daniel Plouffe and Jean Goehlen plunked down $260,000 to acquire the bay colt, and so far he has been flawless, winning a baby race at The Big M on June 25 in wire-to-wire fashion in 1:56.4, before scoring Friday in 1:54.3.

Driver Andy Miller never had an anxious moment, rolling down the pike while cutting out fractions of :28.3, :59 and 1:28 before reporting home a 1½-length winner over Point Of Perfect. Winner's Bet was third.

"I would have loved to have another baby race," said Julie. "But Andy said tonight he was way better than in his first outing. When you have that nice a baby race, people take that into consideration. These 2-year-olds, they are great, but they give you stress. We are looking for a good year on the Sire Stakes circuit, and he is also staked quite heavily."

As the 3-5 public choice, Little Expensive returned $3.40 to win.

In the first division for colts and geldings, Dire Straits (Muscle Hill—Southwind Cocoa) out-dueled Oh Well to the wire by a nose in 1:53.4 in a battle of the Melander brothers. Driver/trainer Mattias getting the better of trainer Marcus. Dire Straits was the favorite by less than $100 over the second-place finisher and returned $4.40 as the 6-5 public choice.

The final division for males went to Upstaged (Muscle Hill—Stage Fright) for driver Tim Tetrick and trainer Marcus Melander in 1:54.3 as the 4-1 second choice.

Quick Stop (Tactical Landing—Falls For You) pulled off an 18-1 surprise in the first of two splits for fillies in 1:55.3 for Dexter Dunn and Anette Lorentzon while Mambacita (Tactical Landing—Bill's Lady) took the other filly division in 1:56.2 for David Miller and Tony Alagna as the 2-1 second choice.

A LITTLE MORE: Dunn and Yannick Gingras led the driver colony with two winners apiece... Three 2-1 shots and one 4-1 chance added up to a $352.50 payoff in the lone 50-cent Pick-4... All-source handle on the nine-race program totaled $1,143,157.

Fulton survives early bobble, steams to victory in PASS at The Meadows

by Evan Pattak for The Meadows
Standardbred Owners Association

Fulton recovered from an early misstep and steamed to victory in Saturday's (July 2) Pennsylvania Sire Stake at Hollywood Casino at The Meadows. Ervin Hanover and Ken Hanover captured the other $54,000 divisions of the stake, known as the Albatross, for freshman colt and gelding pacers.

Fulton opened his career with a 1:52.2 victory at Harrah's Philadelphia. That he came back with an equally sharp outing in 1:51.4 was what impressed winning driver Scott Zeron most.

"He's opened with two exceptional races," Zeron said. "I always look to see how they rebound off a big first-time effort. To duplicate it shows that we do have something here. He just lost his footing going into the first turn but quickly gathered himself."

Bugaboo Lou was second, 1/2 length back, with Annapolis Hanover third. Linda Toscano trains Fulton, a son of Heston Blue Chip—Better Be Steamin, for Let It Ride Stables and Bottom Line Racing LLC.

First-time starter Ervin Hanover was unhurried early, but when Yannick Gingras tipped him off cover into the final turn, he roared through the lane to score in 1:53.1, 1-3/4 lengths better than It's My Show. Lyons Surfing completed the ticket.

"I drove him many times in Florida, and he's one of my favorite colts," Gingras said. "He's just so laid back. He does his job and not a lot more. He's not one of the flashiest ones, but you think he's one of those who could maybe take the next step."

Ron Burke conditions the son of Captaintreachers—Eloquent Grace for Burke Racing Stable, J&T Silva Stables, Jim Simpson and Weaver Brussemi LLC.

Ken Hanover quarter-poled to the top for David Miller and prevailed in 1:53.3. Lousain Bolt finished second, beaten 3/4 lengths, while Stay Grounded earned show.

"We got him in Harrisburg for $50,000," said Roland Mallar, who trains Ken Hanover and owns with Patrick Leavitt, William

Chris Gooden

Fulton (Scott Zeron) won his PASS test for 2-year-old pacing colts in 1:51.4 on Saturday at The Meadows.

Jordan and Dennis Osterholt. "He's a Captain, and they're hot items. He's competitive, obviously. He's acting like he has a little bit of go, so we'll give him a chance."

PA STALLION SERIES

Ship Ship Hooray, Lyons Spirit, Lyons Stealth and Dempsey Hanover took the four stallion series slits, with Tim Tetrick, trainer Jim King, Jr. and owner Three Lyons Racing enjoying a stake double behind Lyons Spirit and Lyons Stealth.

Miller sent Ship Ship Hooray to the lead past the quarter, and the youngster had little trouble holding it in his career debut, downing Music Hall by 1-3/4 lengths in 1:54.2. Tennessee Strong finished third.

"I didn't feel we would go much the second quarter, and my horse felt a bit aggressive in the hole," Miller said. "I took a shot because he hadn't been racing on the front. He handled it well."

Chris Ryder trains the son of Captaintreacherous—Scandalous Hanover for Ryder Henderson Mondillo, Ken Jacobs and Barry Spak.

FASHION ANNIE STAYS UNDEFEATED WITH SHARP PASS AT THE MEADOWS

Fashion Annie remained undefeated in her brief two-race career after a win in Friday's (July 1) Pennsylvania Sires Stake at Hollywood Casino at The Meadows. Brunella and Portulaca captured the other $51,000 divisions in the event, known as the Meadow Gladys, for 2-year-old filly trotters. Dave Palone enjoyed a stake double behind Fashion Annie and Portulaca among his three victories on the card.

Fashion Annie won her career debut by making up 7 lengths over the back half. In the Meadow Gladys, however, she flashed early speed, putting her in position for the decisive move when she pulled the pocket near the three-quarters and blew past Bella Macchiato to triumph in 1:56. Angelpedia rallied for second, 2-3/4 lengths back, while Bella Macchiato held third.

"I didn't want to accelerate her into the turn," Palone said. "I wanted to make sure she had a good angle. When I asked her to accelerate, she had some turn of foot. A complete sweetheart."

Jim Campbell trains the homebred daughter of Donato Hanover—Fashion Athena for Jules Siegel's Fashion Farms LLC.

Brunella had the services of a famous retiree—Hall of Famer Jimmy Takter, who donned his colors to drive for his daughter, Nancy Takter, the trainer of the Father Patrick—Hollywood Hill filly. It was a productive match-up, as the first-time starter quarter-poled to the top and widened late to score by 5-1/4 lengths in 1:56. Piano Bar and Show Me Da Moni completed the ticket.

"I didn't want to get into any traffic with her," the Hall of Famer said. "She could have gone at least a second or two faster today. She's staked basically to everything."

Goran Falk and Christina Takter bred and own Brunella.

In her career debut, Portulaca looked mighty responsive for Palone and Kathleen LaMontagne, who bred and owns the daughter of Donato Hanover—Motivational with Donald LaMontagne. She prevailed in 1:59, 1-1/4 lengths ahead of Wild Jiggy S, with Lindys Irishcream third.

"She's the last one out of my good mare," the trainer said. "She progressed without a hiccup. She reminds me of her mom; that's the best compliment I can give her. She'll have 10 starts, then she's done for the year. We'll have a nice, fresh horse next year."

PA STALLION SERIES

Sheer Faith idled outside until the dust settled, then poured it on, crushing the field by 11-1/2 lengths in 1:57. The time knocked a tick from the stake record established by Lady Athens in 2015. Mommas A Diva and Gloriousk rounded out the ticket.

"I was really looking for a hole," said winning trainer/driver David Wade. "There was half a hole, but I didn't want to take a chance. As soon as we straightened up, she was gone."

For now, Wade owns the homebred daughter of Better Caviar—Sheer Delight with Gerald Brittingham and William Peel, but he said the filly is in the process of being sold.

Sister Solange and Wind N Water took the other splits.

Wallin wins three Reynolds divisions at Big M

Trainer Lucas Wallin trained three winners on Friday (July 1) at The Meadowlands from four divisions of the W.N. Reynolds Memorial for 3-year-olds on the trot, which gave a look at possible Hambletonian and Hambletonian Oaks contenders.

The first of Wallin's hat trick came with Rebuff, the Breeders Crown champion from a year ago, who gunned down 2-5 favorite (and Goodtimes winner) Fast As The Wind by three-quarters-of-a-length in a lifetime-best 1:51.3 in the first of two splits for colts and geldings. The purse was $36,650. A marvelous performance given it was the son of Muscle Hill—Meucci Madness' first start of the season.

"The trip worked out perfect," said Wallin of the live cover journey right on the favorite's back. "We actually wanted to stretch him out with the Hambletonian Eliminations coming up in four weeks. I was pretty confident he was going to do well. He has been training super. Rebuff is so good-gaited, he doesn't need too many races to have a good performance."

Rebuff, who was driven by Tim Tetrick, returned $9.80 as the 7-2 second choice in the betting.

Manon was Wallin's next winner, getting up in a driving finish to dead heat with 7-5 public choice Raised By Lindy in a lifetime-best 1:51.1 in one of two divisions of the Reynolds for fillies for a purse of $35,600.

The daughter of Bar Hopping—Are You Ready, who raced only once at 2, is now five-for-five in her sophomore season.

"She's been super this year," said Wallin. "This was her first big test. She got a little sore last year, so we decided to turn her out and bring her back this year. We have a patient owner, so it worked out. I think tonight she showed she belongs [in the Hambletonian Oaks]. That's the main goal."

Manon returned $3.00 to win after being bet down as the 5-2 second choice. Once again, it was Tetrick at the controls. Raised By Lindy (Walner-Birthright), driven by Yannick Gingras and trained by Domenico Cecere, paid $2.60, as she, too, established a new lifetime best.

B A Superhero (Muscle Hill—Win Missy B) gave Wallin – and Tetrick – a sweep of the two male divisions (this one for a purse of $37,150), grabbing the lead at the half and powering down the pike from there to best Classic Hill by 3¼ lengths in 1:51.2, lowering his previous mark by two-and-three-fifth seconds.

"In the [May 27] New Jersey Sire Stakes Final [when he finished fifth behind winner Pretender], we gambled a little and put a different bridle on him and he got a little too grabby," said Wallin. "Then, we gave him a few weeks off. He did race well last week [when fifth with older foes], so I was really confident coming into tonight."

B A Superhero returned $5.20 as the 8-5 second choice in the betting. Dover In Motion, the 6-5 favorite, broke before the half and finished last.

Reflecting on his big night, Wallin was sure to give credit where it's due. "It's a nice feeling [when you have nights like this]. We have a very good team in the barn, so I'm very happy. Without them, we wouldn't be here."

Or the Hambletonian, or Hambletonian Oaks.

In the only Reynolds dash not won by Wallin, the Ake Svanstedt trained and driven Baptism (Southwind Frank—Fall From Grace) scored from off the pace at odds of 8-1 in a lifetime-best 1:51.3 in the other division for fillies for a purse of $35,600, taking down New Jersey Sire Stakes champion Fashion Schooner, who settled for second as the 1-5 favorite. Had Fashion Schooner won, Tetrack would have gone four-for-four in the Reynolds.

#BETONHARNESS

BIG BETTING: All-source wagering surpassed the $3-million mark for the 13th time from 49 Big M race cards in 2022, as a total of $3,100,260 was pushed through the windows on the 14-race program.

Betting was especially vigorous on the first race, as $407,555 was put in play, $94,695 of that in the 20-cent Pick-5.

A LITTLE MORE: Driving the Svanstedt-trained Incommunicado, 24-year-old provisional driver Emanuel Miller recorded his first-ever Meadowlands victory in the fifth race, returning $17.80 to his faithful... Tetrack's three victories led the driver colony. Braxten Boyd and Mark MacDonald had two apiece... Wallin's three scores were tops among the trainers while Svanstedt had a pair.

Responding to Sturman's Yonkers column

In response to Brett Sturman's recent column.

Great column written by Sturman. Well detailed, explained, thought out reporting. Now, to the crux of the problem. Yonkers has been and appears to never want to change, an unbetttable harness track. Nonsense like this has a loooooong history there. Not that this will ever happen but why doesn't Mr. Faraldo sink his teeth into this issue and get serious answers instead of lurking in the wings for a chance to take a cheap shot at Jeff Gural? I'll take this one more step by saying, if an oddity like this would happen at the Meadowlands – and it certainly could – there would be a full blown investigation with detailed answers within 4-5 days max.

That's the difference between a well run track, Meadowlands, and... well... Yonkers.

Pat Wiand / Reading, PA

Another response to Sturman's column

This is in response to Mr. Sturman's article about transparency at Yonkers after a winner paid $161.50 and the exacta paid $93.00.

First, let me say I strongly agree that we need transparency in harness racing and on the surface this looks extremely fishy. But if you dig deeper and peel back the onion, you'll see it's not as "out of the ordinary" as it appears.

Harness Racing Update | Page 1 | July 1, 2022

You have to start with the math. The win pool was $6,116.52 and the exacta pool was $10,344.17. After takeout (I used 20 per cent because I know that's close enough for this exercise) there is $4,893.21 and $8,275.33 respectively. That means there was about $60 bet to win on the winner and $180 bet on the winning exacta.

Mr. Sturman points out that as the gait was rolling the exacta probable is $492 and the #8 is 47-1. We don't know how much was in the pool at that point, but it's obvious that not a lot, if any, was bet to win on the #8 because he went up to 80-1.

For the exacta to pay $492, then there was only about $30-35 bet on the 8-1 combo. So in the last flash the exacta pool on 8-1 went from $30-35 to $180.

So what happened after the race started? An increase of $150 on the exacta and almost nothing to win! This is not a race fix.

My definition of a race fix is that multiple people are involved to make sure a number is put across. A $150 is not a multi person bet. Could something illegal have been given to #8? Perhaps. BUT, $150 could be a whim bet. Could be the result of an equipment change. It could have been a mistake! Maybe they meant to bet a $15 Exacta and not $150. And why not bet #8 to win if you're 100% sure he's a winner? Especially if you're betting after they hit the quarter pole as Mr. Sturman suggest it may have been bet past post.

Bottom line a $150 bet can be reasoned away as legitimist actions. AHH... now if it was a $5,000 bet, that's something completely different.

The problem is it looks bad because the POOL IS TOO SMALL! Let's say it was at the Meadowlands. Their exactas pools can average about $50,000. Let apply the same scenario. $50,000-20 per cent leaves $40,000 in the pool. A $150 exacta can bring down the payoff from $2,277 to $444 in the last flash, but would anyone care? Winner pays $161 and exacta pays $444. It doesn't look so criminal.

So let's recap... a $150 last second bet was made on the exacta. The win and trifecta pools were pretty normal and they should be transparent about that? There's no way Yonkers wants to publicize that a $150 bet caused an exacta payoff to go from $493 to $93 because it's a complete embarrassment.

Lesson learned... Don't bet tracks that have small pools.

Manny Guagliardo / Hoffman Estates IL

Yonkers exacta transparency

Brett (Sturman's) quest for transparency is a winner. With support of the racing commissions, judges training and procedures initiating immediate investigations of the source can at times be determined within hours if not sooner.

The judges should be aware of the questionable payoff before they make the race official and call the mutual manager "where did this bet originate"? Holding off making the race official would give the presiding judge a few minutes to initiate an investigation. At times, the source can be determined in short order. We had a questionable payoff at Yonkers, after calling the mutual manager and a subsequent call to the mutual manager at the off-track facility it was determined that the wager was made by a punter that regularly bet long shots in exactas.

In another instance, a questionable bet was traced the same night to a bot wager from a European wagering site.

Another questionable probable payoff noticed after the first two races of a Pick 4 we called the mutual manager and found there was one bet made via a U.S. hub. The hub manger informed us that the wager originated from a wagering site in Australia. I contacted the Australia commission and received a return call the next night. The wager originated at an Eastern Europe site that numbered their accounts. The inquiry ended there as Australia banking confidentiality laws apply to wagering sites.

Educating and motivating presiding judges to implement these investigative procedures is incumbent of the racing commissions. At the very least a policy of informing state investigators to work with the Presiding Judge to ascertain the source.

Bottom Line... there are avenues available to track these wagers. The transparency is warranted albeit how to inform our customers without enhancing their already diminishing perception.
