Odds On Osiris wins Northfield's Milstein Memorial in 1:50.1

The mile was a lifetime best for the Indiana-bred in his first race on a half-mile track.

Ohio

Indiana invader Odds On Osiris nipped the pace-setting Ocean Rock in the final strides to win the 6th edition of the $250,000 Carl Milstein Memorial Pace Saturday night (Aug. 15) at MGM Northfield Park.

Dan Noble gunned Ocean Rock out of the outside post #8 and grabbed the lead and controlled the first quarter in :26.

The bettor's choice, Catch The Fire (Mike Wilder) was the first to move just before the half in :55, but faded before the three-quarters in 1:22.1.

Peter Wrenn angled Odds On Osiris out of the pocket in the final turn and it appeared that Noble and Wrenn may have locked wheels briefly at the top of the stretch. Wrenn was able to get Odds On Osiris by the game Ocean Rock to score the quarter-length victory. The fast closing Stanford Court (Ronnie Wrenn, Jr.) completed the trifecta.

The final time of 1:50.1 was a lifetime best for the 2019 Indiana Sire Stakes champion.

"He deserves that (win). He hasn't been able to race consistently this year," said the winning driver. "He's never raced on a half (mile track) before... This is all brand new, but he handled it like a professional."

A $60,000 purchase at the 2018 Hoosier Classic Yearling Sale, Odds On Osiris has now surpassed the $500,000 career earnings mark with his $125,000 first place check.

Next stop for Odds On Osiris will be the North America Cup eliminations on Aug. 22.

The race honors Carl Milstein, who owned Northfield Park from 1984 until his death in 1999. The Milstein family operated Northfield Park until July 2018.

Sectionline Bigry wins Myron Charna

The $50,000 Myron Charna President's Pace for 4-year-olds and up Ohio bred pacers came down to a stretch battle between Bllack Hole and Sectionline Bigry with Sectionline Bigry prevailing by a neck.

As the field of nine were sent on their way, Tyler Smith sent the eventual winner to the early lead, parking Bllack Hole (Ronnie Wrenn, Jr.) past the opening quarter in :26.1.

Bllack Hole cleared to the lead and Major Nemesis (Aaron Merriman) was the first to challenge the leader as they stopped the half-mile timer in :53.3. Major Nemesis stuck his nose in front at the three-quarters in 1:21.3.

Bllack Hole battled back in the final turn, retaking the lead and giving Sectionline Bigry enough space and time to score the 1:49.2 victory. Dancin Dragon (Scott Zeron) rallied for the third place check.

"Hats off to (Bllack Hole). The post-position was in our favor this week, being inside of that horse," said Smith. "I got to sit right on his back. Right down to the last step, I got him. My horse has been good all year. I have just put him in some bad spots."

Sectionline Bigry is owned by Harold Lee Bauder of Delaware, OH and is trained by Steve Bauder. The 5-year-old gelded son of Pet Rock finished second to Dancin Yankee in last year's Charna Pace.

In fact, Sectionline Yankee becomes just the second horse to win the Charna Pace as Dancin Yankee took the first four editions of this invitational pace.

Century Farroh edges Bettor's Wish to win 27th Dan Patch

COVID-19 restrictions made Harrah's Hoosier Park's signature event different than in past years, but the action on the track was on par with previous editions.

by James Platz

The 27th edition of the Dan Patch Stakes did not offer the pomp and circumstance expected of Harrah's Hoosier Park's signature event. It was different. Different is the new reality in this time of the COVID-19 pandemic. While the crowd was smaller and the purse leaner, the track's top event for free-for-all pacers did not disappoint in star power Friday evening (Aug. 14). Century Farroh and David Miller, sent off as the second choice, slipped up the inside late to deny favored Bettor's Wish by half a length in a time of 1:49.

The effects of the pandemic have been felt throughout the racing industry, and this year's Dan Patch Stakes exemplified some of the challenges track operators and horsepeople face. In a season where Hoosier Park will play host to the Breeders Crown for a second time, the Dan Patch is the event that officially kicks off the championship portion of the meet. Greeted with great weather, fans did turn out Friday night, just not in the volume witnessed in previous years.

"You've got the Kentucky Derby that's going from 160,000 people to 23,000; the (Indianapolis) 500 is not going to have anybody. We had a nice crowd tonight and everyone has had a good time. Everyone has maintained the social distancing protocols, and that's the important thing. That's the only way we can have people here," said Rick Moore, Hoosier Park's vice president and general manager of racing. "Every time you put on an event you learn. Tonight, we learned this is the right number of people to have here, whether it's Kentucky Derby day, Caesar's Trotting Classic, Hoosier Championship Night or the Breeders Crown, this is the crowd that we have to maintain."

The 2020 renewal offered a purse of $225,000, the first time the race has not carried a purse exceeding $300,000 since 2014. That did not stop the connections of 17 horses from signaling their intent to compete, with the top 10 based on earnings securing spots behind the starting gate. Moore said that the purse reduction for the Dan Patch and upcoming stakes is part of a fine balance as Hoosier Park offers an attractive stakes schedule while maintaining a healthy overnight structure. He said that cutting stakes from the schedule was not an option management considered.

"Take a look around North America and look at the number of races that were cancelled for these horses, for older pacers this year. We maintained a $225,000 purse and had 17 horses at the end that still wanted to race in the Dan Patch," said Moore. "I understand why other tracks are cancelling races. They have to protect their overnight purses. We've tried to earmark as much money as we could for our overnight races, but we still want to maintain a nice stakes program, and I think it is a fine balance and we've been able to do both. We thought we could maintain our stakes schedule by cutting the amount of money Hoosier Park contributes, cutting a piece of it down. It is important we have a great stakes program."

Friday's stake attracted Bettor's Wish, the 2019 Dan Patch Award winner as the sport's top 3-year-old pacing colt, as well as Century Farroh, himself an O'Brien Award winner, and a five-horse entry from trainer Ron Burke. Burke's Backstreet Shadow entered the contest fresh off a second place performance in the $229,660 Sam McKee Memorial, beating Century Farroh to the wire while a neck short of winner Bettor's Wish.

Supporting and encouraging the breeding of Standardbred horses for more than 90 years

It looked as though Chris Ryder's charge Bettor's Wish would collect his second win in as many starts after cutting the mile through fractions of :25.3, :54.1 and 1:22.2, but Hoosier Park's long stretch has produced many thrilling sprints to the wire, and Friday night was no exception. As Dexter Dunn looked to keep the favorite in front, Matt Kakaley had Dorsoduro Hanover flying on the outside late. However, it was David Miller and Century Farroh that reached the line first. Turning for home the duo found themselves three deep along the rail, but Miller found daylight along the inside and the Mach Three—Beachy girl 4-year-old brushed by Bettor's Wish in the final strides to pick up his second score of the abbreviated season. Despite a :25.4 kick home, Dorsoduro Hanover finished third and stablemate Backstreet Shadow paced fourth. The stallion, trained by Dr. Ian Moore for Ratchford Stable NS, is now two-for-two over the Anderson oval, winning last year's Jenna's Beach Boy. Century Farroh returned $8.60-$3.80-$3.00 in the victory. The triumph is his 18th in 34 career starts, and his earnings now exceed $900,000.

"Obviously he's been locked in or raced really hard. He actually got a good trip tonight and with the open stretch, I was able to get to the inside," said Miller in a post-race interview. "He's been racing good, and he was due."

The transition from three to four can be difficult, but Dr. Moore said that Century Farroh has handled it better than any horse he has conditioned in recent memory. He also pointed to the schedule between his start in the McKee Memorial and the Dan Patch victory as a sign of the stallion's resilience.

"This horse is just a tough, very competitive S.O.B. He's tough as nails, he just seems to overcome everything that's thrown at him," said Dr. Moore. "He raced Saturday, had a 15-hour truck Wednesday from Jersey to Indiana, and he raced again on Friday. He jogged three miles on Thursday morning, and I think he had maybe five miles on Tuesday because he always has two days off after he races. He comes to work every day and does his job. He just gives you all he's got every time out."

The trainer said that Century Farroh will return to Canada and get a three-week break just as he did before shipping to the Meadowlands. Due to Canadian restrictions, the horse is subject to a 14-day quarantine when re-entering the country.

After the break, the plan is to race in the Canadian Pacing Derby and return to the United States to take aim at the Hoosier Park Pacing Derby, Dayton Pacing Derby, and Lexington before shipping back to Indiana for the Breeders Crown.

Friday's victory also helped to ease a bad memory for Dr. Moore while adding to his list of accomplishments. In 2014, he brought State Treasurer to the Dan Patch, his only other entry into the race. The pacer finished eighth that night after a tough trip.

"He was parked three-wide the whole mile," he said. "That brings up bad memories."

Miller had fallen just short of the winner's circle on three different occasions, piloting Armbr Operative (1997), Canyon Wind (2005) and favorite Always B Miki (2016) to runner-up performances in the Dan Patch. He also steered favored McWicked to a fourth-place effort in 2017. Friday night, he added his name to the Dan Patch record book.

TALES FROM THE CURMUDGEON

with MURRAY BROWN

All Mike Lachance has ever wanted to do has revolved around horses

by Murray Brown

You are 17 years old. All you've ever wanted to do in life revolved around horses. You quit school after the seventh grade because the curriculum didn't include horses. More than anything, you wanted to be able to drive them.

But that wasn't all. You wanted to be able to train them, help them, develop them and to learn to think like them.

You've idolized your big brother Gilles and have learned a lot from watching him and all of the horsemen both good and not so good, that you've been around all of your life.

You think you've learned a lot, but to this very day you are thirsty for knowledge. There is always something more to learn.

You started working for Gilles. Your big chance arrived.

Gilles has sent you to Quebec City with seven head from his stable. The first night there you are scheduled to drive two of his horses, one of which you own half of in partnership with him.

You ask him how should you drive them. He responds to the effect that, "You'll figure it out. I wouldn't have put you down to drive them if I didn't think you'd know what to do."

The first one drew outside. You thought that you'd leave the gate with it. After all, your brother in law had the rail and there was no way he'd park you.

WRONG!

An important lesson learned. There are no friends on the racetrack. He parked you every step and you and your horse faded into oblivion.

The second horse caused two recalls and had to be scratched.

You were so depressed and upset with yourself that you locked yourself in a tack room for two days.

Claus Andersen

Crisp and clean. One of the many lessons a young Mike Lachance learned from trainer Marcel Dostie was to be immaculate.

In such an inauspicious manner began the career of double Hall of Famer and all-time great Michel "Mike" Lachance.

As he said to me when we met last week, "that might have been the only time in my life when I wasn't lucky. Actually that might have been lucky as well. I learned two very important lessons from that experience. The first was that when you are racing you can't count on others to help you.

WIRETOWIREWEALTH.COM

Wealth Advice, Planning & Management

They are driving their horses, you are driving yours. You both want to win. Only one can. The second is that to quote Herve Filion 'you need to learn to turn the page.' The past is in the past. Can you benefit from it? Of course you can. But dwelling on misfortune or lost opportunity cannot help."

Mike was one of eight children born to Gedeon and Francoise Lachance — six boys and two girls. All were directly or indirectly to become in some manner involved in harness racing as was their father.

Gilles and Mike were to become Hall of Famers.

Mike remembers both his parents as being great influences on his life and his career.

His mother was the guiding force in the family. It is to her that he credits his great organizational and self-disciplinary skills.

To his father, he credits the early knowledge of horses and the love and responsibility to family.

This author was witness to much of the early racing career of Mike and Gilles.

Gilles Lachance was the first "power driver" that I ever was aware of. He worked for and was the contract driver for the powerful Albert Rogers stable in Montreal in the early 1960s.

I was working for the Miron Brothers Stable in St Augustin Quebec just north of Montreal.

There was this little blond haired kid who would show up and watch the horses being trained by Marcel Dostie for what was then the most powerful racing stable in Canada.

I can't recall him ever saying anything. But if you looked at him you saw the wheels turning in his brain. He was absorbing everything that he saw.

He has since told me that he had tremendous admiration for Dostie — firstly as a horseman, but also as a glaring example of someone who he would like to become.

He ran a beautiful stable. Everything was shipshape. He was someone to be emulated. He was a true professional. He was always turned out immaculately. He was a gentleman.

That little boy hoped that someday he could become someone like him.

Mike greatly admired Dostie, but he absolutely idolized Keith Waples. To this very day he still does.

It is only if you were privileged to have seen Keith Waples wield his magic, that you would appreciate how great an all-around horseman and person that he is.

It's no coincidence that virtually all the great Canadian drivers of a certain era give Keith Waples some credit for

Hambletonian Society

The story of how Lachance stayed loyal to Ron Gurfiein and Continental victory is a classic that led to a Hambletonian victory.

their evolution. Names such as Filion, Feagan, Wellwood, Lachance, Wright, Ron Waples, Gilmour, Kopas, Dostie and numerous others learned from watching him.

But very few idolized and admired him as much as Herve Filion and Michel Lachance.

There are several stages in the career of Mike Lachance.

The first was growing up under the tutelage of his father and Gilles.

The second was when he decided to go out on his own and train and drive his own stable.

He started with six head most of which he had an interest in.

There are few who realize that as great a driver as Mike Lachance was – I would think that he'd be on anybody's 10 all-time best. He was likely an even better trainer.

While still in his 20s, he had a stable in excess of 30 head, nearly all of which he owned or shared ownership on. They ranged anywhere from claimers to open horses.

During that era, his stable raced in Montreal, New England and on the Liberty Bell, Brandywine circuit.

Wherever he raced, his stable was a force to be reckoned with and was always a money earner.

Those whose first recollection of him might have been on the New York half mile track circuit likely think of him as strictly a power driver. They might find it difficult to accept that this writer's first recollection of him was of being mostly a finesse driver.

Likely the chief difference was in driving one's own horses, there was always next week and when catch driving if you didn't do well, someone else might be driving that horse next time out.

The next phase of his evolution was when he decided to give up his stable, go to New York and become a catch driver – albeit a catch driver who could impart a great deal of usually beneficial advice to the trainers who he drove for, among them Hall of Famer Linda Toscano and the recently departed Vinny Aurigemma.

He remembers his days at Yonkers and Roosevelt fondly.

From there he moved to The Meadowlands, where after a short period of adjustment, he rose to become part of arguably the greatest trio of drivers ever racing concurrently – Campbell, Lachance and O'Donnell.

After many years at The Meadowlands, he slowed down a little. He decided to stop driving in winter.

That's when he entered the last phase of his driving career – that of being a Grand Circuit driver and one where he concentrated on driving and helping in the development of young horses.

Who was your favorite horse?

"That would have to be Doc's Fella. He was probably the horse that put me on the map in the big time. He was just a little guy, but what a warrior he was. He'd show up every Saturday night and probably never went a bad race in his life."

Who were the best drivers you competed against?

"I think I'd have to classify them in different eras. Looking back, I drove horses in six different decades. When I first started driving the best was Keith of course, following him was Herve, my brother Gilles, Ronnie Feagan and Ronnie Waples was just coming on.

Dave Briggs

Mike Lachance's last official drive came at Legend's Day at Clinton Raceway in 2015.

"The next era included Herve, Ronnie Waples, Joe O'Brien, Buddy Gilmour and two very underrated great drivers in Stanley Dancer and Gilles Gendron.

"When I first went to New York, Herve and Carmine Abbatiello were the kings. They were closely followed by George Sholty, Buddy Gilmour, Benny Webster, John Chapman, Joe Marsh, Del Insko and a few others. That was as deep a drivers colony as you could possibly find.

"At The Meadowlands, it was the O'Donnell-Campbell show, they ruled like probably nobody before or since. There was a lot of other great talent there as well. Ronnie Pierce was just beginning to make a name for himself. Benny Webster could drive a horse as well as anybody. You could never underrate Ronnie Waples, especially when they were racing for big money. Jackie Mo was a great driver. So was Cat Manzi. A young phenom named Walter Case Jr would occasionally make the trek from Yonkers.

"Then came the Grand Circuit years. A few more stars appeared. Brian Sears, David Miller, Tim Tetrick, my nephew Luc Ouellette and George Brennan among others.

"You cannot rate them together even in their respective eras. They were all great, but I think it would be impossible and certainly unfair to rate them numerically."

How about trainers?

"Jimmy Takter and Ronnie Burke are in a class by themselves. No horsemen have the accomplishments of those two. Unfortunately, I didn't get the chance to drive much for either of them. Speaking of the ones that I drove for fairly regularly, those that first come to mind are Ronnie Gurfein, Linda Toscano, Bob McIntosh, Brett Pelling and Tony Alagna.

"Three of them are already in Halls of Fame and if there is any justice, the other two will also be enshrined before too long.

"One of the things all five of them have in common is a thirst for knowledge. None of them would just take the lines from you. They would ask questions. I always told them what I thought. Occasionally I'd make a suggestion. They would always listen. I'd say that probably nine times out of 10, they would implement the suggestion. I wouldn't always be right, but I'm guessing that I was more often right than wrong. Sometimes they couldn't be there when I was racing one. We'd still talk afterwards and discuss the horses and the races.

"One of the things both Ronnie and I are very proud of is that together we started four horses in the Hambletonian. Victory Dream, Continentalvictory and Self Possessed were winners and Cantab Hall finished second."

You spoke above about always being lucky. How so?

"For one thing, I've driven in almost 70,000 races and have never been seriously hurt. I've hit the ground a few times, never hard enough to keep me out of action for any length of time. I was usually back driving the next day. I can't think of anybody who has driven in near as many races who hasn't been broken up more than once.

"I've won five Little Brown Jugs. It could just as easily have been seven. But I turned down two winning Jug drives because I felt a sense of loyalty to the people for who I had been driving. In each case it was more than repaid, in terms of lifelong friendships, but also financially in terms of lifetime breeding to some exceptional stallions. More than once, I've made what I felt was the wrong decision and had it turn out right."

Which brings me to the most difficult decision you've probably ever made?

"I was driving Lindy Lane for the Antonacci family and Continentalvictory for Ronnie Gurfein and the group that owned her. Both horses were really good coming up to the Hambletonian. But there was little doubt to me that Lindy Lane had the best chance to win the race. So in my mind I picked off Continentalvictory and chose to drive Lindy Lane.

"Now I had to tell the respective connections. I remember the circumstances as though it were yesterday. Ronnie and I were at Il Villaggio a favorite restaurant near The Meadowlands, together with Deena and Gene Frost who were part owners of the filly. I told Ronnie that I thought Lindy Lane would win the race and that I had chosen to drive him. What Ronnie did remains with me to this moment. He burst into tears, dropped his head on the table and really cried, 'Mike, you can't do this to me,' he wailed. 'Look what we've been through together. We won the Hambletonian with Victory Dream together. We've been a team. I've always been loyal to you.'

"I realized he was right. There weren't many more important things than winning the Hambletonian, but friendship and loyalty were two of them.

"Actually I was giving up more than a drive on the horse that I thought would win the Hambletonian. Generally, when a driver sticks with a top horse, when that horse goes into the stud, he is rewarded with one and sometimes more lifetime bookings to him. I was also giving that up.

"Now I had to make a dreaded phone call that had to be done. I couldn't put it off. I called Frankie Antonacci from a phone booth in the restaurant. I told him that I was going to drive Continentalvictory. There was no response. Nothing, except a dead line. I'm sure he felt as disappointed in me, as I was in myself. But I did what I felt I had to.

"In her previous race, Continentalvictory was not at what I felt was her best. Ronnie and I got together and we decided to train her very lightly going into the big race.

"On Hambletonian Day, she was just awesome. In my heart I don't believe that there ever was a horse who could have beat her that day."

It's early October, 2017. You are driving back from Lexington. You've just told your wife Micheline that you've driven your last competitive race. What happened?

"I had long ago decided that I wasn't going out on my last legs as I had seen so many good drivers do.

"I realized that I wasn't quite as good as I once was, but I wasn't washed up either. Actually, I had won six races on a single card at The Red Mile a few weeks previously.

"I had my health. I wasn't looking for my next meal. I had a wonderful family, I was going out on my own terms, in the way I always wanted to. I didn't want there to be any fuss. I just did it as Sinatra would say 'My way.'"

These statistics are incomplete as they only go back to 1968, when these records started being kept. You are a member of both the Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame and the Harness Horse Living Hall of Fame. You have competed in 67,247 races, won 10,422 of them and the horses you've driven in that time span earned $190,786,957. You have won five Little Brown Jugs, four Hambletonians, four Kentucky Futurities, three Yonkers Trots, three North America Cups, three Cane Paces, two Meadowlands Paces, two Messengers, two Prix d'Etes plus many more Classics races. What does the present and future hold for Mike Lachance?

"I'm still a very lucky guy. I've got my health. I'm approaching my 70th birthday next December. Most importantly, I've got a great family. My two sons and daughter are doing extremely well. My grandchildren are a gift from heaven. I'm out training with my son Patrick most mornings. I occasionally get up to Canada to help my other son Martin with his stable up there, although COVID-19 has prevented that this year.

"Actually, this has been a terrible year as it has been for many because of COVID. We were locked up for weeks on end unable to spend time with our grandchildren. I still love the horses and I have a need to be around them. I watch all of Patrick's and Martin's horses race and follow all the big races.

"I still go to most of the sales where I meet up with friends such as you and try to help my sons pick future winners. I was at the Canadian sale last year and was lucky enough to meet up with and spend some time with Keith Waples. That in itself was a great privilege.

"I'm still the lucky guy I've always been."

With no casino revenue, Vernon and Tioga set to close early Track owner Jeff Gural said if non-tribal casinos in New York state remain closed, harness racing in the state could be in for even tougher times in 2021.

by Bill Finley

With New York's non-tribal casinos still closed due to the coronavirus, Vernon Downs and Tioga Downs owner Jeff Gural said his New York tracks have run out of purse money and will close following the weekend of Sept. 12 and 13.

Gural had planned on shutting the tracks after Labor Day but said he wanted to stay open so that Tioga could okay host to the finals of the Excelsior Series on Sept. 11.

Tioga was ordinarily scheduled to race through Sept. 19 and Vernon was set to close Nov. 7.

"The current plan is to close the weekend after Labor Day, unless by some miracle they allow us to open the casino," Gural said. "There is no indication that is going to happen."

New York is the only major racing state in the U.S. where the casinos have not opened. That has shut off the funnel of money from the casinos that is used to fund purses. Tioga and Vernon had already cut their schedules down to two days a week instead of three and Monticello has stayed closed all year.

New York Governor Andrew Cuomo addressed the situation July 30 when he told reporters the casinos remain closed because it is "an issue of density, the likelihood of compliance and the essential nature of the business." When asked why malls were allowed to open and not casinos, Cuomo said it was because "people need food, people need clothes, people need home goods."

New York's casinos have been closed since March 16. According to the American Gaming Association, of the 990 casinos in the U.S., 851 have reopened.

Gural said he was able to keep the two tracks open as long as he has because the purse account builds up over the winter when racing is not operating, but the casinos are. That money is set aside to fund the upcoming racing meet. He said both tracks have used up that money and added that he has spent some of his own money to keep Tioga going through the Excelsior finals.

Gural said the ongoing closure of the casinos could also affect his tracks next year as there may not be any casino money coming in over the next several months that can be used for 2021 purses.

"Ordinarily, the cycle would start over again," he said. "The bigger problem is going to be next year. Everything depends on when the casino opens and how much revenue we generate."

He said the longer the casinos stay closed, the bigger the problem will be for New York harness racing. The vast majority of the purses come from the casinos and the tracks simply can't do without that source of revenue.

"Besides destroying the casinos it has destroyed racing," he said. "It's a huge blow to racing in New York. A huge amount of money is no longer available to purses and that can destroy racing. If the casinos don't open soon we might as well take a year off. We already had to cut back to two days a week. That has been catastrophic for New York racing, which relies entirely on casino revenue. But this is what happens when you rely on a subsidy."

He said he also fears the casino shut down could lead to an effort to decouple, which is what happens when casinos no longer have to give a portion of their revenues to racing. Gural said the casinos will be in such tough shape while the shutdown continues that they might seek remedies to bolster their bottom line, including decoupling. "We really have to be watching carefully what happens next," he said.

Gural has always been a supporter of Cuomo, but admits he has grown frustrated with the governor's failure to open the casinos. Cuomo has no control over the state's tribal casinos, all of which are open. Casinos are also open in four states that border New York — Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

"I think the governor has done an amazing job," he said. "In New York, we are down to one per cent testing positive. But we haven't been able to convince him that by keeping us closed, it's actually keeping people less safe. If all the casinos were closed that would be one thing. But we are closed and the eight tribal casinos are not. Neither are the casinos in Pennsylvania, Connecticut, New Jersey, Ohio. Everybody who would ordinarily be going to my casinos in an area where nobody is sick is now going to other casinos in areas where there are far more people testing positive than in upstate New York. We just weren't able to mark that argument to convince him. If he were sitting here I could convince him, but that's not the case."

ALTERNATIVE ACTIONS

with FRANK COTOLO

The ultimate hybrid of two great games of skill and chance

by Frank CotoLO

Alternative Actions (AA) is always on the lookout for new twists that can attract more customers to raceways; not just for when live attendance returns, but for remote customers that have been a part of pari-mutuel racing's business long before the pandemic. Being "on the lookout" sometimes means looking into the past for ways to reboot ideas that, with a modern eye, can become fresh and productive.

A gaming story that never got enough exposure in the history of the gaming business is the 1987 demise of what was universally known as The Irish Sweepstakes (IRSW). From its inception in 1930, the IRSW became an archetypal game of chance that developed an image that found its way into pop culture as an element in literature, theater and movies.

Originated in Ireland as the Irish Hospitals' Sweepstake, it was a charitable function using funds to bankroll hospital-building programs. In its heyday, it raised over $200 million (U.S.) for the cause, while the game itself was responsible for handing out more than $500 million in winnings.

At its peak, the IRSW cornered the international gaming market. Even though lotteries were prohibited on both sides of the Atlantic, there were ways and means for tens of thousands of people around the world to participate. It was a long and fruitful run until IRSW began to lose money in the 1980s. It never recovered from the spiral.

After 57 years the IRSW surrendered to, of all things, heavy competition. It was the 1980s and lotteries became legal in many of the United States. That is when the essential global pipeline of sweepstakes cash was severed and financial stability collapsed.

What was peculiar about losing the game's audience was that playing the IRSW was actually simpler than any of the modern-day lottery games created in North America. All right, so, you may ask, what is simpler than picking random numbers? Easy — not picking any numbers.

All one had to do was to buy an individually numbered IRSW ticket and you were in the game. Ticket stubs were sent to Ireland like contraband by secret sources in tens of countries. People were playing even though no one could account for any foreign ticket making it back to Ireland. In America, U.S. Customs would check bundles and trunks shipping to Ireland and if the contents included sweepstake stubs they were confiscated and destroyed. Bettors took that chance as an added risk.

When ticket stubs got to Ireland they were placed in large rotating drums. Nurses in full working regalia from existing Irish hospitals then chose potential winners by blindly picking stubs from the drums.

The amount of stubs taken from the drums was based upon how many horses were to run in upcoming major United Kingdom (UK) thoroughbred races. For many years, three races were used: the Lincolnshire Handicap, the Cambridgeshire and the Irish Derby. Each ticket stub drawn was assigned a horse in the fields of those races (this was done after official scratches, since most UK thoroughbred races began with far more horses in a field before scratches).

This was not a jackpot game, that is, there could be many winners from a single drawing. The largest prizes went to ticket-holders whose horses won, placed, or showed.

The IRSW's format may work for a raceway campaign to get new business from novice and experienced bettors. AA supposes something like the following:

Your raceway creates a new pari-mutuel event to be presented (whenever) with a large field (two tiers is best). Assign a longer distance than the usual mile (longer the better). Write liberal conditions to attract many horses.

Name the race after your track. As an example, "Delaney Downs announces the Delaney Sweepstakes, a race anyone could play for and many can win" — because it is a lottery and a pari-mutuel race. The winners are tickets assigned to horses that win, place or show (descending amounts).

The track chooses a price for a ticket (each with an exclusive number) and sells them to anyone (online or on site) with a deadline for purchases. On the date of the race (after much marketing-barking) have a drawing like the IRSW, with "characters" picking tickets from a few rotating drums, announcing which horse is being assigned which ticket. A track can also make the race available for pari-mutuel betting.

With the right marketing, word will spread and anyone liking a gamble will partake, many will become an audience to the drawing. It could become popular enough to rival the outside lotteries while it exposes the sport to more people. And don't think pari-mutuel bettors will pass it up. Think it through and work out details. It could be the ultimate hybrid of two great games of chance.

Postscript

In a recent AA at HRU, I wondered why there was no race named for the late, racing PR icon, Marv Bachrad. Upon publication of the column, Judy-Davis Wilson of the Delaware Standardbred Breeders Fund (DSBF) informed me that Dover Downs, where Marv last served, named a $100,000 DSBF Final for 2-year-old filly trotters, The Marv Bachrad. I apologize for the sloppy research but am happy Dover named a race for one of the sport's most influential sources.

Riordan trotter upsets in $217,000 E3 from post 12

by Thomas Hedlund

American-born, Swedish-based trainer Jerry Riordan admitted that he hadn't any big expectations when his Globalizer (Bold Eagle) entered the $217,000 E3 final for mares at Romme racetrack on Saturday afternoon. Post 12 over the mile on a 5/8ths mile track is a task that few horses solve in Sweden, in any race, so it's not that strange that the final odds stayed at 46-1 for Globalizer.

Hilarious Am came to the lead with first choice M.T.Perette on the outside, while Stefan Persson found position third on the inside with Riordan's Globalizer. Third inside is normally a tough spot to win a race from, but Globalizer had the right luck in the last turn, when the horse outside began to run out of power and over the home stretch, the 3-year-old Bold Eagle mare flew to safe win in mile rate 1:54.

M.T.Perete held strongly as second and leader Hilarious Am finished third.

"Of course it's hard to believe that you can win a race like this from post 12 and I'm surprised that she won. This is a tough mare that sometimes can be quite hard to handle," said Riordan after the big victory.

In the division for colts and geldings, two horses were way more entrusted by the bettor's than the others, but the day ended in early breaks for both of them. Hell Bent For Am started from post 10 and went off stride after 50 meters while No Doubt made a break in the end of the first turn. With the two favorites out of the race, the $217,000 E3 final became an open story where first over trotter Hennessy Am (Muscle Hill) was strongest in the end for driver Erik Adielsson. Hennessy Am disarmed leader Vegan Face shortly ahead of the wire and fresh trainer Kim Pedersen collected his greatest souvenir at the tracks so far in his career.

"It was tough to watch but I'm very happy and together with the owner I celebrate this win them. Hennessy Am develops for every race that he gets now and this was his fifth start since he came from USA," said Kim Pedersen after the race.

Hennessy Am began his career in America, in Staffan Lind's barn where he made nine starts as a 2-year-old with three third places as best results.

Mile rate for Hennessy Am was 1:55.4.

New sales methods necessary in COVID-19 era

Horse sales and their companies have been faced with some obstacles during the year, due to the situation with COVID-19 and the Sweden International Yearling Sale 2020 (full details here), which is scheduled on Tuesday, Aug. 18 will use a new arrangement to selling horses. All bid will be made through <https://www.travera.nu/in-english/>.

The catalogue contains 143 yearlings (where a few of them already are scratched) plus shares in stallions Trixton and Father Patrick.

Trainers and agents are allowed to visit Solvalla on Tuesday noon and forward during the day, but restrictions requires safe distancing and people who want to examine the horses need to make a notification to the sales company's office ahead of Tuesday.

Majestic Player A steps up to Grand Circuit competition in Crawford Farms Trot by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

The first time Walter Haynes Jr. qualified Australian-bred Majestic Player in the U.S., the trotter was in against a field of pacers at Miami Valley Raceway in January. Majestic Player, with trainer Haynes in the sulky, was third after three-quarters of a mile, more than three lengths off the lead, but came home in :28.2 to win by two lengths in 1:57.2.

Following the qualifier, Haynes called owner Brian Carsey.

"Walter said he thought he was the real deal," Carsey said. "He went right by them like he was a pacer. He's definitely impressed us ever since."

Majestic Player entered Friday as the winningest trotter in North America, with 10 victories in 11 starts. His only loss came by a head in his seasonal debut in February. On July 18, the 6-year-old gelding won the open at Harrah's Hoosier Park in a track-record-equaling 1:51.1, making him the fastest Australasian-bred trotter in history.

And now, after dominating the opens at Miami Valley, Scioto Downs, and Hoosier, Majestic Player will see if he can be a big-time player on the Grand Circuit. On Sunday (Aug. 16), he meets a field that includes harness racing's No. 1-ranked horse, Gimpanzee, in the $220,000 Crawford Farms Open Trot at Tioga Downs. Majestic Player will start from post position three with Andy McCarthy in the bike. He is 8-1 on the morning line.

"We're just fortunate to be in it and we'll see how he does, but we have high hopes for him," Carsey said. "He's got the will to win. He gives it his all. No matter how far they get away from him, he finds a way to catch them."

The Crawford Farms Open Trot is one of three Grand Circuit events at Tioga on Sunday, with the $133,000 Joie De Vie for trotting mares and the $129,000 Artiscape for pacing mares. The Joie De Vie features the top-three finishers in last week's Dr. John Steele Memorial — When Dovescry, Plunge Blue Chip, and Manchego — while 2019 Horse of the Year Shartin N headlines the Artiscape.

Last year's Crawford Farms was won by New Zealand-bred Speeding Spur, so Majestic Player will be trying to make it two in a row for imports from Down Under.

Carsey bought Majestic Player toward the end of last year's racing season in Australia. The horse made one start for Carsey prior to leaving home, winning the Group 2 Breeders Crown for 4-year-old male trotters.

New York

"We watched him for about five months before we bought him," Carsey said. "I was working with a trainer down there, Dean Braun, and he kind of put the deal together. We bought him for the SOA (of NY Bonus Trotting Series) at Yonkers. It looked like he would have fit well. I wasn't looking at him being a top, top trotter or anything like that."

After the deal was completed, Braun suggested otherwise.

"Dean said I think you have a Grand Circuit horse for (this) year," Carsey said. "I told him not to get too high, but based on his influence, he convinced us to stake him the last part of the year. We didn't stake him early because we didn't want to race him hard."

Carsey credited Haynes and drivers Brett Miller and Sam Widger with aiding Majestic Player's development in his new country.

"They've done a great job with this horse, not getting too high and wanting to showboat him," Carsey said. "They raced him off the pace and taught him to be a racehorse over here."

Majestic Player is by Majestic Son out of Another Player, who is a daughter of 2001 Maple Leaf Trot runner-up Dr Ronerail, and was bred by Yabby Dam Farms. Carsey shares ownership of the gelding with Jeff Fought Racing and Casey Myers. The horse has earned $103,250 this year.

Following the Crawford Farms Open Trot, the gelding is eligible to the Maple Leaf Trot, Caesars Trotting Classic, Dayton Trotting Derby, Allerage Farms Open, and Breeders Crown.

"He's really exceeded all of our expectations," Carsey said. "It's very exciting. We're just very fortunate, really."

Racing begins at 1 p.m. (EDT) Sunday at Tioga Downs. For complete entries, click here.

BREAKING STRIDE

with TREY NOSRAC

Cathfish fever

by Trey Nosrac

"So, last night, I'm playing some races from Scioto Downs. The driver's colony at the track are not all household names. I see in the race program a race with three drivers named Smith. Now in Trey's world, this should not stand. Everyone, not just the Smith lads, should have a nickname."

David impaled a straw into the lid of his drive-thru milkshake and replied, "Shouldn't a nickname be spontaneous?"

I piloted the Lexus onto Wilmott Boulevard, and said, "Not necessarily. Oakland Athletics owner Charlie O. Finley signed a young pitcher named Jim Hunter. Finley felt the name was a snooze. Always on the prowl for promotional opportunities, Finley informed young Hunter that his nickname was Catfish."

David nodded, "It stuck. Even though I'm not a baseball fan, I've heard of Catfish Hunter."

"Finley helped the nickname stick by basing it on fake reality. He told Jim Hunter to tell people who asked about the nickname that he ran away from home as a kid, and by the time his father found him, he'd already caught five large catfish. Finley knew the nickname did not cost a dime, the fishing story did not cost a nickel, and knew it might help market his team. Marketing opportunities came Jim's way, and Catfish burrowed into our brains."

I took a slug of my milkshake and asked David, "Do you have a nickname?"

"No." He scoffed.

"Do you want one?"

"No."

"Too bad, Silicon Man, everyone in my crowd has a nickname. Giving nicknames is as close as I get to a career."

"Is Trey a nickname?"

"Yes."

"Why, because you're a third-generation son, like William Wilson III?"

"Nope, my family tree has a lot of hyphens and exes."

"From long-range basketball shots?"

"Nah. Trey came from a card game we played back in high school, a game with three cards called Thirty-One, an early ancestor of the Blackjack and Cribbage. I was always looking for someone to play for smokes or a dollar a hand."

"Do you like it... the nickname?"

"Nicknames rock. They feel like secret codes, or like you are in on some private joke or story. Plus, they are memorable. How many Treys do you know?"

"Fortunately, just one." He smiled, and after a pause said, "Your original point is that if the Smith harness race drivers each had a nickname, they would be more noteworthy."

"For sure. Suppose one of the Smith drivers is The Blacksmith or The Panther from Pikesville. Suppose he wears all black, and in the post parade, the announcer leans into, 'And driving number six is Tyler Smith, The Blacksmith.'"

#BETONHARNESS

OUR FUTURE DEPENDS ON IT!

Whatever, that driver would be unique. He would have his little brand.”

“Who picks the names?”

“Anybody. In Major League baseball, they have a week each season where every single player in the league picks their nickname. The teams sew them onto their uniforms, and the announcers use the nicknames all week. Jason Kipnis is Dirtbag. Francisco Lindor is Mr. Smile. Bradley Zimmer is The Machine.”

David said, “Well, it is fun. Nicknames add another dimension.”

“They add several dimensions and are free. When snooker began to show up on television screens and gained popularity, every player had a nickname. Martin Gould became The Sheriff of Pottingham, John Higgins The Wizard of Wishaw, and of course, Ronnie The Rocket O’Sullivan.”

“Catchy.” He said.

“And useful. Would you like to try and remember the name of a player named Thanawat Thirapongpaiboon, or would you prefer, Thai-Namite, not to be confused with James Wattana, The Thai-Phoon?”

“Thai-Namite.”

“Some players have multiple nicknames. Neil Robertson is equally well known as The Melbourne Machine and The Thunder from Down Under. But it is hard to top Ken Doherty with SIX nicknames, The Darlin of Dublin, Crafty Ken, Ken-do, Scarface, The Ranelagh Rascal, and Dogged Doherty.”

David smiled and said, “Yikes, announcers and writers could keep busy explaining Ken’s nicknames.”

I nodded, “Nicknames are fun and useful, Silicon Man.”

“I’m not thrilled with that one. I prefer another one you slipped into the conversation one beery night, Major Techster.”

“Done. Consider the name official. Begin changing your email signature line and re-labeling your underwear.”

He sighed, “And today started just like a normal Monday. Do you have any in harness racing nicknames?”

“Yeah, we have a few. Tim Tetrick is The Bionic Man, David Miller is The Buckeye, and Brian Sears is The White Knight. There are a few others, but my style is to go overboard, try to give every driver a nickname.”

“Thanks for the fact check. Now, go back to the baseball week. What would it cost for one week each year to ask drivers to choose nicknames, pin them on their racing outfit, list them in the programs, and have the announcers and race callers refer to them by their nickname? They will tell you what it would cost – nothing. What good would it do? Maybe nothing, but what the hell, it would be fun, and fun is good.”

He screwed up his face, “Doesn’t your sport seems a little serious for something like that?”

“Yeah, we are serious, deadly serious. Maybe some names stick, you never know. Any fun or clever nicknames sound silly at first, but if used enough, some will catch on, especially if they have a good backstory.”

Major Techster said, “And even though relatively speaking, your sport is not very large, marketing opportunities could happen.”

“You are correct. Dennis Boyd did not sell t-shirts, but Oil Can Boyd did. His nickname came with him from Mississippi, where folks refer to beer as oil. Nikolai Khabibulin, the first Russian goalie to win the Stanley Cup, cashed in on The Bulin Wall, and I have three old golf shirts with The Shark logos, compliments of Greg Norman.”

He said, “Well, assigning or selecting catch names seems doable, a little fun project free from fiefdoms.”

“I’ve been following some of these drivers for years. They are great at their craft. Aside from interviews where they thank the owners, thank the trainer, and say what a great horse they drove, I would rather have the guy enthusiastically explain why he is called The Rappahannock Rambler.”

He slurped his milkshake dry and asked, “Does it hurt to be inside your head?”

“Not much. But hey, what would a nickname hurt besides a few feelings.”

Simon Allard earns 4,000th driving win

On Friday afternoon (Aug. 14), Simon Allard recorded the 4,000th driving win of his career, doing so with Anythingforlove A ($2.10) in the ninth race at Harrah's Philadelphia.

Allard yielded for the pocket with the 8-year-old Rock N Roll Heaven gelding, and the pair drafted Skip To My Lou before reclaiming the lead on the backstretch and holding off a late charge from 23-1 outsider Mr Profeta to win by Participants arriving from an outside country or permanent residents returning to Canada will be allowed access to race at Woodbine Mohawk Park under the following conditions:

1. Complete a successful 14-day isolation period before 6 p.m. on race night and pass the COVID-19 screening process at Woodbine Mohawk Park. Any participants (driver, trainer, assistant trainer, groom) seeking access to race under Condition #2 must arrive in Canada within enough time to complete and receive results of a COVID-19 test conducted in Canada. Results take an average of two to four days to receive, therefore recommended arrival is by Monday for participation in weekend stakes.

It is highly recommended that foreign participants or permanent residents returning to Canada not attend Training Centers until the results of a negative COVID-19 test are received, thereby not putting the racing community at risk.

Woodbine has also established a set of protocols for race nights to be followed by all foreign/returning drivers and foreign/returning trainers, assistant trainers and grooms who receive access to race under Condition #2.

Foreign or Returning Drivers:

1. Must wear a face mask at all times.
2. Practice frequent hand-washing along with maintaining 2 metres/6 feet physical distancing.
3. Drivers are not permitted access to the race paddock at any time. Paddock judge may be contacted by call or text.
4. All communication with trainers, grooms or racing officials will be done outdoors or by phone.
5. Masks may only be pulled down during a race, if required. Masks with head or neck ties are recommended.
6. Driver will be responsible for his/her own driving suit, boots and equipment as the Driver's Valet will not be available.
7. Driver's locker room and showers remain closed.
8. Separate trailer will be provided for these drivers on race night.
9. Driver is to have no contact with Ontario-based driving colony or racing participants, outside of getting on the race bike next to a groom.
10. All tack is to be cleaned and sanitized frequently by groom.

Foreign or Returning Trainers, Assistant Trainers and Grooms:

1. This group will be permitted in the Race Paddock once they have met the conditions regarding isolation and/or "Quarantine Exemption" plus negative COVID-19 test results.
2. Horses of Foreign Trainers/Drivers will use designated isolation stalls as assigned by the Paddock Judge. All doors will be open for air flow in the Paddock area.
3. Must wear a face mask at all times.
4. Practice frequent hand-washing along with maintaining 2 metres/6 feet physical distancing.

All foreign participants or permanent residents returning to Canada must make arrangements with Bill McLinchey, director of standardbred racing, in advance. Questions and arrangements can be e-mailed to Bill McLinchey at bmclinchey@woodbine.com.

Trina, Royalty Deal strike gold with first OSS victories

Thursday night (Aug. 13) marked the midway point in the 3-year-old trotting filly Gold Series season and it was a pair of first-time Ontario Sires Stakes (OSS) winners who emerged from the fray at Woodbine Mohawk Park.

In the opening $108,000 division Trina hustled away from Post 10 behind division point leader Warrawee Vicky and followed that filly through the fractions of :26.4, :55.3 and 1:24.3 rung up by pacesetter GP Dreamin. When Doug McNair swung Warrawee Vicky into the outer lane around the final turn, Robert Shepherd and Trina were hot on their heels and soon overtaking the two-time Gold winners. Down the stretch Trina opened up a three and three-quarter length margin on her peers, trotting under the wire in 1:53.4. Warrawee Vicky finished second and She Rocks Kemp closed well to be third.

"Shep gave her a great drive. He didn't give up the three-hole and it was just a perfect drive for her," said trainer Blake MacIntosh of St. George, ON. "I was really worried about the 10-hole because she can get real grabby on the gate, and then she wants to leave a thousand miles out of there. That's why we opened her up a little bit, just to try and keep her a little calmer, and it seemed to help her a lot. And Shep did a great job getting her out right behind Dougie (McNair) and sitting in the three-hole the whole way. Not a lot of guys can get them away well out of the ten-hole, trailing."

MacIntosh made the switch from a blind bridle to Swedish blinds after Trina delivered a lacklustre performance in an Aug. 6 overnight at Woodbine Mohawk Park. That effort came as a surprise to the trainer and his co-owners Stan Klemencic and 30 Plus Stable of Trenton, ON, because the Muscle Mass daughter had finished second in the track, Ontario Sires Stakes and Canadian record mile recorded by P L Notsonice in the July 26 Gold leg at Rideau Carleton Raceway.

"She qualified great, both times (July 14 and 21), we took her up to Ottawa and she finished second in that record mile up there and last week we raced her in non-winners of two and she just had no fire, she just had nothing," said MacIntosh. "I'm not too sure what happened, we pulled her blood, but everything came back good, she just had nothing, so we were really concerned about it.”

Harness Racing Update on Facebook

Thursday's victory, a personal best, certainly allayed her owners' concerns. The win was Trina's first for the group, who offered up $59,000 for the filly at last fall's Harrisburg Mixed Sale, her first win of 2020 and her first in Ontario Sires Stakes action.

In the second $108,000 division driver Louis-Philippe Roy rolled Royalty Deal away from Post 6 and landed in second behind Talahassee Seelster as that filly rang up a :27.4 opening fraction. Roy and Royalty Deal continued to sit behind Talahassee Seelster heading by the :56 half, but had stepped into the outer lane by the 1:24.4 three-quarters. Royalty Deal found another gear in the stretch and was able to keep a neck in front of Magic Cape at the 1:53.4 finish. Modern Mass completed the top three.

“I didn't know much about how the filly was until Clark (Beelby) told me before the race that she could be aggressive on the track. I just made sure she stayed quiet during the post parade and going on the gate, and then everything developed for her,” said Roy. “She's a big and fast filly.”

Roy engineered the win for trainer Clark Beelby and owners Coyote Wynd Farms of Vancouver, BC, who purchased the daughter of Royalty For Life and Cha Cha Glide for $50,000 at the 2018 Lexington Selected Yearling Sale from breeder Stan Klemencic, giving the Trenton, ON resident an interest in both division winners.

Thursday's appearance was Royalty Deal's first in the Ontario Sires Stakes program. The filly made just one start at two and developed her skills in six starts against conditioned competition at Woodbine Mohawk Park this season before joining the Gold Series fillies for Thursday's third leg.

The 3-year-old trotting fillies will make their fourth Gold Series start at Flamboro Downs on Sept. 27.

McClure steers trio of fillies to Grassroots victory

Driver Bob McClure won a trio of Grassroots divisions at Woodbine Mohawk Park on Friday (Aug. 14), guiding 2-year-old pacing fillies Nightlife Seelster, Joliette Hanover and Come On Sun to their first provincial victories.

McClure and Nightlife Seelster kicked things off in the first $23,150 division, going gate-to-wire from Post 1 in a sharp 1:52.4, the quickest mile of the five Grassroots splits. Amini finished second, three and one-half lengths behind the fan favorite, and Spittin Chicklets was three more lengths back in third.

“I’d say that she’ll probably go out and try the Gold now. She’s a pretty serious filly,” said McClure. “I was pretty impressed by her. She’s got all the weapons to be something really nice – a real nice gait, real nice attitude and drives like a sports car.”

Shawn Steacy trains Nightlife Seelster for Hudson Standardbred Stable Inc. of Hudson, QC, Conrad Leber of Montreal, QC and Bertrand Gilhespy Stable of Edmonton, AB. The partners purchased the Sunshine Beach daughter at last fall’s London Selected Yearling Sale, offering up $72,000 for the half-sister to $1.2 million winner Nirvana Seelster.

Friday was Nightlife Seelster’s first appearance in the Grassroots program and her second lifetime start. She finished second to Joliette Hanover in her Aug. 7 debut over the Woodbine Mohawk Park oval.

In the third $23,150 division McClure allowed Joliette Hanover to ease away from Post 7 and settle in fifth as Annies Legacy battled to a :28 quarter. Chiefs Dream Girl led the field of nine to the :57.3 half, and McClure had already angled the fan favorite into the outer lane. Joliette Hanover had a head in front at the 1:26.3 three-quarters and opened up a three and one-quarter length margin on her peers by the finish, clocked in 1:54.1. Shes A Sassy Beach and Jackieofalltrades finished second and third.

“She’s just a really nice filly, you know. She’s not very big, she hasn’t got a lot of tools going for her, but she just always goes forward and loves her work, and she’s really nice to drive, a nice mouth and everything,” said McClure. “She’s about as nice a little filly as you can drive and it’s remarkable how mature she is for just her second lifetime start.”

McClure engineered Joliette Hanover’s second straight win and her first Grassroots victory for trainer Casie Coleman Herlihy of Cambridge and her co-owners West Wins Stable of Cambridge, Mac Nichol of Burlington, ON, James Clarke Sr. of York, PA and Robert Darrow of Dublin, OH. The Sportswriter daughter was a $50,000 purchase out of the Harrisburg Yearling Sale.

Two races later, after leaving strongly from Post 8 and landing in fourth, McClure had Come On Sun on the lead by the :57.2 half and the filly battled down the stretch to a one-half length victory in 1:54.4. Better Kisthe Men finished second and favorite Sports Drink recovered from a mid-race miscue to be third.

“She’s a very, very fast filly, but they’ve clearly been trying to manage her a little bit, because she feels like she’d have a tendency to get hot,” said McClure. “I just kind of let the dust settle and then let her work her way to the front, and she kicked home really good. I was really happy with her too, maybe not quite as strong as her stablemate, but right up there.”

The win gave trainer Shawn Steacy of Brantford, ON his second of the program and was the second lifetime and first Grassroots victory for Come On Sun. The trainer’s parents, Katherine and Mark Steacy of Lansdowne, ON, share ownership of the Sunshine Beach filly with Stephen Klunowski of North York, ON. The partners offered up $13,000 for Come On Sun at last fall’s Harrisburg Yearling Sale.

Friday was Come On Sun’s second start in the Grassroots program. She finished sixth in the July 17 event at Grand River Raceway after suffering interference at the midway point.

McClure almost added a fourth win to his collection in the final division, finishing second with favorite Sportsfire behind Control The Thong. Control The Moment daughter Control The Thong reeled in Sportsfire coming off the last turn and powered down the stretch to a two and one-half length win in 1:53.3 for driver Jody Jamieson, trainer Dominic Gladu and owners Roger Bourgeois of Rawdon, QC and Francois Dupuis of St-Alphonse Roderiguez, QC. Sports Duchess rounded out the top three.

“The other filly, that Jody was driving, I drove last week and she’s a very nice filly with a really nice attitude, but I’d already won a couple races with Sportsfire, so I felt like I owed it to her to stick with her,” said McClure, who piloted Control The Thong to a runner-up result in an Aug. 7 overnight event at Woodbine Mohawk Park. “And given the fact Sportsfire had a month off and left hard and had to move to the front, I thought she put in a really great effort. I mean a mile in 1:53 off a half in :57.1, she certainly didn't do anything wrong, and maybe it will even her playing field if they're both race tight."

With two wins and a second in the first three Grassroots events, Sportswriter daughter Sportsfire currently sits atop the division standings with 125 points.

Shiatzu Seelster captured the other Grassroots division with a 1:54 effort for driver Louis-Philippe Roy of Guelph, who engineered the win for his co-owner 1876472 Ontario Inc. of Guelph and trainer Richard Moreau. Patina Seelster finished a head behind the State Treasurer daughter and fan favorite Voelz Delight was three-quarters of a length back in third.

The two-year-old pacing fillies will make their fourth Grassroots start at Clinton Raceway on Sept. 6.

Freshmen vie in final leg of Ohio Sires Stakes

A quartet of $50,000 Ohio Sires Stakes (OHSS) for freshman pacing colts and fillies will be contested on Monday night (Aug. 17) at Northfield Park, and will determine the starting fields for Super Night, scheduled for Sept. 5 at Scioto Downs. First race post time at Northfield is 6 pm, ET.

A total of 14 pacing fillies are set to vie, along with 13 pacing colts in these OHSS contests. Ohio-registered stallions represented include six by Well Said, four by Racing Hill and two each by Domethatagain, McArdle, Nob Hill High, The Panderosa and Western Vintage. Stallions represented by one foal each include Arthur Blue Chip, Art Official, Bring On The Beach, Manhardt, Rockin Amadeus and Yankee Cruiser.

The first OHSS pacing filly division (Race 1) is the most competitive, with four previous OHSS winners set to battle, including the multiple leg-winning Summer Touch, who captured leg two in 1:54.2 and leg three in 1:51.4. She will be joined by leg one winner Lady Arthur (1:53.2), leg one winner Leave Her Wild (1:55.1) and leg two winner Rainy Day Chic (1:54.1).

The second OHSS pacing filly division (Race 5) pits Leg One winner Winella Hanover (1:54.4) against Sentimental, who captured leg one in 1:56.1 and leg two in 1:53.2.

The first OHSS division for pacing colts appears to be a wide-open event with no returning OHSS winners. Barnard Hanover, a Ronnie Burke-trainee, will be the likely favorite via his second- and third-place finishes in previous OHSS contests. The second pacing colt divisions sees a trio of previous leg winners in Hardt At Work, a leg one winner in 1:55.1 and leg three winner in 1:52.2. In addition, Heart Of Chewbacca, impressive in his only OHSS start captured leg three in 1:51.1, while Charlie May captured leg one in 1:54.2 and leg two in 1:53.

It appears that Ronnie Burke will have the favorite in each of these four divisions and have additional starters in each race too. Summer Touch is the likely favorite in the first filly event, with stablemate Free Thinker joining her in her quest for first place money. In the second filly division, Burke harnesses likely favorite Winella Hanover along with stablemate Pinknperfect. Burke will also tighten the girth on Barnard Hanover in the first colt division, as well as likely favorite Heart Of Chewbacca and stablemate Hill Yeah in the second.

Ready For Moni heads a strong Mass-bred roster

Coming off its most successful season to date, Massachusetts standardbred breeding and the accompanying Massachusetts Sire Stakes have become very desirable to many breeders across North America. With a resident mare program that provides for yearlings to be eligible to more than one state sire stake program in the same year, and the supporting Massachusetts stakes being driven by three state casinos through the provisions of the Race Horse Development Fund, Massachusetts has become a fast growing breeding jurisdiction in North America.

Registered mares in Massachusetts have increased by almost 50 per cent from 2017 to 2019 and that roster has grown by 25 per cent this past year alone with 145 having foaled in the state this past breeding season.

The Massachusetts Sire Stakes begin in September, but many of the eligible horses have been competing successfully since racing resumed earlier this summer. And some of them have been turning heads with their performances as the season progresses.

Three-year-old trotting colt Ready For Moni (Ready Cash—Nothing But Moni) started out strong last year at two, winning the final of the $250,000 Kentucky Sire Stakes and finishing second in the $505,050 Valley Victory in his last start of the year.

This year, Ready for Moni came out with guns blazing, taking a lifetime mark of 1:51.4 in the $142,250 Stanley Dancer and winning an elimination of the $1 million Hambletonian, where he lowered his mark once again to 1:51.3. In the final, Ready for Moni tracked the favored Ramona Hill from the quarter all the way to the wire and came up just a length short in a stake record tying time of 1:50.1. The race time was also the fastest trotting mile by any 3-year-old trotter this year.

To date Ready For Moni has six wins in 11 lifetime starts and $599,020 in earnings.

(Breeder: Moni Maker Stable, foaled in East Longmeadow, MA)

Without A Warning (RC Royalty—Concentration) was the MASS 2-year-old filly trotting champion, going a perfect four-for-four in the series including winning the $100,000 final. This year (as she did last) Without A Warning has competed successfully in the New York Sire Stakes. This includes a win in 1:55.1 at Yonkers and a third at Batavia Downs behind Love A Good Story, who set a new track record of 1:55.1 that day. She also competed in the $207,250 Empire Breeders Classic at Vernon Downs, finishing fifth behind Hypnotic Am who won in 1:53.4.

In two years of racing, Without A Warning has six wins and $258,762 in the bank.

(Breeder: Ray Campbell Jr., foaled in Belchertown, MA)

Other Mass-bred 3-year-olds to watch include pacing colt Wyatt J (American Ideal—Think Pink) who finished fourth behind Major Betts at Tioga in 1:49.4 after interference and then chased a 1:49 mile won by Splash Brother at Vernon, pacing his own mile in 1:50.4. He has since won two overnights at Yonkers, one in a lifetime best 1:53.3.

(Breeder: Lindy Farms of Connecticut, foaled in East Longmeadow, MA)

Double Dealing (RC Royalty—Heather Spur) is building on his second place finish in the MASS trotting final last year. After winning his first 2020 start at Vernon Downs, he has won two NYSS Excelsior A divisions by a combined 7-3/4 lengths with a second and third in the series as well. His best outing was a 1:54.2 romp at Tioga Downs in July. Double Dealing is a brother to Bag O Chips, who was a 2-year-old MASS champion in 2017.

(Breeder: Ray Campbell Jr., foaled in Belchertown, MA)

Life Is A Feast (Royalty For Life—Luau Hanover) was the 2-year-old MASS male trotting champion in 2019 and won five out of his last six starts of the year. This year he has been competing in the Ontario Sire Stakes with his best finish a fourth at Mohawk in a 1:52.2 mile. He came back the following week in an overnight event to take a new lifetime mark of 1:54.3.

(Breeder: Karen Carroll, foaled in Westport, MA)

There is a solid list of freshman starters doing well as they make their initial outings this year.

Two-year-old pacing filly Rightfully Mine (American Ideal-Leah) has been red hot on the NYSS circuit, having not missed the board in four starts. After two seconds and a third in her first three races, Rightfully Mine scored her first win at Saratoga Raceway in a 1:55.3 mile where she easily went gate to wire.

(Breeder: Monique Cohen, foaled in East Longmeadow, MA)

After making her first career start in a leg of the NYSS at Vernon Downs, So Amazing (So Surreal—Teddy Ballgirl) has since become a force in the NYSS Excelsior A series where she has won two consecutive starts in August. So Amazing won at Yonkers and Saratoga in identical times of 1:56.4 and did both on the front-end. So Amazing is a sister to So Awesome, who was a NYSS star as a 2 and 3-year-old and has lifetime earnings of $453,556.

(Breeder: Nancy Longobardi and Domenic Longobardi, foaled in Norfolk, MA)

Mullinax (American Ideal—Up Front Kellie Jo) just scored his first NYSS Excelsior A win at Batavia Downs in a 5-1/2 length romp in 1:56.2. The week prior, he made a break after being interfered with at Tioga and still managed to finish third in a 1:54.4 mile. This is a fast improving pacing colt that looks to be a factor this fall.

(Breeder: Ed Mullinax and Mark Ford, foaled in Norfolk, MA)

Lindy's Booze Cruz (Bar Hopping—Universal Success) has been competing in the Pennsylvania Stallion Series and in his second lifetime start, won going away by 2-3/4 lengths in 1:58.2 at the Meadows. He has shown quick development since his qualifier and this trotter seems to have more to offer moving forward.

(Breeder: Lindy Farms of Connecticut, foaled in Hampden, MA)

In The Cards (RC Royalty—Super Starlet) made his first lifetime start a winning one as he took a leg of the NYSS trot at Yonkers in July. He has also finished third in that series at Saratoga and will build on his success moving forward. In The Cards is a brother to 2015 3-year-old MASS champion Concentration (1:54.1, $253,603) and a full brother to 2018 MASS 3-year-old champion Ithinkthatsmine (1:56, $215,135).

(Breeder: Ray Campbell Jr., foaled in Belchertown, MA)

Many more MASS eligibles are currently racing in the NYSS Excelsior B series and the Maine Sire Stakes now as well as in overnights at Plainridge Park in preparation for the start of the 2020 Massachusetts stakes.

Future Stars Series starts today at Hippodrome 3R

The Future Stars Series gets underway at the Hippodrome 3R today (Aug. 16) with four opening round divisions for 2-year-old harness racing pacers headlined by three top contenders from Bayama Farms of Saint-Andre-D'Argenteuil.

Hall of Famer Yves Filion is no stranger to H3R and his homebred Bayama Standardbreds have always been top performers in the sport. Today is no exception for the famed horseman.

There will be three rounds of preliminary competition in the Future Stars Series with the top eight point earners eligible for their respective $55,000 finals on Sunday, Sept. 27.

Filion's Celia Bayama heads the third race first division of the series for 2-year-old pacing fillies. The daughter of Bettor's Delight starts from post six with Filion in the sulky. Although winless in three starts this year, Celia Bayama has shown exceptional speed in the Ontario Sire Stakes Grassroots, raced timed in 1:56 and 1:56.2 at Mohawk Park and Grand River Raceway.

She will be taking on recent H3R winners Platine Alpha (post 4), Nikita Sena (post 2) and the second choice in the race, CL Sportsextreme (post 1), who already boasts two Grassroot wins in 1:57 and 1:56.2.

The sixth race second filly division does not feature a Bayama horse, but is headlined by D Gs Magicmoment from post one. This Control The Moment filly, trained by Guylaine Fortin and to be driven by Jonathan Lachance, was third in its last start at Mohawk Park, raced timed in 1:54.3 and already shows a qualifying win in 1:58.2.

Her main competition will come from SOS Faline (post 5), who has two wins at Rideau Carleton Raceway, the fastest in 1:56.2.

The colts get underway in the Future Stars Series in the fourth race where Colonel Bayama starts for Filion from the rail and faces a formidable foe in D Gs Runforhim (post 5). Both colts show sub-two-minute speed despite being winless.

The top contender on the afternoon program for Yves Filion goes from post six in the seventh race second colt division and his name is Cadillac Bayama.

Last week at Mohawk Park Cadillac Bayama, with Filion's son Sylvain in the sulky, won his division of the Grassroots Series in 1:53.4. The colt by Sunshine Beach takes on another Mohawk Park invader named YS Do It Right (post 5), who was second in 1:53.2, showing a last quarter mile in :27.

The nine-race card gets underway at 1:00 pm. For a free race program, visit www.hippodrome3r.ca.

Fontaine questions why SRIF will be division of USTA

I just finished reading in Hoof Beats about the impending details of the so-called Standardbred Racing Investigative Fund (SRIF).

According to the Hoof Beats article, the SRIF will be a “division” of USTA. Despite hearing “from several industry stakeholders who were concerned about industry participants having the ability to exert influence on” investigations into our cheaters, are we nevertheless to be saddled with it being a “division” of USTA?

Also, USTA will announce who will be serving on the SRIF board. Does that mean someone from USTA leadership will be a board member, which begs the question: WHY? The “industry stakeholders” have already spoken loud and clear. They don’t want certain people “having the ability to exert influence” on investigations. In other words they don’t want someone in the USTA board leadership to impede their efforts. (Read who you will into this sentence).

Those who put up the money should choose their own controlling body and thereby be completely independent of USTA. It’s not enough to say, as the Hoof Beats article states, that investigative decision-making “will be removed from USTA.” Common sense would dictate that if a certain key member of this SRIF board came from USTA leadership, there will no doubt be input from that person negating the concept of complete independence. If such participation indeed occurs, why should our industry heavy hitters put large sums of money on the proverbial barrelhead and risk contamination of their independent efforts.

There are enough brilliant minds in this business with substantial resources to put this effort together without this process being a “division” of USTA.

— Paul A. Fontaine / Rhode Island

USTA president Russell Williams responds to Fontaine

This is taking a long time because of a myriad of independence issues, only one of which Mr. Fontaine has raised. This project requires a level of sophistication that we’ve never seen before.

In our original announcement in July, we did indicate that the SRIF will exist as a division of the USTA but with independent, third-party oversight.

At that time, my statement acknowledged the feedback received from important harness racing participants and emphasized that the structure of the SRIF will keep influence and decision-making completely separate from the USTA.

The following is my statement from the announcement of the SRIF:

“After announcing the $250,000 (Hanover Shoe Farms) challenge grant, we heard from several industry stakeholders who were concerned about industry participants having the ability to exert influence on or make decisions regarding investigations into possible regulatory or criminal abuses.

“These concerns are valid, so we have worked diligently with a leading Pennsylvania law firm to design a structure that would remove funding and investigative decision-making from the USTA and allow for total confidentiality.”

Once all of the details and logistics are complete, we believe that Mr. Fontaine as well as all industry participants will be very satisfied with the structure of and the oversight that will be provided by the SRIF.

— Russell Williams / USTA president and Hanover Shoe Farms president & CEO
