The growing legend of a Tall Dark Stranger

Four days after a history-making triumph in the $1 million Pepsi North America Cup that required military-style logistics, the pacer's delighted connections can't help but gush about the colt's intestinal fortitude.

Tall Dark Stranger (Yannick Gingras) grew his legend when he fought off Tattoo Artist to win the 37th Pepsi North America Cup on Saturday at Woodbine Mohawk Park.

Pedigree, conformation and athleticism. Even a novice could see Tall Dark Stranger was overly blessed in all of those critical areas as a baby.

It explains his legion of well-heeled admirers when he was a yearling prospect.

It explains why a group of owners predominantly looking for fillies to bolster broodmare bands suddenly found themselves gaga over a pacing colt.

What no one knew then – and what no one ever knows for sure when horses are babies – is if TDS had, as Yannick Gingras might say, the “je ne sais quoi” necessary to go to war with the continent's best.

Not to diminish his other tremendous qualities, but two years on, having the heart of a warrior, that intangible “it” factor and the grit of hockey grinder, is likely Stranger's best characteristic.

Time and again his opponents have been in position to put him away in the stretch and time and again he has responded, none better than in the final of the Meadowlands Pace (replay here) which deserves to be on the shortlist of the greatest races of all time along with Wiggle It Jiggle It's Jug, Art Official's upset of Somebeachsomewhere in the Meadowlands Pace, Itz Fritz v. Cam Fella and Life Sign's Jug.

On Saturday (Aug. 29) in the $1 million Pepsi North America Cup final at Woodbine Mohawk Park, Tattoo Artist pulled the pocket at the top of the lane and threatened to go right on past Tall Dark Stranger, only to be rebuffed on the way to a two-length, 1:48.2 victory.

Certainly the NA Cup win lacked the drama of the M.Pace slugfest with Papi Rob Hanover, but on Aug. 22 in Stranger's NA Cup elim, the son of Bettors Delight out of Precocious Beauty was nearly nicked at the wire by Capt Midnight when there was an equipment malfunction and the former's earplugs failed to pop. That TDS fought back in virtual silence, proved the colt's natural-born tenacity, yet again.

“He's a real fighter and he's got grit,” said his part-owner Judy Chaffee of Caviart Farms. “You can't tell about heart until they start racing. When you see it, it's just incredible and he has it in spades. I've never seen a colt dig in like he does and he just fights with everything he's got. It's beautiful. We're so fond of him.”

Part-owner Howard Taylor said what he loves most about Tall Dark Stranger is, “his guts. He refuses to lose.”

“He has no ‘off’ and I've never seen him give up,” said

Dave Landry

When regular caretaker Katie Remmerswaal chose not to cross the border during the pandemic, Ben Hollingsworth paddocked Tall Dark Stranger for trainer Nancy Takter. Hollingsworth also paddocked last year's NA Cup winner Captain Crunch.

part-owner Michelle Crawford of Crawford Farms. “I don’t know how to describe how much tenacity and how much fire in the belly he has.”

They’re all biased, of course, as is their other partner Marvin Katz, but the videos don’t lie. Neither does the colt’s trainer, Nancy Takter, who would prefer a nice, easy butt-kicking to all this angina-inducing stretch drama.

“He frustrates the crap out of me when he does that,” Takter said. “I’m, like, ‘What are you doing?’ because deep down inside I know he’s going to win, but it’s like, ‘Why can’t you just do it easily? I don’t know what his deal is, but I would be really happy if he just won every race by at least two lengths. It’s easier on me.

“I don’t know if it’s laziness or that he’s just a diva. He does just enough. ‘I’m just going to do what I need to do.’ It’s the same when I train him at home... I don’t really feel like anytime that I train him that I’m, like, ‘Wow, he’s so good today’ because I always have to ask him to do his work. Then, if I ask him too much, he’ll go a quarter in :26 in a 2:30 mile. It’s a fine line, because he switches gears so quick that you could be going a mile in 2:30 and all of a sudden you’re going a quarter in 30 seconds and you don’t even feel the difference. Your stopwatch is your best friend when you’re out on the track training him.”

From left: Buck and Judy Chaffee of Caviart Farms, along with Takter, Hollingsworth and Scott Zeron, celebrated a very different NA Cup victory in 2019 with Captain Crunch.

Takter is quick to note that Tall Dark Stranger has never been race-timed slower than 1:48.4 this year in his seven starts — six of which are wins — in which he has earned $879,131 of his career total of $1,596,645. His lifetime record is 14-1-0 in 16 starts.

Yet, Katz prefers another way to measure the colt's greatness. The owner likes to point to history and on that score Tall Dark Stranger is peerless.

Stranger is the only horse in history to win the Metro Pace and Breeders Crown at 2 and the Meadowlands Pace and Pepsi North America Cup at 3. A few horses — Rocknroll Hanover, Presidential Ball, Captaintreacherous, Somebeachsomewhere, Mach Three — have won three of those races, but not all four.

"When you can do something that just hasn't been done before, I think that's extraordinary. That's an extreme level that's so unusual. It's compelling to sort of focus on that," Katz said.

"I'm a great follower of history. You'll recall, Ariana G, when she was a 3-year-old, there was a lot of debate about whether we would put her in the Hambletonian or not, but the fact that All The Time had won the Oaks the previous year and (myself and Al Libfeld) would be the breeders of back-to-back Oaks winners, two full sisters, and the fact that it had never been done before in the history of that, was a big part of our decision.”

It also partly explains why the connections and driver Gingras went to incredible lengths to win the NA Cup.

MILITARY-LIKE LOGISTICS

In the midst of the global COVID-19 pandemic, racing U.S.-based Tall Dark Stranger in Canada, on the other side of a closed border, was what Katz calls a “two-month ordeal to work out the logistics.”

The operation went into effect on Hambletonian Day (Aug. 8) when Takter sent assistant trainer Josert Fonseca across the border to serve a two-week quarantine. Then Takter found a farm as close to the Canadian border as possible to keep her horses that were heading for Woodbine Mohawk Park. She found the perfect place in Alden, NY, complete with a five-eighths mile track.

Since Takter wasn’t going to be making the trip to Ontario, she said she, “needed to keep the horses on (the U.S.) side of the border so I would at least have as much control and be able to train them prior to them racing.

“I’ve just basically done a circle – Lexington, Buffalo, New Jersey. Lexington, Buffalo, New Jersey, around and around. I was able to go there and train in between the elimination and the final – I went up there on Wednesday – just to know that I had everything in order that way.”

Doyle Transport delivered the horses back and forth across the border, with Fonseca receiving them in Ontario and arranging for locals to paddock them.

As for Gingras, his ordeal with crossing the border and receiving an exemption from quarantining was well reported (full story here). All the planning paid off with the driver winning his first North America Cup, a victory that reduced the Quebec-born reinsman to tears in the winner’s circle.

“Yannick really wanted to be here to drive the horse and he said publicly that’s why he came. There were other races, of course, once he was here, but that was the underlying factor to drive Tall Dark Stranger in the NA Cup,” Katz said. “It was more than the purse that was part of the emotional make-up of it. (TDS) was just creating history and Yannick was keenly aware of that. The value of the horse, there were so many different factors. This was a hugely important race and thankfully it played out.”

Three days later, Howard Taylor said the dominant emotion that is still resonating with him is relief.

“With all the hype going on, the pressure started actually to get to me and I was just more relieved than happy when he won, Not that I ever doubted him,” Taylor said.

Of the owners, only Katz was able to be at Woodbine Mohawk Park in person due to capacity limits and border restrictions.

“We had been unable to go to his prior races,” Katz said. “We weren’t there for the Meadowlands Pace or the Cane Pace and my partners got to enjoy that, so that’s fair that I got the NA Cup,” Katz said, laughing. “I got the home-court advantage on that one. Believe me, not being able to attend the Meadowlands Pace and Hambletonian Day was tough. Those were tough misses.”

He said NA Cup was surreal.

“Mohawk was not deserted, but it was very much less populated than it would normally be for an event like that,” Katz said. “There’s always an electricity and an atmosphere that’s created when there’s an event like NA Cup night and that’s certainly part of it, but the emotions of just watching the race and the anticipation prior to the race and the race itself, the adrenaline surge that follows, that was all the same.”

SOCIAL DISTANCING HEARTBREAK

Judy Chaffee said not being able to be at Woodbine Mohawk Park with her husband, Buck, to see Tall Dark Stranger triumph was heartbreaking.

"We would have loved to have been there and we definitely planned to come whether we had a horse racing or not, because we love it up there. We love coming to Canada this time of year, so it was heartbreaking that we couldn't do it, but it was very exciting," she said.

"We had our kids (at home) here with us, some of them. We've got seven children and all of them were watching, either at their houses or our daughter and her family was here with us. Buck hooked up the computer to the TV screen so we were able to all watch it together on that. When he won we threw our hands in the air and screamed and hugged. That was all wonderful."

Michelle Crawford said she and Al ordered in Mexican food and invited their farm manager, Heather Marshall and her husband, Chad, the farm's operations manager, over to watch the race.

"It's so much fun when you can watch the races with people that really love it like we do. We have friends that will come over, and even our kids, we can have 15 people watching with us and I'll have to 'shush' them all when our race goes on, 'Guys, stop talking! Are you kidding?'" Michelle said laughing.

Afterward, it took a day to process, especially since this is the continuation of an incredible couple of months for Crawford Farms, which bred and owns a piece of Hambletonian-winning filly Ramona Hill, owns a piece of Hambletonian Oaks winner Sorella and has won the Meadowlands Pace, Cane Pace and NA Cup with Tall Dark Stranger. The Crawfords also bred and own a 2-year-old trotting filly named Destined To Dance that is undefeated in

"Al said, 'Don't get used to this because this will never happen again. There will never be another year like this. You can't possibly get that lucky. It just will never happen again,'" Michelle said.

"I think what's happened this year, it's a little bit of a numb feeling and it doesn't register... We'll have a bottle of wine the next day or next night and we'll celebrate and watch all the replays and we'll watch our races a couple of times. It's just so much fun, it's kind of like a date night. I cannot wait to hit the couch, get the TV, get the wine and watch it all over again and relive it. I think my heart beats so fast in the moment and there's just too much going on," Michelle said.

Takter raced at The Meadows on Saturday afternoon and was heading for Lexington afterward when she stopped in Columbus, OH. She watched some races at Scioto Downs and then went to her close friend Stacy Miller's house to watch the NA Cup with Miller and her husband, driver Brett Miller.

"I definitely had some good friends with me, so that was fun," Takter said. "At least there was someone there, because I was pacing around the kitchen. I was, like, 'I can't sit down, I've got to stand up.'"

"I think it's actually less nerve-wracking at the track because there at least you know what's going on. You know the horse got on the track, you know the equipment is on right, you've been able to talk to the driver, you know what the track conditions are like... When you're at home, I'm at the mercy of what they are telling me on the TV and maybe a text here and there from Josert, but he had his hands full, too. He had three horses racing and he had three people catch-paddocking that don't know the horses, so he had to stay on top of everything. So, he didn't have time to call me every three seconds. It was definitely different and definitely nerve-wracking."

TWO FOR TAKTER AND CAVIART

A year ago, Takter and Scott Zeron were the toast of Mohawk after Captain Crunch won the NA Cup. It was not only the first NA Cup for both of them, it was the first, as well, for the Chaffees and Caviart Farms.

"I never thought that we would ever have a colt in the race, let alone win it, and now there have been two, so that's really quite remarkable and we're just kind of stunned and thrilled. It's just a wonderful experience," Judy said. "We always just kind of thought of ourselves as 'filly people.' We went to the sale and bought fillies. I think Captain Crunch was the first colt that we ever bought. We got him in partnership, so it's really new for us, other than the horses that we breed or sell."

As for Tall Dark Stranger, a little karma led the Chaffees to him.

"We went to the sale and studied the sale catalogue and picked out the list of fillies, just like always," Judy said. "We like to race them and then have them for broodmares and there was only one colt that I picked out and it was Tall Dark Stranger. When Nancy called in the afternoon to talk about fillies, I was trying to go through my notes and I mentioned that I had fallen in love with this colt. She said, 'Which one?' and I said that it was Hip 60 and she said, 'How much of him did you want?' We never gave any thought to buying him at all, but when she said that I thought that Buck would be fine with it, so we took a piece of him. That was kind of how it happened, rather unexpectedly, but he's the one colt that I had picked out from the sale."

"The breeding was there on paper and his video, but when we saw him, he was powerful, he was beautiful. I turned to Buck and said, 'Is there such thing as a horse being too perfect?' He just looked regal and had an air about him. The funny thing is, from that moment we bought him at the sale, I never doubted that he would be good. I didn't know how good, but I knew that he would be one of the top colts because he just looked the part."

That one colt, bred by James Avritt, Sr. of Kentucky and sold out of the Hunteon consignment, was also the pick of the litter for Takter and her father, Jimmy, who, in turn, convinced Katz to buy in.

"My priority remains trotters and trotting fillies, in particular. The focus really was, at that sale, trotting fillies. We'll look at pacing fillies because (we own) Captaintreacherous, but they become sidebars. I was looking at the trotting fillies and Jimmy called me over and Tall Dark Stranger was out there and he was looking at him. Jimmy said to me, 'This is the best colt on these grounds, you've got to have him.' I said, 'I'm in.' That was the whole conversation. That was the entire conversation."

The Crawford's were just as easy to convince.

"Nancy called and said, 'My dad said his number one colt in the sale is Tall Dark Stranger. We need to put a partnership together.' We were, like, 'Yep, all in,'" Michelle said.

Jimmy, who never won the North America Cup in his Hall of Fame career, now has a daughter who has won it back-to-back at the age of just 39.

"Now the problem is going to be to win three in row," said Nancy, who currently sports an off-the-charts UTRS of .497.

Don't think she's not going to try her damndest.

"Nancy plans the program and she does a phenomenal job," Judy said. "We are so happy with her. She's so talented, she's smart, she's organized and plans everything out. She's flexible when we need to change our schedule. I think she's quite a perfectionist and has all the patience in the world. I just think she's a combination of everything you would want in a trainer. It's really quite remarkable for someone so young, but I guess growing up with her dad being a top trainer, she learned all of the elements of the job."

As for Tall Dark Stranger, Judy Chaffee is just as effusive in her praise.

"I can't say enough good about him... He's amazing and we're very pleased with him," she said. "He's a superstar. He's the perfect combination of beautiful gait, speed, power, strength, intelligence and his super competitiveness and grit."

Pepsi North America Cup card generates record-handle of more than $5.6 million

by Mark McKelvie / Woodbine communications

Tall Dark Stranger's dominant performance in the 37th Pepsi North America Cup highlighted a record-setting evening for Woodbine Entertainment.

The 13-race Pepsi North America Cup card on Saturday (Aug. 29) generated a handle of $5,619,396, the highest wagering handle in the 57-year history of racing at Woodbine Mohawk Park. The $5.6 million total surpassed the previous track and Pepsi North America Cup card record of $5.2 million set in 2016.

The 2020 Pepsi North America Cup card handle of $5.6 million was up 47.7 per cent over the 2019 event, which had a handle of $3.8 million.

"Saturday night was an extraordinary event during extraordinary times," said Jim Lawson, CEO, Woodbine Entertainment. "Despite hosting the event without the usual packed crowd, it still had the feel and excitement the Pepsi North America Cup has come to represent while delivering a record handle."

The wagering menu for this year's Cup card was headlined by a Jackpot Hi-5 mandatory payout, which saw $1,189,337 in new money wagered. The new money joined a carryover total of $381,378 and winning horseplayers received a return of $1,559.16 for a $0.20 ticket.

The Early Pick-5 saw its largest pool ever with a total pool of $185,925. The Early Pick-5 is harness racing's largest nightly pool, averaging more than $120,000 a night since live racing resumed in June.

A special "All-Stakes" Pick-5 was part of the wagering menu and generated a total pool of $174,313, closing as the second-highest Pick-5 pool in track history. The Early and Late Pick-4 each topped $100,000, coming in at $102,072 and $107,136, respectively.

The record-setting handle came during an unprecedented time in the history of the Pepsi North America Cup and Woodbine Entertainment. With strict capacity limits in place due to COVID-19, this year's Pepsi North America Cup was restricted to an invitation-only crowd.

Despite being closed to the public, wagering in the Woodbine market was up four per cent over last year. Ontario HPIbet wagering on this year's card nearly doubled the number from 2019, up 96.8 per cent. Foreign wagering also saw a significant increase compared to 2019, growing 74 per cent.

The limited number of fans onsite and the large number watching on TSN, HPIbet, Darkhorse App and other platforms saw a spectacular performance from pacing superstar Tall Dark Stranger, who became the first-horse to ever win the Metro Pace and Breeders Crown at age two and then return to win the Pepsi North America Cup.

Trainer Nancy Takter became the first trainer since 1994 to win back-to-back editions of the Pepsi North America Cup, while driver Yannick Gingras secured his first win in Canada's most-prestigious harness race.

"On behalf of Woodbine Entertainment, thank you to our staff and horsepeople for being committed in following our COVID-19 safety protocols during the pandemic, which provided the entire industry with the opportunity to experience this event," said Lawson. "To our fans, thanks for your ongoing patience and we hope to see you back at the track soon, and certainly for next year's North America Cup."

The Pepsi North America Cup card featured $2.4 million in purses and kicked-off a stretch of five-consecutive Saturdays with cards containing total purses north of $1 million. The current month of live racing at Woodbine Mohawk Park is stacked with Grand Circuit events, including this Saturday's Canadian Pacing Derby and Maple Leaf Trot.

The "Grand Circuit Month" at Woodbine Mohawk Park concludes with the $1 million (USD) Mohawk Million and $850,000 Metro Pace on Saturday, Sept. 26.

Live racing continues every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Woodbine Mohawk Park. Post time is 7 p.m.

Well-travelled Jason McGinnis loving managing the Ohio string of TheStable.ca's operation

by Chris Lomon

For Jason McGinnis, the road more travelled has led him to where he always wanted to be.

When you tell the story of the man who trains TheStable.ca's string of standardbreds at the Northfield Park, there first needs to be a geography lesson of sorts to explain how he wound up at the half-mile oval in Ohio.

"I was born in Windsor, NS, said McGinnis, of the eastern Canadian town with a population of roughly 3,700 people. "My family and I moved to Saskatchewan when I was six. So, we moved out there, and then we moved to Ontario when I was 10. I've been based out of Ontario – I'm 41 now – for the last 31 years. My father had his own horses that he raced, and he and I also owned horses together."

The younger McGinnis' interest in harness racing continued to grow with each passing year.

Thirteen years ago, he went to work for accomplished trainer Erv Miller, a job he kept for three years.

"From there, I went out on my own again and had a small stable. I bounced around a little bit – I worked for [trainer] Tony Alagna too. I met Tony when I worked for Erv. When things took a turn for the worse with the cancellation of the Slots At Racetracks Program in Ontario, my own stable... it was just tough for people with smaller stables. I then went on to work for [trainer] Blake McIntosh for a bit."

It was around four years ago when McGinnis, who had known trainer/driver Anthony MacDonald for some time, ran into the horseman behind the popular fractional ownership group, TheStable.ca.

That conversation would put McGinnis on a career-altering course.

"Anthony, who I've known for years, has driven for me in the past, His brother, Mark, has driven for me as well. I've used James a lot, too. So, all three guys have sat in the bike for me. Anthony and I were having a chat, and he asked me if I wanted to come work for him. So, I did. And now, this is my third summer in Ohio."

With the geography lesson complete, math now becomes a focal point of the McGinnis story.

In the three years he's been stationed during the summer months at Northfield, he's enjoyed great success.

Closing in on 800 career victories, McGinnis won 76 races in his first two campaigns in the Buckeye State.

Last year, he won 35 races. In 2018, it was 41's across the board in 315 starts.

"I think it's been good for everybody. We've had some good success down here. We won some stakes, had some nice horses, and went on some pretty nice runs here."

Some of the horses of note include Globetrotting, a 3-year-old trotting daughter of Manofmanymissions (OH).

The filly, bred by Steiner Stock Farm (Lima, OH), has five wins, three seconds and a third from 15 starts for TheStable.ca.

"She's in a final here later this week. She's been a nice filly for us. We've had a couple of really good trotters. Oh So Pine, who I have up in my barn at Mohawk, is another very nice horse we have.”

There is also a 4-year-old bay gelding by the name of Yes, a son of Manofmanymissions, who took his connections on a thrill ride last year.

The bay, bred by Edward Lohmeyer, trotted some monster miles in 2019, including late last June at Northfield.

Yes stopped the teletimer in 1:53.1, setting the current standard for 3-year-old trotters on a half-mile track.

“That was fantastic moment,” said McGinnis, of the 1:53.1 mile last June. “So, we’ve had some nice horses, and they’ve been able to do well at Northfield and other tracks. You always appreciate the opportunity to have that type caliber of horses in your barn. Last year, I think we had four horses in the finals here, and the year before that, we also had four. We haven’t won one yet, but we’ve been knocking on the door.”

McGinnis would like to have those knocks answered in the near future.

“That’s the plan and that’s the goal. Hopefully, we have the luck of the draw, the horses are 100 per cent, and we get the results we’ve been working for. Everyone has been working hard.”

Which makes the recent successes that much sweeter for McGinnis.

There have been, admittedly, a few occasions when he entertained the thought of leaving the sport for good.

Whatever path McGinnis considered starting out on, he always found his way back to the racetrack.

“I explored other opportunities and I just couldn’t pull the trigger. I just always hung on. I probably talked about getting out of it and certainly thought about it, but I just couldn’t. The last few years, doing this with Anthony, has been really good. I operate a barn for him in Canada during the winter. It’s been good. There’s been a lot of nice horses along the way for me, and getting to work for guys like Erv, Tony and Blake – I got to learn from some very talented and successful people, and I was also around some really nice horses. It’s been fun.”

And it’s also been rewarding, especially the past three years.

“If I had a good year, what would that mean? That’s a tough question to answer. I guess it would just mean that we did better than the year before. We’ve done really well, and two years ago, that was my best year in terms of purse earnings. Obviously, we won’t be able to top those numbers in 2020 because of COVID-19, but I think a good year would be that we continued to build on what we achieved the past year, you work harder, and try to win those big ones.

“I also own two Ohio-bred 2-year-olds with a partner, Robyn Philpott. They’re both currently turned out and I’m looking forward to a fall/winter campaign at Mohawk.”

So, what does a trainer, who has led somewhat of a nomadic life, on and off the racetrack, like to do away from the hustle and bustle of horse racing?

Ironically, McGinnis, whose lists Woodbine Mohawk Park as his favorite racetrack, doesn’t like to stray too far from the comforts of home, at least on certain afternoons starting in September.

“I try my best to have Sundays be the day where we’re not racing. I’m a big football fan, so I like to sit down and watch the games.”

Sometimes, there really is no place like home.

“Horse racing takes a lot of dedication and long hours. It can also take you to places you never expected. I’m happy to be part of it. But it is nice when you do get some time to relax. You definitely appreciate those moments.”

Massachusetts standardbreds receive favorable increases

On the recommendation of the Massachusetts Horse Racing Committee, the commissioners of the Massachusetts Gaming Commission voted 5-0 in favor to approve a revised allocation of funds from the Race Horse Development Fund that saw the standardbred program get an additional 5 per cent for purses and breeding.

From the money provided from the Race Horse Development Fund:

80 per cent of the funds shall be allocated to purses and split 70 per cent for standardbreds and 30 per cent for thoroughbreds.

16 per cent of the funds shall be allocated for breeding and be split 70 per cent for standardbreds and 30 per cent for thoroughbreds.

4 per cent of the funds shall be allocated to health and pensions and be split 40 per cent for standardbreds and 60 per cent for thoroughbreds.

The vote was taken during the commission meeting on Thursday (Aug. 27) and the changes took affect at that time.

Amigo Volo, Big Oil win PASS splits at The Meadows

Amigo Volo and Big Oil have sharpened their games by taking on their division's best all season. That preparation showed Monday (Aug. 31) at The Meadows when each captured a division of a Pennsylvania Sires Stake for 3-year-old colt and gelding trotters.

A respectable fourth from post 10 in the Hambletonian final, Amigo Volo had the easier time of it in the event known as the Super Bowl, zipping to the front for Dexter Dunn and winning pretty much as he pleased in 1:53.3. Hillexotic was a non-threatening second, 2-1/4 lengths back, with Patriarch Hanover third.

“He might have been a little flat last week, the week after the Hambo, but he was very sharp today,” Dunn said.

Nifty Norman trains the Father Patrick—Margarita Momma gelding, who now boasts a career bankroll of $820,719, for Pinske Stables and David J. Miller.

Big Oil also reached the Hambletonian final but lost all chance with early breaks. Although he’s been similarly frustrated in most of his biggest engagements this year, Andy Miller, who pilots him for trainer Julie Miller, maintains his confidence in the son of Father Patrick—Cee Bee Yes.

“He’s got the ability if we can get him right; he showed that last year, and he showed a couple flashes this year,” he said. “Hopefully, he’s on the upswing. He has a lot of big races left.”

In the Super Bowl, Big Oil opened a sizable late lead, then held on to edge Chestnut Hill by a nose in 1:53, with Hell Patrol third. Big Oil races for trainer Nifty Norman and owners Jason Allen, Douglas Allen and Ronald Allen

Both winners apparently advanced to the $260,000 PASS Championship on Sept. 6 at Harrah’s Philadelphia, although that won’t be confirmed until point totals are tallied.

Town Victor earned stake honors with a 1:54.2 triumph, Overserved won his third consecutive stallion series split and Shadrack Hanover took the third division of Monday’s sub-feature, the PA Stallion Series.

Trainer Rich Gillock indicated Town Victor was trained up and geared up when the COVID-19 shutdown hit and has been struggling to regain his best stride since.

“We sent him to Florida for the winter, and he was ready to roll,” Gillock said of the Winning Mister—P Town Girl gelding that he owns with Barbara Richardson. “But then everything hit, and he got hurt — it was a combination of things. After the stallion series final, he has some stakes in Pennsylvania, and we paid him into the Matron Stake.”

Town Victor was sharp Monday, hustling to the lead for Mike Wilder and defeating the pocket-sitting Kyrie Deo by 1-1/2 lengths. Bargain Bob completed the ticket.

The Meadows will play host to all eight $40,000 stallion series championships on Monday, Sept. 7.

COSA TV has full slate of coverage this month from Woodbine Mohawk Park

A busy September of stakes action at Woodbine Mohawk Park kicks off this weekend and COSA TV has it covered with Live broadcasts scheduled for each Saturday during the month.

Coming off a record handle of $5.6 million on Pepsi North America Cup night, Mohawk Park is expected to see more high handles throughout the next four weeks.

COSA TV wants horseplayers to help do their part with a goal of reaching a combined $12 million in wagering over the four Saturday programs during the month. It has launched a hashtag challenge across their Twitter, Instagram and Facebook platforms where fans can use the hashtag #SeptemberToRemember_cosatv to be automatically entered for one of three $100 COSA gift cards following the Mohawk Million broadcast on Sept. 26.

COSA TV will also feature a four-week guest handicappers challenge. Each week the guest ‘capper’ will receive a $100 voucher to wager on the designated feature race of the night. The combined winnings after the four weeks of the challenge will be donated to the Ontario Standardbred Adoption Society (OSAS) and COSA TV will guarantee a $500 donation to the organization.

This Saturday night’s broadcast will get underway at 8:45 p.m. and will include five races (5-9) – Maple Leaf Trot, OSS 3YCP, Simcoe Stakes, Canadian Pacing Derby Consolation and Canadian Pacing Derby.

Each of the broadcasts will be available on the COSA TV, Harness Racing Update (HRU) and CUJO Entertainment Facebook channels as well as the COSA TV YouTube channel and Twitter feed. Standardbred Canada will also stream the telecasts on its website.

Dee's Red Delicious gets NYSS win at Tioga Downs

Dee's Red Delicious (Corey Callahan) took the $104,400 New York Sire Stakes (NYSS) for 2-year-old trotting colts & geldings at Tioga Downs on Sunday (Aug. 30).

The morning line favorite Ahundreddollarbill (Jason Bartlett) went on a break right at the start. Credit Con (Tyler Buter) went to the front with Sevenshadesofgrey (Mike Merton) challenging early. As they headed for the quarter, Sevenshadesofgrey went off-stride. Credit Con led to the first quarter in :28.2. Credit Con used a :30.3 second quarter to hit the half in :59. Dee's Red Delicious ($3.20) made his move first-over down the backstretch as Unwritten Chapter (Wally Hennessey) followed second-over. Dee's Red Delicious took over the lead as they headed for the final turn hitting three-quarters first in 1:27.2.

As they made the turn for home Unwritten Chapter went all out on the chase and started to inch closer. Dee's Red Delicious found another gear and won going away in 1:56.2. Unwritten Chapter had to settle for second. Steel (Andy Miller) came up to finish third.

Dee's Red Delicious is a 2-year-old gelding by Credit Winner—Apple Plush. He is owned by Joseph Martinelli and trained by Bruce Saunders. It was his third win in six lifetime starts.

Jason Bartlett drove three winners on the card. He combined with trainer Claude Huckabone III to get wins with Sunny Days ($19.20) and I love My Country ($7.00). His other victory came with Barn Hall ($2.50).

Tioga Downs returns to live racing on Saturday (Sept. 5). Post time is 3 p.m.

Upsets in PA All-Stars at Pocono

Upsets were the rule (until the last few races) during a Sunday (Aug. 30) twilight card at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono, with the trend featuring in two $35,000 divisions of a Pennsylvania All-Stars contest for 3-year-old pacing colts, taken by Enough Sun ($29.00) and Tell Them Lou ($45.20).

Both winners found success in sitting third-inside for most of the mile. The Somebeachsomewhere colt Enough Sun was content to stay behind favored Manticore and Tru Lou most of the way, then backed out late turn to swing wide and passed four horses in the lane to be along by a half-length over Manticore in a lifetime best 1:50. David Miller drove the winner, unraced at two and now winner of half his eight starts, for trainer Brian Brown and owner Alan Keith.

Driver Scott Zeron won three races earlier on the card as pacesetter, pocket-sitter, and first-over, and then he added a third-in / Pocono Pike victory to his resume with the Sweet Lou gelding Tell Them Lou, a 1:50.2 winner. Favored Cattlewash got to the half in :56 and looked like he could be tough to overhaul, but Zeron and Tell Them Lou got clearance along the inside and overpowered the chalk, coming their own last half in :54 for a one length victory. Jim Campbell trains the winner for Fashion Farms LLC and Judith Peres.

Snowmoon wins for third time in Buckeye Stallion Series

Eldorado Scioto Downs played host to the fourth leg of the 3-year-old colt pacers in the Buckeye Stallion Series Saturday night (Aug. 29). The program featured four divisions, with a $17,500 purse in each.

Snowmoon picked up his third BSS win of the year, while Ubuntu scored for his second series win.

Snowmoon, the Mr Wiggles out of Milky Way Hanover gelding, left from post five and went wire-to-wire to win by a length for Tyler Smith and owner/trainer Jessica Smith in 1:53.3. Elite Machine with Brady Brown finished second while Mingo Joel driven by Jeremy Smith was third. Snowmoon is now 7 of 12 this season.

Ubuntu, with Dan Noble for Christi Noble, picked up his second win of the series going right to the top from post one to win by a nose over the fast closing Wigglemejiggle and Chris Page. Aim For Glory with Brett Miller finished third. Ubuntu, the gelded son of Pet Rock, is owned by Norman Rae Racing and picked up his sixth win in eleven starts this season.

Epic Ace came home the fastest with a 1:51.4 effort with Chris Page for Mike Polhamus and owners Constance Polhamus, Matthew Newberry, and Pamela Horvath. The Western Vintage—Golden Ace gelding got his first win of the season winning by four lengths over Danearys Dream with Dan Noble, while Isowantapetrock handled by Dexter Dunn finished third.

Page picked up his second winning drive of the night with Opportune Hanover. Page guided the Ron Burke trained Dragon Again gelding to his first BSS win in 1:53.4. Opportune Hanover is owned by Burke Racing Stable, Weaver Brusceci and J&T Silva-Purnel & Libby. Bargain Shopper with Dan Noble was second and My Name Is Harry finished third for Austin Hanners.

To all Kentucky horsepeople:

This note is to clarify questions being asked about the new regulations regarding veterinary treatment reports and pre-entry exam reports in Kentucky.

The veterinary records requirement is satisfied by the treatment sheets turned in by your veterinarian. If any treatments are administered by the trainer which the veterinarian didn't prescribe then a sheet documenting those treatments should be submitted as well. Treatment sheets can be turned in to the test barn or the stewards office. They can also be faxed to the Kentucky Horse Racing Commission office (859) 246-2039.

The exams should be done by the private veterinarian in the window from three days prior to entry up until entry day. The exam is at a minimum, watching the horse jog in hand. A statement from the veterinarian that the horse has been examined and is in their opinion "suitable for racing" can be submitted to the test barn, the stewards or faxed to the KHRC office.

Bain vs. Barnsdale: leader opens up in battle of Leamington Raceway handicappers

Leamington track announcer Nathan Bain exploded with a huge handicapping day to open up his lead on Ontario Racing handicapper Nicholas "Ace" Barnsdale in the $500 Leamington Raceway Handicapping Challenge on Sunday, Aug. 30.

Bain rode the hot hand of leading driver Mark St. Louis Jr., as he correctly forecasted all five of that reinsman's winners along with two others, making it a seven-winner day for Bain on the 10-race card. His Best Bet Validus Deo won, so Bain totaled a whopping 80 points on the day out of a possible 100.

Barnsdale's handicapping wasn't too shabby either, as he selected four winners including his Best Bet, Better Fly Boy in race 5. Barnsdale tallied 60 points for the day. Bain now leads the challenge 295 to 272, but there is plenty of time for Barnsdale to close the gap with nine race dates remaining at the meet.

The Handicapping Challenge is co-sponsored by the Canadian chapter of the United States Harness Writers Association (USHWA) and online Standardbred marketplace HoofBid. It is contested every Sunday to the final day of the 2020 Leamington Raceway meet on October 25, with $300 awarded to the winner and $200 to the runner-up.

Check out Nick's selections at Picks from the Pros" at ontarioracing.com and Nathan's on the Leamington Raceway website, lakeshorehorseraceway.com. Leamington is now open to up to 100 spectators who contact the track ahead of time to reserve their spot. The live races can be viewed on the website, with online wagering available via HorseplayerInteractive.com and also TwinSpires.com, which recently added Leamington.
