

Harness Racing Update to Cease Publication With This Issue

When Mike Farrell and I started Harness Racing Update in 2010, we believed that the harness racing industry would embrace a publication that worked feverishly to report on a sport that received very little in the way of news coverage and, just as importantly, a harness racing publication that would write about not only the good stories but the bad stories. We vowed we wouldn't gloss over the many issues and problems facing the sport.

In some ways we were right. In some ways we were wrong.

From an editorial standpoint, we met every goal and expectation we had for HRU. Not everyone agreed with what we had to say at times, but everyone read us and the vast majority appreciated the quality work we did. We filled a major void, giving harness racing what it had lacked and needed, a publication that was well-written, thorough, one that covered every major race and story, one that didn't shy away from the types of issues some would have preferred we ignored.

Sure there were some people who didn't like us or what we did. Just this week at Lexington Ron Burke told me that HRU was the worst thing that ever happened to harness racing. But our circulation soared and so did the amount of accolades we received from the readers, whether they were a billionaire breeder or owner, a trainer with three horses in his barn or a $2 bettor. It was very gratifying to know how appreciated we were, at least by most people.

Back then, at the start, it seemed like a simple formula. We would put out a good publication and would attract tens of thousands of readers, including the ones who were the most likely to be the customers of the sport's major advertisers, the breeding farms and consignors. Because we didn't have to print or mail anything, our overhead would be low and we would pass on the savings to the advertisers. Read by more people than any publication of its kind, the lowest ad prices in the business. How could we fail?

The problem was our success and future was always in the hands of the advertisers. While we may have thought advertising in Harness Racing Update was an obvious choice, it didn't matter what we thought.

Prior to launching HRU I was warned that people in harness racing were notorious for not accepting anything that was new and different. No smarter words were ever uttered. The advertisers never came through, not, at least, in the numbers we needed them to.

Farrell was smart enough to get out shortly after the start, but I labored on for five years, trying to swim upstream the whole time. I was more or less a one-man operation. I had only enough resources to hire two behind-the-scenes part-timers and to throw some occasional work to a couple of freelance writers. That was never part of the original plan. After its first year, Harness Racing Update has been profitable every year. The money wasn't bad, but neither was it particularly good, and it came at a cost. The reward did not come close to equaling the effort.

This was far and away the most taxing job I have ever been involved in. The four days a week I focused on getting the next issue of Harness Racing Update out were physically and mentally brutal. Leaving the Meadowlands at 2 a.m. after a big night of racing, 16-hour days at the sales, flying around the country, night after night putting the last touches on the paper at 3 am, missing my daughter's softball games.

The original idea was to assemble a staff that we would oversee and send out on assignments while we worked a normal, sane 40-hour type week. It was not to work so hard that I genuinely became concerned about my health. I was a heart attack waiting to happen.

Why did so many potential advertisers either spend nothing with HRU or very little? You'd have to ask them.

Despite this decision, I will be exiting this sport with more than my fair share of good memories. I met so many wonderful people. There is not a classier man on the planet than John Campbell. George Teague Jr. is a great guy and his comeback with Wiggle It Jiggle It is among the best stories I have covered. The USTA has no idea how lucky it is to have Ellen Harvey and Ken Weingartner as part of its team and fighting a very difficult battle to get coverage for the sport.

I will leave out dozens of people that also deserve mention, but my list of people I am very fond of in this sport includes Ron Pierce, Jason Settlemyre, Michelle Crawford, George Ducharme, Darin Zocalli, Adam Bowden, Kevin Greenfield, Chris Ryder, Jody Jamieson, Betty Holt, Joe Bellino and Greg Schuler.

I want to thank Perry Lefko, Dean Hoffman and Dean Towers for their excellent work helping me fill the pages of Harness Racing Update. I was blessed to have two of the best part-time employees anyone could ever hope for in Brian Fuller and Lisa Bihuniak, two very loyal, very dedicated, very talented people. Thanks to Jeff Gural for his support, for all he does for this sport and for making sure there were very few slow news days. Thanks to my wife Sue for always being willing to pitch in and help, even when it took away from her time at the what really puts food on the table for the Finley family, the Thoroughbred Daily News.

Saving the best for last, my sincerest thanks to Dave Reid and the late Geoff Stein. Preferred Equine has not only has been my No. 1 advertiser but Reid and Stein were there for me when I needed them most, when this publication was first launched and desperately needed revenue to get off the ground. More so than anyone else in the sport they believed in what we were doing and believed in me personally. I cannot put into words how much our professional relationship and their support meant to me. More so than anything else, it got me through some very tough times.

On to life's next adventure.

Papagayo E Gains Emotional Triumph in Return of International Trot

By Tom Pedulla

YONKERS, NY - Tears flowed after Papagayo E staged a dramatic rally to edge Timoko by half a length on Saturday when the International Trot returned to Yonkers Raceway after a 20-year absence.

They were tears of joy, for Papagayo E gave Norway its first triumph in the 37-year history of a race first held at old Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, N.Y., in 1959. They were tears of sadness because Papagayo E was bred to honor Lena Stensrud, who died of cancer in 2005 at age 36.

"It's been said that somebody in the sky is looking out for us," said Tom Andersen, one of the owners of the 5-year-old horse.

Lena's father, Egil, is a noted breeder in Norway who owns Ann Speedy T as a broodmare. Andersen, who was close to Lena, decided to have Ann Speedy T bred to Cocktail Jet, a highly-regarded stallion.

"I really wanted to have a horse that meant something more than only a horse," he said.

Egil, wiping tears from his eyes, said of Lena, "It's her victory. She is there to help." He told friends he felt his daughter's presence before and during the race.

Papagayo E – the "E" stands for Egil and for Emil, Lena's 20-year-old son -- is every bit the star Andersen hoped for. The horse left from post two in a field of 10 and sat comfortably off the pace before pouncing when frontrunner Creatine from the United States weakened and the rail opened. Creatine, piloted by Johnny Takter, settled for third.

"It was a good tempo," winning driver Ulf Ohlsson said of the pace, "and my horse was feeling really good." Papagayo E completed the mile and a quarter in 2:26 to take home $500,000, the winner's share of the purse. He had approximately $400,000 in career earnings before this. He won for the 12th time in 25 career starts.

Timoko, an 8-year-old from France, was impressive because he was competing for the first time since June 27. He has been alternating between the breeding shed and the racetrack.

Papagayo E returned $21.60 for a $2 win wager. The 30 or so supporters who journeyed from Norway to cheer for him literally wore their national pride. Their shirts read: "MADE IN NORWAY." They broke into song in the winner's circle, belting out, "Seieren er vnr," which translates to "Victory is Ours." And they chanted the horse's name.

Favored Bee A Magician, the only mare to compete, finished a non-threatening sixth after starting from post five. "I had hoped for a bit stronger finish, especially with our expectations," said Brian Sears, her driver. "She just didn't have enough trot at the end."

Sears added: "From the three-quarters into the last turn, I felt that she was running out of gas, so at that point, I was just hoping to finish for a check."

David McDuffee, who owns Bee A Magician, admitted he had hoped for more. "You're always disappointed when you don't win," he said. "But when you're going on a half-mile track against the best horses in the world and you don't draw down inside, you know you are going to need a couple of breaks."

"She's great. She just didn't get the best trip." McDuffee said Bee A Magician will be pointed toward the Breeders' Crown.

Timothy Rooney, whose family has owned Yonkers Raceway since 1972, was delighted with the way the sun-splashed afternoon played out. Although no figures were immediately available on the simulcasting handle overseas, he welcomed the on-track result.

"I was rooting for a foreign horse," he said. "The reason for that is if they have success, it will give them confidence and make them want to come over here."

The International Trot was held at Roosevelt from its inception in 1959 until the track closed in 1988. Yonkers hosted the prestigious race for the next seven years before financial constraints caused it to be dropped.

Rooney described the restoration of the International as an "investment in the future." He believes that future involves convincing countries in Europe and Scandinavia to accept the Yonkers simulcast signal on a fairly regular basis in order to capitalize on the interest in harness racing there.

"The main thing we are looking for is the exposure this can give us," Rooney said.

Bob Galterio, the track's chief operating officer, said he looked forward to building on this year's experience. "It's not something you can do once and forget about," he said. "It needs to be re-established and then it needs to grow."

Rooney and Galterio said they expected to incur a loss on this year's event. They did not estimate how significant it might be. But they also held out hope that Yonkers could ultimately win for losing if the International helps them to establish the track's simulcast signal abroad. Yonkers currently uses a French hub to receive its signal on Tuesday afternoons and on a handful of Sundays. Five of the first eight Sunday cards produced an overseas handle surpassing $1 million.

"Even if this race is never profitable," Galterio said, "it is more than just this race."

Freaky Feet Pete Punches Ticket To Breeders Crown Beating Wiggle It Jiggleit

By Perry Lefko

Freaky Feet Pete won by 1¼ lengths in a time of 1:50 1/5, scoring a victory for the home crowd. Freaky Feet Pete has raced exclusively at Hoosier Park, where the Indiana-bred is a legend.

Breeder Larry Rheinheimer, who trains the three-year-old

Rockin Image gelded pacer for Mary Jo Rheinheimer and Marty R. Rheinheimer, said after the race he is definitely planning to write a $62,500 check to supplement Freaky Feet Pete into the Breeders Crown. "My passport is in order, so we're going that way."

The Breeders Crown elimination races are Friday and Saturday night at Woodbine Racetrack in Toronto. The finals are a week later. The supplementary fees must be paid by Monday.

Freaky Feet Pete will step into the North American spotlight, one that is shining brilliantly on him following the most significant victory of his career. He has won 20 of 23 races, but the latest one couldn't have come at a greater time. If it is true that it all comes down to the Breeders Crown, Freaky Feet Pete stamped his ticket into the elimination races with a victory over a horse who been the object of attention - and rightfully so - throughout the 2015 season. Wiggle It Jiggleit has raced against the best in his division, showing speed and determination, perhaps best exemplified with his gritty win in his Little Brown Jug elimination race and following that up with a display of fortitude in the final.

This was his first outing in 16 days, but owner George Teague told Harness Racing Update that the loss had nothing to do with the Jug.

"The Jug had no effect on him at all," Teague said. "The only effect it had on him was Freaky Feet Pete outsprinted him. He got outsprinted by a good horse. That horse is as good as anything I've seen race all year. I always thought he was the second-best horse anyway. I think he can go anywhere and race against anybody. I've always thought that. Tonight didn't change my mind about my horse or his horse. I always knew he was a good horse. I've seen him sprint before, and I think he can catch any horse when it comes to sprinting. I really wasn't overly surprised that he outsprinted us with the trip he had."

Trace Tetrick gave the winning horse a cerebral drive, following Wiggle It Jiggleit, driven as usual by Montrell Teague, who left alertly and grabbed the lead. Starting with his horse from the second tier in the field of 10, Tetrick settled in nicely behind Wiggle It Jiggleit, who set somewhat tepid fractions of 27 2/5, 56 and 1:24 for three quarters of a mile. It came down to a sprint to the wire, and Freaky Feet Pete outfooted the 3-10 favorite in deep stretch, sprinting the final quarter mile in 26 1/5.

"I wanted to try and follow Montrell out," Tetrick said. "I thought it was my best option to sit the pocket. I had to move early, but it still worked out great."

He added that he knew it would come to a sprint at the end.

"A lot good horses can sprint together and those are two good horses right there," Tetrick added.

The two horses had met once before, back in May at Hoosier Park, where Wiggle It Jiggleit won by 1½ lengths in 1:49 4/5. This was Freaky Feet Pete's chance to exact revenge, and Larry Rheinheimer indicated in a pre-race interview he had no concerns about the fact his horse would be starting from the second tier.

"Things work out now and then, so we gave it a roll," he said. "I told Trace (beforehand) to be safe and good luck. He's the driver."

Teague told Harness Racing Update after the Jug he had reservations about pointing his horse to the Breeders Crown because he was not eligible for it and it would mean paying the supplemental fee. He had the option of staying in Indiana to race and indicated after Saturday night he plans to stick to that.

"My plans were pretty muck in place," he said. "It's still $62,500 to pay to supplement. I don't like doing that at all. If you get caught and have a bad race you can lose $62,500. That's a lot of money."

Freaky Feet Pete added $100,000 to his bankroll with the win to surpass $600,000 in career earnings. He paid $5.80, $2.10, $2.10. Wiggle It Jiggleit paid $2.10, $2.10. Vague Traces, sent off at 55-1, finished third by eight lengths and paid $4.40 to show.

The exacta paid $8.40 and the trifecta $55.00.

L A Delight Runs Her Win Streak to Eleven in the OSS Superfinals

By Garnet Barnsdale

TORONTO, ON - L A Delight took longer than expected to make the front, but when she did she easily accelerated away from her overmatched foes in the $250,000 Ontario Sires Stakes Superfinal in 1:51 2/5.

In a race that featured plenty of action and numerous lead changes, 1/9 favorite L A Delight did not make a threatening move until the far turn when Randy Waples asked her to set sail and chase down Thisorthat Hanover, who at 50/1 had blown past winded leader Good Will Hanover around the turn.

It appeared momentarily on the final turn when Waples tucked L A Delight into Thisorthat Hanover's pocket that a major upset could be brewing, but once they straightened out for home and Waples asked his filly again, L A Delight sealed the deal for the 11th straight time. She has not tasted defeat since finishing 3rd in her debut on June 25th. Twin B Thing closed late for 2nd ahead of Thisorthat Hanover in third.

Waples explained his strategy in the winner's circle. "Jody was on my back last week and he had a lot of pace and I just thought his filly needed to be roughed up a little bit," he began. I was pretty worried about Paul's filly too

L A Delight returned $2.40 win and combined with Twin B Thing for a $26.40 exacta payoff.

The Bettors Delight homebred raised her earnings to more than $700,000 for owner/trainer Bob McIntosh and partner Al Macintosh holdings.

Reverend Hanover a Repeat OSS Superfinal Winner - Now Aims for Breeders Crown

Reverend Hanover left no doubt who the best sophomore in the province is with his second OSS Superfinal win in as many years here Saturday night.

Aggressively and confidently driven by veteran pilot Chris Christoforou, the son of Sportswriter was sent right to the front at the start and set solid fractions throughout on his way to an easy 1:50 1/5 score. The win came exactly 364 days after his Superfinal win as a rookie which came in just his 4th lifetime start last year.

Winning trainer Casie Coleman spoke of some of the issues her obviously talented colt has faced throughout his limited racing career thus far. "He's always been unbelievable from day 1," the victorious conditioner said. "Last year I was extremely high on him thinking I had a Metro colt and he bucked a front shin on me which is very uncommon in a Standardbred. We ended up taking care of it and he ended up winning the Superfinal, obviously. This year he decided to buck a right hind shin heading for the North America Cup. I've never heard of that in my life and neither have my vets."

Coleman also noted that Reverend Hanover hasn't had the best racing luck lately which was very evident last week when Go Daddy Go made a break on the backstretch just as Reverend Hanover was making his move for the lead and carried him out several lanes wide. The energy that Reverend Hanover used up recovering from that event likely allowed pocket sitter Physicallyinclined to get by late. Last night was a different story. "Chris drove him real good tonight and they got the job done," a happy Coleman noted.

The winner returned $3.20 as favorite and combined with longshot Moonwriter - who was adeptly fired into the pocket by driver Sylvain Filion at the start - for a $58.20 exacta payoff. Physicallyinclined, who beat the Reverend off a perfect pocket trip last week was forced to race first-over and raced tough to finish third.

In winning for the 7th time in 11 lifetime starts, Reverend Hanover boosted his earnings to close to $497,000 for owners West Wins Stables, Steve Calhoun and Anthony Beaton of Ontario. Coleman indicated that her colt would race in the Breeders Crown eliminations at Woodbine next weekend.

Betting Line Cruises to an Easy Win in His OSS Superfinal

Betting Line made every pole a winning one here Saturday night on route to an easy 1:52 flat score in the OSS Superfinal for two-year-old pacing colts and geldings.

Veteran driver Chris Christoforou made sure his colt was on top by the first 1/4 and from there stole a 57 4/5 middle half which meant lights out for the opposition.

"He's got roughed up a bit recently, so I was kind of looking to get there as easily as I could," the winning teamster recounted about his driving strategy. "They were walking off the gate - they weren't going very much - so we had to take advantage of that. We got to the front and he did the rest; that's for sure." Christoforou mentioned that Betting Line's tactical speed is his biggest asset. "He's so handy," he praised. "One of his great attributes is that he can do it from anywhere."

Nvestment Blue Chip was sent straight to the top from the 10-hole by driver Jody Jamieson but Betting Line was kept out and sent right by that rival past the 27 1/5 opening quarter with Voracity racing third. When the leader took 29 flat and 28 4/5 breathers in the second and third quarters it was no surprise to see him sprint home in 27 flat and a 2 1/2 length win. Nvestment Blue Chip held 2nd while Voracity held the late closers at bay to remain 3rd.

Trainer Casie Coleman indicated that Betting Line is paid up to both the Breeders Crown and the Governors Cup, but no decision has been made where he will go next.

"He's had nine starts so he's good and fresh and Chris said he did that easily," she said. "So we'll talk it over and decide in the next few days."

Betting Line won for the 6th time in 10 starts this year and boosted his earnings to more than $480,000 for West Wins Stable, Christine Calhoun and Mac Nichol, all of Ontario.

He paid $3.20 to win and combined with Nvestment Blue Chip for a $14.10 exacta payoff.

Dont Rush Gives Christoforou His 3rd Superfinal Win

Driver Chris Christoforou capped a huge night by sending Don't Rush down the road to win the OSS Superfinal for sophomore trotting colts and geldings. It was the third Superfinal win on the night for the 2014 'O Brien Award winner and all three were accomplished in similar front-end fashion.

Christoforou - the obvious driving star on this night - set moderate fractions of after making the front in a solid 27 2/5 opening 1/4. He adeptly backed the 1/2 down to 57 1/5 and hit the 3/4 in 1:26 1/5 all the while with Rubber Duck lurking in the pocket. But when they turned home it was obvious that the leader had plenty in reserve and he easily held sway for a 1 1/4 length victory. Rubber Duck held 2nd and Platoon Seelster closed well for third.

"He's such a nice little horse," said Christoforou from the winner's circle. "He was good to us at the end of last year he came on strong and in his last couple of starts he's just been fantastic again; he's a real pleasure. "Once he got to the front we were very confident from there. He's a tough little horse and he's got a heart of gold."

Winning trainer Dustin Jones noted one change that may have contributed to the late-season surge by Dont Rush. "We put him on Gastroguard three weeks ago," he explained. "He's just got better and better the last three weeks."

Jones spoke of winning the Superfinal back-to-back with both Don't Rush - a winner last year - and another of his trotters. "I did it with Prestidigitator and I did it with him," he noted. "It's a pretty special accomplishment I think." Don't Rush - a homebred by Infinitif out of the Muscles Yankee mare Color Me Pretty - was winning for the 9th time in 23 starts and boosted his earnings to more than $583,000 for owners Dustin Jones Stable and Greg Judson of Ontario.

The winner returned $3.70 to win and combined with Rubber Duck for a $13.70 exacta payoff.

Tony Soprano Muscles His Foes Into Submission

Rookie trotting colt Tony Soprano asserted his superiority over nine Ontario-bred foes with a front-stepping win in the $250,000 Ontario Sires Stakes Superfinal here Saturday night.

Driver John Campbell made it very clear that he was intent on setting the pace with the 1/5 favorite who started third but remained on the outside until he reached the front at the 28 flat first 1/4 mark. From there, the impeccably-bred son of Kadabra out of millionaire Windsong Soprano cruised through fractions of 57 2/5 and 1:26 2/5 then motored home in 28 4/5 to score by 2 1/2 lengths.

"They were trotting out of there pretty good on both sides of me and I asked him after we got out of there to make the front," he recalled. "28 is a pretty decent first quarter for those horses. After that, he rated well and responded really well in the stretch when I asked him."

Winning trainer Bob McIntosh - who campaigned the winning colt's dam - spoke of his relationship with Campbell and his confidence in him. "I always said John is like Allstate," he remarked. "You feel pretty safe with him. The more zeroes I the purse, the better he is. He doesn't get rattled."

Tony Soprano never received a real threat as due to several breaks there were really only three horses in contention for much of the final half-mile. Will Take Charge mounted a mild first-over challenge around the final turn but was repelled and finished 2nd with early pocket-sitter Deweylovernleaver a distant 3rd.

Tony Soprano won for the 4th time in 10 starts - all of the wins coming in OSS Gold events - and raised his earnings to more than $286,000 for owners Robert McIntosh Stables Inc, Mardon Stables, Paradox Farm Inc, and Dave A Boyle, all from Ontario. The winner returned $2.70 as one of several favorites to win on this night.

Caprice Hill Survives a Scare to Win the OSS Superfinal

Heavy favorite Caprice Hill looked like she was on easy street when five rivals - including the second choice - broke at the start of her OSS Superfinal; until the final turn that is.

Midway around that last turn, the sensational daughter of Kadabra bore out a few lanes and momentarily went funky-gaited on driver Randy Waples. But he kept her in one piece and one straightened out in the lane she trotted away from her rivals for a 2-length 1:56 4/5 score.

Waples blamed himself following the race for the momentary miscue. "It was my fault." He conceded. "I had so much horse and I was just letting her stay within herself and it was kind of deep on the rail and she put a little bit of a step in there. As soon as I gave her her head, she just took off trotting."

Caprice Hill went right to the front as half of the field broke at or before the start and was allowed to cruise through a leisurely 58 1/5 half with only pocket-sitter Las Vegas Seelster even close to her. When the fillies neared the 1:27 flat 3/4, it appeared Caprice Hill was on her way to an easy win when she started to bear out. Veteran Waples didn't panic, got her around the turn and that was that for her rivals as she held late-closing Emoticon Hanover safe.

With the win - her 7th in 8 tries - and by capturing the lion's share of the $250,000 purse, Caprice Hill raised her season's earnings to more than $500,000 for owner Tom Hill of Hamilton, Ontario.

The winner paid $2.20 and combined with Emoticon Hanover for a $7.80 exacta payoff. Race 3 ended the first pick 3 of the night which paid a paltry $3 for ever $1 with Caprice Hill combined with prohibitive favorites L A Delight in race 2 and Brookdale Shadow in race 1.

Solar Sister Gives Trainer McNair His 2nd OSS Superfinal Win

Rallying in deep stretch past stablemate Glamour Seelster, Solar Sister gave trainer Gregg McNair his second Superfinal win of the night here Saturday night.

This one was driven by his son Doug who joked after the race that he was "happy he picked the right horse this time", referring to Second Sister's upset win over heavy favorite Muscle Baby Doll who broke before the start and was chosen by the driver over the winner which was trained by his dad.

Solar Sister was sent hard from the outset but was quickly overtaken by a fired-up Tessa Seelster who was sent on a speed mission by Mario Baillargeon. When that team hit the opening 1/4 in 26 1/5 leading by open lengths, McNair was content to track her from the pocket.

Tessa Seelster kept up the pace by carving out a 54 4/5 opening 1/2 but soon after was engaged full force by Solar Sister's stablemate Glamour Seelster who seemed intent on blasting right by. When Tessa Seelster fought back and provided some resistance that may have been the break that Solar Sister needed as McNair just sat back and watched those two race each other into submission through a 1:23 flat 3/4 before coming out in the stretch and vaulting past for a 1:51 1/5 Superfinals score.

"They were going really good there around the last turn." Winning driver McNair noted. "That's when my filly kind of runs in a little bit. Once they straightened out I thought I'd be second, but she dug in real tough. McNair noted that Solar Sister hasn't been the soundest late in the season. "The past couple of starts she's been a little sore," he explained. "My sister, she looks after her and she did a great job with her getting her ready for tonight,"

Solar Sister in winning this Superfinal won for the 8th time in 14 starts this year and has now earned in excess of $500,000 this season to go along with the $214,000 she made last year for owners David Wilmot and Clay Horner of Ontario.

The winner returned returned $14.10 and combined with her stablemate Glamour Seelster for a $51.40 exacta payoff.

Second Sister Roars Up Late For An Upset Win

Second Sister recorded the first upset in the OSS Superfinals here Saturday night by absolutely flying down the far outside to bridge a huge gap late to catch pacesetter Elegant Serenity.

Things looked bleak for the daughter of Deweycheatumnhowe when she turned for home ninth, almost nine lengths in arrears of a streaking Elegant Serenity who appeared to have the race locked up at that point with heavy favorite Muscle Baby Doll (the winner's stablemate) out of contention after breaking at the start.

But Second Sister and driver Rick Zeron - who piloted her to a OSS Gold win over Muscle Baby Doll last week - had other ideas. When Zeron pointed his filly to the centre of the track down the lane she really kicked in but even at the 1/8th pole looked like she would be only a fast closing 2nd. Second Sister's potent late kick combined with Elegant Serenity perhaps tiring a bit from a taxing early effort to make the front resulted in a neck win for the Gregg McNair-trained filly. Second Sister won by a neck in a time of 1:55 3/5.

"She's been pretty steady all year," the winning trainer noted. "She's been wearing the trotting hobbles and we've been letting them out on her; she's really liking that." McNair noted that Second Sister's sophomore campaign mirrored that of her two-year-old season. "She just gets better as the year goes on," he noted while mentioning that in 2014 her final start - a win in the Grassroots Final - was also her "best start of the year."

Elegant Serenity was perhaps an unlucky loser as she was floated out by driver Roger Mayotte from post 10 but could find no holes available so she was forced to drive on and it took her 3/8ths of a mile to make the front and she was pushed to a 56 1/5 opening 1/2. On the final turn Elegant Serenity opened up a sizeable lead and looked home only to be chased down by the winner in the closing strides.

Second Sister paid $14.10 to win and combined with Elegant Serenity for a $61.40 exacta payoff - a healthy payoff for the 2nd and 3rd choices. The winner has now earned more than $327,000 for owner Jarold Hawkes of Michigan.

Pinkman grinds to victory in the $527,000 Kentucky Futurity

By Ray Coto for The Red Mile

LEXINGTON, KY - Yannick Gingras made his move with the Jimmy Takter-trained Pinkman into the far turn, powering by Crazy Wow under a hand drive to win the $527,000 Kentucky Futurity in 1:51.2 on Saturday, Oct. 10 at The Red Mile.

The first quarter was set by The Bank, going :27 with

Crazy Wow in the pocket and Pinkman tracking in third. Crazy Wow circled by The Bank and set a :54 half before Pinkman was given his marching orders from third, French Laundry on his back. He came alongside Crazy Wow through a 1:23 third quarter before edging to the lead at the top of the stretch. French Laundry angled to the inside for room, while Crescent Fashion and Muscle Diamond stormed from the back into the minor positions. With the reins in the air, Yannick Gingras sat still in the sulky as Pinkman crossed the wire in 1:51.2 over Crescent Fashion, French Laundry, and Muscle Diamond.

A winner of 17 in 23 starts lifetime and earnings of over $2,250,000, Pinkman, the Explosive Matter gelding out of the Angus Hall mare Margie Seelster returned $6.20 to win. He's owned by Christina Takter, John and Jim Fielding, Joyce McClelland, and Herb Liverman.

"He surely is game," Yannick Gingras said. "He puts in a one-hundred percent effort, even at Yonkers [in the Yonkers Trot]; he didn't like the track, but it wasn't like he wasn't trying. He's a winner and he wants to get it done."

"I've thanked them [the owners] many times on that," Gingras also said regarding his continuation in the position as regular driver on Pinkman. "That's something you don't see very often, probably never really, that somebody wins the Hambletonian and then he puts the driver back on the horse that won it. I'm very thankful."

"He's just a fantastic horse," Jimmy Takter said. "I'm so proud of him."

"I've got great staff and good people behind me," Takter also said regarding driving in the Filly Futurity and the Kentucky Futurity, as well as training four in the Filly Futurity and five in the Futurity. "I've got great owners, and they make it a heck of a lot easier."

"That's his next stop," Takter also said regarding the Breeders Crown.

Artspeak fends off Lost For Words in $450,000 Tattersalls Pace

After yielding to Split The House at the quarter, Tony Alagna-trainee Artspeak sat patiently in the pocket before pulling out at the three-quarter pole and rallying to the wire whilst holding off the bid of Lost For Words in his 1:47.4 triumph in the $450,000 Tattersalls Pace on Saturday, Oct. 10 at The Red Mile.

Scott Zeron sent Artspeak to the top heading to the opening quarter, passing it in :27. Split The House soon tipped first over and cleared the lead before the half, timed in :53. Enjoying no pressure on the lead, Artspeak generated a challenge that created a 1:20.1 third-quarter, and was soon alongside the pacesetter. Lost For Words, tracking Artspeak into the stretch, fanned wide and accelerated towards Artspeak, but Artspeak dug in and fought off Lost For Words, hitting the wire in 1:47.4. Rock N' Roll World was third, and In The Arsenal was fourth.

Sired by Western Ideal from the Artsplace mare The Art Museum, Artspeak collected his fifth win in 15 starts this year, paying $8.20 to win. He races for the interests of Brittany Farms, Marvin Katz, Joe Sbrocco, and In The Gym Partners.

"I really respect Split The House," Scott Zeron said. "He beat me one day when he followed me [in the New Jersey Classic at the Meadowlands], so I knew we were following a great horse there. I've always wanted my horse to be in a spot like that with fractions [like that], and he delivered."

"I was pretty enthused in the post parade just by the way he felt," Zeron also said. "To come back off of two heats [in the Little Brown Jug] and to be that strong and aggressive, and to go a lifetime mark of 1:47[.4], is impressive."

"We've had a great meet," Tony Alagna said. "We've had a lot of horses step up. Our two two-year-olds yesterday were fantastic [American Passport and Racing Hill]. We brought this horse down here hoping we could get the mark he deserved and it worked out tonight; he got his [1]:47-and-change mark. We couldn't be more pleased with him."

"He came down here, he was undefeated, and when I warmed him up the second week, the track was wet," Alagna also said regarding bringing Artspeak to Lexington last year. "It [the track] was real punchy underneath, and, of course, hindsight's never wrong: I should've pulled his back shoes that day because he had stifled joints and cords were getting to him late in the mile; that's why he got rough. Today was a nice redemption for the horse because he deserves it. I've been telling people all year that this horse is racing a lot better than people realize, and he showed that today."

"With the support of my customers, we bought some really nice stuff [yearlings] this year. I've got a great staff. They give me the ability to go out and look at horses and do what I need to do. They do a great job for me here at The Red Mile when I'm out doing what I need to do in the days and the nights. It's been a great meet."

Wild Honey pounces by Mission Brief to win $262,500 Filly Futurity

Sitting behind Mission Brief as she blazed around the Lexington oval, Wild Honey made her move in the stretch drive, sliding by Mission Brief to win the $262,500 Kentucky Filly Futurity in 1:50.4 on Saturday, October 10 at The Red Mile.

Mission Brief set the tempo of :27.2, :54.4, and 1:23.2, with Wild Honey drafting behind her the entire time. John Campbell sent Wild Honey to confront Mission Brief after sitting behind her for a brief point of the stretch drive. By the eighth pole, Wild Honey got her nose in front of Mission Brief, who began to stiffen in gait and shy away from the Jimmy Takter-trained filly. From there, Wild Honey extended her lead and won by about two lengths over Mission Brief, with Bright Baby Blues securing third off a first-over grind.

Racing for the connections of Christina Takter, John and Jim Fielding, and Herb Liverman, the filly by Cantab Hall out of the S J's Photo mare U Wanna Lindy paid $11.40 in her upset. This was her sixth win in 13 starts this season, as well as her 16th win in 25 overall starts.

"I was hoping to follow Mission Brief; there was no question about it," John Campbell said. "I had my spot picked out when she [Mission Brief] came out to try and get on her back. Once she got on her back, you don't really have to move. In the lane, when I asked this filly, she just dug in and really trotted down through the wire strong."

"I think anybody [driver-wise] can get along with her," Campbell also said. "She's very easy to drive. She's just a professional out there, and she's got a great attitude and tremendous gait. I can't take much credit for that because I believe anybody could drive her."

"She's just a tremendous horse," Jimmy Takter said. "To beat a great horse like Mission Brief like that, that tells you a lot. This filly has been running in the shadow of Mission Brief her whole campaign. She never gives up; this was the race I was hoping she would get, sitting right behind her. I know how game she is and that she never gives up; it takes a heck of a horse to fight her off. She's just a fantastic animal."

"I was very happy also because John [Campbell] was driving her and got hurt going into the Hambletonian, and he missed his drive there, so it was sweet for him to come back here and win the Futurity here," Takter also said.

He Won't Be Sad by Our Demise

I would think in the near future you would not present an article to your "fans" in a "knee jerk" way until you got all your facts concerning a subject. As a past "Persecuted" Indiana Standardbred Association president, I can assure you that anyone who has raced or "attempted" to race in Indiana can tell you the trials and tribulations of racing here.

- Jeff Edwards

Editor's Note: The letter was in reference to our editorial supporting Indiana Racing Commission Executive Director Joe Gorajec.

He Makes Some Good Points

I love the fact that the industry does such a great job detailing what will ultimately doom the sport once and for all. On the declining foal crop issue, we keep citing statistics and sales figures in comparison to the early 2000's. However, doesn't anyone do the obvious and compare the two time periods? Even with slot fueled purses in more jurisdictions, it's going to be tough to breed more horses in 2015 when the industry is basically dying in three states (Illinois, Michigan, and NJ) that used to produce large foal crops. Plus, in Canada, harness racing only has 5 year agreement for slot revenue, which makes long term plans a little tricky. Who would want to invest heavily in a farm, stallions, mares, etc. when the subsidy could be gone after that agreement ends?

The funniest thing is still the idea that high purses for NWs or 1/2/3 races will help all those poor breeders. Again, compare the two time periods. Unless I'm wrong, I don't remember the Meadowlands or any track for that matter carding 30k maidens or NW of 1 events, etc. back in 2000. What I do know, is that with all the slot fueled sire stake programs, gobs and gobs of money are being offered to 2 and 3 year olds. Far more now than back in 2000.

Also, kudos goes out Yonkers Raceway for bringing back the International Trot. I hope the race turns out to be superb. However, it's time Yonkers looks long and hard at improving its daily product. Although their purses are ungodly high, the future of the sport there and everywhere depends on bettors. Not the subsidies coming from the slots. The handle at Yonkers this year has been awful as well as a lot of their payoffs. Since there is no way on Earth Yonkers will convert to a 7/8 or mile, it's time they improve the 1/2 mile track racing. One way is to put the finish line back in its old spot. That would allow the horses have more of run before the first turn and make it harder for "suck-alongs" to sit until the stretch run and pick up checks.

With a longer run into the first turn and a shorter stretch, hopefully more action and a better product would occur. Another idea, if Yonkers didn't want to move the finish line, would be to get rid of the passing lane. As blasphemous as it sounds, it might encourage some movement too. It can also be reversed without cost, unlike moving the finish line.

Kudos also to Mr. Gural and his management team for requesting different race dates and contemplating eliminating a lot of the "winter series." The series have been terrible for quite some time. As they mentioned, it seemed like they never attracted multiple divisions anymore and usually produced lousy finals with a heavy favorite. I love the idea of the Meadowlands running until October. My suggestion, however, would be to eliminate June harness racing. Maybe a Thoroughbred turf meet in June could be discussed with the Monmouth horsemen. If the Meadowlands used its turf course in June, it could help save the Monmouth turf course for later in the meet. Meanwhile, most of the harness drivers are in Canada at the North American Cup and later at Pocono for the superstakes. The harness product was always lousy at the Meadowlands in June, even in its glory days.

Finally, it's sad to condemn success, but it's tough to stomach the Takter/Burke stakes domination. The Kentucky Futurity on Saturday features half the field from the Takter stable. Every big race is now dominated by these two entities. It's a miracle that horses like Bee a Magician and State Treasurer have had as much success as they have had. I think State Treasurer has had to face 4 or 5 Burke starters every time he steps on the track. Watching these guys send out heavy favorites in every stakes race make betting nearly impossible.
