2022 SHSC YEARLING SALE AT HARRISBURG

Business inside the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex continued as usual. Now two years back in its home facility following the adventurous 2020 session in Timonium, trainers and investors perched to their regular nests around the sales ring on Monday (Nov. 7) and resumed dreaming through their pocketbooks.

Monday's session grossed $19,716,000 from 165 yearlings, up 11.2 per cent from the $17,730,000 handled from 136 yearlings in 2021. The strong session quelled the early nerves of Dale Welk, president/director of operations for the Standardbred Horse Sale Company, who said with a laugh he was "ready to crawl into a groundhog hole" until the bidding intensified in the afternoon.

"We are up around $2 million in gross. If I'm not mistaken, that's probably the highest grossing single session ever, anywhere, for this," said Welk. "The good sires, the Captains, they want them and they are there. There were some horses, actually some Greenshoes that were pretty incredible individuals that drew lesser, then there were others that brought tremendous money.

"I owe a lot to the consignors. It's the breed. The breed has just improved so much. The depth of the stallions and everything is incredible."

All the while, Welk roamed the arena through the opening session with a boot on foot and, occasionally, with the aid of a cart. He's recovering from an incident where he stepped on a nail, which resulted in several surgeries and the loss of a toe.

"It's been quite an experience," Welk said of the ordeal. "I was just talking to Ray Schnittker about it and I said, 'I've worked with yearlings and been with Hanover for 46 years and all the equipment that I've ran – tractors and chainsaws – never spent a day in the hospital. I spent eight days for stepping on a nail."

The day overall was a big positive for Welk. Despite the sale average dropping 8 per cent, because of 28 more horses sold this year than last, the energy inside the Farm Show Complex retained its vigor. People sprawled the halls and crowded the back of the sale's arena from the start at noon until the time came to hit the credit office at the hammer's last slam around 5:30 p.m.

"The crowds were unbelievable," Welk said. "When you hear consignors telling me that yesterday they had to get people's phone numbers and get them to come back because they

HANOVER AND CONCORD TOP CONSIGNORS

Two farms: Hanover Shoe Farms and Concord Stud combined to sell all 10 of the highest-priced yearlings on day one.

Hanover sold the first, second, fourth, eighth and ninth highest-priced yearlings.

Concord sold the third, fifth, sixth, seventh and 10th highest-priced yearlings.

Little wonder the two farms were the top two consignors on the day.

Hanover led in gross sales with $7,528,000 for 48 sold and an average of $156,833 that was second for consignors that sold three or more yearlings.

Concord led in average with $170,742 after gross sales of $5,293,000 for 31 sold.

BUYERS FIRE ON TROTTING FILLIES

Of the five highest price tags from the opening session, four are trotting fillies. The heftiest bid of the day came from Jeffrey Snyder, who won the auction on Date Night Hanover, a Chapter Seven filly bred by Hanover Shoe Farms who sold as Hip 38. The half sister to $450,000-plus earner Delayed Hanover, whose granddam foaled Hambletonian winner Trixton and Breeders Crown winner Impressive Kemp, lured $600,000 from Snyder, who has continued to branch to buying trotters after many years of success with pacers.

"[She has a] great pedigree, first-time Chapter Seven... She was bred only to Southwind Frank. The second dam and the third dam are a great family," Snyder said. "I think there will be some residual value in her as well. [She's a] beautiful filly and I thought she was the best filly in the sale. She's not real big, but she'll get around half-mile tracks and she's Kentucky and New York-eligible, as well. Most people who I've spoken to... she was touted as the best filly in the sale. I'm glad we were fortunate enough to buy her."

Regarding his expansion into acquiring trotting stock, Snyder said "We've done very well in Sweden and France and we've got trotters over there. We've had a lot of luck overseas, so we switched to trotters over here."

Andrew Harris made a return to the yearling game on Monday. The prominent East Coast trainer is turning the gears on his operation again after losing his wife Amanda to breast cancer two years ago. He acquired the second-highest sale of the session Tandem Hanover, selling as Hip 60, for $510,000 from Hanover.

"It took me a couple of years. I wasn't mentally ready," Harris said on rebuilding his stable. "I went through losing my wife and I'd bounce out and get checked back in, but everything in my life has come back together and everything is going great. It's just... it's time now. Moving forward and time to get going."

Harris, rocking AirPods in each ear, stayed on a call with clients and friends Bill Pollock and Bruce Areman as he determinedly stayed in the auction on the arena wing for them to acquire a horse high on his list. The filly – by Walner – is a full sister to Temporal Hanover, who has earned over $750,000 and finished third in the Hambletonian.

“The Walners are amazing and she’s got broodmare value,” Harris said. “I know it’s expensive, but she’s going to be worth that with her babies coming out at some point, too. I don’t think, with these fillies, that you can overpay for these fillies when they’ve got that type of breeding. It wasn’t about the prices, just about if I thought it was worth it. At that price, I still thought it was worth it. Look at what these things are selling for. If she has a baby and goes out and sells the first baby for that kind of money, then it’s just a time thing.

“I’m hoping it’s an amazing horse – as good as Temporal,” Harris also said, “but there’s no guarantees with these things and I told Bill and Bruce that, but at least with a filly you’ve got a fallback plan.”

Luc Blais, over the course of 20 minutes, accounted for $1 million in sales when he first struck the $500,000 winning bid on Greenspring, a Greenhoe filly selling as Hip 109 from the Concord Stud consignment. Purchasing as agent for Serge Godin’s Determination, Blais bought the filly as one of seven total new horses on the day in a restocking of his barn. Greenspring is a Pennsylvania-eligible half sister to $750,000-plus earner In Range as well as prominent Ohio stallion Long Tom.

Blais then put the highest bid on a trotting colt of the day in Pennteller Hanover, a New York and Kentucky-eligible son of Chapter Seven who sold as Hip 119 and for $500,000 from Hanover. He is the fourth foal from world champion and millionaire Possess The Magic, who also sired half-million-dollar earner Master Of Law. Her second dam also is a half sister to Secret Magic, the dam of near millionaire In Secret and triple millionaire Manchego.

"It's always too expensive for me," Blais said with a laugh on both his purchases. And though he purchased out-of-province bred horses for his Ontario-based operation, Blais said he has plenty of options.

"Mohawk has lots of Grand Circuit racing there," Blais said. "The money is good there and that's a nice track to race. When they are good it doesn't matter to go race."

Julie Miller also struck on the session's trotting filly fever when snagging Linnea G, selling as Hip 134, for $475,000 from Concord Stud. The filly, surrounded by the sea of strong Walner and Chapter Seven offspring selling, is by Tactical Landing from the black-type and deep pedigree of Solveig and is her 10th foal. Her family includes double millionaire Shake It Cerry, millionaire Uncle Lasse and world champion Dontyouforgetit among others.

"Solveig has been a great producer, a great mare. She's had a lot of foals, but I still think she has a lot of value and commodity in the market," Miller said. "[This filly] was just really eye-catching. She was athletic, she had a lot of poise in the sale today. So, you roll the dice and we hope it works out."

And Miller's choice for a Tactical Landing prospect was a classic move to zag when everyone else zigs. "You know what, I think for the first year [Tactical Landing] didn't have a bad year at all," she said. "I think the fillies raced really nice. You can't have all Walners and Chapter Sevens because you have to be able to breed to something else."

MORE FIGURES

Looking to before the pandemic plundered the market in 2020, the 2022 session appeared to build off the economic momentum building from the 2019 sale. Monday's session topped the 2019 gross of $19,227,000 for a gain of about 2.5 per cent. The average also increased to $119,491 from 2019's average of $114,446 from 168 yearlings sold, compared to 2022's session of 165 yearlings – a 4.4 per cent increase. The median price also slid upwards to $95,000 in 2022 from $90,000 in 2019, though both the median and average sales from 2019 and 2022 were trumped by the confined 136-yearling offering of the 2021 opening session.

EUROPEAN REPORT

with THOMAS HEDLUND

Sunday's Breeders Crown finals are the last big races of the year in Sweden

by Thomas Hedlund

Breeders Crown finals for 3- and 4-year-olds are on the menu Sunday (Nov. 13) in Eskilstuna, Sweden and four divisions in the largely comprehensive series are on the race card.

The basic purse in each division is $160,000, but most of the horses are competing for the double prize money, so we can basically say that $320,000 is at stake in each of the four races Sunday.

Timo Nurmos dominates the finals with six finalists, four in the race for 4-year-old mares. His Lara Boko (Djali Boko) will be the heavy favorite after an impressive win in the elimination race at Solvalla on Oct. 30.

Senorita Tokio (Southwind Frank), Rihanna W.I. (S.J.'s Caviar) and Indira Split (Quarcio du Chene) will join Lara Boko from Nurmos' barn and among the opponents, Stochampionatet winner Great Skills (Ready Cash) is one of the toughest challengers.

Francesco Zet (Father Patrick) is undefeated after eight starts this season and his year has been splendid with victories in the $200,000 Kungapokalen, $240,000 Sprintermästaren and $800,000 Derby. He is the favorite in the 4-year-old colts and geldings division.

Bedazzled Sox (Brillantissime) won the first $400,000 E3 final and finished second in the second E3 race in August. He made an early break in the $800,000 Kriteriet but impressed in the Breeders Crown elimination for 3-year-old colts and geldings, so he will be the probable first choice in Eskilstuna this Sunday.

The most open BC final is the one for 3-year-old fillies. Oaks winner Bonneville W.I. (S.J.'s Caviar) claimed a spot in the final as fourth and has to face a bad post position (8) in her hunt for another big success.

AETOS KRONOS READY FOR COMEBACK

Jerry Riordan-trained Aetos Kronos (Bold Eagle) hasn't been seen at the racetracks since October last year. The 6-year-old top trotter, who was among the leading trotters in the very tough crop containing horses such as Don Fanucci Zet, Power and Hail Mary as a 3- and 4-year-old, suffered from Horner's syndrome last fall and will now enter the track again after a well performed qualification race in Halmstad last week.

Aetos Kronos, with 16 wins in 39 starts so far in his career, will begin slowly in an overnight race in Kalmar on Friday (Nov. 11). Johan Untersteiner will drive Riordan's horse and the duo begin with 20 meters disadvantage.

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Justin Gould on patience, perseverance, and resolve

by Chris Lomon

Justin Gould's first driving win gave him much more than just a winning feeling.

It was two-plus years ago when the young reinsman pointed the pacing filly towards the starter car and readied himself for the start of the Iowa Sire Stakes event at What Cheer, the half-mile Hawkeye State oval.

Gould felt good about his chances leading up to the race, but was feeling decidedly different about the outcome soon after the field was sent on its way.

"I bought the horse, and I trained it down, and then I got to drive her in her first start," said Gould. "I was boxed-in the whole race. At the three-quarter pole [in 1:35.2], I had nowhere to go, and I was trying to push my way out. The guy outside of me didn't give me any room, so I just sat there. At the head of the stretch, the guy in front of me blew the turn a little bit, and I snuck along the inside and won by just over a length."

An eventful journey, but also an educational one for the young horseman.

In just over two minutes – 2:06.1. to be exact – Gould learned valuable lessons about patience, perseverance, and resolve.

To this day, those remain a main part of his racing approach repertoire, both as a driver and trainer.

After joining the driving ranks in 2019, Gould has focused more on the training side over the past two seasons, campaigns that have yielded impressive results.

In 2021, in his first year as a conditioner, he won seven races, accompanied by 24 top-three finishes from 24 starts.

This season has been even better across the board.

Competing once again at Humboldt in his native Iowa, Gould has posted career-best numbers, including reaching the six-figure mark in purse earnings.

Not surprisingly, he's thrilled with how 2022 has played out so far. One of the key reasons for the strong campaign comes in the form of 3-year-old pacer Hes Special.

Courtesy Justin Gould
Justin Gould in action.

Bred and owned by Steven Huffman, the son of Hes Watching—Fiore Hanover is 6-4-1 from 15 races to date.

"Things are going good so far this year. We have five yearlings we are breaking and training down for next year. This year, I had eight or nine. I had Hes Special, who has done so well for us. The owner gave me the horse earlier in the season and he finished second in his first start with me, and then won his next six starts in a row. I like him because he has this pull. He was that horse. He wanted to be on the front. If he didn't get his way, he was a very tough horse to sit behind."

Something Gould and his uncle, longtime horseman, driver and trainer Mark Mintun, discovered when he was recently in the race bike.

"After winning those six straight, being on the front, my uncle tried to give him a trip. When a horse came up beside him and boxed him in, he kind of swelled up and wanted to run over the horse in front of him, so he had to take him inside and we got disqualified. So, that's how the streak came to an end."

Despite the streak ending, Gould, just like he does with any other loss, put the big picture into perspective quickly.

"I'm very fortunate to be able to do this. It's the only thing I've wanted to do my whole life. The way it's working out is better than what I could have hoped for. My uncle and others would tell me that you keep going back every day. You can’t give up because you had a bad day. You have to go back and try again.”

It certainly helps when you have a familiar face along for the ride.

Although Mintun has decided to call it a career, Gould has support, and plenty of it, from his twin brother, driver/trainer James Gould.

There are times when sibling rivalry is front and center.

And those moments aren’t limited to the racetrack.

“We do everything together. James ended up coming to racing and doing it full-time which is great. He helps me and supports me, and I do the same for him. My brother and I like to play video games. We’re playing Call of Duty right now. We get competitive when we play video games and if we ever race against one another, it gets really competitive. But that’s good because we bring out the best in one another.”

It appears the best is yet to come for the 19-year-olds.

Working together in a different setting for part of the year is a shared goal for the brothers.

And while that reality might be a little ways down the road, both are eager to see it come to fruition.

“I would like to start going somewhere in the wintertime. It’s difficult just being James and myself in the barn. My uncle just retired. We don’t have anybody to help us with the babies in the wintertime if we went racing. So, I’d like to be able to go to Pennsylvania or California to race in the winter. That might be a little far out.

“I’d also like to have a horse in each division here, that’s what I’d like to have. Right now, we’ll have 10 for next year if they all make it to the races. It would be five 2-year-olds and five 3-year-olds, which is exactly what I want.”

The pair certainly had some ideal role models to learn from before they launched their respective careers.

At age 11, the brothers began working for Humboldt trainer Adam Hauser. Their grandfather had to retire from the sport after a heart attack, but their mother, Stevie Gould, and her brother, Mintun, continue to be a treasured source of information, tips, and more.

“Both of us have been very fortunate to have people show us the ropes and always be there for us. We know we can always count on them for so much and we’re very grateful for that.”

Just as Gould is thankful to be part of an industry he had admired for years.

These days, in amongst his usual daily tasks, he’ll work closely with his pacers and trotters, readying some for their final starts of 2022 and preparing others ahead of their hopeful debuts in the new year.

“It’s a great feeling to be able to work to develop them and get them to the races. But you never know what will happen. The best horse I have right now might not make it to the races. That’s just the way this sport is. But I understand that.”

Which makes the trips to the winner’s circle, whether drama-filled or drama-free, a cherished moment.

“Winning is never easy, including in racing. That’s what makes the good days so special. Sometimes, you have to have those bad days to get to those good ones.”

Allywag Hanover, Tattoo Artist meet again in $125,000 Potomac Pace

Tattoo Artist and Allywag Hanover, second and third respectively in the $600,000 Breeders Crown on Oct. 29, lead a field of seven Thursday (Nov. 10) in Rosecroft's signature race of the year, the $125,000 Potomac Pace invitational.

The seventh edition of the Potomac Pace will highlight a 14-race program with a 7:15 p.m. first-race post. The Potomac Pace will go off as the 11th race and the $25,000 Maryland Preferred Invitational will go as the 12th.

Allywag Hanover, the 8-5 morning-line favorite, became the fastest gelding in harness racing history when beating likely Horse of the Year Bulldog Hanover Oct. 9 in the Allerage Farms Open Pace at The Red Mile in 1:46 flat. In the Breeders Crown, Allywag Hanover followed Tattoo Artist past a 26 second opening quarter before taking the lead but quickly getting tested by Bulldog Hanover and going a half in 53.1 seconds.

Despite getting beaten for the place by Tattoo Artist, trainer Brett Pelling said Allywag Hanover, a 5-year-old who has won more than $1.6 million, comes into the Potomac Pace as good as ever. "There's been no setbacks," Pelling said. "He's come back well."

Tattoo Artist, 2-1, comes into the Potomac Pace with victories this year in two legs of the MGM Borgata Pacing Series at Yonkers, the Joe Gerrity Jr. Memorial at Saratoga, and the #SendItIn Invitational at Scioto.

The 2020 Potomac Pace champion Leonidas A (8-1) returns after finishing sixth last year to upset winner Enavant. Leonidas A has won three of his last six and 10 of 20 starts this year.

This Is The Plan, trained by Ron Burke, will be pacing in his third Potomac Pace. The 7-year-old gelding was seventh last year, fifth in 2020, and was a late scratch in 2019.

Lou's Pearlman, winner of the 2021 Little Brown Jug, was sixth in the Breeders Crown and has all three wins this season in overnight races. Workin Ona Mystery finished 10th in the Breeders Crown.

Two horses who will not be racing in the Potomac Pace are Bulldog Hanover and Abuckabett Hanover. The initial plan was to pace Bulldog Hanover at Rosecroft Thursday, but trainer Jack Darling told the Daily Racing Form the "logistics" of shipping from Ontario did not work out. Meanwhile, Abuckabett Hanover, fourth in the Breeders Crown, won't be coming after being sold last week for $534,000. After being sold, new trainer Andrew Harris said it was simply "too quick a turnaround."
